Chief Urges Fire Pact To Homeowners

Elk Grove Village Fire Chief Allen Hulet has urged the president of a homeowners association to enter into a fire protection and ambulance service contract with the village.

The association represents a small unincorporated area south of Biesterfeld Road and west of Busner Road in unincorporated Cook County.

In a letter early last month to Ed Moder, president of the Itasca Meadow Farms Homeowners Association, Hulet made what he said would be his last attempt to obtain a contract with the association prior to turning the matter over to the village board of trustees.

Hulet may refer the matter to the board next week.

IN PREVIOUS discussions between the chief and Moder the cost of a contract was tentatively estimated at $3,000 a year.

The subdivision has been without a contract ever since a circuit court judge in 1964 disconnected the 35-home subdivision from the Roselle Fire Protection District and placed it under the protection of the Elk Grove Village Fire Department. No provisions for a tax to pay for fire protection were made at the time.

Within the past year, however, the fire department has begun to focus on unincorporated areas near the village which receive fire protection but pay no taxes or fees for the service to the village.

A SIMILAR AREA to that of the subdivision is the Elk Grove Mobile Homes Park, 941 W. Higgins Rd., where the chief last year negotiated a contract in exchange for use of a mobile home by the fire department as a temporary West Side station near 499 Biesterfeld Rd.

Another unincorporated subdivision, Forest View, located south of Landmeier Road and west of Tonne Road, previously had a contract with the village but now has agreed to annex to Elk Grove Village.

Trustees Govern Alexius Hospital

The responsibility for governing St. Alexius Hospital has been turned over to a board of trustees with broad community representation, said Brother Ferdinand Leyva, CFA, administrator, yesterday.

The first St. Alexius Hospital board of trustees has been formed to give community representatives decision-making authority in the hospital's health care programs for the community, said the administrator.

Marshall Bennett, partner in the industrial development firm of Bennett & Kahnweiler, Chicago, will be the board's first chairman.

Other laymen named to the board are Neil Cooney, president, Bank of Elk Grove; Robert Sampson, regional vice president, United Air Lines, Elk Grove Village; and D.J. Velo, president, D.J. Velo Co., Chicago. They join Bennett and five of the Alexian Brothers in the composition of the full board.

"In the past, St. Alexius was managed by the Provincial Senate of the Alexian Brothers Foundation and by the brothers who operate the hospital," said Brother Ferdinand. "The move to a lay board of trustees will entrust the legal responsibility and management of St. Alexius to lay members of the community."

"Within two years, it is expected that additional lay members will replace all but one member of the Provincial Senate on the board."

BROTHER FERDINAND stressed that the decision to create the board was made in response to the hospital's commitment, stated when it was established in Elk Grove Village in 1966, to be a general hospital serving the entire community.

"The creation of a board of trustees reflects our conviction that effective delivery of health care services to the community will be strengthened by including on our board representatives who are attuned to the community's needs and concerns. Our first responsibility has been and will remain the total health care of the community," he said.

Bennett has been an active advisor to St. Alexius since its opening in Elk Grove Village, and served as a member of the hospital's planning committee. The firm of Bennett & Kahnweiler is a nationwide developer of industrial and research parks, including Centex Industrial Park adjoining Elk Grove Village.

Bennett serves as director of numerous corporations, including Marmon Group, Inc.; Main State Bank; Mutual Franchise Corp; and Consolidated Fundings Corp.

He is a director and former regional vice president of the International Society of Industrial Realtors, and former president, secretary, treasurer and vice president of the Chicago Chapter of the Society of Industrial Realtors.

IEA Probe Results Soon?

Results of the Illinois Education Association investigation of School Dist. 59 may be known as early as Dec. 11, according to the committee conducting the investigation.

The nine-member committee investigating charges by the Teachers' Council has set Dec. 11 and 12, the next meeting of the IEA executive board, as a target date for its report to the board.

If the executive board feels the investigation has substantiated significant charges it must, according to its own guidelines, provide the district an opportunity to remove the cause before imposing a sanction.

Although specific allegations have not been released, IEA guidelines include the following reasons for possible sanctions: refusal of a school board to negotiate conditions of professional employment in good faith; and failure of school board to maintain conditions conducive to sound educational practices including, but not limited to: class size, assignment of duties, availability of instructional materials, balanced curricular emphasis, and adequate physical environment.

They also include the use of harassing tactics or arbitrary discriminatory actions or threats which create fear and intimidate employees in an attempt to coerce them, and the refusal of the school board to develop adequate procedures for processing employee grievances.

THE COMMITTEE comprised of teachers, principals, superintendents and IEA representatives from throughout Illinois conducted the investigation Monday through Wednesday.

Committee chairman Robert Burgess said that the members worked from 9 a.m. to midnight Monday and Tuesday and planned to work till late afternoon Wednesday.

During their stay, committee members visited 11 school buildings, talked to almost 150 staff members and about 24 parents. The committee also met with representative groups such as the School Community Council, and interviewed former board members and interested citizens.

Burgess said, "I think we as a committee are somewhat disappointed that the school board decided not to confer with us."

He added, "We feel the district did allow access to buildings and records and in doing so made significant contributions."

The committee investigated records on finances, written policies and previous agreements between the teachers council and the board.

Burgess said that if a sanction is imposed, the effects could be "unmeasurable."

HE SAID, "In the very recent past, Dist. 59 has been discussed and revered as a model district in the state. Colleges and universities considered it a wonderful opportunity to send student teachers here. They might not see it as this if a sanction was imposed."

He added that colleges and universities have honored sanctions in some cases and have not in others.

The sanction would change the response of teachers coming to the district, according to Burgess. "At least some second thoughts would be given by professional educators," he said.

"Sanctions are intended to improve the situation," Thomas Reel, committee member from Aurora, said.

The committee stressed that the people with whom they talked had been "very cooperative and kind."

Burgess said that approximately one-third of the districts investigated by the IEA did not have sanctions imposed on them as a result of the investigations.

He said there have been no more than eight sanctions imposed in the last five years.

He added, "If we're talking about a dozen out of the 1,000 in the state it shows that the situations have become pretty tense before teachers' groups have felt the need."

'Wonderful World Of Skiing' Slated

The "Wonderful World of Skiing" will be the subject of a talk Tuesday on Dec. 15th at the Elk Grove Park District, office 499 Biesterfeld Rd.

Keith Chew, ski director at Fox Trails Ski School in Cary, will discuss skiing history, proper equipment, clothing and technique.

Both programs are scheduled to begin at 7:30 p.m. and will include a color film on the sport.

Chew is a certified instructor of skiing in Norway and United States. As director at Fox Trails, he operates one of the largest ski schools in Illinois.

According to Chew, Fox Trails is unique "because unlike most ski areas, we cater to the beginning and intermediate skier. Although more intricate ski runs are available for the advanced skier at Fox Trails, we keep the beginner's limitations in mind."

New Rotary Club Sets Charter Night

The newly organized Rotary Club of Elk Grove Village will hold its charter night Tuesday at the Arlington Towers.

Admitted this week to membership in Rotary International, the local Rotary Club will celebrate its admission with charter presentation ceremonies attended by Harold E. Atchison, district governor from Golf, Ill., and delegations of Rotarians from the Rotary Clubs of Dist. 644.

Atchison will present the charter to Charles W. Willis, president of the Rotary Club.

The local Rotary Club represents a cross-section of the business and professional life of the community. The basis of membership is the selection of one man from each recognized business and professional activity in the area.

This principle of membership was begun in 1905, when the first Rotary club was organized in Chicago by Paul P. Harris, a young lawyer.

Officers of the local club are William Filly, vice president; the Rev. Roger D. Pittelko, secretary; Michael Reese, treasurer, and Willis.

Public Service Is League's Foundation

Editor's Note: The following is the last of two articles on the League of Women Voters of the Arlington Heights-Mount Prospect area. This year is the 50th anniversary of the founding of the first League of Women Voters.

by SANDRA BROWNING

The two words mentioned most often by members involved in the League of Women Voters are "public service."

Voter registration drives, providing information on candidates, studying issues and other projects are all done as public service projects.

Pat Gardner, president of the League of Women Voters of the Arlington Heights-Mount Prospect area, said the league does not take a position on a local issue until members have studied it. Also, the league cannot take a position or testify on a local issue unless the chapter has done a "Know Your Town" study. After this type of study is done, the town's name can be added to the local chapter's name.

MEMBERS SAID that since the membership of residents from Elk Grove was growing, these members may be doing a "Know Your Town" study soon.

By studying issues, the 150-member league has a strong base "when we do begin to act," said Marilyn Marier, Con-Con chairman.

On the volatile issue of low and moderate income housing in Arlington Heights, league members decided to issue a fact sheet because "so many questions were asked."

"We thought it would be a public service to make information available," the league president said.

In addition to making information on elections and issues available to the public, the league also has an "Observer Corps." Members of the local group attend meetings of school boards, village boards and other governmental units and report back on the activities of these groups.

A few years ago, a league observer was such a regular sight at Arlington Heights Plan Commission meetings that she named a street in the village. A proposed development needed a name for a street and the plan commissioners asked the woman for an appropriate name.

HER SUGGESTION was approved by the commission.

Also as a public service, the league has printed a small booklet entitled "Who's Who in Local Government." The booklet includes the names and phone numbers of village, park and school district officials in Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect, Elk Grove Village, Prospect Heights, Hoffman Estates and Wheeling.

The league members described their involvement with the league as stimulating because "we're always learning," said the local league president.

Madeline Schroeder, a league member, said the league "lets in any kind of ideas. It's a tremendous forum."

ALTHOUGH SOMETIMES a member will join because she wants to work on a "pet problem, the member usually ends up getting involved in everything," Mrs. Marier said.

Betty Newbart, human resources chairman, said that during the process of studying and discussing problems, "You find that nothing is simple."

Mrs. Schroeder said membership involvement in the league teaches members that "knowledge is a tremendous strength." It also teaches them how to get information a person needs to make decisions, she said.

Although the league activities are sometimes time-consuming, the members said they found their involvement worthwhile.

Mrs. Gardner said she had been a member of some other types of organizations with which she wasn't happy. She heard about the league through a professor in college and has been involved with league activities for about 13 years. "I enjoy it more than anything I've ever done,"

Members agreed that once a woman joins the league, "You join it wherever you go," said Mrs. Schroeder. She originally became involved with the league in the 1950's in Pennsylvania.

MRS. NEWBART said the league was the only civic organization in which she was active and she had heard about league activities in a high school civics class.

Mary Lou Sheperd, vice president and voter service chairman, said she became involved in league activities when she worked for a lawyer who became involved with politics. "It just seemed natural to someone interested in politics," she said.

With the existing political structure being so complicated, "You need outside help to be able to understand it," Mrs. Sheperd said.

Mrs. Marier said that she enjoys the league because "I'd really like to do something rather than just discuss things."

The members agreed they enjoyed the women they met in the league because the other members "don't just talk about diapers"

Although the women are spending time on league activities, they find that they still spend time with their children. However, a standing league joke is that when a woman becomes a league member, her semi-annual housecleaning and monthly window washing becomes one annual housecleaning.

MRS. MARIER said that her children identified with her activity and Mrs. Schroeder said that sometimes her children will ask her advice on issues.

"Children have a better response to you when you know what's going on," Mrs. Marier said.

Mrs. Schroeder said that one fringe benefit of the league membership is that "it gives you the knowledge you need to run for an office." Mrs. Schroeder was a candidate for a Con-Con delegate. She said that of the 15 female delegates at Con-Con, nine of them were members of the League of Women Voters.

Mrs. Schroeder said that members joke that their activities include everything from "scrubbing floors to meeting heads of state."

Nab Doctor On Sex Charges

Cook County Sheriff's police Tuesday night arrested a physician in his office just west of Des Plaines and charged him with the deviate sexual assault of several of his patients.

Dr. James Middleton, 44, a general practitioner, was taken into custody in his office at 959 Elmhurst Rd. about 8 p.m. Tuesday by sheriff's police. Middleton was with a female patient at the time of his arrest.

According to Det. Donald Shaw, who led the raid into Middleton's office, the arrest came after a two month investigation in which a number of Middleton's suburban women patients complained that the doctor had drugged them and then committed deviate sexual attacks.

Shaw said they also found pipe bombs, detonators, three handguns, pornographic photos, literature and movies and artificial devices for sexual stimulation in the doctor's office.

Sheriff's police also found a quantity of what Shaw called "dangerous drugs which could incapacitate a person if taken."

Shaw said Middleton, of 2800 Lake Shore Dr., Chicago, gave no resistance and the only explanation the doctor gave for having the guns was that he had been threatened and needed to protect himself. Shaw added that Middleton will also be charged with possession of explosives and unlawful use of a weapon.

HE WAS RELEASED Wednesday morning on $15,000 bond and is scheduled to appear in Niles Circuit Court Dec. 29. Shaw said the state's attorney intends to ask for a grand jury hearing in the case.

Shaw said that although a number of women have already complained to the sheriff's police, more of Middleton's patients or former patients will come forward if they have complaints.

The police were armed with a warrant Tuesday night issued by Circuit Court Judge Anton Smigiel.

Middleton, a staff member of St. Joseph's hospital in Chicago, was acquitted by a jury in St. Louis in 1961 on a charge of drugging and raping a housewife, according to Shaw.

Board Member Attends Meeting

More than 5,000 administrators and school board members, including Sharrie Hildebrandt, Dist. 59 board member, met in Chicago last month at a three-day conference titled, "Accountability."

The meeting was the joint annual conference of the Illinois Association of School Boards and Illinois Association of School Administrators.

Meeting at the Sherman House, the delegates from throughout Illinois participated in 52 panel discussions covering topics including public-nonpublic school relations, school-community relations, students and civil rights, and salary schedules and fringe benefits.

Mrs. Hildebrandt, Dist. 59 representative to the Northwest Educational Cooperative, participated in a panel on educational cooperatives.

CONTROL PANEL monitors computerized equipment designed to improve service from Illinois Bell's central office in Elk Grove Village.

New Phone Equipment To Operate Sunday

An advanced computerized type of telephone switching equipment will begin serving some residents of the Elk Grove Village area on Sunday.

The Electronic Switching System (ESS) has been installed at Illinois Bell's Elk Grove Village central office, 10 N. Scott.

The equipment switches dialed calls faster than conventional apparatus, takes up less space and has a greater call-handling capacity.

"Initially, customers whose telephone numbers begin with '593' will be served from the new equipment," said Paul Arnold, local Illinois Bell manager. "This will affect about 2,400 of our subscribers on Dec. 6 and will relieve congestion on our conventional equipment."

After Sunday Arnold said persons with the "593" prefix who make calls will notice an almost immediate ring once they have dialed the desired number. Upon lifting their receivers, they will hear the dial tone sooner than they have in the past, he said.

"Besides these 2,400 subscribers," adds Arnold, "the ESS equipment has been installed to accommodate all new subscribers in the Elk Grove exchange area during the next five years."

Examine Flood Problems

Flood control experts from the Metropolitan Sanitary District and the City of Chicago Monday examined the problem of flooding in Cook County, reviewed steps being taken to combat the problem and pointed an accusing finger at the state for not becoming more involved.

Ben Sosewitz, acting general superintendent of the MSD, spoke at the third regional Council of Governments meeting at the Arlington Heights Municipal Building.

"THERE HAS been almost no progress in the area of flood control in the past 15 years," Sosewitz said. "The opposition is readily apparent."

The MSD representative explained that aggravation of the problem has taken place "at a significant rate."

Since 1969, he said, the MSD has experienced a 3 to 5 per cent increase in flood water storage deficiency.

"Through 1969," Sosewitz noted, "There was a 33,000-acre-foot storage deficiency. Ten months later the deficiency was 34,200 acre-feet."

He estimated it would cost $5,500 per acre-foot to correct the problem, or about $190 million.

Sosewitz said the deficiency increase has occurred despite an expenditure of more than $12.5 million in the last 13 years by the MSD and the state. He said there currently are 20 projects under way that will solve only 25 per cent of the deficiency if all obtain sufficient funds to be successful.

34 Join Music Masters Society

Thirty-four Elk Grove High School students were initiated into the Modern Music Masters Society this week in special ceremonies following a musical program. The program included George Makas and Jerry Davidson, Harper Junior College faculty members.

Initiated were( Mike Bogard, Jeanne Bradley, Heidi Butler, Joyce Desmond, Gennie Eldridge, Dave Evensen, Peggy Faracy, Bev Fink, Lynn Fitzgerald, Cindy Fox, Tom Gurnik, Cindy Hendricks, Dave Herndon, Robin Hill, Vicki Jacobsen, Debbie Jarosch, Bill Johnson, Devvie Kreischer, and Cathi Lindeman.

Also, Diane Meyners, Debbie Nowak, Scott Phillips, Donna Rakowsky, Ray Ramakis, Gail Ristau, Linda Sealy, Tony Seda, Louise Seidl, Tina Stefanos, Linda Swenson, Kathy Tansey, Steve Topp, Tina Vaccarello, and Norma Wagner.

Village Joins Fire Aid Pact

The Elk Grove Village Board Tuesday voted to authorize resolutions entering into mutual fire aid agreements with 10 neighboring communities.

The board also authorized approval of a Northwest Cook County master mutual aid agreement with the same communities.

The communities include: Bensenville, Wood Dale, Itasca, Roselle, Schaumburg, Hoffman Estates, Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect, Des Plaines and Chicago.

Under the agreement, if Elk Grove Village committed equipment to another community where a fire or disaster occurred another community would provide equipment to Elk Grove Village to serve as a back-up force.

Colored Water 'Safe To Drink'

That strange color of water residents in the townhouse section have seen lately does not make the water harmful.

Charles Willis, village manager, said the water is safe to drink.

Willis was addressing Robert Lindahl of 690A Versailles, who came to the village board Tuesday complaining about the water.

"I hope the water you're drinking didn't come from the townhouse section," said Lindahl to the trustees.

Willis said sediment in the water gave the water the additional color but that hydrants in the area have been flushed and that the water is safe to drink.

The water used in the area had to be transported from another well when one of the wells was out of service. The well is now back in service, he said.

Fund Drive Nears Goal

The Elk Grove Village United Fund, Inc., with $7,489 collected this year, is closer to its goal than at any other time in its history, according to Mrs. Wallace H. Kuehl, president.

The United Fund drive, to raise money for local youth, health and welfare agencies, began in October.

The amount collected is 79 per cent of the campaign goal of $9,500.

Contributions are being made by residents, industrial, business, and professional people.

"The industrial community is participating to a greater extent this year than last," Mrs. Kuehl said.

The largest single donation was $1,000 from Teledyne Continental Motors, 1801 Touhy Ave., Elk Grove Village.

"Our school employees make a greater contribution by income levels than do our professional and business people," said Mrs. Kuehl.

"WE ARE STILL expecting contributions from about 75 professional and business people," she added.

Although the industrial people made the largest total contribution so far, they were followed by residential contributions. Industrial contributions totaled $3,400 and residential $1,957.

"Our residential participation which appears to be low per capita is substantial considering that most of our residents are employed outside of the village and are on payroll deduction plans. These deductions do find their way back to our local chest by way of our allocation from the Metropolitan Crusade of Mercy," she said. The population of the village is more than 21,000.

Money raised by the local appeal will be supplemented by about $28,000 from the Metropolitan Crusade of Mercy on a pro-rated basis.

A further breakdown of contributions shows: business, $365; professional, $205; school employees, $518; municipal employees, $87; school pledges, $105; residential pledge, $52; and industrial pledges, $700.

Agencies to be supported by the fund include the Northwest Cook Girl Scout Council, Northwest Suburban Boy Scout Council, Clearbrook Center for the Mentally Retarded, Northwest Mental Health Clinic and Lutheran Welfare Family

Counseling Service.

ELEVEN LOCAL PEOPLE have volunteered their time and effort to organize and conduct the campaign, according to Mrs. Kuehl.

They are: William Nieman, owner of Gallery of Homes, campaign chairman; Jack Pahl, village president, residential chairman; Anthony Mostardo, principal, Clearbrook School, educational chairman; Dr. Alan Shapiro, dentist, professional chairman; Herbert Jarosch, owner, Jarosch Bakery, business chairman; Robert Miller, manager, Ace Hardware, business chairman; and George Bruha, manager, Village Drugs, business chairman.

Volunteers include the officers who are: Mrs. Kuehl, homemaker, president; Mrs. Roy Carlson, homemaker, secretary; James Ralston, salesman, Allen Bradley Co., treasurer; Mrs. Curt Helbig, Real Estates sales, budget coordinator.

THIS Christmas, you don't have to pay all outdoors for a great watch

In Switzerland, where there are more watch experts than in any other country on earth, Tissot is the most popular and best-selling watch. That's all you need to know to give the right watch this Christmas. Except that in today's market, Tissot watches are uncommonly well-priced and that we have them in a wide selection.

Mix and match Entonado for a Spanish bedroom aglow with pleasing colors. Certain pieces in this unusual Old World group are designed as "the one special accent"...others correlate excitingly to round corners, march upward in a pastel panel of chests and hutches, stretch into a smart and stylish space-saving wall. All drawers are fully dovetailed, dustproofed and glide smoothly on center guides. Lacy grille work, burnished brass drawer pulls, and bold molding of rope design add to the distinctive charm of this delightful furniture. High pressure laminated plastic tops resist heat, cigarette burns, solvents such as nail polish remover, alcohol, water. See it here.

Drug During Pregnancy — Sometimes Good, Bad

by LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Will appetite suppressant pills taken in the fourth month of pregnancy cause the child to lose weight and be nervous? Is any drug advisable to take during pregnancy?

DEAR READER — The baby absorbs only those things in the mother's blood stream. All nutrients, essential vitamins, oxygen and chemicals from drugs filter across the placenta (after it is formed and by simple diffusion earlier) and are absorbed by the baby. Fortunately, the mother's drugs are diluted throughout her body, so the baby doesn't get an adult dose. Even so, the baby is affected by any medicine or drug taken by a mother during her pregnancy. We have much yet to learn about this problem. We do know that mothers using addictive drugs give birth to babies already addicted. As the baby is born, he must be treated for drug addiction.

DEAR DOCTOR — I have been taking two aspirin a day. Will this cause any harm?

DEAR READER — No, not unless you are allergic to aspirin. I don't recommend taking large doses of aspirin unless it is prescribed by a doctor for a specific cause. Two a day is a very small dose. It is true, however, that large doses of aspirin decrease clotting of the blood and may be useful in helping to prevent heart attacks in some cases. Large doses are often used in arthritis and other medical conditions.

DEAR DOCTOR — I have been told that I have a slight enlargement of the prostate and need the operation which is done without an incision. I was told that this operation and recuperation would mean several weeks away from work.

I was wondering if there is any medication, treatment, diet, exercise or daily habits that will help the above condition or is the operation the only way?

DEAR READER — The prostate gland surrounds the urethra, the tube for the outflow of urine, at the outlet of the bladder. As the gland enlarges it compresses the urethral tube and obstructs the normal flow of urine. There are muscles in the bladder and they must contract harder to push urine past the obstruction.

As the condition gets worse it is not possible for the bladder to empty completely. This causes larger and larger amounts of urine to be retained in the bladder. This leads to a feeling to urinate frequently, get up at night, with the bladder still feeling full after urinating.

Sometimes after a man with prostate trouble has passed all the urine he can, a catheter or hollow tube, can be forced past the obstruction into the bladder and several quarts or more of urine drained from the bladder. Prolonged overdistention of the bladder damages it, causing additional problems.

SINCE THE enlarged prostate causes a mechanical obstruction, the only real way the problem can be relieved is by surgical removal. There are several ways this can be done, depending upon the situation. The operation mentioned here is the most likely one; pieces of the enlarged prostate are removed by means of an instrument inserted into the urethral tube through the penis.

The obstruction caused by the enlarged prostate cannot be removed by taking pills, eating special diets or exercises. Problems caused by an enlarged prostate occur in most men who live long enough to develop it. Complete recovery usually takes several weeks.

Bridge Winners Announced

Residents of Des Plaines, Park Ridge and Rosemont were winners in a National Charity bridge game held at the Randhurst Duplicate Bridge Club Friday, Nov. 27.

Over all winners were, N-S, Ed Neff, Park Ridge and Wayne Eggers, Rosemont. Over all winners, E-W, were Ina Nakas, Des Plaines and Peg Davis, Park Ridge.

The bridge partners won their games with hands dealt by a computer. The same hands were played at every duplicate game held in the United States ... at the same hour on the same evening.

The National Charity Game is a feature of all American Contract Bridge League national events. The games are held three times a year, with a major portion of the proceeds going to various charitable organizations.

Winners in the Sunday, Nov. 29 game at Randhurst were: First N-S, Flo Heifner, Arlington Heights, Pat Yedor, Arlington Heights; First E-W, Bobbie Maa-kestad, Northbrook; Dallas Erickson, Arlington Heights.

Four games of duplicate bridge are held weekly at the Randhurst Duplicate Bridge Club. The meetings are held in the Town Hall room at Randhurst on Wednesday, 8 p.m., Thursday at 11 a.m., Friday at 8 p.m. and Sunday at 7 p.m.

There is also a game held at Harper College every Thursday night at 8 p.m. All of the games are directed by Claire Blackwell, a certified bridge director.

We can't get enthused about South's jump to six diamonds, but there was nothing wrong with the final contract. On the other hand, there was a lot wrong with his play and he managed to find a way to go down.

It wasn't too difficult for him. He simply played out a couple of trumps and then led a spade to dummy's queen. East plunked the king on the queen and led a spade right back. South finessed the 10, but East produced the jack and South had lost two tricks. This was bad luck. If West had held the spade king or East the spade jack, South would have made his contract.

Do you see what South should have done? He should have tried to set up dummy's hearts. That way, he might well have been able to discard two spades and make an overtrick. Let's see how things would have come out.

At trick two, South would ruff a heart with a high trump. Then he would lead a trump to dummy's nine. Both opponents would follow and South would be home free in spite of the 5-1 heart break. He would ruff another heart and enter dummy with the jack of trumps. Then a third heart ruff, followed by a club to dummy's ace. One more heart ruff would pick up West's last heart and leave one heart in dummy. South would get to dummy by ruffing his queen of clubs and he would be able to discard one of his spades, whereupon it wouldn't matter what happened in that suit.

Strangely enough, this hand should really have been bid to seven. All that is needed is either a 4-2 heart break and a 2-1 trump break, or a 3-3 heart break and any trump break.

British Shows Poor Rating Bet

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Television series with British stars are generally considered poor bets by ratings-minded American network executives who feel the grassroots audience prefers home-spun accents to foreign ones.

The feeling is that foreign-oriented shows are usually a hazard in the ratings for a network trying to get off to a flying start at the beginning of a season.

Except for ABC-TV's "Nanny and the Professor," in which England's Juliet Mills plays a governess with wizard-like powers, it's hard to think of a U.S. series that began this season with the main star from Britain.

Nevertheless, London once again has bloomed as a large supplier of regular series that will arrive on U.S. television in the next year.

BRITISH COMEDIAN Marty Feldman, who scored well on Dean Martin's replacement series last summer, will have a weekly variety show on ABC-TV in the 1971-72 season. And a British singer named Val Doonican has been given a series on the same network next summer.

Two other new ABC-TV series next fall will offer American headlines — Shirley MacLaine and Tony Curtis — in London-based productions.

Modeling Show Is Scheduled

Mrs. Candy Lane of Schaumburg has announced the opening of the Satane Models agency at 1531 Roslyn Ln.

Mrs. Lane has had three years' experience as a model as well as experience in agency management.

Her first show will be held Dec. 8 at Chateau Louise in West Dundee. Clothing will be furnished by Beverly's Dress Shop in Schaumburg.

Curtis will team up with Roger (The Saint) Moore in a show called "The Friendly Persuaders," about a couple of fellows who make sure justice catches up with those who have escaped it. And Miss MacLaine will have a situation comedy.

This January, meanwhile, NBC-TV offers an hour replacement series called "Strange Report," starring Britain's Anthony Quayle as a scientific sleuth. It was filmed in England.

AND IN MARCH, NBC-TV will also present a replacement half-hour situation comedy with Britain's Millicent Martin as an international airline stewardess who gets around. It is called "Bird's Eye View," and is also an English product.

If past shows are an example, the British-oriented series will be, for the most part, mediocre in the ratings.

On — commercial American television has, of course, had a great critical reception with "The Forsyte Saga" and "Civilization," both British works. But as for getting ratings, the old story seemed to hold up again recently when NBC-TV's much-heralded British production of "Hamlet," with Richard Chamberlain, Sir John Gielgud, Sir Michael Redgrave, Richard Johnson and Margaret Leighton, failed to finish among the top 40 shows in the national rankings.

On the other hand, an ABC-TV comedy Western that played opposite it — "The Over-the-Hill-Gang Rides Again," with Fred Astaire, Walter Brennan, Chill Wills and Edgar Buchanan — finished very high up, in eighth place.

Death Is His Undertaking

by BRAD BREKKE

Corey Plazak of Palatine is going to be an undertaker someday.

A good one, he hopes.

He might have been a preacher or a lawyer or a family doctor because he enjoys helping people.

But he is none of these.

He chose to be a mortician instead because the accent is on service to the living, rather than the dead. He says there isn't anything in the world he'd rather be than a mortician. He doesn't consider the job morbid and when asked about it, will tell you he finds mortuary work "rewarding, challenging and fulfilling."

Some of his friends find that hard to believe. And when they do, he explains to them that only a small portion of his time is spent embalming someone's remains. More than 90 per cent of his time is needed for making funeral arrangements. When he works with a family, he says he follows through with them too, right up to the cemetery.

Plazak, 20, is currently an embalming trainee at Ahlgrim & Sons Funeral Home in Palatine. They have been in the business of burying people for more than 78 years.

Someday Plazak hopes to buy his own funeral home, but that is a dream he keeps tucked away for the future.

Right now he is too busy learning the business to think much about it.

A pleasant, soft spoken fellow, Plazak began his traineeship at Ahlgrim's in September.

If all goes well, by next year he will be a licensed mortician at age 21.

Plazak is sensitive to popular myths people have about morticians and hopes during his life to enlighten as many as he can.

He doesn't wear a tall black hat, have gnarled fingers, lily white skin and a kiss of death look about him.

And he gets angry when people ask him if morticians really saw off the legs of tall men so they will fit properly in a casket. He says it never occurs to them there are various casket sizes.

"WHEN I TELL people the truth, it's like they don't want to believe me. They'd rather believe the myths that have been popularized about the profession. I feel it's part of my job to enlighten them," he said.

Many persons, he says, feel there is something secretive about undertakers and what they do. "There really isn't. If someone really wants to know what we do, I'll tell them. But they're usually let down. It's not that big," said Plazak.

A mortician is both an embalmer and a funeral director and must be licensed by the state to practice each. Plazak began working for Ahlgrim's a couple of years ago driving funeral cars during the summer and decided then this was the business for him.

He first did a year of study at the University of Illinois and then completed another year of study at Worsham College of Mortuary Science in Chicago. They are requirements. When he completes his year's training, he will be eligible to take the state board examination and if he passes, he will be a mortician.

HE SAID THERE were several girls in his classes at Worsham. "They were mostly daughters of men who had their own funeral homes and wanted to get into their father's business."

Plazak said embalming only became popular in this country after the Civil War and isn't required by law unless the remains are being transported out-of-state or the person died of a contagious disease.

"But if you don't embalm the remains, it would be pretty hard to have a visitation. The body begins decaying rapidly after death," he said.

Aside from his duties embalming, Plazak is learning the job of funeral director, which includes signing death certificates, getting a burial permit, inquiring about a person's social security and VA benefits (if applicable), seeing that death notices are placed in the newspapers, and ordering flowers and a headstone.

"We're doing something for the living, those left behind. It's a service they can't do for themselves, legally or emotionally and this is the joy of the work," he said.

UNDER IDEAL conditions, embalming should preserve a person's remains indefinitely. "They should look the same 500 or 1,000 years from now as they do when they die. Embalming means restoring to lifelike appearance."

He said the Egyptians were the first society to practice embalming techniques for preservation and wrapped the remains of loved ones in yards and yards of cloth, which we know as mummies.

"No other country today practices embalming to the extent we do, nor do they have as much visitation as we do," he said.

Plazak said most persons have some kind of burial insurance and can have as cheap or expensive a funeral as they want. He estimated the price range, not counting the cemetery lot, from $400 to many thousands of dollars. He said there are some caskets that cost $20,000 alone.

"There are no regular hours for a funeral director. If a family wants visitation on a Friday night, we can't tell them we'll be closed. We're in business to serve people. Some people want to make arrangements for a funeral late at night, immediately after a loved one dies. Other will come in first thing in the morning."

"SO I KNOW now not to make long range plans, to live from day to day instead. The job comes first," he said.

Plazak said some persons have no burial insurance, but arrangements can usually be worked out with the funeral director.

At the other extreme, however, are persons who make all their own funeral arrangements before they die.

He said these persons go so far as to choose their own lot, order flowers, select a casket and headstone and pay for it all before they die, so they won't be a burden on those they leave behind.

Plazak said he hasn't really had any weird requests from families, but added that once in a while a widow will ask that her late husband be buried with some cigars in his pocket, because he always carried them when he was living.

He said there isn't much chance of him contracting a contagious disease and that as a precaution, all morticians are usually inoculated against the various diseases anyway.

WHEN ASKED HOW he personally felt about death, Plazak said:

"I don't know. I guess you can't help but think about it in this business, but I haven't got time to dwell on it. It's going to catch up with us all sometime. That's a fact we have to accept. But I'm too busy living to think much about death."

He said death is a massive phenomenon in the body.

"All our bodily functions and processes stop. Each cell . . . and we have billions of them . . . dies separately. It takes several hours for the process of cellular death to occur."

He doesn't care what people say about undertakers either. As long as it's the truth and not myth.

"I'm in contact with people all day. That's my job and it's the part I enjoy the most."

"No two days alike. No routine."

"A funeral is sort of a perfect topping to a man's life. It's a good end," he said.

Study On More Colleges OKd

A committee to study the need for additional senior colleges in Illinois received a go-ahead Tuesday from the Illinois Board of Higher Education (IBHE).
However, the recommendation from Committee L, an IBHE study committee, did not single out the northwest suburban area as a target area for a new institution.
Rather, it stated that "particularly in the Chicago, Rockford, Peoria, East St. Louis and the Quad Cities area" the need for such an institution should be studied.

THE REPORT also stated, "This study should pay particular attention to the large non-white population which is presently excluded from further education because of the location of the existing senior institutions."
In February of this year, the IBHE accepted a recommendation urging further study through the Jan. 1971 study committee.

Thus, approval of the study committee is no surprise. However, the report does not specify a priority area in Chicago; rather, it lists the Chicago metropolitan area generally as needing a senior institution.

In November, 1969, a committee headed by Jack Pahl, Elk Grove Village president, Edward Gilbert, Dist. 214 superintendent, and John Woods, Con-Con delegate, urged a study committee to approve a northwest suburban site.

THEY TOLD THE committee, headed by Joseph Block, an IBHE board member and chairman of the board of Inland Steel Corp., that skyrocketing population and decreasing availability of land called for a northwest suburban senior college.
Block's committee, however, agreed

'Togetherness' Stressed

Two school boards met Monday night to talk about "getting more bang for the buck," as one High School Dist. 211 board member put it.
His counterpart on the Harper College board said the same thing: "How can we get what we have and maybe more, for less money?"

It was the first time the Harper College and Dist. 211 boards had met to discuss areas of possible cooperation.

"Administrators have met together on several occasions, but we have never had the boards get together," said Robert Lahti, Harper College president.

The meeting was arranged at the request of Dist. 211 Board President Robert Creek: "I feel we are missing a great opportunity to work together to at least keep the quality of education we have now."

CREEK SAID DIST. 211, because of financial problems, is facing the possibility of stopping and maybe downgrading its educational standard: "Unless we can share facilities, we can't provide the specialized education many students are beginning to request."

Creek said he was referring to both the bright student who wants to take more advanced courses and the vocationally of the report which will restrict future growth at older Illinois universities, such as Northern Illinois University, while encouraging enrollment at newer state colleges and universities.

presented student who wants to specialize.
John Haas, a Harper board member, emphasized that Harper has always been willing to help when its neighboring districts ask for assistance.

"I think, though, that we need a meeting of this type between the two boards to determine if the climate for cooperation is right," Haas said.

Only three members of each board attended the meeting, but all felt the climate for cooperation between the college and the high school district is good.

HARPER COLLEGE board members present were Lawrence Moats, John Haas and Milton Hansen. From Dist. 211, Robert Creek, Lyle Johnson and Alexander Langsdorf were present.

Board members agreed their administrative staffs should meet to discuss what facilities could be used cooperatively.

Lahti and Dist. 211 Supt. Richard Koize said they would begin meeting regularly to discuss cooperative ventures.

Each district will survey administrators to find areas where additional facilities might be needed. "We will also try to get Barrington High School Dist. 224 and High School Dist. 214 to make surveys at the same time," Lahti said.

Preliminary discussions of vocational programs, advanced placement of high school students in Harper classes, tuition transfers, and cooperation in specialized programs like music and drama were brought up by both boards.

"Once we have established that the boards want to work together, I think the administrators can come up with areas where we can cooperate and begin to work on them," Haas said.

St. Viator Slates Open House Sunday

St. Viator-1-18B — St. Viator High School, in Arlington Heights will have an open house for prospective students and their parents from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. Sunday.

Invitations to the open house have gone out to 16 Catholic parishes from which the school's 1,000 students are drawn.

Rev. James Michalecz, principal, will welcome school visitors at the opening session in the school auditorium.

Science laboratories, religion seminar rooms and the school's closed-circuit television will be among facilities which the visitors can inspect.

The open house is part of St. Viator's annual recruitment effort.

The school staff also makes visits to parish junior high schools and makes arrangements for priests of the Clerics of St. Viator, the religious order which operates the school, to speak in parish churches during November and December.

He 'Plays Ball' For Nixon

by ED MURNANE

Bruce Ladd's impact on Washington, D.C., has not been confined only to his rapid rise to a position on the White House staff.

When Ladd was living in Arlington Heights and active in the Wheeling Township Republican Organization (he was president of the YRs one year), he participated in the annual football game between the Wheeling and Elk Grove GOP units.

That was one of the things he missed when he moved to Washington — but not for long. Through his efforts and those of some other former locals, a federal football league has started and Bruce is one of the mainstays of the White House team.

Games are played on Sundays against other federal agencies, such as the Secret Service, Patent Office, Peace Corps and others.

The White House squad was 3-3 when we visited Bruce.

purpose would be to shorten the campaign following primary elections. This year's March 17 primary was the earliest ever. Previously, primary elections were held in June.

We like the suggestion made by California Gov. Ronald Reagan last week that primaries to be held in September, cutting the campaign to two months.

But anything is better than a March 17 primary. Closing the bars on St. Patrick's day should be a capital offense.

OTHER INTERESTING notes from the Washington trip:

—Plushiest offices belong to Ladd, Don Rumsfeld and U.S. Rep. Harold Collier, R-10th. Collier's is the biggest and the newest. He's in the Rayburn House Office Building but plans to move back to the older Longworth Building next year since most of his committee meetings are there.

Rumsfeld has two offices, one at the OEO headquarters and one at the White House. On one wall of his White House office is a Chicago Tribune cartoon from last year's 13th District primary showing a dozen or so candidates trying to squeeze into Rumsfeld's seat in Congress.

—Worst office, at least when we were there, belongs to Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson III. The new senator is sharing space with former Sen. Ralph T. Smith, who will maintain an office until all his work is finished.

The walls in Stevenson's office were a dirty green with plaster cracks and holes where pictures had been removed.

—Most crowded office belongs to Rep. Philip Crane, R-13th, whose relative youth in Congress doesn't entitle him to much more than two small rooms in the Longworth Building.

—Stevenson was greeted during his first week in office by several 13th District residents, including Mrs. Lynn A. Williams and Alberta Lauterbach, who managed his campaign in the North and Northwest suburbs.

—Bill Swinford, former Herald staff member and now a public information officer with the Civil Aeronautics Board, has an office on the 19th floor of the CAB and parks his car on the same floor. It takes about 10 minutes to make the dizzying ride from the ground to the 19th floor.

—Two of the pictures on Crane's office wall are of former Presidents Harry S. Truman and Lyndon B. Johnson. Crane said Truman was one of his favorites. Crane also has a cartoon on one of his walls. It was from the Herald on the day he was sworn in shows him putting on a hat shaped like the dome of the U.S. Capitol — something like a sequel to Rumsfeld's cartoon.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY greetings are in order today — it's the 152nd anniversary of Illinois statehood. Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie will preside at an 11 a.m. birthday party in the Old State Capitol building in Springfield. The party is open to the public and — why not — birthday cake will be served to everyone there.

STATE REP. Eugenia S. Chapman, D-Arlington Heights, will be in Washington in two weeks to participate in the White House Conference on Children and Youth.

AND SPEAKING OF state reps, Gene Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights, will convene his state zoning laws study commission next Thursday morning to study an item of particular interest in this area: low and moderate income housing. The meeting begins at 10 a.m. at the Chicago Bar Association, 29 S. LaSalle, Chicago.

ONE OF THE first bills filed for the next session of the Illinois General Assembly came from Rep. Dan Pierce, D-Highland Park (his 32nd district includes the southern half of Lake County.) Pierce is recommending a change in primary election dates in Illinois from March to the third Tuesday in May. The

by DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Evaluation of Walter J. Hickel's record as secretary of the interior, particularly in matters of conservation and ecology, probably can best be left to posterity.
If there is a posterity, that will be proof that he did a good job environmental-wise.
There need be no hesitation, however, about appraising the termination of Hickel's Cabinet career. The manner in which he faced his sacking, vowing to fall "with an arrow in my heart and not a bullet in my back," stamped him as a truly heroic sackee.

Being a natural born Texan, I associated it with the fall of the Alamo. And I am confident the cry "Remember Wally!" will serve as an inspiration to generations of beleaguered bureaucrats as yet unborn.

THE FACT THAT Hickel managed to inject a filip of drama into his ejection becomes all the more remarkable when we consider that our prosaic form of government makes no provision for the ceremonial dumping of Cabinet members.
There is scant opportunity for a department head to exhibit valor and resluteness upon the occasion of his banishment. No mocking little smile and coolly lighting a cigarette as he is being blindfolded. No proud lifting of the chin as the buttons are sheared from his tunic.

Ordinarily, about the best he can hope for is to be permitted to quietly resign.
Although some students of government defend this procedure on grounds it is the most humane way to oust a public servant, I consider it degrading.

A CABINET OFFICER, in my book, is entitled to have his severance become a public spectacle, which will offer him an opportunity to carry it off with dignity and aplomb.
After thinking it over, I have concluded that the axing of a Cabinet officer should take place at sunrise either on the south lawn of the White House or the grounds of the Washington Monument.

Standing behind a large chair, which the deposed secretary occupied at Cabinet meetings, is the President. As a corps of drummers begins an appropriate tattoo, the Cabinet officer steps two paces forward and turns to seat himself.
Whereupon the President pulls the chair out from under him.
For high drama that is simply loaded with symbolism, that type of ceremony would be hard to beat. And the opportunities for dignity and aplomb would be virtually unlimited.

Rod Serling: An 'Old Man' No Longer A Crusader

by VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Rod Serling was one of television's angry young men back in 1955 when his "Patterns" broke new ground as a dramatic landmark on live video from New York City.
He followed it with "Requiem for a Heavyweight" and other outstanding, precedent-setting shows.
Still later he ran off 135 episodes of "Twilight Zone" in an eight-year period, most of which were excellent.

Today Rod says, "Now I'm a professionally old man. There was a time when I wanted to reform television, now I accept it for what it is."
"So long as I don't write beneath myself or pander my work, I'm not doing anyone a disservice. Not to myself or the viewers."
Serling soon will embark on the third segment of "Four In One" with six episodes titled "Rod Serling's Night Gallery," a concoction of the occult, science-fiction and fantasy.

SOME OF THE SHOWS will be broken up into two or three short stories during the hour-long NBC presentation which began with "McCloud" and "San Francisco International."
"I enjoy doing these science-fiction things," said Serling who looks much the same as he did in his days of hosting "Twilight Zone."

"I'm not stuck with them. It's my choice. There is very little of this sort of imaginative story on the air-dramas which defy natural laws."
What about the hard-hitting social commentary shows of old?
"I can't do them today because there is no platform for those plays. There are no dramatic anthologies."
"AS LIFE HAS become tougher and harsher, you don't want to see more of the real thing on television. You can watch the old, live television plots and stories on the 6 o'clock news."

"The American public wants a passion play every night — escapist entertainment. They want the good and the bad immediately identified. The hero has few bad traits and the villain has few good ones."
No longer a crusader, Serling is content to narrate "The Undersea World of Jacques Cousteau," teach at Ithaca New York College three weeks a year and lec-

The Way We See It

Campaign Spending

Although President Nixon's veto of the campaign broadcast spending bill was upheld last week, the Senate definitely indicated that reform in campaign laws is desired.

Only 34 of 100 senators voted to sustain the veto while 58 voted to override. The President's veto was upheld since a two-thirds vote is needed for an override.

We agree with the President's decision to veto the bill, and we support his reasons for doing so. But we also believe the sentiments of the Senate accurately reflect the need for reform.

The bill would have set limits on the amount of spending for radio and television time in primary and general elections involving major offices, including senators, congressmen, governors and lieutenant governors.

But it would not have done anything to affect the total cost of a campaign, the kind of broadcast campaigning that would be practiced, or the methods used by candidates in raising and reporting financial contributions.

In short, as the President said, the proposed bill fell far short of providing a real solution to the problem of exorbitant campaign costs.

Residents of the 13th Congressional District and the candidates who ran in the Republican primary last year know very well that broadcast expenditures are not the only contributor to excessive costs.

Very little television and radio time was used in that campaign, yet campaign costs for some candidates approached the $200,000 mark and most of the candidates spent more than $75,000.

These figures are staggering for one congressional district that includes only a slice of Cook County.

The broadcast spending bill may have been a step in the right direction in that it would have at least set some limits on spending. But it also was very possible that it would have been viewed as an ultimate solution, therefore discouraging attempts at additional reform.

Following the President's veto message, Sen. Hugh Scott, Republican leader in the Senate, pledged to introduce a comprehensive campaign spending bill when the 92nd Congress convenes next month. President Nixon said he will support Scott's efforts and the fact that Congress already passed one bill and almost overrode the President's veto indicates that the lawmakers are ready for new laws.

Unfortunately, 1971 is not an election year and the proposed legislation could be shoved aside until the problem of raising and spending money hits home again.

We hope this doesn't happen. New laws are needed and they should include:

—Limits on the total cost of a campaign.

—A requirement that campaign costs be made public.

—Clear-cut restrictions on the amount of funds which a candidate may receive from a single source and a requirement that major contributions be made public.

Essentially, new laws should make it possible for a candidate to carry his message to the voters at a reasonable cost while assuring the voters that the candidate has no strings attached as a result of contributions.

Palatine Today

Local Level Partisanship

by TOM ROBB

Palatine is getting bigger all the time, and one of the sad side effects of this growth has been the rise of party politics on a local level.

Recently, the Palatine Township Republican Organization voted to back a slate of candidates with their national party label in the April village elections.

This is the third time the local GOP group has done this, but they are not alone, as local Democrats have done the same thing — only not in a village board election.

Considering the effect national party slates have on the issues, the candidates and the voters, this is unfortunate.

It is unfortunate because it is diametrically opposed to the concept of local, close-to-the-people form of government.

In fact, it is ironic in light of the new home rule provision in the proposed 1970 Illinois State Constitution when one considers the number of strings leading from the state and national party organizations to the local, grass roots organizations, which use their power to back local candidates.

This arrangement is not infallible and it runs the risk of overshadowing local issues and concerns with partisanship.

During the last elections there was evidence that this had occurred. For example, the first step one Republican candidate seemed to take in his campaign was to sort out the issues and the diversification of public opinion on those issues.

Next, he aligned his campaign strategy and political philosophy with the greatest sector of that public sentiment.

And third, he tried to capitalize on that sentiment by using it as a catapult into office or a means of mass support.

It did not work. Too many people sensed that more attention was being focused on the public's fears, right or wrong, than on the issues at hand.

In other words, the issues — what the voters are concerned with most — can become clouded by a campaign which uses a national party label and that party's philosophy as a spearhead to success.

People are becoming too smart to buy this bread of politics anymore, and Palatine is still too small to even get into the arena.

But unfortunately, the Village has joined other party organizations in backing certain candidates with their national label.

And in doing so, Palatine has hit upon the most serious misgiving of this pre-election arrangement: it will be hard for the qualified candidate running on an independent ticket to compete with a long-standing and powerful political party.

Maybe all local political party organizations believe the best man should win, but partisanship in local elections could possibly interfere with the candidate, the issue and the voter: the three ingredients of our representative form of government.

The Fence Post

Anti-Poverty Office Scored on Aid

A broader question than the one about why or how "the Hope Lopez Family moved into Palatine" should be asked and investigated.

That question is, "How is it possible for an anti-poverty office with a budget of over $400,000 a year to fail to help one family get adequate housing?"

I have known Hope Lopez for over a year now, first through my job at Northwest Opportunity Center, the anti-poverty office mentioned above, and later through my voluntary involvement with the Latin American Defense Organization (LADO).

When I first knew Hope Lopez, she and her family of four children lived in a broken-down trailer near McDonald's University, Elk Grove. This trailer at least had heat, which the shack she now lives in does not.

A little while after the Mexican-American home burnings, the Hope Lopez family was moved into the Congressional

Church in Arlington Heights under the agreement that this was to be a temporary arrangement while NWO Center found suitable housing. (This action was caused somewhat by the death of Juan Arenas' children in a fire at their shack in Elk Grove and the fear that additional tragedies would occur.)

But after a six-month period in which the NWO Center did little if anything to secure adequate housing, the Congressional Church began to put pressure on the "Opportunity" Center. This pressure and the possibility of bad publicity resulted in some action by the staff of the center.

The leading actor in this comedy of errors was Hania Vargas, a family worker at the center, who found the unheated, unsanitary, condemned shack for Hope Lopez and her four children to live in.

This shack was worse than the trailer they lived in to begin with — and they didn't have any condescending social agency to thank for it.

At least they had heat in the trailer, which they don't have in the shack in Palatine. Hope Lopez has pneumonia because of this.

We of the Latin American Defense Organization call for an investigation into the reasons behind this treatment of the Lopez Family, and the reasons for NWO Center's failure to take any active stand or find any house for Hope Lopez. As a federal anti-poverty office with influence, money, and power, NWO Center is failing to represent the cause of people who are in need of housing (as evidenced by this case).

And I don't feel from my experience at NWO Center that the Hope Lopez case is the exception, but rather the rule for poor people in the Northwest suburban area.

Hope Dims For Protesters

BY WANDALYN RICE

As a recent inhabitant of a large university, I waited expectantly for mass protests to follow the recent announcement of bombing raids on North Vietnam.

But they haven't happened.

Anti-war groups still occasionally appear in the news, of course — when they are attacked by J. Edgar Hoover or when they mount small demonstrations against the likes of Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky — but the scale and scope of their involvement has shrunk since the protests after the Cambodian invasion put this country on the brink of civil war.

Gone are the great marches and the small demonstrations that I reported on, and occasionally participated in, during my college years.

I remember the giant marches for the Moratoriums and the many smaller, less rousing demonstrations. So many times I watched large groups who were lulled to boredom by rhetoric that was mere repetition of everything those present believed.

In San Francisco during the Moratorium, now more than a year past, I remember the man, probably 35-years-old, dragging a small red wagon so his children could ride for the 12 miles of the march route.

Wandalyn Rice

I remember the fragile, white-haired lady who chatted with marchers who paused on their way and lined up in front of her house — for a chance to use the bathroom.

And, in the polo grounds of Golden Gate Park, 100,000 persons sat on wet grass watching fog roll in and listened to an endless stream of speakers. The crowd was moved out of lethargy only by the singing group of Crosby, Stills and Nash, and the singers had colds which made their voices harsh.

The marches of that bygone time were filled with blistered feet, bone-deadening fatigue and one deeply felt common emotion — hope.

Only hope could make individuals endure the physical hardship and frequent boredom of one of those marches. Only the inexplicably pure and innocent belief that if hundreds, thousands and millions of Americans showed their opposition to the war, the country, and its government would respond.

Now, all has changed. Sometime, when no one noticed, the innocence and hope vanished.

When I asked a friend who is still a student about the curious silence that has accompanied the bombing, his answer was swift: "I think people have figured out that Nixon doesn't give a damn. Anyone who still believes they can change things probably belongs to the Weathermen."

And so those who saw violence and anarchy behind every peace march have created their own self-fulfilling prophecy. They have scorned most of the peace marches into discouraged silence and have turned a few to midnight revolution.

Now, instead of mass marchers, we have bombs in the night. Instead of hope, we have despair.

The white-haired ladies and the youths striving to change the world will meet no more.

Between the Lines

Village-School 'Headache'

by MARY REIFSCHNEIDER

Something is amiss between Hanover Park and the many school districts that serve the community.

Geographic school boundaries work against Hanover Park, putting it in five elementary and high school districts instead of the usual two.

The village sits on the fringe of all these districts. As a result, the school districts tend to ignore Hanover Park and vice versa.

The village is ignored by the school districts until it annexes a couple hundred acres here and there. The thought of hundreds of more school children has a frightening effect on school officials. It makes them wish they knew the village officials better. Since they don't, the result is a lot of headaches for everyone.

The case of the Miller Builders' annexation to Hanover Park has been just that. When word filtered to Schaumburg Township School Dist. 54 that the Miller development would include 33 acres of apartments and townhouses with over 400 elementary age children, district officials were more than a little concerned.

The 400-plus children would be enough for a small size elementary school, but Miller Builders balked at the idea of donating a school site.

The Dist. 54 building and sites committee called a special committee meeting to make people aware, particularly Hanover Park officials, that no site donation in the Miller development could mean 10 years of double shifting Hanover Park students in Dist. 54 schools.

Hanover Park Mayor Richard Baker wasn't aware that the Dist. 54 committee was meeting. His reaction to their concern was, "If Dist. 54 needs a school site in the Miller development, why didn't they come to me and ask?"

He has a valid question, but he must share half the blame for the Miller crisis. Regardless of how much time it takes, he has a responsibility to present and future Hanover Park residents to fully cooperate with Dist. 54 and 211 in Schaumburg Township, Elgin Dist. U46 in Hanover and Wayne Townships and Dist. 20 and 108 in Bloomingdale Township.

Growth is important to Hanover Park's future, but who wants to live in a community where children must be bused to schools miles away or attend classes only half a day?

There are several solutions to the problem. Baker should include school officials in the early stages of negotiations with developers and builders. School officials should stop ignoring Hanover Park until it's too late.

Better yet, maybe two or three Hanover Park residents will get concerned enough with their local schools to run for a board post. The village will soon have its third U46 elementary school, and Dist. 54 is making plans for its third school in Hanover Park.

A few months ago Trustee Barry Rogers asked for local residents to volunteer to be liaisons between the school districts and the village boards. Basically, all a volunteer would do is attend the school board meetings. Rogers is still waiting for volunteers.

Rogers points out that such a person later would be a logical candidate for the school board. There are enough residents in Hanover Park to elect a local person to both the U46 and Dist. 54 boards.

The responsibility for good schools lies not only with village and school officials, but parents as well.

Abortion Laws Are 'Unjust'

My compliments to Rita Gorski and Lyla Haddow on their research and obvious concern about the vital issue of abortion law reform. The two sides of the "Fence Post" are eloquently represented. Congratulations to our laws for allowing this exchange of ideas.

I disagree with your opinions, Rita Gorski, but I respect your right to have them. You disagree with my feelings and opinions, but you, and all who would oppose abortion law reform (or better still, repeal of abortion laws) would have laws kept on the books which totally disrespect my opinions, and force me to accept your will.

Repeal of abortion laws would NEVER affect you. Continuation of these laws affects thousands of women who disagree with you. This is a gross injustice and a definite infringement on the rights of an individual. I condemn the laws which allow this.

One major exception to Rita Gorski's letter is her comment, "the newborn also needs only nutrition and time." It is for the "innocent, speechless, helpless unborn" children who are destined to receive JUST "nutrition and time" that I feel we must have abortion reform.

Abortion is a human(e) solution to a human problem.

Visitation is today from 4 to 10 p.m. in Friedrichs Funeral Home, 320 W. Central Rd., Mount Prospect, and all day tomorrow.

Funeral mass will be said at 10 a.m. Saturday in St. Raymond Catholic Church, 300 S. Elmhurst Rd., Mount Prospect. Burial will be in All Saints Cemetery, Des Plaines.

Surviving are his parents, Michael F. and Geraldine, nee Sikora, Izban; two brothers, Michael and Paul; three sisters, Francesca, Samantha and Kimberly Izban, all at home; and his grandparents, Mrs. Gertrude Izban of Mount Prospect and Harry Sikora of McHenry.

Eye Junk Auto Disposal

County Commissioner Carl R. Hansen of Mount Prospect, who heads a special county board committee studying the problem of abandoned cars, this week announced a plan to rid suburban areas of the junk autos.

The plan, presented at Monday's county board meeting, calls for establishment of four junk auto pounds in the suburbs, an expanded towing program in unincorporated areas and providing help for suburban municipalities in removing the cars on a fee-for-service basis.

Calling the proposal "a plan for action now," Hansen said it requires minimum investment in expensive equipment and recommends leasing instead of purchasing small tracts of land for handling the junk cars.

"Solving problems such as abandoned cars is made complex by the need for intergovernmental cooperation among 127 (suburban) municipalities plus the unincorporated areas," he said.

"However, in county-wide problems such as this one, one which cannot be solved by stopping at village and city boundaries, is precisely where leadership from Cook County is most important," said Hansen.

Under the proposed plan, the expanded county removal program would cost an average of $113,340 a year, including $42,000 for custodial personnel. Revenues from the sale of scrap autos would range from $7,000 to $70,000 each year, depending on the number of suburbs participating with the county. Added revenues would come from towing charges, Hansen said.

With half the suburban cities and villages participating, Hansen's committee estimated, the net annual cost to the county would be $65,840.

Under the plan, the four junk car pounds would be strategically located in the suburban areas to make processing of scrap cars by private companies economically feasible. The abandoned cars could be crushed and sold as scrap or sold without being crushed. Regulations would assure that those sold without being crushed would be used "in a manner consistent with health, safety and anti-pollution standards," Hansen said.

County residents who want to get rid of a car could leave it at one of the auto pounds, under the proposed plan.

Student Handbook Revisions Eyed

An ad hoc committee of Harper College trustees, students, administrators and faculty members will report to the college's board of trustees next week with a list of areas in the student handbook which need revision.

On Tuesday night, the eight-man committee drew up a list of areas to recommend to the board for consideration.

These include such areas covering in the handbook as sales solicitation, student dress, speaker's policy, building usage and the student conduct code.

In addition, the committee agreed that related statements in other college publications, such as the catalog, should be reviewed also.

THE GROUP, chaired by board member John Haas, agreed that such items as the grading system needed consideration, but that a request for review would not be the business of the ad hoc committee.

Haas will draft the committee's report and submit it to the board next week.

The committee has held four meetings in the past five weeks. It was created in October, in response to a board motion to create a committee which would recommend to the board possible areas of revision in the code.

Members of the committee are board members Haas and Joseph Morton, teachers Guenter Lehmann and Pat Lewis, administrators Frank Borelli and Omar Olson and students Gary Shade and Brian Boyle.

Teeth Clenching: Expensive Habit

NEW YORK (UPI) — Persons who clench their teeth during sleep or during a confrontation while awake can damage teeth, gums, jaw joint and muscles, a Swiss dental scientist reported. Dr. Peter Schärer of Berne, said grinding the teeth seems to be due to changes in central nervous activity, as in sleep, in states of nervous tension or in conflict situations. He said the damaging activity, called bruxism, can be observed in large segments of the population and in all age groups.

—Dizziness can be related to malocclusion or faulty bite. An eight-year study of 105 patients suffering from vertigo indicates a high percentage of the dizziness was caused by malocclusion and jaw hinge joint disorders which irritated and injured the adjacent structures of the ears. Dr. David J. Goodfriend of Philadelphia, Pa., said once the bite problems were corrected, the dizziness disappeared in 90 per cent of the patients.

—A UNIVERSITY of California oral surgeon cited a bone grafting technique involving a metal implant as a possible aid to problem denture patients. Dr. Philip J. Boyne of Los Angeles said the method was used successfully on 10 patients by achieving regeneration of the grafted bone and acceptance by the host site.

For all afraid to go to the dentist, there's this word from a University of North Carolina dental educator. Dr. James H. McLeran of Chapel Hill said dentistry's image is changing from "pain producer" to "pain alleviator."

He said this changing image is reflected in, of all things, cartoons over the years.

Wins Scholarship

Cadet Ronald E. Richardson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Errol F. Richardson of 108 N. Louis St., Mount Prospect, is the recipient of a two-year U.S. Air Force Reserve Officers Training Corps college scholarship.

Cadet Richardson receives full tuition and fees, an annual textbook allowance and a non-taxable, monthly subsistence allowance of $50.

He submitted his application for the scholarship while enrolled in the Air Force ROTC four-year training program at Lawrence University, Appleton, Wis., where he is a junior majoring in medieval history.

Upon his graduation and completion of the AFROTC program, Richardson will be commissioned an Air Force second lieutenant.

He is a 1968 graduate of Prospect High School.

"While the captions may have varied greatly, I think we find a significant difference in the drawing of these cartoons," he said.

"They show a change from the patient leaving the dental office holding his painful jaw (usually down a flight of stairs) to that period when a patient in pain is pictured climbing those stairs or sitting in the waiting room prior to seeing the dentist."

And then there's that other pain—in the pocketbook!

Two Have Book Reviews Published

Two members of the Harper College social science division have had book reviews published in the current issue of the Community College Social Science Quarterly.

Larry King, division chairman, reviewed The Oppenheimer Affair, a political play in three acts, edited by Joseph Boskin and Fred Krinsky.

Charles Norris, an anthropology instructor, reviewed Human Variations: An Introduction to Physical Anthropology by James F. Downs and Herman K. Bleibtreu.

The November part of the Harper College basketball schedule is over and Coach John Gelch is glad of it.

"These first three are probably among the toughest teams we'll play throughout the season."

The Hawks have suffered three straight setbacks at the hands of Amundsen, Elgin and Wright. The latter was a 97-79 loss at the Palatine High School gym.

Harper will be hoping to chance its luck in December with a pair of weekend games in St. Louis — Friday night against Florissant Valley and Saturday night against Missouri Baptist.

Gelch said he thought the main reason for the 0-3 record was the lack of a sustained offensive attack. Although the Hawks had a more balanced attack against Wright than in the first two games, lapses in certain key points in the game proved disastrous.

The first major breakdown came at 6:41 and lasted the rest of the first half. Two Hawks failed on one-and-one situations with the score 30-25 in favor of the visitors.

After the second missed free throw, Wright opened up the lead out-scoring the Hawks 10-2 to take a 40-27 advantage. Harper managed to cut the margin to 47-38 at the half.

The Hawks might have been a lot closer to Wright had it not been for the brilliant outside shooting of Chris Walker. The 6-4 sophomore guard fired in nine field goals in the first 20 minutes.

Early in the second half he continued his barrage, as Gelch pointed out:

"Walker is a fine ball player. He really hurt us, especially when we had our rally going. He just started matching points."

Walker poured in 14 of Wright's first 19 points in the second half and kept the Hawks from getting back in the game. Harper came back on the heavy firing of Scott Sibbernson and Kevin Barthule and trailed 58-53. Then Walker boosted the margin. The Hawks made it 60-55, but Wright pulled away for good after that.

With the score 66-57, Walker received his fourth foul and sat down on the bench. There was still plenty of time left (12:45) for a Harper comeback. However, during the three minutes he was out, the Hawks could just make up one basket.

Walker managed to add four free throws to his 18 field goal total and fouled out with 2:06 remaining. But the damage had been done — 36 points worth.

"They beat us by four points last year and he was the one that hurt us that time, too," Gelch lamented. "It seemed like every time we got something going he pulled Wright out of a tough jam."

Wright burned the nets with a 636 percentage in the second half — a total which is hard to top in any league. Harper finished with a respectable 453 for the game, but several Hawks did much better than that.

Sibbernson, who led the Hawks' in scoring for the first time, had nine of 14 from the field and 24 points. Barthule was nine for 16 and 23 points and Bob Bachus finished with five of nine and 12 points. Also scoring in double figures was Brown with 12.

Wright pulled down 31 rebounds compared with Harper's 23. Sibbernson also led the Hawks in this category with nine.

Harper's next home game will be Monday night at 8:00 against Skyway Conference foe Lake County.

Walkin' the Sidelines

by PAUL LOGAN

Selleck, Rush, Klingberg — They're No. 1

APPROXIMATELY 15,000 varsity players played on 500 high school football teams last fall in Illinois.

Only a couple dozen players from each conference made an all-star team; only a handful received area-wide recognition; and only one or two had a chance for all-state honors.

Many young men were overjoyed at making the first level — all-conference. For at least one player in the Herald area it meant receiving a new car from his father. (The mind boggles to think of the gifts that could have come his way had he been all-area or all-state!)

Three players from the area achieved the highest level: Jeff Selleck of Arlington, Casey Rush of Prospect and Ed Klingberg of St. Vitor. This trio made the Daily News first team, a very high honor indeed.

However, Selleck was not only on this team but on every other first team in the publications that count the most in Illinois — Champaign News-Gazette, Chicago Today and Prep Sports Special. (A strike prevented the Rockford papers from publishing their all-state selections.)

Since Selleck is a unanimous all-stater, the best man to discuss the making of such a fine athlete has to be his head coach, Bob Walther. This man has guided several youngsters to this high honor while amassing the best record (26-6-1), two perfect seasons and three MSL championships in the last four years. From this outstanding football program, Selleck has emerged as the biggest success story.

JEFF SELLECK
A UNANIMOUS ALL-STAT

Some of the all-stater criteria listed by Walther are:

- Better than average ability.
- Being a leader.
- Having the physical attributes.
- Having good speed, lateral motion.
- Being a decent scholar.
- Playing both ways.
- Playing a position that stands out.
- Getting into a certain position early.
- Making all-conference as a junior.
- Receiving publicity.

"What really makes an all-stater is this last point," Walther said. "He can be outstanding . . . the best player in the state, but it doesn't mean one thing unless he gets the publicity. If someone doesn't say you are good, you may never know you are good."

It is vital to receive publicity as early as possible in a player's career, according to Walther. Although Selleck didn't gain much newspaper ink as a junior because he played on a losing team, he did establish a reputation around the league.

The player must show all-state possibilities early enough so that his coach can decide whether he should take a chance on publicizing him or not. Once he has decided that his boy has the talent to be one of the best in the state, the coach must do everything legitimately possible to help him reach his goal.

When a coach is pushing a player other than a back or an end, it is necessary to spread the word around about his abilities. A lineman just doesn't have the offensive statistics to do the talking for him.

This publicity must come every week, especially in the first weeks of the season so that the newspaper men from the major publications can have a chance to see him in action.

"He also has to play good games when the analysts — the newspaper men — come to see him," said Walther. "If he has a good game they'll plug him the rest of the season."

"The biggest thing is letting others know he's a good ball player and then it's up to him to live up to it. Some kids can't stand the pressure week after week."

Selleck, an outstanding middle line-backer-center, lived up to it in a big way. He starred at one or both positions every game he played. He had 42 tackles and 61 assists.

A writer from the Chicago Daily News happened to be watching the third game of the season against Fremd. Co-captain Selleck led the defense in several goal line stands and his picture appeared on the front of the sports section the next day.

He was nicknamed "Little Butkus" because he wore No. 51 and both the nickname and the ink he received brought him plenty of recognition. It even brought a letter from the Bear's middle line-backer, "Big Butkus."

After publicity, Walther stressed playing both ways and being an all-around player.

"If players can go 48 minutes and clock both ways, this is what I'm looking for," Walther said. "And when a kid goes on to college, invariably, he plays a different position. The colleges look for the all-around kid. Jeff is the type of kid that can play center, guard, tackle, line-backer and would probably make a mean defensive end."

"For example, Paul Tollerfson (also an all-stater and now starting with the University of Minnesota) was a tackle here, but he had the speed and size to be a pulling guard which is what he's doing up there."

Of the four publications which named Selleck to their top team, Walther seemed the most elated about the Champaign News-Gazette. This is the only paper which demands that an athlete be an equally fine scholar.

Selleck did a lot to make himself an all-stater, both in the classroom and on the field, but he owes some of the credit for his success to his teammates and his coaches. They worked with him to make a perfect season.

Walther would be the first person to say that anything he did to help Selleck was well worth the effort. And Don Williams — Casey Rush's coach, and Joe Gilwa — Ed Klingberg's coach, would say the same thing.

Selleck, Rush and Klingberg have brought themselves, their schools and the area some much needed honor and prestige.

Congratulations Jeff, Casey and Ed and good luck in college.

'Cat Gymnastics On Road Back To Contending Slot

by KEITH REINHARD

"I shall return."

General MacArthur said it Wayne Selvig said it too when his Wheeling gymnastics team was severely thinned by the split with Hersey two years back and dropped out of championship contention.

Up until that time the Wildcats, like the other District 214 schools, boasted of being one of the better gym teams in the state. With the split taking away the likes of Gary Morava, Jeff Farris and a number of other talented youngsters, however, Wheeling wasn't able to keep pace with its sister teams over the past couple of campaigns.

Now it looks like Selvig's promise may come to pass. After struggling through their worst Mid-Suburban League showing last winter, the 'Cats appear to be headed back toward the top of the pack. If not a pennant contender this year, Wheeling at least intends to elbow its way back into the first division.

"We had an extremely fine group of underclassmen last winter and with this bunch to build on, I believe there will be considerable improvement in our status this year," Selvig observed.

That underclass outfit, led by all-arounder Jerry Hinkle, posted a 7-2 dual meet record in the freshman conference in 69-70 and finished third in the MSL in both the dual standings and the league meet.

They will mesh with just a smattering of varsity veterans including only three lettermen. The list of returnees however starts with Rene Mathis, seventh ranked loop all-around man in his junior year and one of only a couple from that top ten list still on the scene this winter.

Other lettermen are specialists Rick Bieg (still rings) and John Fisher (trampoline). Another senior, Reinhard Broy, has some varsity experience and will further bolster the rings squad.

Rings and free exercise figure to be Wheeling's two stronger suits. Among the flock of juniors filling in the varsity lineup are Ray Meister on the rings and Jim Stogsdliff to team with Hinkle and Bill Borosak on the mats. Hinkle was soph champ in free exercise last year with Borosak taking third and Stogsdliff typing for sixth.

Other promising newcomers are a pair of good side horse men in Rick Hoffman and Jim Poteracki, Al Brunggraber on the horizontal bar and Bill Glenn and Chris Krolack on the parallel bars.

Another all-around man who could help the team is sophomore Chuck Ruth. Selvig plans to try him at the varsity level for the time being.

Hinkle, meanwhile, who finished fifth in all-around in last year's conference meet, will stay with the high bar, p-bars, tramp and tumbling for the dual campaign while eyeing an all-around slot in some of the group meets later in the year.

The Wildcats get their first test Thursday evening when they entertain Mundelein in a non-conference affair. Their MSL slate kicks off Dec. 17 at Forest View.

Cardinals Sink Don Swimmers

Arlington's swim team is off to a great start this season. The Cardinals hosted Notre Dame in a dual meet Tuesday and sank the visitors twice.

On the varsity level, the Cards won 56-39. The score on the sophomore level was more lopsided, 74-21.

Coach Don Anderson was very elated the way his squad opened up the season, especially three of his swimmers — Tom Rowe, Steve Jurco and Charles Dunn. All three posted a pair of individual victories.

Rowe and Jurco, co-captains of the team, dominated the freestyle events and the butterfly. Rowe smashed two team records he had set last year in both the 200-yard butterfly and the 50 freestyle. He had clockings of 57.9 and 23.6, respectively.

Jurco won the 200 freestyle with a 1:56.3 and the 400 with a 4:12.6.

Dunn, only a freshman, took the 100 backstroke (1:02.3) and the 200 individual medley (2:20.2).

Rounding out the first place showings of the winners were Jeff Thieman in diving (173.9), Dennis Stout in the 100 breaststroke (1:09.6) and the 200 medley relay team (1:51.2) of Dunn, Jeff Burling, Rowe and Rick Cook.

'Skin On Warpath

Charley Taylor of the Washington Redskins is the only pass receiver to lead the National Football League twice in the last 10 years. He held that distinction in 1966 and '67. Other leaders have been Dan Abramowicz of New Orleans (1969), Clifton McNeil of San Francisco ('68), Dave Parks of San Francisco ('65), Johnny Morris of Chicago ('64), Bobby Joe Conrad of St. Louis ('63), Bobby Mitchell of Washington ('62), Jim Phillips of Los Angeles ('61) and Raymond Berry of Baltimore ('60).

Notre Dame had a clocking of 1:52.5 in that relay but finished the meet with a victory in the 400 freestyle relay. Dennis Wiescholek, Tom Orr, John Stoesser and Steve Sawk had a winning time of 3:47.2 to Arlington's 3:54.8.

The Dons' only other first place finish was in the 100 freestyle. Don Netzel edged out teammate Terry Kelly by two-tenths of a second with a winning time of 54.6.

Posting the other seconds for the Dons were these swimmers:

Netzel in the 200 freestyle (2:00.2), Orr in the 200 IM (2:24.4), Kelly in the 50 freestyle (24.5), Rick Schweiss in diving (114.7), Stoesser in the 400 freestyle (4:30.2), Jim Braddy in the 100 breaststroke (1:10.5) and Mike Borman in the 100 butterfly (1:00.1).

Taking a second for Arlington was Oliver Peale in the 100 backstroke (1:06.7).

Fremd Rolls To Mat Win

Fremd's wrestling team started its season with a bang at Lake Park, winning the first five matches of a dual against the Lancers and coasting to a 38-13 triumph. The Vikings racked up six pins in the process.

Dave Motta started it with a pin of his opponent at 98 pounds in 3:30. At 165, Lenny McGuinn romped by a 16-34 score. Jeff Alvis racked up another pin at 112 lb 1:44. Jeff Henry won 8-5 at 119 and Steve McGuinn recorded a third pin at 126 pounds in a time of 3:23.

Other pins for coach Guy Henriksen's Vikings were by Bill Anderson at 136 (4:15), Al Carlson at 167 (1:48) and Tim Turk at heavyweight (:28). Rick Salinas shut out his opponent at 167 with ease, 13-0.

Next on Fremd's mat agenda is the Mid-Suburban League opener against neighboring Palatine Dec. 4 at home.

GRIM DETERMINATION is written on the face of Maine West's Tom Kummer as he pulls down one of the seven rebounds he had against Arlington Saturday night. Kummer also added 19 points to Maine West's side of the scoreboard but the Warriors lost 77-75. Covering on the play is John Brodnan who paced Arlington with 21 points.

A Challenge To Illinois Bowlers

The 1970 ABC Championship Hamm's Beer Team of the Minneapolis Traveling League this week began offering a $5,000 challenge to bowlers throughout Illinois.

Promotional materials for the "Hamm's Bowling Challenge" — a contest to determine one team which will bowl against the Hamm's champions for a $5,000 prize — are now being sent to all bowling establishments in the state. The contest is being sponsored by the 105-year-old Theodore Hamm Brewing Co. of St. Paul, Minnesota. Hamm's is distributed in Illinois and 27 other states. A large four-color poster bearing an illustration of the Hamm's team and pocket sized rules card-entry blank-score sheet, will be sent to all participating bowling proprietors in Illinois. The contest is open to all ABC-sanctioned Regular and Booster Division teams in states where the competition is held. The basic rules:

—During January, teams can qualify in their scheduled league bowling competition for a February roll-off by beating (with handicap) the Hamm's championship three-game team score of 3,243, which tied the second-highest Regular Division score in ABC history.

—During February, qualifying teams may participate in roll-offs, again during their scheduled league competition, to determine one highest-scoring team from each establishment. These teams will be in the running for a chance to bowl directly against the Hamm's team.

—In March, one team determined by Hamm's from the top scorers in the February roll-offs will be brought to the Twin Cities to bowl directly against the Hamm's team. If the challenging team wins, it earns $5,000. If the challenger loses, it still wins $2,500, and another $2,500 goes to the Bowlers Victory League.

Throughout the competition, a 1,050-scratch, 100 per cent handicap will be used. An 800-average team, for example, would have a 750 handicap, and need to bowl an actual 2,495 three-game series to qualify.

Hamm's worked closely with the American Bowling Congress Headquarters in Milwaukee while determining the handicap, and all other rules and facets of the "Hamm's Bowling Challenge."

John P. Geisler, public affairs director for Hamm's said that the project was undertaken "to allow bowlers across the country to share in the excitement of an ABC championship, and spread the challenge of championship competition."

Competing bowlers should consult complete rules on the Hamm's Bowling Challenge cards, available at participating bowling establishments.

Prospect Gymnasts Open

by JIM COOK

Normally, a gymnastics coach will accept an expected slow start at the beginning of the season with assurance that his team will have reached a peak by the time state qualification time rolls around.

But not Rich Chew.

His Knight G-Men will open this evening by hosting Willowbrook, but come tomorrow, Prospect better be at their best when they travel to defending state champion Hinsdale Central.

"I'm hoping for a score of between 110-120 against Willowbrook," Chew said, "and then really open up against Hinsdale."

Don't look past the Knights' opener. Willowbrook was ranked among the top 20 gymnastics teams in the state last year and cannot be disregarded.

Even getting past their two non-conference lid-lifters is not nearly half the battle Prospect faces this season. A tough conference schedule including showdowns with high-talented Arlington and Hersey and non-league foes Evanston and Maine East provide challenging hurdles for the Knights.

So far, though, Chew has been pleased with his crew's pre-season progress. "We're coming along pretty well and haven't had any injuries yet."

Senior co-captain Rich Valentino, a parallel bar and ring specialist last year, has been elevated to the position of Prospect's all-around man. The returning letterman will see action on every event except possibly the trampoline.

In the free exercise event, senior Guy Courtney and soph Rich Moran may hold the key to getting the Knights out to a quick start.

Then it will be up to an all senior lineup of co-captain Jim Wilcox, Howard Beck, Ken Baker and Valentino on the side horse, which, according to Chew, is probably Prospect's strongest event.

"Each one of them is a letterman and could open with scores in the 8's," said

Chew who judges during the regular season. "Our first man on every event is capable of hitting the 8's tonight."

Courtney and Rich Moran will handle the chores on the trampoline while senior letterman Jim Lutz is counted on for his high bar routine.

The rings, another Knight stronghold, will be manned by senior lettermen Don Liston and John Zapfel and, of course, Valentino.

The conference race will be another standout battle, according to Chew. "I don't think it will be as strong as last year, but it may be more balanced. Arlington and Hersey should be very strong, as usual," Chew said.

"We're hurting for depth, but should get some outstanding individual performances," he concluded.

The Knights will need their best beginning tonight.

Adam, Eve Did Their 'Thing' Too Well

by CAROLYN A. BOWERS

NEW YORK (UPI) —Adam and Eve did their job too well, some modernists say. Population experts tell us that the mandate to them — "be fruitful, and multiply, and replenish the earth" — has reached epidemic proportions.

They point out that large families may have been necessary "in the beginning," but today, many "begots" later, represent eventual doom.

More persons on earth means more consumption. The obvious consequences of too many people getting and spending are pollution, famine, depletion of natural resources, despoiling nature, pestilence, overcrowding, noise, crime, social chaos and warfare, say experts on population control.

If present trends continue, conservative estimates are that the world population will double by the year 2000. In the United States, George H. Brown, director of the Census Bureau, recently announced that due to a substantial drop in the national fertility rate the "baby bomb" here is being defused.

Brown said that in the 1950s American women of childbearing age averaged 3.45 children, which by the early 60s dropped to 2.78. At present, he said it's about 2.45.

EVEN WITH THE reduced rate, however, the nation's population is expected to increase close to 50 per cent or to nearly 300 million persons by the year 2000, up from 100 million 50 years ago and 200 million last year.

Most demographers agree that a fertility rate between 2.11 and 2.2 would, without immigration, achieve zero population growth.

In other words, in order to let the next generation achieve population stability, beginning now couples just starting families would have to limit their children to two.

There are those, however, who object to this proposal. One is Dr. Niles Newton, associate professor of psychology at the Northwestern University Medical School in Chicago.

Newton feels there is "the need to individualize, rather than play a game of mathematical averages, in regard to fertility control."

"The idea that every woman 'should have two babies, period,' is an insult to the diversity of feminine personality and capabilities," he said.

"It overlooks the fact that there are many women who would be far happier and more useful to society with no children at all and that other women are such gifted mothers that they should have more than the usual two."

MANY POPULATION organizations, however, argue that couples who want larger families still can help stabilize the population by limiting their natural children to two and adopting others.

Zero Population Growth (ZPG) advocates adoption and encourages whites to adopt minority children who not only have the least chance of finding a home but who are also more plentiful than white children.

For a long time, in many places the Planned Parenthood League was the only voluntary organization providing information on population control. Now many other groups have been formed, among them the Population Council, Population Reference Bureau and Population Crisis Committee.

ZPG, with its main office in Calif., has offshoots across the country, one being STOP (Society Toward Optimum Population) in Dallas.

Many conservation groups such as the Sierra Club and Friends of the Earth also are emphasizing population control. From those groups, solutions have been proposed as far out as requiring marketable licenses to have children and compulsory sterilization for any parents with three or more living children. Rita Hauser, U.S. representative to the United Nations Human Rights Commission, has even urged the legalization of homosexual marriages.

Little 'Big' College's System Working

SANTA CRUZ, Calif. (UPI)— In a Redwood forest, one of the University of California's campuses gives students the feeling they are attending a very small college where they can do whatever they wish.

One thing they don't wish for — and don't get — is letter grades. At Santa Cruz, you either pass or fail.

Something else the students are happy to do without is the tramping between the huge lecture halls of a place like the huge University of California campus at Berkeley, which has 27,500 students. Santa Cruz has less than 3,500 and even they don't study en masse.

Now five years old, UC Santa Cruz seeks to achieve an apparent contradiction in terms — the best features of both a small college and a large university.

THE WAY THIS IS done is to scatter and seclude five independent, residential colleges, with 650 students each, through the forest in a system resembling that of England's Oxford and Cambridge. Eventually, Santa Cruz will have 25 colleges.

A student's primary commitment is to his own college, but he takes courses in the other colleges and studies science in large central facilities.

The plan can be traced back to discussions in 1932 of the chancellor, Dean E. McHenry, with his own college roommate, Clark Kerr. They were fascinated with the problem of keeping the individual student from being overwhelmed by the impersonality of the giant university.

When Kerr became president of the University of California, he and McHenry had their chance. Now Santa Cruz is a bundle of just about all the innovations being tested in American higher education.

INSTEAD OF RECEIVING a letter grade, a student gets a written essay from his teacher on what he has and hasn't accomplished.

Nobody is required to keep dormitory hours, and some dormitories are coed.

Many students are devoted to vegetarian diets of organic foods, so special counters are set up for them in cafeterias.

Students are encouraged to think up their own courses of study. Some have even gone to India to learn yoga, and one youth studied Mark Twain by spending a quarter term taking a raft trip down the Mississippi.

Last June, Santa Cruz' Merrill College graduation ceremony was a kind of a Quaker meeting held in a meadow, followed by a feast. Crown College's outdoor ceremony at least included chairs for people to sit on, and College V decided to hold no ceremony at all.

BY THE ONLY available measures, the system is working. The drop-out rate is half normal, Santa Cruz students have a high rate of success in obtaining admission to graduate schools, and last year they were seventh in the nation in their number of Woodrow Wilson Fellowships won.

However, those admitted to Santa Cruz generally have higher scholastic aptitudes than those at the other eight university of California campuses. In high school 56 per cent had "A Averages."

For every opening, Santa Cruz has four qualified applicants. Its admission policy is unusual in that the man-woman ratio is 50-50.

In casual conversations, the students seem both more relaxed and more serious than their counterparts on other campuses.

MARCIA McGRATH, a student activity coordinator trained at Radcliffe, says, "I find these students highly individualistic and frighteningly mature. Sometimes I just can't face another vibrant personality."

"What I like best," says Moira Gibbons, a junior, "is the closeness. You know by face everybody who lives in your college."

For David Kadish, a sophomore, the best part is that "the faculty is very accessible, very encouraging and very warm."

The most common complaint is the isolation of the campus, 90 miles south of San Francisco, and relative lack of planned social events. Santa Cruz has no fraternities and no intercollegiate sports.

Some of the unhappy ones, satisfied students say, are those "who need structure and can't take responsibility for planning their own education."

"BUT THE MOST UNHAPPY are the student radicals," says Jane Hanson, a sophomore. "They have been deprived of all their standard issues."

Among Santa Cruz' problems, one administrator cites a surprising one—after graduation a sizable number of students like the place too much to leave. They move into nearby communities, often unemployed, and "this is very disconcerting."

A campus strength is the open door policy of the faculty, some of whom live on campus. The faculty mingles and eats with students because, as chancellor McHenry says, "we have no Jim Crow faculty clubs here."

Yet this too, can be a problem, McHenry says, because some faculty "prostitute themselves by trying to look, dress and talk like students. Some in that group let down their academic standards."

McHenry's greatest disappointment: He says the faculty hasn't fully exploited the opportunities for educational innovation.

Taste Of 1984 Inspires Kids

by JAY GIBIAN

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — A high school student is forcibly removed from his class for asking a question, being told: "Your duty as a student is not to ask questions, but to learn."

There is, in effect, a classroom dictatorship — a taste of fascism in action — and it is part of a unique educational approach designed to overcome student apathy and boredom in Problems of Democracy (POD) classes at Bishop Hartley Catholic High School here.

It began two days after the Nov. 3 general election when a POD teacher, Donald D. Gilligan, son of the Ohio governor-elect, John J. Gilligan, announced to an assembly of 230 POD students that the results of the national and state elections were "unacceptable" and an Army general had taken over the federal government.

"The students should have known right then that there was something afoot," said Sister Patricia Flinn, head of the school's Social Studies Department. But, she added, some of the students believed the statement.

"It was basically Don's idea," Sister Patricia said. "All five teachers involved in POD classes had been very disturbed over the students' complete lack of interest in the democracy course and when one student told Don, 'Government runs itself, it doesn't affect me' that's when Don got the idea."

The "idea" was to institute, without the students' awareness of what was happening, a nearly total Fascist state within the classroom.

"About the only thing we can't do is use actual violence," Gilligan said. "It's a good thing," he added.

"THE FIRST DAY we staged a scene where a popular student (who was told what was happening) asked a question in class. We had two other students drag him from the room at the teacher's instructions."

The incident, however, prompted two other students, who did not know what was happening, to physically attack the teacher.

"We had to get the instructor and his two attackers out into the hallway and explain to them what was happening before they settled down," Gilligan said.

"The general reaction has been very good," Sister Patricia said. "Where before there was very little, if any, discussion in the classes, now there are heated arguments all day in classrooms and hallways. The students are really thinking."

Sister Patricia, who is proud to have the school termed a "progressive" institution, said she wrote a two-page, single spaced document entitled, "The True American Creed."

"I tried to be as subtle as I could. None of the statements in the creed can be argued by themselves. It is the extremes to which they are taken, and then mixed with half-truths," she said. "We want the students to learn the difference between half-truths and reality."

The "creed," which borrows somewhat from novels such as Orwell's "1984" and other manuscripts, sets forth the statements to be studied by the students.

THEY INCLUDE:

—True love of country means good healthy hatred of the nation's enemies.

—War is to the man what maternity is to the woman — shaped by the God-given nature to be the challenge, the opportunity, the occasion of developing the best of the nation.

In 1929 the Ford Motor Company raised daily wages from $6 to $7 despite the collapse of the stock market.

In 1948 the nation learned that microfilm of secret American documents had been found in a pumpkin on the farm of Whittaker Chambers.

GI Benefits Are Discussed

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Veterans and their families are asking thousands of questions concerning the benefits their Government provides for them through the Veterans Administration. Below are some representative queries. Additional information may be obtained at any VA office.)

Q — HOW MANY months can a veteran take training under the G.I. Bill?

A — Veterans with 18 months or more of service who have satisfied their active duty requirements have full entitlement of 36 months. A veteran with less than 18 months earns one and one-half months up to a maximum of 36 for each month or fraction of month of service on active duty on or after Feb. 1, 1955.

Q — HOW DOES a veteran go about establishing service-connection for a disability?

A — Make application to the nearest VA regional office and submit proof that your disability was either incurred or aggravated during military service. The best proof would be records of treatment received while in service.

Q — I UNDERSTAND that VA will pay me full time benefits for taking 12 hours at college; is this correct?

A — Yes, if the college considers 12 semester hours full time.

Q — I WAS a chaplain attached to an Army unit in Vietnam. Am I entitled to any veterans benefits?

A — You are entitled to the same benefits as any honorably discharged veteran.

Traction A Driving Key

Traction is needed to go in rain, sleet or snow. Findings by the National Safety Council that can be helpful to all motorists:

For stopping on ice, conventional snow tires were found to offer no advantage. Studded snow tires produced a 19 per cent improvement; reinforced tire chains a 50 per cent improvement over regular tires.

On loose snow, however, conventional snow tires were found to be 13 per cent better than regular tires; reinforced tire chains were 37 per cent better.

For getting started and for keeping moving, tests disclosed that conventional snow tires provided only a small improvement on glare ice (28 per cent). Studded tires developed about three times the pull; reinforced tire chains about seven times the pull of regular tires on ice.

On loosely packed snow, conventional snow tires provided half-again as much pull; reinforced tire chains about four times the pull of regular tires.

Also pointed out was the importance of "cornering" — the ability to maintain steering. Being able to round a curve without having your wheels slide out from under you is a major, slick-road problem.

According to the men who drive the winter test courses, traction aids (snow tires, studs and chains) are of little advantage in maintaining steering unless they're used on all four wheels — on the fronts as well as the rear wheels.

To this warning, they added a second admonition:

"Regardless of the help provided by these traction aids, in no instance can a driver stop, go or steer nearly as well as with regular highway tires on dry pavement."

A suggested solution is to think out every maneuver well in advance so drivers can slow down, steer or accelerate gently. This is the way to avoid sudden, hasty changes in either speed or direction — sure skid producers.

"It's every driver's responsibility," they concluded, "to be aware of the type of driving conditions he will encounter and to equip his car for the best possible traction."

"A stalled car is a hazard to other vehicles . . . and to the essential safety services of the community."

Collect up to 10 free days interest on both Bell passbook and certificate accounts.

DECEMBER 1970
Sun	Mon	Tue	Wed	Thu	Fri	Sat
		1	2	3	4	5
6	7	8	9	10

Now through the 10th you'll be able to earn extra days of interest in any Bell Federal Savings account—passbook or certificate.

Just get your money to Bell by the 10th. And we'll pay you from the 1st. Here's how it works:

Bell's "Earn From the 1st" Plan

Let's say you can't always get your savings to us by the beginning of the month. At Bell, it doesn't matter. You'll earn interest from the 1st as long as we receive your savings by the 10th.

So if you get your savings to us on the 10th, you'll actually earn 10 extra days of interest! No matter how you save—passbook or certificate.

The "Other" Plan

Some other savings places talk about how their "day-in-day-out" interest plan pays you interest from the day you deposit until the day you withdraw. Sounds good. But there are big disadvantages to the "day-in-day-out" plan.

The "Other" plan applies only to regular passbooks

First, the "Other" plan does not apply to savings certificates which could pay you a higher rate of interest. Only passbooks are covered. Second, with the "Other" plan, you will never be able to earn extra days of interest. And if you're saving for a long range goal, 10 extra days of interest in any Bell account can make a big difference!

Start your lazy money working harder

Just fill out the sight draft. Take advantage of Bell's "In by the 10th—earn from the 1st" plan, and start earning interest on money you haven't deposited yet.

Fluid Power Signs Lease

Fluid Power Systems, a division of AMBAC Industries, has signed a lease for more than 32,000 square feet in a multi-tenant building at 511 Glenn Ave., Lehigh Industrial Park, Wheeling.

Ron Frain of Gottlieb-Beale and Co was sole broker in the $250,000 transaction.

Fluid Power will use its new quarters for office and manufacturing facilities. The building, which occupies a 104,091 square foot site, provides 56,810 square feet of rentable space.

In the Tudor Manner...

After the wars of the Roses came to an end and the prosperous era of the Tudors began, many great names of England were heard for the first time.

The residence shown above is not a replica of a manor house in which Elizabeth Tudor or William Shakespeare were entertained, or of any other house of that Golden Age — it will have an atmosphere of its own, and it can be built for you and your family.

As now planned, there are three reception rooms, five bedrooms, breakfast room, kitchen, utility areas, and garage for three automobiles. An auxiliary stairway leads to an area ample for two additional bedrooms or a large playroom. Of the eleven rooms, of particular interest are the paneled family room with Tudor fireplace, living room and guest room, also with fireplaces, the reception hall with minstrel's gallery, and the elaborate master bedroom. The estimated price is $89,000. for immediate building.

If you are planning to invest in a residence of high standards and would like the planning and construction process to be an exciting and pleasant experience, we invite you to call us for an appointment.

Coping With Demand

Arlington Heights village trustee James T. Ryan sees a need for communities to streamline their land development control systems.

Ryan recently spoke at a Chicago land development seminar sponsored by the Home Builders Association of Chicago (HBAC). A practicing attorney with the Chicago firm of Morgan, Lanoff, Cook and Madigan, he commented on changes affecting home building industry.

"In the last 10 years, the suburban areas grow 23 times faster than the cities they surround," he said. "By 1985, it is estimated that one-half our national population will be living in the suburbs, while only one-fourth will be living in the central cities."

"Transportation, communication and commercial and industrial decentralization have allowed people to spread out," he said. "Built-in factors such as zoning and building ordinances also play a part in this lesser comparative concentration of population density."

Citing an expected increase in population, income and newly formed families over the next 15 years, Ryan predicted a greater demand for housing. He suggested that in order to cope with the demand, communities have the responsibility to maintain up-to-date land development control systems.

"By this I do not merely refer to zoning and building and subdivision regulations, but all encompassing development control systems," he said. Ryan said there is a waste of time and money in having separate agencies for building, architecture, plumbing, electrical, health, traffic and occupancy.

Ryan suggested that communities create one agency to oversee all the component operations necessary to issue a permit.

Control systems must be updated locally or the individual community right to regulate will be lost to a larger government, he said. "Communities lacking or having archaic and irrational control systems are going to forfeit their right to control to the state," said Ryan.

Failure to update these control systems may result in court decisions adverse to community decisions, according to Ryan. "The Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD), for example has asked the Justice Department to file suit against a community contending that a rezoning took place for the express purpose of introducing low and middle income housing," said Ryan. "This matter may well be a harbinger of things to come."

Ryan said a development mix of single family and multi-family dwellings is desirable. He cited the Land Use Intensity standards adopted in 1963 by the Federal Housing Administration as a standard allowing the developer latitude in planning without sacrificing community interests.

Streamlining of procedures is also needed, according to Ryan. "Hearings are taking too long because often the presentation before plan commissions is repeated in toto before village board or other final boards," Ryan said. "Final governing bodies must place increased trust and reliance on the decisions of boards or commissions of initial inquiry."

Appoint Meister

Howard W. Meister has been appointed director of financial planning and administration for the Larwin Group, Inc.

The announcement was made by Richard L. Weiss, Larwin executive vice president and chief operating officer.

Meister was previously vice president and director of finance and administration for the Creative Capital Corp. His past experience includes managing corporate finances at Mattel, Inc., and serving as a senior loan officer for American Savings and Loan.

Meister received a B.S. degree in finance/economics and a Master's degree in corporate finance from the University of Southern California. He is on the board of directors of the Financial Research Group, Inc. and the TPI Investment Corp.

Meister lives in Palos Verdes, Calif.

The Larwin Company is the single and multi-family housing producer and recreation land developer for the Larwin Group, Inc., Beverly Hills, Calif. Larwin has recently expanded its operations into the Chicago area.

Larwin is a subsidiary of CNA Financial Corp., a Chicago-headquartered holding company with more than $3.5 billion in assets.

Named Manager

William A. Navigato of Wheeling has been named manager of international sales and operations in Chicago for CF Air Freight, the newest operating subsidiary of Consolidated Freightways, Inc.

In announcing the appointment, Joseph Vesely, district manager of CF Air Freight's 20,000 sq. ft. Chicago terminal adjacent to the O'Hare cargo complex, noted that Navigato is a veteran of 18 years in air freight, dealing with both international airlines and forwarders.

CF Air Freight President Barry N. Brenno said that Navigato's appointment is part of the company's move to strengthen customer service with the opening of three new terminals — in Newark, N.J., Indianapolis and Portland, Oregon — and the increase in staff. CF Air Freight also operates terminals in San Francisco and Los Angeles.

Inauguration Is Social Occasion

The inaugural ball of the Home Builders Association of Chicagoland (HBAC) will be held Friday, Dec. 11, at the Drake Hotel in Chicago.

Robert Arquilla of Burnside Construction will be installed as president of the organization. Arquilla's father, George Arquilla Sr., is one of the founders of the organization and served as its president 1964-1966. George Arquilla Jr., also served as an HBAC president.

Lynn Krause, program and entertainment chairman, said a social hour will start at 6:30 p.m., followed by dinner at 7:30 p.m.

John Stasny, Chicago area builder and first vice president of the National Association of Home Builders, (NAHB) will install the new officers. Bruce Biletz, president of the Irvin A. Biletz Organization, a member of HBAC and a life director of the NAHB, will act as master of ceremonies.

In addition to Arquilla, officers to be installed Dec. 11 are: Tom Shannon of Shannon, Inc., in Wheaton, vice president; Lynn Krause, Alexander Construction Co. in Romeoville, vice president; Edward Zale, Zale Construction Co. in Skokie, treasurer; and Fred Hillman, Chesterfield Builders in Deerfield, secretary.

Comedian Henry Youngman will offer entertainment at the meeting.

Further information is available from Dorothy Levens at the HBAC office, 782-8657.

Speaker's Bureau Offers A Choice

A recent graduate of Western Electric's (WE) three-day Speaker's Bureau training course is John A. Sepp, 232 N. Flake St., Palatine.

Sepp, who works as a department chief in industrial engineering at WE's Central Region Headquarters, 3800 Golf Road, Rolling Meadows, is available to speak before civic, fraternal and religious organizations in his community and surrounding area.

Requests for speakers at Western Electric, manufacturing and supply unit for the Bell Telephone System, should be channeled through the Central Region public relations department.

The three main speeches included in the Speaker's Bureau package are: Business and the Community, a discussion of corporation involvement within the community; A Threatened Environment, a dialogue on the pollution crisis, with special emphasis on the part industry must play in alleviating the crisis; and Communications in the Space Age, study of the role the Bell System is playing in our nation's space efforts.

Additional speeches will be prepared according to the audience's needs.

Managers Slate Dec. 9 Meeting

A second meeting of the newly-formed Resident Apartment Managers (RAM) Club sponsored by the Apartment Council of Metropolitan Chicago, (ACMC) has been scheduled for 8 p.m. on Wednesday, Dec. 9 at Stonebridge Hill Apartments in Arlington Heights.

The meeting was announced by Hildy Poellinger, acting chairman of the group.

Over 20 resident managers were in attendance at the recent first meeting. Mayer Singerman, executive vice president of ACMC, said at the meeting that the council has undertaken formation of the RAM Club due to the need expressed by resident apartment managers for such a group.

Reasons for the club as outlined by those present are: an opportunity for the managers to become more professional in their positions, to trade ideas on equipment and supplies, to discuss tenant relations and to provide a continuing means of communication.

Reports on suggestions for membership classifications, dues structure, standing committees, by-laws and purposes will be made by committees at the Dec. 9 meeting.

Chairmen are Hortense Powell, St. Johns Apartments in Mount Prospect; Norbert J. Croak, Oak Meadows Apartments in Hillside, and Igor Borkowski, Sparks and Co.

Resident apartment managers interested in joining the group can call Winnie Monahan at the ACMC office, 782-8657, for further information.

Makes Comeback

The current trend of installing lavatories in the bedroom is an old convenience making a comeback.

Years ago, practically all personal grooming was done in the bedroom. Then with the advent of the bathroom, the practice was discontinued. But it's back now, said the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau.

The type of facility used is different today. Instead of a wooden washstand, pitcher and bowl, a modern vanity lavatory is installed.

There are good reasons for the bedroom lavatory boom, according to the bureau. First, it takes the strain off the bathroom. It permits women and girls to dress and groom in one place. They can take all the time they need without tying up the bathroom while the rest of the family waits their turn.

Basically, the vanity of countertop lavatory is a dressing table with running water. It provides space for toilet articles on top, and is usually equipped with storage facilities beneath, where supplies will be most accessible.

Bedroom vanity lavatories are available in various wood finishes to harmonize with any decorating scheme. The bowl may be chosen from one of many colors and may be decorated with floral and other designs as well.

CONTEMPORARY BI-LEVEL model home at Lakewood Village project near East Dundee and Carpentersville is the Charlemont, shown above. It features three bedrooms and 2½ baths. Also included are air conditioning, carpeting, appliances, brick fireplace, two-car garage and a landscaped lot.

Choose Among 50 Styles

The Meritex Corp., residential and commercial building firm, recently opened Lakewood Village near East Dundee and Carpentersville.

The new community of 50 single-family homes is located at the intersection of Northlake Parkway and Kennedy Drive. The site is at Lakewood Lodge Estates.

Leonard W. Besinger Jr., president of the building firm said the area is improved with water and sewer service.

The Meritex homes will be built among the private homes currently in the area. The 10 different Meritex model homes range from $35,000 to $50,000 including a 1/3 to 1/2-acre homestead. Together with their various elevations, they represent more than 50 different available home styles. "These are in addition to the buyers' own custom designs, which they may ask us to build for them," said Besinger.

Besinger said the furnished model, the Charlemont, will serve as the sales headquarters for Lakewood Village — until the home itself is purchased, when a new model will be constructed. The full range of Meritex single-family homes may be seen at Morningside in Carpentersville; Ballantree in Buffalo Grove; and New Village in Hanover Park.

The Charlemont is a three-bedroom, 2½ bath bi-level home. The West Coast style of Architecture is evidenced by rough-sawn cedar siding and windows of varying dimensions, ranging from narrow vertical to wide horizontal designs. The upper level of the home is cantilevered out over the lower level.

The price of $44,900 includes a fully-landscaped lot with specimen shrubs and trees, sodded lawn, concrete walkway, finished driveway and attached two-car garage. The home is air-conditioned and carpeted in the dining room, bedrooms and upstairs hallway.

A wide front entry porch leads into a foyer, with the living room located off to the right at the front of the home. With its vaulted cathedral ceiling, wood-paneled walls, combination of narrow two-story windows and wide picture windows, the living room presents a new dimension of textures and lighting effects. A wrought iron balustrade separates the living room from steps leading to the upper level.

On the other side of the foyer, the hallway leads into the dining/family room with its beamed ceiling and brick-faced fireplace on a raised stone hearth. On one side of the room, sliding glass doors open onto an enclosed rear patio area and, on the other side are narrow amber-colored windows. An optional alternative to the fireplace is a wet bar, with case-work, bar sink and wallhung oak cabinets.

The kitchen, measuring 13 feet 3 inches x 10 feet 3 inches and with a vaulted ceiling, features a breakfast nook area and its own sliding doors, also leading and its own sliding doors, also leading onto the rear patio area for bar-b-que convenience. Appliances include a dishwasher, double-sink with disposer, range, refrigerator, custom-designed oak cabinets, ceramic-tiled back-splash above formula countertops and vinyl-asbestos flooring.

A guest closet off the hallway is adjacent to a powder room, with mirrored vanity and formica top.

Upstairs, the master bedroom, measuring 16 feet 5 inches x 11 feet 9 inches, features a wall length of closets, with mirrored sliding glass doors. The bathroom has a vanity dressing table in addition to the regular vanity, ceramic-tiled shower area and vinyl-tile floors. A continental bidet is an extra personal hygiene feature.

The second and third bedrooms, measuring 16 feet 9 inches x 10 feet and 14 feet 3 inches x 10 feet respectively, both feature walk-in closets and casement windows. The hall bathroom has a fluorescent ceiling, ceramic tiling around the bath and a large vanity stretching along the entire width of the room.

The unfinished basement measures 40 feet x 16 feet 4 inches.

The model home is open 10 a.m. — 8 p.m., daily and Sundays.

Sells $1 Million In Insurance

George W. Robinson of 107 W. Berkley Drive, Arlington Heights, a special agent in the Prudential Insurance Co.'s North Shore agency, located in Skokie at 5150 Golf Rd., has sold more than $1 million of company business for 1970.

According to Agency Manager Alfred A. Gliem, CLU, Robinson's sales record for 1970 marks the tenth consecutive year of similar high production achievements. He has represented Prudential since April, 1967.

George W. Robinson

Second Unit Is Launched

Kaufman and Broad, Inc. has announced the grand opening of Unit II at Barrington Square, the new $45 million community in Hoffman Estates.

The second unit will include 230 colonial-style townhouses spaced over 25 acres.

Barrington Square is the developer's largest project to date in Illinois. When completed, it will comprise 1,500 townhouses on 150 acres. The first unit opened three months ago.

According to Royal Faubion, vice president of marketing and sales for the Chicago division of Kaufman and Broad, townhouses account for an increasingly high percentage of the company's residential sales. Kaufman and Broad introduced this concept to Chicagoland with the development of Brandywine in 1964 and has since opened four similar communities of townhouses.

Prices of the two and three-bedroom townhouses at Barrington Square range from $22,990 to $30,990 for ranch, two-story and three-story residences.

According to Faubion, the price range appeals to young couples and families, many of whom are seeking an "interim residence" while saving to buy a single-family home in the future.

Townhouses with garages and basements are popular at Barrington Square, said Faubion. Ten of the 11 models feature basements, while three also have garages — Blair House; Gloucester House; and Raleigh House. These features seem to give residents a real feeling of single-family home ownership, said Faubion.

Raleigh House has been one of the best selling models at Barrington Square. Priced at $27,990, this two-bedroom, 1½ bath home is available in two exterior styles — Pennsylvania Dutch colonial or New England clapboard. Features of the home include a master suite with dressing area and a connecting bath between the two bedrooms. Downstairs, the home includes a carpeted living room and dining room; centrally-located foyer and guest powder-room; and family room with an adjacent patio kitchen. The kitchen is equipped with a double-sink with disposal, range/oven, refrigerator, cabinets and formica countertops. A full basement with garage completes the townhouse.

Barrington Square is located on Higgins Road (Route 72) east of Barrington Road and south of the Northwest Tollway (I-90) in Hoffman Estates. The models are open daily and Sunday from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. and on Saturdays until 6 p.m.

Sales Show Gain Over 1969 Level

Sparked by its fifth consecutive monthly improvement, Baird & Warner sales production has pulled ahead of 1969 on a cumulative, 10-month basis.

The January-through-October results include 2,262 sales, compared to 2,247 for the like 1969 period. John L. Hall, senior vice president and general sales manager, noted that sales were substantially below the previous year for the first five months of 1970. At one point the sales level dipped 34 per cent below 1969 production. Since June, however, sales have improved.

Sales participations in October were 25.6 per cent ahead of last year, with the firm's 27 offices reporting 211 sales against 168 a year ago.

Gross dollar volume for October fell below the 1969 level, but Hall said that a single $8 million transaction in October, 1969, more than accounts for the differential. Gross dollar volume for October was $9,763,073, a decline of 33 per cent from $14,745,977 a year ago.

Gross sales volume for the first 10 months of the year is $102,887,302, compared with $110,808,889 in 1969.

Hall said that although November and December are traditionally slower periods in the real estate market, the pent-up demand for housing frustrated by more than a year of tight money could carry the sales upturn through the end of the year and into 1971.

"People are taking into account the current availability of mortgage money that didn't exist a few months ago. They realize that interest rates have fairly well stabilized. Perhaps most important is awareness that the availability of the single family home, relative to the number of families seeking home ownership, is going to keep shrinking into the foreseeable future," Hall said.

Investors Seek Perfect Partner

There is no magic to merchandising investment property — it's simply a matter of matching the property with the investor's goals, said Theodore J. Pappas, Miami, Fla., recently.

Pappas spoke at a roundtable discussion on merchandising investment properties, sponsored by the commercial and investment division of the National Institute of Real Estate Brokers. The Chicago session was held in conjunction with the 63rd annual convention of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, with which the institute is affiliated.

"In theory, it's no more magical than the assembly of a jig-saw puzzle. There is a piece 'A' which fits perfectly into piece 'B' making A and B perfect partners in the creation of the overall picture," Pappas said.

"This is much the same way in which we try to find investment properties which fit perfectly the investment objectives of our client. Perhaps he needs cash now more than later; perhaps he needs no cash now, but wants to provide for his retirement; perhaps he is in search of tax benefits or protection against inflation.

"For any of these reasons he would, quite properly, look to the real estate market place for a 'Piece A' (property) to fit his 'Piece B' (investment goal)," said Pappas.

"This concept spotlights the flexibility of real estate as an investment medium, and one which should be used by more people who are trying to reach the same objective through savings, securities and life insurance," Pappas concluded.

Partners Share Interest, Profit

A four-partner firm with no salespeople is one answer to the current trend of large real estate sales offices, said George E. Mayer, Fort Lauderdale, Fla., recently.

Mayer, a past president of the Cincinnati Real Estate Board, spoke during a license law committee session at the 63rd annual convention of the National Association of Real Estate Boards in Chicago.

Mayer is one member of a four-broker team in Fort Lauderdale, Dutcher-Higginbotham-Mayer and Bass, each sharing equally in interest and profit in the corporation.

The corporation began about five years ago when two of the members decided that the management of their sales personnel was taking more from their production in personal sales than it was worth. So they kept their secretaries and redistributed their sales people among other brokers, Mayer said.

Together, they formed a company, but they still worked as individuals. They found their production immediately increased when they were released from the office management duties. They had more time to think transactions through and freedom from all the telephoning and detail work salesmen make necessary, Mayer said.

About a year later, the third member joined as a salesman on trial and almost immediately was made a full partner in the firm. With this addition, they expanded sales into commercial and investment real estate.

Within another year, a fourth member who could handle the sale of better residential properties was added.

"Our firm has continued to prosper in the sale of commercial, industrial, and investment real estate, as well as higher-priced homes and condominiums," said Mayer. "We still have no sales people, still have only two secretaries, and still use the services of a professional accountant-bookkeeper."

"The four of us work together much as do other salesmen in offices, selling each others listings and on many occasions working together on listings and with clients," he said.

"We feel that with today's new small offices, mergence of small offices, and growing prevalence of big offices, we have come up with a most successful solution, one which can compete with all the others," he said.

Rodgers Has Third Award

Peter P. Rodgers

Peter P. Rodgers, of the Annen and Busse Real Estate firm, has achieved the million dollar sales mark for the third consecutive year.

A salesman earns this designation by selling over $1 million worth of real estate in one year.

Rodgers is a licensed real estate broker in the Mount Prospect office of Annen and Busse Real Estate.

He is a resident of Prospect Heights.

List Hanover Township Transfers

Cook County Recorder Sidney R. Olsen listed recent property transfers in Hanover Township.

Lady Banker Attends Meet

Mrs. Linda Coniglio, assistant cashier of the First Bank and Trust Co. of Palatine, attended the fall meeting of the Illinois group of the National Association of Bank Women Inc., held in Arlington Heights recently. More than 100 women officers of banks from all parts of the state attended the conference, which had as its theme "You've Come a Long Way, Baby... But Keep Traveling."

Featured speaker of the conference was Dr. Bernard H. Baum, professor of management, College of Business Administration, University of Illinois Chicago Circle Campus, whose topic was "Changing Social Patterns."

The National Association of Bank Women Inc. is an organization for women holding executive and official positions in banks and trust companies. There are approximately 8,000 members located in all 50 states and in four foreign countries.

Named Commercial Account Executive

James L. Gaertner of Buffalo Grove has been appointed a commercial account executive for the Allstate Insurance Cos. for the Lincolnwood area. He will be located at the Northwest Metro District Claims Office, 4301 W. Touhy Ave., Lincolnwood.

Gaertner recently completed an intensive orientation program at the Companies Illinois Regional Office in Skokie, and has been licensed by the State of Illinois. He will specialize in the sale of commercial lines of insurance.

Gaertner graduated from the John Carroll College, Ohio, with bachelor of science degree in psychology.

Business At A Slow Pace

The Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago recently reported on credit card and related plans, business borrowing and debits to checking accounts in the Seventh District.

Credit card and related plans, in less than three years of operation, generated a total of $336 million in outstanding loans at member banks in district metropolitan areas. About a third of the total at the end of June was in Chicago banks. The biggest share of the increase over the previous year was at banks in Detroit and other Michigan cities. This type of credit amounted to more than 6 per cent of consumer loans of all metropolitan area members, almost 10 per cent in Milwaukee and an even larger share in some Michigan areas.

Credit is extended in two ways — through the use of credit cards at retail stores and through check credit plans which usually allow the customer to write his own loan according to a pre-arranged agreement. Almost 30 per cent of the total at district member banks is in the form of check credit. These arrangements account for nearly all of the credit generated under both types of plans in Iowa and Wisconsin. In both these areas, outstandings are small. In addition, the legality of interest rates normally charged on retail card credit has been questioned under Iowa and Wisconsin usury laws.

BUSINESS BORROWING at district banks has declined sharply since mid-summer. Commercial and industrial loans by large banks in major district cities dropped nearly 5 per cent from July to October, compared with a 2 per cent gain in the same period last year. The contra-seasonal decline continued through the first two weeks of November.

This weaker demand for bank credit reflects more than the slackened pace of business activity. Also involved are large repayments of bank loans by corporations striving to improve liquidity positions. Many firms have used the proceeds of security issues to fund short-term bank debt.

In order to accommodate heavy credit demands of borrowers during 1969 and early 1970, when loanable funds were scarce, some of the large banks sold loans from their portfolios. These sales were mainly to their own holding company affiliates which, in turn, raised funds in the commercial paper market. After midyear, banks were again able to bid for deposit funds, first through suspension of short-term CD rate ceilings and later through the decline in market rates generally. Reported loans sold by district banks have now declined to less than half of the $1 billion-plus peak reached in July.

DEBITS TO CHECKING accounts continue to show the effects of the slow pace of economic activity. Total debits to demand deposits of individuals, businesses, and state and local governments at reporting banks in 47 urban areas rose at a seasonally-adjusted annual rate of only 1 per cent in the third quarter. For the first half of 1970, debits rose at a 5 per cent rate. Third quarter debits this year were 10 per cent higher than in 1969 — less than half the increase recorded for 1968.

October reports show an overall 2 per cent rate of gain from the previous month. The October increase, however, was due largely to a 5 per cent growth rate at Chicago banks, which account for a large proportion of the total. Banks in the Indianapolis and Gary-Hammond areas also reported October gains at annual rates greater than 6 per cent. In 27 of the urban areas, however, debits declined last month from September levels. At annual rates, the declines were 6 per cent for Detroit and Lansing, 9 per cent for Flint, and even larger percentages for Saginaw and Bay City in Michigan. Reduced debits in these areas undoubtedly reflected the impact of the General Motors strike on wage payments and spending according to the report.

Don't Forget The Plumbing

When you check doors, windows and wall plaster for repairs, don't forget the plumbing.

Here are some points to consider, according to the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau.

Do you have any leaky faucets? Are some of your drains sluggish? Is your water closet noisy? Does the water in your shower suddenly turn from scalding to icy cold? Do you often run out of hot water? Is there a hammering or whistling sound when you turn on a faucet? Is your kitchen sink too small and hard to keep clean? Is your basement flooded every time there's a heavy rainfall?

These problems can be corrected, according to the bureau. A leaky faucet, for example, can be repaired or replaced with a modern model.

Modern showerheads come with varied settings that control water flow and there are controls that assure even temperatures. The modern siphon jet water closet is quiet and easy to keep clean. If you often run out of hot water, you probably need a larger water heater of the fast recovery type. A two or three-bowl kitchen sink will multiply its convenience tenfold. A sump pump in your basement will prevent future flooding.

A booklet that tells you how to practice preventive maintenance, how to make repairs yourself and what jobs should be left strictly to experienced plumbing contractors is available for 25 cents and a 6-cent stamp from the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau, 35 East Wacker Drive, Chicago, Ill. 60601.

Institute Urges National Policy

The federal government must play a larger role in the development of new communities through the adoption of a national land use policy, according to Bernard Weissbourd, president of Metropolitan Structures, Inc., Chicago.

Weissbourd spoke at a meeting of the Urban Land Institute (ULI) held recently in Scottsdale, Ariz.

ULI is an independent, non-profit, educational and research organization which studies, interprets and reports new trends in land use and development.

The government must systematically and routinely become involved in building a series of new cities within mass transportation distances of older core cities," said Weissbourd. He said that the new satellite communities must be planned so there is a job market for the residents, at least through access to transportation facilities.

Weissbourd said the government could provide a guaranteed flow of mortgage money, assistance in overcoming zoning and building restrictions, and aid in assembling the necessary tracts of land.

Another speaker, Paul Busse, executive vice president of the Economic Development Council of New York City, Inc., said, "Urban centers are not dying as the core of American industry, education and recreation, as some urbanologists seem to believe. Although they face crucial problems and wracking dislocations, the central cities still contain the heart, brain and nerves of the metropolitan regions which surround them."

He sees the development of urban subcenters or "new downtowns," as one potential answer to this problem. Declining areas would be redeveloped into balanced centers of employment, housing, education, health, and recreation. In fact, buildings would normally contain two or more of these functions, located on different floors.

Edmund N. Bacon, former executive director and development coordinator of the Philadelphia City Planning Commission, was another speaker during the Monday session. Bacon stated that geographically isolated "new towns" have no future and that people are returning to the cities, or at least to satellite communities.

Named Savings, Loan Unit Head

William W. Heise Jr., board chairman of the Palatine Savings and Loan Association, was recently appointed chairman of the Permanent Reserve Associations Committee of the Illinois Savings and Loan League.

Announcement of the appointment was made in Springfield by Joseph F. Proksa, president of the Illinois Savings and Loan League. The league is the statewide trade organization serving over 500 savings and loan associations in Illinois.

The principal purpose of Heise's committee is to act for and make recommendations regarding such activities of permanent reserve associations as pertain to their corporate structure. It also tests recommendations of other committees as to their effect upon permanent reserve associations operations.

Two Promoted By Continental Bank

Two Northwest suburban men, William D. Sullivan of Palatine and Stanley R. Butcher of Hoffman Estates, have been promoted to higher positions at Continental Bank, Chicago.

Sullivan is the new chief operating officer for the bank's personal banking department. A veteran banker, he joined Continental earlier this year as a senior operations staff consultant. He is a graduate of Columbia University and lives at 1449 W. Baldwin Rd.

Butcher, a former Air Force officer, was named manager of the transfer of funds division. He joined Continental in 1969 as a data processing specialist, became a supervisor in that division later that year, and switched to transfer of funds in August of this year. He is a graduate of Montana State University, Bozeman, and received a master's degree from the University of North Dakota.

Butcher and his wife, Barbara, live at 1770-D Robin Walk.

FINANCING OF $2,946,700 on Cardinal Court Apartments at the northwest corner of Laurel and Tonne Road, Elk Grove Village was announced by H. F. Philipson & Co. The project consists of five, three story elevator buildings containing a total of 191 rental units:

99 one-bedroom and 92 two-bedroom, plus bathhouse and pool. Parking facilities are provided. Architects are Schiff and Freides. General Contractor is Fred Teitelbaum Construction Co. Sponsors are Eugene P. Heytrow and Martin L. Gecht.

2 Promoted By Motorola

Deane R. Lyons of Rolling Meadows, has been appointed managing director and Burn Casterline of Des Plaines, has been made industrial director of Byington Motorola Electronics, S.A., the manufacturer and distributor of Motorola's communications products and service in Brazil.

Lyons has been with Motorola for 15 years, and has advanced through a number of management positions. Most recently he was manager, communications control consoles and mobile printer products. Prior to this he was product marketing manager and for seven years he was active in Motorola Communications and Electronics, Inc., the company's domestic sales subsidiary.

Casterline was previously technical operations manager for Motorola's mobile products manufacturing. Having joined Motorola in 1957, Casterline has progressed through a number of engineering positions in the communications division.

Both executives and their families will be relocating shortly to Sao Paulo, Brazil, to assume their new posts.

Honored For 20 Years' Service

George R. Scholten of 1615 N. Kasper Ave., Arlington Heights, western national accounts manager in Chicago for Johnson & Johnson's Health Care Division, has been honored for 20 years of service with the company.

A native of Dora, Iowa, Scholten joined the manufacturer of surgical dressings, baby and medical products as a sales representative in Des Moines, Iowa. He also was assigned territories in Cleveland, Ohio, and Indianapolis and Fort Wayne, Ind., before being transferred to Chicago in 1961.

Scholten has received the company's

Ring Club Award on three occasions for outstanding sales achievements.

Named Account Mgr.

Lyle N. Stenforts of 223 Washington Square, Elk Grove, has been named account manager by Hallmark Cards, Inc.

As an account manager, Stenforts services accounts throughout the Chicago Metro area.

A graduate of Ferris State College, he joined Hallmark in 1968, and has serviced retail accounts in Elgin, Dekalb, Berwyn and Des Plaines.

Earns C.L.U. Degree

Glenview insurance man E. A. "Buck" Weaver has been awarded a Chartered Life Underwriter (C.L.U.) degree by the American College of Life Underwriters at Bryn Mawr, Pa.

To earn his C.L.U. degree, Weaver passed a series of five written examinations covering life and health insurance fundamentals, law, trusts and taxation, finance and economics, and business insurance and estate planning.

A representative of the Larry J. Gordon general agency of Occidental Life of California, he has been associated with the company for two years.

Weaver and his family live at 531 E. Carpenter Dr., Palatine.

Consumers Still Penny-Pinching

Continued economic uncertainty has resulted in substantial efforts by consumers in recent months to bolster their liquidity, with little indication that consumers will begin to spend more freely, according to economists at The Northern Trust Bank, Chicago.

Consumer confidence has been dampened by rising unemployment, inflation, high interest rates and softness in stock prices, they reported.

The bank's November economic newsletter, Business Comment, noted that after the economy began to stumble in mid-1969, the consumer sector began increasing its financial assets. Much of this has shown up in a reduced rate of debt accumulation and in the composition of financial holdings, rather than greater overall acquisition of assets.

An increased interest in savings accounts is one change in the kinds of assets being acquired. Influenced by job uncertainty, higher deposit interest rates, and lower yields on short-and intermediate-term securities, consumers added to their savings accounts at a $16.5 billion seasonally adjusted annual rate during the first half of 1970. This compares with $11.3 billion in 1969.

Consumers also have been a mainstay in the bond markets this year, responding to record long-term interest rates with expansion in their purchases of corporate bonds. Holdings of these bonds grew at a $12 billion annual pace during the first six months of the year, compared with $4.9 billion in 1969.

At the same time, consumers have been cautious in their use of debt this year, according to the report. During the first half, the net increase in household liabilities ran at an $183 billion annual rate, down from $30 billion in 1969.

Home mortgages are by far the largest debt category, and the reduction probably reflects the lack of availability and high cost of mortgage credit, rather than a shrinking in the basic demand for the typical single-family residence, the economists said. Installment credit usage also has fallen sharply, reflecting consumer reluctance to purchase "big-ticket" items.

With incomes continuing to rise strongly and net savings higher, most consumers have managed to meet their debt obligations despite the business slowdown, the report said.

Northern Trust economists feel that there is no indication that higher savings rates and reduced use of credit are assurance that consumers now will begin to spend more freely, as has occurred following recessions in the past.

Murphy Elected Group President

William A. Murphy

William A. Murphy, of Oak Brook, was recently inaugurated as president of the National Employment Association at the NEA annual conference in Miami Beach, Fla.

Murphy is the owner and founder of Murphy Employment Service, Inc., with offices in Mount Prospect and nine other suburban areas. He has been in the private placement business for over 18 years.

Murphy is a past vice president of the Illinois Employment Association, an NEA affiliate, and has served as a member of the NEA governmental affairs committee. He has also served on the NEA ethics committee and has been chairman of this committee for the past two years. Before being elected to his present position, Murphy served as secretary and first vice president of NEA.

Murphy attended Loyola University in Chicago. He has been active in civic affairs as a member of the employment committee of the Mayor's Commission on Human Relations in Chicago and as a member of the Merit Employment Committee of the Chicago Association of Commerce and Industry.

Murphy told the delegates at the National Employment Association Annual Conference that in the coming year he would make an effort to work with the Employment Agents Federation of Great Britain and employment agencies of all free countries to establish an International Federation of Private Employment Agencies. The major purpose of such a federation would be to represent the philosophy and practice of private employment agencies before international bodies, he said.

The National Employment Association is the trade organization for private employment agencies. It was formed in 1960 through a merger of three predecessor organizations whose history dates back to 1900.

There are over 9,000 business firms engaged in the private placement agency business. These firms employ some 45,000 people and are responsible for approximately 4 million permanent placements each year.

Cases Docketed On The Increase

More cases are pending in the federal courts than ever before said Commerce Clearing House (CCH).

Cases pending before U.S. Courts of Appeals at the end of the fiscal 1970 climbed to a high of 8,812 — up 963 from the prior year and marking twelfth straight year of increase.

Appeals in 11,662 cases were docketed in 1970, up 14 per cent from the previous year. That figure marked the second straight year the number of filings passed the 10,000 level. There were 10,609 cases disposed of during the period — a climb of 1,885 cases from 1969, according to the CCH report of court statistics.

This increasing workload in Courts of Appeals assumes added importance with the fact that the number of 1970 filings contrasts sharply with the 3,889 appeals filed in 1960. The number of 1970 terminations was just 440 short of tripling the 3,713 terminations recorded in 1960.

However, CCH noted, the pending case load was just 68 short of quadrupling the 1960 figure of 2,220. The 1970 Appeals Court figure stood at 8,812.

District Court civil case filings leaped by more than 10,000 to 87,321 from the year before. Roughly a third of all such civil filings increases of an entire decade occurred in fiscal 1970.

There were 80,435 civil cases closed — more than 7,000 cases above the number disposed of in 1969 but nearly 7,000 less than the number filed in 1970.

Commendation

Robert C. Schmidt was awarded a Letter of Commendation for his high performance on the 1970 National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test given last February. Schmidt, a student at Elgin Academy, scored in the upper two per cent of students expecting to graduate from high school next spring.

Commended students rank just below the semifinalists announced in September by the National Merit Scholarship Corporation.

Schmidt is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Otis A. Schmidt, 300 Lexington Circle, Palatine.

Commended students' names are reported to certain scholarship-granting agencies and to the college of their choice.

Thus, CCH reported, the number of civil cases pending in District Courts reached the all-time high of 93,207 — a surge of 6,866 from the previous year.

Actions under the federal statutes currently account for 45 per cent of all civil actions in federal district courts, compared to 23 per cent in 1961, CCH reported.

Civil rights, Narcotic Addict and Rehabilitation Act cases and prisoner petitions — both state and federal — account for 27 per cent; prisoner petitions alone now make up 13 per cent. This is in sharp contrast to 1961 when civil rights and prisoner cases together constituted only 5 per cent of all federal civil filings.

During the year, District Courts received 39,008 criminal case filings — up more than 4,400 — and disposed of 36,819 cases — up more than 4,400 — leaving a pending criminal case load of 20,910 — up more than 3,000 from the year-earlier figure.

Once again, the composition of criminal cases filed changed sharply during the year. Of significant note was the leap in prosecutions under the federal weapons and firearms laws. In 1970 there were 1,547 such cases filed, against only 494 in 1969 — a 213 per cent jump.

Homicide case filings were up 39.6 per cent; forgery and counterfeiting case filings rose 24 per cent; larceny and theft rose 17 per cent; embezzlement cases climbed 13 per cent; and immigration cases were up 12 per cent as were Selective Service Act cases, which a year ago recorded an 81 per cent increase from fiscal 1968.

Violations of federal criminal civil rights statutes jumped to 192 filings from 81 in fiscal 1969, but this was well below the record number of 383 civil rights cases recorded in fiscal 1966.

Only three major offense categories showed decreased filings: burglary dropped 13 per cent; violation of liquor laws dropped 4 per cent and auto theft cases dipped by about 1 per cent, CCH reported.

Environmental Effort Cited

The National Association of Home Builders' (NAHB) Institute of Environmental Design has selected Nathan Manilow, builder in Chicago and Miami, Fla., and Laurence S. Rockefeller, New York philanthropist, to be honored for contributing improvements in the environment.

Plaques will be presented to Manilow and Rockefeller before NAHB's Board of Directors during the NAHB's annual Convention-Exposition, January 17-21, in Houston, Texas.

Manilow is a former first vice president of NAHB. He developed and built the suburb of Park Forest. He expanded his apartment building activities from Chicago to Miami, Fla.

Manilow served two years as president and four years as treasurer of the Chicago metropolitan home builders association. He is a lifetime member of the NAHB executive committee. He was chairman of the National Housing Center Committee, which built the NAHB headquarters in Washington. He served as chairman of the center board of trustees.

Rockefeller is the chairman of the Citizen's Advisory Committee on Environmental Quality. The Committee was established by presidential executive order.

Rockefeller also is president-trustee of the Rockefeller Brothers Fund, a philanthropic enterprise which includes environmental improvement in its activities. He also is a Director of Rockefeller Center in New York.

Pagni Purchases Schaumburg Site

Pagni Industrial Corp., has purchased a 32,000 square-foot site at Centex Schaumburg Industrial Park in Schaumburg, according to an announcement by the developers, Bennett & Kahnweiler Associates.

The Pagni organization plans to erect four 5,000 square-foot buildings for lease on the site.

James H. Dana of Bennett & Kahnweiler Associates and Jerry Sigman of Gladstone Realty, Elk Grove Village, were cooperating brokers. The price of the land was $31,200.

Uptrend Halted In Food Prices

Every housewife knows that food prices, the largest item in her budget, have risen sharply in recent years.

Now the uptrend has been halted, at least temporarily, according to the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago in its monthly review, Business Conditions.

Since 1965, prices of food purchased for consumption at home have risen 19 per cent, compared to a rise of 24 per cent for all items in the "cost-of-living" index. In August and September 1970, average prices of food for home use declined about one-half of one per cent. The recent downturn, reflecting mainly increased supplies of meats, fruits, and vegetables, has been reinforced by consumer reluctance to buy high-priced meats and delicacies, the bank states. Nevertheless, no significant decline in food prices is anticipated in the next six to nine months. Crop losses due to corn blight in 1970 will make grain for animal feed expensive. Of much greater importance, transportation, marketing, and processing costs, which account for more than 60 per cent of the food dollar at the retail level, continue to rise at a rapid pace.

Prices of restaurant meals depend heavily on labor costs associated with the preparation and serving of food. Restaurant prices have increased 34 per cent since 1965 — almost twice as much as food for home use. In August and September of this year, when prices at food stores declined, restaurant prices continued to increase.

Demand for food continues strong, not only because of rising incomes, but also because of increases in the number of young people who consume more food than the population as a whole. In addition, pressures are strong to subsidize increased food consumption by poor people, according to the report.

Supplies of most foods will increase again in 1971. It is unlikely, however, that food prices will decline on average. Nevertheless, most families will continue to upgrade their patterns of food consumption, the report concluded.

Industry Marks An Anniversary

The Chicago Journeymen Plumbers' Local Union 130 will mark its 75th anniversary of affiliation with the United Association of Journeymen and Apprentices of the Plumbing and Pipefitting Industry of the United States and Canada on Dec. 5.

More than 5,000 persons are expected to attend an industry-wide celebration being held in Chicago.

The festivities will begin at 6 p.m. in the East Exhibition Hall of the Hilton Hotel where a cocktail party will be held and displays of plumbing innovations from 1895 to the present day will be on exhibit. A dinner dance and entertainment will follow.

The Chicago Journeymen Plumbers' Union will celebrate its centennial in another two years. The first official record of a plumbers' union in Chicago dates back to April 16, 1872.

On Dec. 5, 1895, the union affiliated with the international organization now known as the United Association of Journeymen and Apprentices of the Plumbing and Pipefitting Industry of the United States and Canada.

The union will honor over 1,400 members with 25 years or more of service on Dec. 11.

The union's headquarters building is Plumbers Auditorium at 1340 West Washington Boulevard in Chicago.

Prefab Keeps Down Costs

Prefabrication in home construction is no longer synonymous with inexpensive, mass-produced housing, according to the Centex-Winston Corp. of Palatine.

The company uses prefabrication as a tool to stabilize the costs of their operations. One example is prefabricated truss construction. According to Don Kirk, vice president of operations, accuracy in a factory in the production of these supports is better than on-site custom carpentry.

Centex-Winston Corp. has utilized pre-fab trusses in its developments for 16 years. However, it has only been in the last year that the firm began to manufacture its own trusses using a method initiated and developed by Kirk. At first, the Component Manufacturing Division was confined to providing product solely for Centex-Winston's own homes. The operation was later expanded. The plant at 250 East Algonquin Road in Palatine accepts jobs from area contractors.

According to Kirk, this expansion of the Component Manufacturing Division represents the additional focus the firm is directing to new component building techniques.

The first outside project to use the prefabricated trusses was a three story apartment building in Addison built by the M-K Construction Co. of Addison. The first building in the complex had been built with a conventional flat roof with false mansard roofline added. Although the second building utilized the prefabricated trusses, the appearance is the same from the outside.

Earl Moor, general manager of the manufacturing division, said builders must construct a roof that will carry 45 pounds of weight per square foot plus an additional one-third for short term stress such as snow. Moor stated that prefabricated truss construction is important for a number of reasons. Not only are the resultant roofs essentially cheaper in themselves and the time required to put them up, they are stronger and less liable to leak. They allow for better ventilation and may even carry heating and air-conditioning. And, properly constructed, the roof will stay intact even if all the walls are removed section by section.

"The initial preparation takes time and care," said Moor. "The worksheet, containing the breakdown of the quantity of each length board needed and at what angle (or degree) each must be cut, is like a blueprint. Woodclaw Systems of the book of structural engineering prints contain every feasible truss construction technique. The cutting of the trusses has been simplified because Centex-Winston has built a special component cutting machine. The assembly involves only laying the cut boards in the frame like a jigsaw puzzle. The truss plates are joined to the plates with Woodclaw truss plates."

Centex-Winston is a subsidiary of Centex Corp. of Dallas, Texas. The firm's current projects include: Winston Knolls in Hoffman Estates; Willow Creek and Hunting Ridge in Palatine; Winston Hills in Woodridge; Winston Woods in Bolingbrook; 111 East Chestnut Building in Chicago; and Winston Towers in Miami Beach, Fla.

Local Resident Is Named VP

William C. Finkenstaedt, vice president, Evans Products Co., and assistant general manager, industrial products group, has announced the appointment of John C. Felten of Prospect Heights, as vice president and general manager, railway equipment division.

In his new capacity, Felten will continue as executive vice president and general manager, United States Railway Equipment Co., and will assume divisional responsibility for Chicago Railway

William C. Finkenstaedt

Named Assistant

Robert D. Scanlan has been elected assistant vice president, branch operations, of W. W. Grainger, Inc.

He joined the company eight years ago and was formerly national operations manager.

Scanlan lives with his wife Suzanne and three children at 6 N. Elm Street, Mount Prospect. He is a graduate of DePaul College.

Now in its 43rd year of operation, W. W. Grainger, Inc. is a manufacturer and nationwide distributor of electric motors and related products.

Robert D. Scanlan

Equipment Co. and Fabricast Manufacturing Co.

United States Railway Equipment Co., with manufacturing facilities at Blue Island, and Washington, Ind. is a leading builder, rebuilder, and lessor of railway freight cars. Chicago Railway Equipment Company, 1028 West 46th Street, Chicago, produces "Superior" doors, brake beams and other rail car components. Fabricast Manufacturing Co., Woodstock, is a supplier of weldments and specialty welding technology.

Felten will headquarter at the Industrial Products Group offices at 2200 E. Devon Ave., Des Plaines.

A graduate of the University of Illinois, and a naval lieutenant during the Korean War, Felten joined Evans Products Co. in 1967.

Notice of Public Hearing

In accordance with the provisions of "An Act in relation to the regulation of the rivers, lakes and streams of the State of Illinois" approved June 10, 1931, as amended, a Public Hearing will be held at 100 p.m., C.S.T., December 9, 1970 at the West Park Field House, 661 Wolf Road, Des Plaines, Illinois, to present and receive statements or other information or data relating to a temporary crossing of the Des Plaines River approximately one-half mile north of Central Avenue in the East 1/2 of Section 36, Township 42 North, Range 11 East of the 2nd Meridian and shall be filed not later than 10:00 a.m., December 10, 1970, with the County Clerk of Cook County, Illinois, which was constructed by E. G. Sexton, Sole Beneficiary of Title Holder Trust, 1421 North Monroe Street, River Forest, Illinois 60865.

The temporary crossing has been constructed and a permit issued therefor with the understanding that such crossing shall be removed upon demand of the Department of Public Works and Buildings, but in no event later than March 1, 1971. Complaints have been filed with the Division of Waterways of the Department of Public Works and Buildings in regard thereto.

All interested parties are invited to be present or to be represented at this hearing and will be given an opportunity to be heard in connection therewith. Oral statements will be heard, but for the accuracy of record, all important facts should be submitted in writing.

Sugar 'n Spice

AND EVERYTHING NICE ABOUT FOOD

Gifts from the Kitchen

Christmas is the perfect time to spread holiday cheer among family and friends with something tasty from your kitchen. Easiest to package and wrap as gifts are cookies, fruit cakes and candies.

A handsomely decorated round oats box filled with crunchy, anise-flavored Pfeffer Nusse Nibbles or a tray of Luscious Apricot Tarts and Yuletide Toffee Squares herald warmest season's greetings. For a thoughtful "two in one" gift to someone special, deliver Gala Oatmeal Cookies in a pretty glass container. When the cookies are gone, the glass can be filled with something else to serve as a room brightener.

In keeping with the spirit of Christmas entertaining, these cookies are tasty treats for holiday visitors, too.

Pfeffer Nusse Nibbles

- 1/2 cup butter or margarine
- 2 cups granulated sugar
- 4 eggs
- 1 1/2 teaspoons anise extract
- 4 cups sifted all-purpose flour
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon cardamom
- 2 teaspoons cinnamon
- 1/2 teaspoon cloves
- 1 1/2 cups quick or old-fashioned oats, uncooked
- 1 cup diced mixed candied fruit

Beat butter until creamy; gradually add sugar, beating until fluffy. Add eggs, one at a time; beat well after each addition. Stir in anise extract. Sift together flour, baking powder, salt, cardamom, cinnamon and cloves. Add to creamed mixture; blend well. Stir in oats and candied fruit. Chill at least 1 hour.

Divide dough into 16 parts. Roll each part on floured canvas or tea towel to form a long rope 1/4 inch in diameter. Leaving rolls of dough on canvas or towel, slip an ungreased cookie sheet underneath cloth. Fold cloth over top of rolls to cover loosely. Chill at least 1 hour.

Cut each roll of dough into 1/2-inch pieces. Place on greased cookie sheets close together but not touching. Bake in preheated moderate oven (350 degrees) about 12 to 14 minutes. Remove from cookie sheets and immediately roll in confectioner's sugar. Cool. Store in airtight container. Makes about 14 cups.

Luscious Apricot Tarts

Apricot Filling:

- 1 1/2 cups dried apricots, cut up
- 3/4 cup firmly packed brown sugar
- 2 cups boiling water
- 1/2 cup chopped nutmeats

Tarts:

- 2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
- 1/2 cup granulated sugar
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1 cup butter or margarine
- 1 cup quick or old-fashioned oats, uncooked
- 6 to 8 tablespoons water

For apricot filling, combine apricots and brown sugar in saucepan. Add boiling water. Cover; let stand 10 minutes. Bring to boil. Simmer covered for 10 minutes. Remove cover and continue simmering for 10 minutes. Remove from heat; stir in nutmeats. Cool to lukewarm.

For tarts, sift together flour, sugar and salt into bowl. Cut in butter until mixture resembles coarse crumbs. Stir in oats. Sprinkle water by tablespoonsfuls over mixture until dough can be formed into ball, stirring lightly with fork.

Divide dough into 48 small balls. Place balls in greased miniature muffin cups. Press out balls of dough on bottom and sides of muffin cups to form tart shells. Fill with apricot filling. Bake in preheated moderate oven (350 degrees) 35 to 40 minutes or until tarts are browned and filling is bubbly. Remove from pans; cool. Makes 48 miniature tarts.

Yuletide Toffee Squares

- 1 1/2 cup butter or margarine
- 4 1/2 cups quick or old-fashioned oats, uncooked
- 1 cup firmly packed brown sugar
- 1/2 cup dark corn syrup
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 tablespoon vanilla
- 1 12-oz. package (2 cups) semi-sweet chocolate pieces, melted
- 2/3 cup chopped nutmeats

Melt butter in large saucepan. Remove from heat; stir in oats, brown sugar, corn syrup, salt and vanilla, mixing well. Firmly pack into well-greased 15x10-inch jelly roll pan. Bake in preheated very hot oven (450 degrees) about 12 minutes. (Mixture will be brown and bubbly.) Cool thoroughly.

Loosen edges; invert pan and tap firmly against bread board or cutting board. Spread with chocolate. Sprinkle with nutmeats. Chill; cut into bars. Store in refrigerator. Makes 6 dozen bars.

Gala Oatmeal Cookies

- 1 cup butter or margarine
- 1 cup granulated sugar
- 1 cup firmly packed brown sugar
- 2 eggs
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
- 1 teaspoon soda
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 3 cups quick or old-fashioned oats, uncooked
- 1/2 cup chopped nutmeats
- 1 cup multi-colored candy-coated chocolate candies

Beat butter and sugars together until creamy. Blend in eggs and vanilla. Sift together flour, soda and salt. Add to creamed mixture; blend well. Stir in oats, nutmeats and candies. Drop by teaspoonfuls onto greased cookie sheets. Bake in preheated moderate oven (350 degrees) about 10 to 12 minutes. Makes about 7 dozen.

Gumdrop Cookies: Substitute 1 cup cut-up gumdrops for chocolate candies.

Peanut Cookies: Omit nutmeats. Substitute 1 1/2 cups salted peanuts for chocolate candies.

Coconut Cookies: Substitute 1 cup flaked or shredded coconut for chocolate candies.

Merry Christmas Cut-Outs

- 1 cup butter or margarine
- 3/4 cup granulated sugar
- 1 egg
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 2 3/4 cups sifted all-purpose flour
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 cup quick or old-fashioned oats, uncooked

Beat butter until creamy. Gradually add sugar, beating until fluffy. Add egg beat until light and fluffy. Blend in vanilla. Sift together flour and salt. Add to creamed mixture; blend well. Stir in oats. Chill dough at least 1 hour.

Roll out on lightly floured board or canvas to 1/8-inch thickness. Cut into desired shapes with floured assorted cookie cutters. Place on greased cookie sheets. Bake in preheated moderate oven (350 degrees) about 10 to 12 minutes; cool. Decorate with confectioner's sugar frosting and cookie decorations as desired. Makes about 6 dozen.

Gingerbread Men

- 3 cups sifted all-purpose flour
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon soda
- 3/4 teaspoon cinnamon
- 3/4 teaspoon ginger
- 1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
- 1/2 teaspoon cloves
- 1/4 cup shortening
- 3/4 cup firmly packed brown sugar
- 1 egg
- 2/3 cup dark molasses
- 2 tablespoons water
- 1 1/2 cups quick or old-fashioned oats, uncooked

Sift together flour, salt, soda, cinnamon, ginger, nutmeg and cloves into bowl. Add shortening, brown sugar, egg, molasses and water. Beat until smooth, about 2 minutes. Stir in oats. Chill at least 1 hour.

Roll out on lightly floured board or canvas to 1/8-inch thickness. Cut with floured gingerbread man cutter. Place on greased cookie sheets. Bake in preheated moderate oven (350 degrees) about 10 to 12 minutes; cool. Decorate with confectioner's sugar frosting and cookie decorations as desired. Makes about 3 1/2 dozen.

Tasty Gifts For Friends

With the use of convenience mixes, you can prepare a variety of tasty gifts with little or no effort and much less time than a shopping trip would require. Attractive as they are moist and flavorful, Mincemeat Gift Breads and Cranberry Nut Bread by Pillsbury and Cherry Nut Bread and Banana-Apricot Bread by Bisquick are sure to delight those special friends you find on your holiday lists.

Bake Mincemeat Gift Breads, prepared with date bread mix, in colorful foil muffin cups or in soup cans. When cool, the breads may be glazed or frosted and decorated with candied fruits. Then wrap them in clear cellophane and tie with Christmas greenery and ribbon.

THE CRANBERRY Nut Bread is made with nut bread mix and chopped cranberries with grated orange peel to bring out the flavors. It is excellent served warm or cold.

Cherry Nut Bread is colorful for the holidays. The bright red cherries go well with a gift wrapping of clear plastic tied with a gay wide bow. The Banana-Apricot Bread can be baked in small loaves by dividing the batter equally among six well-greased miniature pans, 4 1/2 x 2 1/2 x 1 1/2 inches. These should be baked at 350 degrees about 35 minutes, cooled and then wrapped in holiday paper.

All three can be made well in advance of the holidays, wrapped in aluminum foil and frozen until the season for giving arrives.

You'll want to keep extras of the gift breads for guests who drop in unexpectedly during the busy season. Just remember to thaw them in the freezer wrap at room temperature for a couple of hours to have on hand for entertaining.

MINCEMEAT GIFT BREADS

1 egg
2/3 cup water
1 package (17 oz.) Pillsbury date bread mix
1/3 cup prepared mincemeat
In large bowl, combine egg and water. Add dry bread mix and prepared mincemeat. Stir 50 to 75 strokes until dry particles are moistened. Turn into 18 regular size paper-lined muffin cups. Bake at 350 degrees for 15 to 20 minutes until toothpick inserted in center comes out clean. Cool. Frost with powdered sugar frosting if desired.

Mincemeat: Date Rounds: Prepare as directed above. Turn into 4 greased and floured soup cans. Bake at 350 degrees for 30 to 35 minutes until toothpick inserted in center comes out clean.

CRANBERRY NUT BREAD

1 egg
1 cup water
1 package (17 oz.) Pillsbury Nut Bread Mix
1 cup chopped cranberries
1 teaspoon grated orange peel
In large bowl, combine egg and water. Add dry bread mix and stir 50 to 75 strokes until dry particles are moistened. Stir in cranberries and orange peel. Turn into 9x5-inch loaf pan or 1 1/2-quart fancy mold which has been greased and floured on bottom only.

Bake at 350 degrees for 50 to 60 minutes until toothpick inserted in center comes out clean. Cool 10 minutes; remove from pan. Cool completely.

CHERRY NUT BREAD

1/2 cup sugar
1 egg
1 1/4 cups milk
3 cups Bisquick
1 cup candied cherries, sliced
3/4 cup chopped Brazil nuts or other nuts
Heat oven to 350 degrees. Grease loaf pan, 9x5x3 inches. Mix sugar, egg, milk and Bisquick; beat vigorously 30 seconds. Stir in cherries and nuts. Pour into prepared pan. Bake 50 to 60 minutes or until wooden pick inserted in center comes out clean. Crack in top is characteristic. Cool and wrap in aluminum foil. Store one day before slicing.

BANANA-APRICOT BREAD

1/2 cup sugar
1 egg
1/2 cup milk
1 cup mashed bananas (2 to 3)
3/4 cup chopped nuts
3/4 cup chopped dried apricots
Heat oven to 350 degrees. Grease loaf pan, 9x5x3 inches for one large loaf. Mix Bisquick, sugar, egg, milk and bananas. Beat vigorously 30 seconds. Stir in nuts and apricots. Pour into prepared pan. Bake 55 to 60 minutes or until wooden pick inserted in center comes out clean.

What's Thawing For Dinner?

Baked Christmas Presents

by CHARLOTTE ERICKSON

December is usually a month of many additional expenses. Aside from the usual buying there is the added expense of cards, postage, food and beverages for entertaining guests, etc. All in all, it can be quite a strain on the family budget. Home made gifts can cut these expenses considerably. Home made candies, cakes, breads and cookies are always well received. A truly personal gift. The following are some recipes you may wish to use with this in mind. Be sure to keep enough for yourself to have on hand when guests start calling.

STOLLEN

(German Christmas Bread)
There are many variations to this recipe, each family having their own favorite. Some are made with baking powder and others with yeast. This is a very simple yet delicious version of it. A marvelous idea for Christmas giving. Single recipe yields 5 stollen.
4 eggs plus 2 egg yolks

1 1/2 cups milk or evaporated milk
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup butter or half butter and half margarine grated rind and juice of 1 lemon
1/2 teaspoon ground cardamom
1 teaspoon mace
2 packages dry yeast
7 cups sifted flour (approximately)
1 cup mixed candied fruit
1 cup cherries, cut in half
1/2 cup dark raisins
1/2 cup light raisins
1/2 cup currants
1/2 cup pecans
1/2 cup almonds, slivered

Have eggs at room temperature or they will cool the dough too much. If you're going to start baking early in the morning leave the eggs at room temperature overnight. You won't need to do this with the yolks. Remember, always separate your eggs while they're cold.
Scald milk and cool it. Add salt, sugar, butter, grated lemon rind, juice and spices. When milk mixture has cooled to the proper temperature (105 to 115 degrees) add yeast and let it stand for 5 minutes. Beat eggs and add. Add flour 1 cup at a time. When the dough starts pulling away from the sides of the bowl add fruit and nuts. Mix well and roll into a ball. Put into a large container that has been liberally greased. Cover with waxed paper and let rise until double in volume. Punch down and divide dough into five equal parts. Generously grease cookie sheets or baking pans needed for baking stollen. (Two stollen will usually fit on one large baking sheet.) Pat dough down flat in a semi-circle approximately 22 inches across. Take straight side and double over about two-thirds of the way. The stollen has a rather flat appearance with part of it doubled. Let raise for about 1 hour or until dough has almost doubled in volume. Bake in a preheated 375 degree oven for about 20 minutes or until nicely browned. Cool and glaze with a lemon confectioners glaze, which is made by combining powdered sugar with lemon juice.

HOLIDAY FRUIT GEMS

These are actually miniature fruit cakes in fluted paper cups.

Single recipe yields 4 1/2 dozen.
1/2 cup brown sugar
1/4 cup butter or margarine
2 eggs
1 1/2 cups sifted flour
1 1/2 teaspoons soda
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
1/4 teaspoon cloves
1/2 cup Cointreau, Grand Marnier, bourbon or orange juice
1/2 pound chopped candied fruit
1 pound pecan halves
1 pound candied cherries, halved or quartered

Cream butter and sugar until light and fluffy, about 3 to 5 minutes. Add eggs, mixing until well blended. Now add soda, cinnamon, nutmeg and cloves, again mixing until well blended. Alternately add liquor or orange juice with flour. When well mixed add chopped fruit and nuts. Line tiny muffin pans (1 1/2 inches in diameter and 3/4-inch deep) with tiny fluted paper cups. Press mixture into cups. Top each with a tiny piece of candied cherry or candied pineapple, pecan half or slivered almond. Bake at 300 degrees for about 30 minutes or until browned. Store in air-tight container, separating layers with plastic wrap. Baste occasionally with Grand Marnier, Cointreau or bourbon, using your baster or a teaspoon.

VIENNA SLICES

These three layer slices deliciously combine the flavor of ground almonds and raspberry on a buttery crust.

Single recipe yields approximately 60 1 by 1 1/2-inch slices.
3 cups sifted flour
1 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup sugar
1 cup butter
6 eggs, separated
3 tablespoons milk
1 1/2 teaspoon lemon extract
2 14-ounce containers raspberry pastry filling
3/4 cup sugar
2 cups ground almonds
Preheat oven to 350 degrees. In your mixing bowl combine flour, baking powder, salt and sugar. Mix well. With a sharp knife slice the butter into the mixing bowl. With mixer turned on low speed cut butter into flour until mixture has the texture of coarse meal. Combine egg yolks with milk and lemon extract. Add liquid ingredients to the dry ingredients and mix thoroughly. Press into the bottom and up the sides about 1/4 inch of an 11 x 17-inch baking pan. Spread raspberry filling evenly over crust. In a separate bowl beat egg whites until stiff. Gradually add remaining 3/4 cup sugar. Gently fold in nuts and pile lightly over top of raspberry layer. Bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes. Cool completely before cutting into squares.

Give A Cheese Potpourri

Leave a clever — and edible — calling card behind when you pay Christmas visits this year. Your "Holiday Potpourri" gift is a tangy blend of cheeses and spices, which you quick-mix yourself.

Pack your cheese spread in colorful "crock" — which you can decorate using plastic containers (such as those in which cottage cheese, ice cream, or process cheese spreads are sold).

Crocks can be covered with stick-on paper or regular Christmas paper attached with rubber cement or tape. For a freely opening lid: be sure to tuck the upper edge of the cover fabric up under the "lip" of the container. On lid exterior, cover only the product label, leaving lid sides unencumbered. Decorate with Christmas notions.

For a usable handle, loop ribbon under container (before covering) then tie in a bow on top. Or, simply stripe your container with bright holiday packaging tapes.

HOLIDAY POTPOURRI

Mix together one part American blue cheese, crumbled, to three parts grated cheddar. For each cup of cheese used, add any or all of these ingredients: a dash of salt; ¼ tsp. each of dry mustard and Worcestershire sauce; and 1 tsp. each of butter, minced onion, and cracked pepper (optional). Slowly blend in buttermilk until mixture reaches the consistency of soft cheese spreads.

Kitchen Magic

LEFTOVER turkey still have you stumped? Here's a suppertime sandwich that includes all Basic Four in one main dish. Prepare a medium white sauce adding 1 cup shredded Cheddar cheese per cup of milk. Keep warm. Cook one 10-ounce package of frozen broccoli or asparagus spears, drain. Drain 2-ounce can of mushrooms. Butter 4 slices of toast. Stack the ingredients on a baking sheet or jelly roll pan starting with toast, asparagus, sliced turkey, and mushrooms. Spoon over ¼ cup cheese sauce on each sandwich. Broil 3-5 minutes or until bubbly. Sprinkle with chopped parsley or paprika. Makes 4 servings.

either into refrigerator trays, individual chilled molds or a one-quart mold.

BRING ALONG holiday gifts from your kitchen when visiting friends. A glass of wine jelly, fruit compote marinated in rose wine or a wine-spiked fruit cake say "Happy Holidays" in a very special way.

AVOID FUSS and mess by baking meatballs on a baking sheet with sides or a broiler pan in a 350 to 375-degree oven for 15 to 25 minutes. The time depends on the size, ingredients, etc. Proceed as required for recipe.

SAVE SALTY, seasoned crumbs from snack foods such as crackers, chips, peanuts, etc., and add to meatloaf for a change.

AMMONIA, vinegar and soda in any number of combinations are still the cheapest and best general household cleaners.

Mrs. Donald Brown
Arlington Heights

MEATS MAY be tenderized by marinating in wine one or two hours before cooking. The wine-meat dish may be cooked in aluminum pans without affecting the flavor, however it should be marinated in a glass, porcelain or stainless steel container.

If you have a kitchen hint you would like to share, send it to Kitchen Magic, Box 280, Paddock Publications, Arlington Heights, Ill., 60005.

Saving Is An Everyday Thing At...

We Invite Comparison Any Day-Any Time . . .

Why Should You Let A Store Tell You When To Shop?

Why indeed? If you could actually save money to any worthwhile extent, it might be worth it to plan your shopping trips according to some supermarket's "effective dates." But the trouble is, those "effective dates" apply to comparatively few of the items an average shopper buys, and the "specials" they refer to don't add up to the kind of savings Eagle offers every day. To put it another way, you may be inconveniencing yourself to shop during the store's "effective dates," and end up saving only a few cents for your trouble. Whereas, by shopping Eagle you can take home considerable savings on your weekly food bill, and you'll get those savings no matter when you shop. Savings are an everyday thing at Eagle, which is what makes us more "special" than the stores that offer "specials" — Monday through Wednesday or weekends only."

WESTERN FRUIT CAKE is for people who like lots of fruits and just enough batter to hold the cake together. This cake doesn't need to be aged; it cuts well and has a wonderful flavor right from the start. However, storage in sherry or brandy will enhance the natural flavor.

A Cake For Fruit Lovers

If you like the kind of fruit cake that's loaded with fruit and nuts with just enough cake batter to hold everything together — then you'll love this Western Fruit Cake. It's made with lots of western grown fruits, including California's golden dried figs and Oregon and Washington's filberts.

This cake doesn't need to be aged; it cuts well and has a wonderful flavor right from the start. However, if you want to store it, wrap it in cheesecloth soaked in sherry or brandy, then in plastic or foil. Keep it in a cool place and resoak the cloth wrapping about once a week.

WESTERN FRUIT CAKE

- 1 cup butter or margarine
- 1 cup sugar
- 4 eggs
- 2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
- 1½ teaspoons baking powder
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1 can (8½ ounces) crushed pineapple
- 2 cups mixed candied fruits (about 16 ounces)
- 1½ cups diced California dried figs (about 12 ounces)
- 1 cup white raisins

- 1 cup red glace cherries (about 8 ounces)
- 2 cups toasted* filberts, coarsely chopped

Cream butter with sugar until light and fluffy. Add eggs, one at a time, beating well after each addition. Sift together 1-2/3 cups of the flour, baking powder and salt. Drain pineapple, reserving syrup. Mix together drained pineapple and other fruits, the filberts and remaining 1/3 cup flour. Stir sifted ingredients into creamed mixture alternately with pineapple syrup; fold into floured fruit mixture. Turn into 9-inch springform or 10-inch tube pan which has been lined with a double thickness of greased, browned paper. Bake in 300 degree oven 2½ hours or until cake tests done. Cook 30 minutes; remove from pan and cool thoroughly. If it is to be stored, wrap cake tightly. If desired, before serving top with a glaze made with confectioners sugar and pineapple juice or brandy.

Makes 9-inch round or 10-inch tube cake.
*Spread filberts in shallow pan and bake in 400 degree oven 10 to 15 minutes, stirring occasionally.

Raisin Candle Cakes Light Holiday Spirit

For the twelve days of Christmas greet your family and guests with softly lit candles. From the California Raisin Advisory Board comes this sparkling new idea in fruit cakes — Raisin Candle Cakes. Frosted, lavishly decorated and mounted on pretty candlesticks, they're real for their role as a gift-to-eat and a gift-to-keep remembrance. Use them too, as the centerpiece for a festive dinner, clustered with real candles and fragrant holiday greens. Come time for dessert, slice and serve as the sweet ending for the sumptuous repast.

California raisins — golden, natural and puffy seeded muscats — join flavors with a galaxy of spices and colorful candied fruits in the rum fruit cake batter. The same combination of fruits also goes into the recipe for the traditional holiday yeast breads. In either case, for the candle look, use tin cans as baking pans. A bottle cork inserted in the batter or dough of each is replaced after baking by a small section of candle.

To give the raisin cakes and breads a frosty or dripped candle look, spread on a thick powdered sugar frosting with your fingertips. Then glitter them with glazed red and green cherries, pineapple and plump California raisins for the trimmings.

RAISIN CANDLE CAKES

- ¾ cups dark seedless raisins
  - 1½ cups golden seedless raisins
  - 1½ cups seeded muscat raisins
  - 2/3 cup sliced dates
  - 2 2/3 cups red candied cherries
  - 2 cups mixed candied fruits
  - 1½ cups diced green candied pineapple
  - ½ cup dark rum
  - ¾ teaspoon grated lemon peel
  - 1½ teaspoons grated orange peel
  - 4 teaspoons lemon juice
  - 3 tablespoons orange juice
  - 1 teaspoon EACH cinnamon, nutmeg, allspice and cloves
  - 1½ cups brown sugar (packed)
  - 1 cup butter
  - 6 eggs
  - ½ teaspoon EACH vanilla and almond extract
  - 2 cups sifted flour
  - 1 teaspoon salt
  - 1½ cups blanched almond halves
- Combine raisins, dates, candied fruits, rum, peels, juices and spices. Mix well. Let stand several hours or overnight, stirring occasionally. Beat together sugar, butter, egg yolks and flavorings. Add flour and salt, mixing until smooth. Beat egg whites until stiff. Fold into batter. Add almonds to raisin mixture and carefully fold in batter. Spoon into well greased cans with bottoms lined with circles of foil or greased brown paper.* Bake in very slow oven (275 degrees) 1½ to 3 hours depending on size of cake, until cakes test done. Let stand 15 to 20 minutes; loosen edges with small spatula. Cut bottom from cans and gently push out cake. Cool on rack, then wrap in foil or saran. Frost and decorate before serving. Makes about 7½ pounds fruit cake — one cake baked in each of the cans listed below plus one additional cake baked in a pound shortening or a No. 303 can.

9¼-ounce tuna can size, 1 cup batter, 1½ to 1¾ hours baking time
1 pound shortening can size, 2½ cups batter, 2½ to 3½ hours baking time
No. 303 (16-ounce) can size, 1 2/3 cups batter, 2½ to 3½ hours baking time
1 pound coffee can size, 3½ cups batter, 2½ to 3 hours baking time
1 quart juice can size, 3½ cups batter, 2½ to 3 hours baking time

*Candle Holder Cakes: Insert household bottle cork in center of batter. Remove after baking.

FROSTING AND DECORATING: Use a thick powdered sugar and water frosting and spread on cakes with fingertips to give frosty or dripped candle look. Insert short section of candle in hole. Decorate tops of cakes as desired with raisins, candied fruits and marzipan. Brush with corn syrup which has been heated to boiling.

HOLIDAY RAISIN BREAD

- 1 package or cake yeast, active dry or compressed
- ¾ cup warm water (105 to 115 degrees)
- ¾ cup milk
- ½ cup sugar
- ¾ cup butter
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 3 eggs
- ½ teaspoon anise extract (optional)
- 4 cups sifted flour
- 1½ cups California seedless raisins
- 1/3 cup quartered candied cherries
- 1/3 cup diced candied orange peel

Sprinkle or crumble yeast into warm water in small warm bowl; stir until dissolved. Scald milk, then cool to lukewarm. Beat together sugar, butter and salt. Beat in eggs, one at a time (mixture may look curdled). Add yeast, milk and anise extract. Add about half of flour, mixing until smooth. Stir in raisins and candied fruits, then remaining flour, mixing to a soft dough. Cover and let rise in warm place 1½ to 2 hours until doubled in volume. Stir down. Divide dough among greased cans, filling about half full. Dough will be sufficient for a 1-pound coffee can, a 1-pound shortening can, a 1-pound 4¼-ounce fruit can and a 9-ounce tuna can. Let rise in warm place about 1 hour until doubled. Bake on lowest rack of moderately hot oven (375 degrees) 25 minutes for smaller cans, 30 to 35 minutes for larger ones. Cover tops of loaves loosely with foil after 10 to 15 minutes to prevent overbrowning. Let stand 5 minutes, then turn out onto rack to cool. Makes 1 large and 3 smaller loaves.

An Unusual Gift: Time

Time is the homemaker's most valued commodity during the holiday season. Give your very best friends a "gift of time" this season and simultaneously, conserve your valued holiday hours.

You probably spend 5-10 hours during the long season preparing confections and other refreshments — and so do your friends. Why not take on the entire task yourself and eliminate the duplicated effort, duplicated ingredients?

Just spend a day preparing freezer-safe holiday gifts for your family and as Christmas gifts for your friends.

A PRE-HOLIDAY visit from you, with freezer-ready victuals in hand, will delight your friends — for your gift means extra time for shopping, visiting, and entertaining.

The "gift of time" is a money-saver too. Raw ingredients for a sumptuous platter might gift five families for under $20.

A well-rounded platter could feature this special, freezer-safe Holiday Cheese Log — an attractive focal point for table settings, highly nourishing, and with volume for the multitudes.

The platter might also include frozen batter for peanut butter, chocolate chip, and fruit cookies. You mix and roll batter — and it's ready for the recipient to pop into the oven when fresh-baked cookies are in demand. Also furnish home-baked brownies and date bars for freezing.

YOU MAY WANT to include an extra packet of garnishings, such as candy orange slices, cherries, extra nuts for the cheese log, and leftover whole parsley.

To assemble the freezer package: Cover paper platters in aluminum foil, using two for added strength. Wrap each food item individually in airtight cellophane. Arrange packets on platter and wrap the entire lot in aluminum foil. Be sure to seal tightly.

Crown your achievement by providing a sampler plate for delivery along with the freezer package. Wrap a ready-to-eat assortment and a note: "A gift of time for spending on yourself. Happy kitchenless holidays!" (Then list contents of freezer package and yield per item.)

HOLIDAY CHEESE LOG

- 1 cup American blue cheese (about 5¼ oz., crumbled)
- 1 cup grated cheddar cheese (about ¼ lb.)
- 1 8-ounce package cream cheese
- 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
- 2 tablespoons grated onion
- ½ cup chopped walnuts
- ¼ cup minced parsley

Have cheese at room temperature. Blend well with Worcestershire and onion. Chill. Form into log on waxed paper, wrap and chill. Score with fork tines for "bark" effect, then roll in mixture of chopped nuts and minced parsley.

Cookies That Add Christmas Spirit

Imagine, cookies as gay and sparkling as a tinseled Christmas tree! Regal fruit jellies, candied fruits and nuts make these sweet tooth favorites come to life — right in your very own kitchen.

Jewelled Thumbprints and Butter Rum Cheese Bars are gaily decorated holiday cookies that can be made as fast and as effortlessly as they disappear. The short cut secret — refrigerated slice and bake cookie dough from the grocer's case.

For a bar cookie that's pretty to look at and even better to eat, try Butter Rum Cheese Bars. These feature a creamy cheese cake layer which bakes atop refrigerated butterscotch nut cookies. Before serving, cut into squares, triangles, or diamonds and add a special decorative touch to suit the occasion.

An up-dated version of a traditional favorite, Jewelled Thumbprints promise sure success with family and friends. To make, refrigerated sugar cookie dough is rolled in butter and nuts. While still warm from the oven, center with sparkling red or green jellies.

After the holidays are over, you'll want to keep these recipes close at hand. Both promise to become cookie favorites at home and for special occasions throughout the year.

JEWELLED THUMBPRINTS
1 roll refrigerated butterscotch nut, peanut butter, or slice-and-bake sugar cookies
1/4 cup butter, melted
2 cups chopped pecans

Red or green jelly
Slice cookie dough into 1/8-inch thick slices. Roll each into a ball. Dip in butter; roll in chopped nuts. Place on ungreased cookie sheet. Bake at 375 degrees for 10 to 12 minutes until golden brown. (Cookies will be puffy when removed from the oven.)

Remove from oven; indent the center of each warm cookie with thumb. Place 1/4 to 1/2 teaspoon jelly in each center. Cool; loosen with spatula.
Makes about 48 cookies.

BUTTER RUM CHEESE BARS
1 roll refrigerated slice-and-bake cookies
1/2 cup sugar
1 package (8 oz.) cream cheese, softened
1 egg
1/2 to 1 teaspoon rum flavoring
Slice cookie dough 1/4-inch thick; place in bottom of greased 8 or 9-inch square pan. Bake at 375 degrees for 15 to 20 minutes until lightly browned. (Cookies will be puffy when removed from oven.) Cool slightly.

In small mixer bowl cream sugar and cheese. Add egg and flavoring and beat until smooth. Pour cheese mixture over baked cookie base and return to 375 degrees oven for 20 to 25 minutes. Cool slightly; refrigerate at least one hour. Cut into 20 bars and decorate as desired with nuts, candied fruits, or decorator frosting.
Yields about 20 bars.

Baking Can Be Simple

Carollers on a crisp, frosty evening are traditional heralds of good will and thoughtfulness. For such an occasion, return their gesture with a plate of cookies kept close to the front door.

Rocky Road Bars will win you encores with the younger set (and other chocolate lovers, too). With just three ingredients — refrigerated chocolate chip cookies, fudge walnut frosting mix, and miniature marshmallows — you'll make a cookie that is in full keeping with Yuletide sugarplums.

Toasted Sugar Macaroons are another welcome "mitten food." These chewy snowballs, made with refrigerated sugar cookies, double as a base for decorative goodies — a glistening cherry or a perky chocolate kiss.

Remember this twosome for special treats throughout the year. Quick and easy, they'll be all-time favorites.

TOASTED SUGAR MACAROONS

Slice 1 roll refrigerated slice-and-bake sugar cookies 1/4-inch thick. Cut each slice into four quarters. Roll each into a ball and press into 1 1/2 cups cookie coconut. Place on ungreased cookie sheet and bake at 375 degrees for 10 minutes or until coconut is lightly browned. Remove from oven and immediately garnish the center of each with candied fruits, colorful jellies, or chocolate kisses. Cool completely.
Yields about 48 cookies.

Tip: To tint coconut, add 1 drop of desired color to coconut. Cover container and shake well.

ROCKY ROAD SQUARES

1 roll refrigerated slice-and-bake chocolate chip cookies
1 13 oz. package walnut fudge buttercream frosting mix
1 cup miniature marshmallows
Slice cookie dough 1/4-inch thick and place slices in bottom of greased 8 or 9-inch square pan. Bake at 375 degrees for 20 to 25 minutes or until lightly brown. (Cookies will be puffy when removed from oven.) Cool slightly.
Prepare cooked version of frosting as directed on package. Fold in marshmallows and spread over cookie base. Allow cookies to set for at least one hour. Cut into 36 squares.

Wine Hints

For the festive holiday season, wine is an indispensable ingredient for meals and entertaining. Added to the punch bowl, used to baste the holiday turkey, or combined in tasty appetizers for open houses, wine adds that extra special touch.

Here are some holiday hints on cooking with wine.

Greet your guests with a festive, traditional glass of chilled Champagne when they drop in during the holidays. Keep a bottle or two in the refrigerator to make sure you have plenty on hand.

For a quick, easy dessert, serve a raspberry-wine sauce over ice cream. To make the sauce, combine in a blender and whip until smooth: 1 package thawed frozen raspberries, 1/2 cup Sauterne, 1/2 cup water and 1/2 cup sugar. Store in a covered container in the refrigerator.

Spirit Of Christmas Fills Robb Household

by LOIS SEILER

The spirit of Christmas flourishes in the Stewart D. Robb home at 516 S. Walnut, Arlington Heights, where holiday goodies are baked in abundance, decorations are tastefully arranged, and a festive open house is an annual tradition.

Friends and neighbors are greeted warmly by genial Marilyn and Stew Robb, whose gracious hospitality creates an atmosphere of conviviality. And Marilyn enjoys her parties as much as her guests, as all of the work is done in advance.

She begins preparations at least a week before, freezing whatever she can. Other foods that cannot be frozen are made a day or two ahead.

As a setting for her appealing array of appetizers, Marilyn dresses her table with a colorful cloth made especially for the occasion. It has a floor-length shirred underskirt of unbleached muslin topped by a red cloth which is gathered in swags at the center and sides and trimmed with green velvet bows.

The soft glow of candlelight enhances this lovely buffet which features an extensive array of hot and cold canapés, chafing dishes filled with meat balls and cocktail sausages in a barbecue sauce, a relish tray, heaps of fresh shrimp, a cheese ball, cheese dip and deviled eggs. Punch is served from a sparkling cut glass bowl which belonged to her grandmother.

When guests have had their fill of hors d'oeuvres, they can satisfy their sweet tooth with a tempting assortment of homemade delicacies.

This good cook's confections are exceptional, both in appearance and flavor. She begins right after Thanksgiving, baking about a dozen varieties of cookies and making at least four different types of candy.

"I RELY UPON my freezer to keep them fresh for the holidays," Marilyn said.

She usually makes double batches of everything, insuring an ample supply for her family, her party and for gifts.

One of her specialties is shortbread, made by a method she learned from Stew's Scottish mother. As excellent as her shortbread is, she demonstrates that it can't compare with her mother-in-law's.

"She has a knack for kneading in just the right amount of flour," Marilyn said.

Although experience may be an asset, the shortbread can be prepared by the novice with pleasing results.

Marilyn advised: "Use just enough flour to make the dough stiff enough to handle. If too much is added, the dough will get tough."

She bakes the shortbread in finger-size pieces, which is the authentic Scottish way, or the dough may be cut in pie-shaped wedges. It is crispy in texture with a rich, buttery flavor.

"It is served all year 'round in Scottish homes," Marilyn explained. "Whenever anyone drops in, the teapot comes out, along with a plate of shortbread or scones that are always on hand."

She also makes delightful English cookies from a recipe which belonged to her mother.

"These are spicy, cake-like cookies which resemble gingerbread," Marilyn remarked. "They are flavored with cold coffee, spices, raisins and nuts."

The batter is baked in a jelly roll pan, iced with a confectioners' sugar frosting and cut in squares to serve.

Her father, Owen Baker, who lives with the Robb family, often assists Marilyn with her Christmas candy, and is as skilled as his daughter in making peanut brittle, caramels, sponge candy and penuche fudge.

A candy thermometer must be used for all recipes other than the penuche. There is no trick to this yummy fudge, and even the inexperienced cook can achieve perfection.

THE CARAMELS are rich and creamy. Marilyn wraps each one individually in waxed paper and freezes them until ready to use. The penuche fudge also freezes well.

However, the sponge candy is best eaten fresh or within a day or two after it is made. This is an old-fashioned confection with a sponge-like airy texture that children especially enjoy. It is a great favorite of her sons, Jimmy, 10, John, 15, and Brian, 18, who is a freshman at Drake University.

Along with being a talented cook, personable Marilyn is also accomplished in all types of needlework, specializing in samplers. During the summer months gardening is her biggest hobby, and she also plays both the piano and organ and enjoys collecting antique china and glassware to use as accent pieces around her home.

SHORTBREAD

1 pound butter or margarine
1 1/4 cups sugar
2 egg yolks
5 to 5 1/2 cups flour

Cream butter. Add sugar and cream thoroughly. Add the egg yolks, mixing well. Beat in 3 cups of the flour.

Remove dough to a floured board and knead in the remaining 2 to 2 1/2 cups flour until dough is stiff enough to handle. Do not use too much flour or dough will get tough. Knead dough thoroughly.

Press out on board to 1/4-inch thickness. Cut in finger-size pieces, 1 by 2-inches, or in small pie-shaped wedges. Prick each piece two or three times with a fork.

Place on cookie sheets which have been lined with waxed paper and bake at 300 degrees for 35 to 40 minutes. Yield: 4 to 5 dozen.

ENGLISH COOKIES

3/4 cup Crisco
2 cups brown sugar
2 whole eggs
3 cups sifted flour
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon baking powder
2 teaspoons cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon allspice
1/4 teaspoon cloves
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 cup cold coffee
1/2 box raisins
1/2 cup chopped English walnuts

Cream Crisco and brown sugar together thoroughly. Add eggs and beat well.

Sift flour, baking soda, baking powder, spices and salt together. Add to batter alternately with the cold coffee. Mix in raisins and chopped nuts.

Spread dough into a greased jelly roll pan and bake 20 to 25 minutes at 350 degrees.

Remove from oven and spread immediately with a frosting made from 1/2 box of confectioners' sugar and just enough milk to make a thin icing. Cut in squares to serve.

CARAMELS

2 cups granulated sugar
2 cups white corn syrup
1/2 cup butter
2 cups evaporated milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup chopped nuts

In a heavy pan, boil the sugar and corn syrup together, stirring occasionally, to 245 degrees on candy thermometer. This is a very thick syrup. Add butter and then milk gradually so that the mixture does not stop boiling at any time. Stir frequently and cook rapidly to the firm ball stage, 250 degrees. The mixture is very thick and sticks easily at the last. Add vanilla and nuts and pour into a well-buttered 9 by 9-inch pan. Score immediately.

Cool thoroughly before cutting. Cut with heavy, sharp knife. Wrap each piece in waxed paper. Yield: 2 1/2 pounds caramels.

SPONGE CANDY

1 cup white sugar
1 cup dark corn syrup
1 tablespoon vinegar
1 heaping tablespoon baking soda
Combine sugar, syrup and vinegar in a heavy pan. Cook over medium heat, stirring until sugar dissolves. Continue cooking, without stirring, until 300 degrees or brittle in cold water.

Remove from heat. Stir in baking soda and mix well. Pour into greased 9 by 9-inch pan. Do not spread as it will spread itself. Cool and break into pieces.

PENUCHE FUDGE

2 cups light brown sugar, firmly packed
1 cup granulated sugar
1 cup evaporated milk
1/2 cup butter
1 5 to 10-ounce jar Marshmallow Creme or Fluff
1 12-ounce package butterscotch bits
1 cup chopped nuts
1 teaspoon vanilla

Combine in a saucepan the sugars, milk and butter. Bring to a full boil over moderate heat, stirring frequently. Boil for 15 minutes, stirring occasionally.

Remove from heat and stir in marshmallow creme and butterscotch bits. Add vanilla and chopped nuts. Turn into a 9 by 9-inch pan and let set. Yield: 2 1/2 pounds.

THE SOFT GLOW of candlelight enhances Marilyn Robb's festive buffet. It features an extensive array of hot and cold canapés, chafing dishes filled with meatballs and cocktail sausages in a barbecue sauce, a relish tray, heaps of fresh shrimp, a cheese ball, cheese dip and deviled eggs. Punch is served from a sparkling cut glass bowl which belonged to Marilyn's grandmother.

A Festive Cup Of Cheer

Bring hither the bowl,
The brimming brown bowl,
And quaff the rich juice right merrily;
Let the wine-cup go around,
Till the solid ground,
Shall quake at the noise of our revelrie.

That's the way to celebrate a joyous holiday! For a toast of friendship at Christmas, there's no better drink than the ancient Wassail Bowl — rich in history, flavorful with sugar and spice and everything nice.

Today's version makes use of the essential classic ingredients as well as some modern components. It's non-alcoholic so the youngsters also can enjoy a brimming cup. The drink combines spiced hot cider with orange juice and a float of baked apples, stuffed with brown sugar and studded with whole cloves.

Eggnog also has been a holiday favorite since ancient time and we have a splendid new cooked version, as rich and creamy as one could wish. This version makes 3 1/2 quarts, requires eight eggs, milk, whipped cream and sugar. Since sugar is man's most pleasurable food, any dish or drink that's sweet always tastes wonderful. And during the busy Christmas season, a cup of eggnog, in addition to its delectable taste, provides you with a welcome energy boost. The mixture is cooked in the top of a double boiler and then chilled. Laced with brandy, if you choose, and sprinkle with grated nutmeg.

Traditional Christmas drinks from other lands are always fun for Christmas parties. One of the most ancient and most delicious is Swedish Glogg. It's a spiced hot wine, served forth in most dramatic fashion. Heat wine and vermouth with raisins, spices, and the peel of one orange cut in one whole curlicue. Place sugar cubes in the serving bowl, pour warmed aquavit over the sugar cubes and ignite. While the liquor is flaming, add the hot mulled wine and whole blanched almonds.

And there you have a trio of the world's most beloved Christmas drinks — any of which will add cheer to your holiday entertaining.

WASSAIL BOWL

8 small baking apples
1/2 cup packed brown sugar
Whole cloves
3 quarts apple cider
1 can (6 ounces) frozen orange juice concentrate, thawed, undiluted
1 tablespoon grated lemon rind
2 sticks cinnamon
2 whole nutmegs
4 whole allspice

Core apples and cut thin strip of peel from around middle. Fill cavities with brown sugar; place in shallow baking pan and bake in 350 degree oven 30 to 45 minutes, until tender but still firm. Remove from oven and stud apples with whole cloves.

In kettle, combine apple cider with undiluted orange juice concentrate and remaining ingredients. Simmer, covered, 20 to 25 minutes. To serve, place baked apples in bottom of heat-proof punch bowl. Add hot cider mixture. Makes about 13 cups, plus apples.

CLUSTARD EGGNOG

8 eggs, separated
1/2 cup sugar, divided
1 quart milk
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 cup heavy cream, whipped
1/2 cup brandy or 2 teaspoons vanilla

Freshly grated nutmeg

Beat egg yolks with 1/4 cup sugar in top of double boiler or in heavy saucepan. Stir in milk; add salt. Cook over simmering water or very low direct heat, stirring constantly, until custard thickens and will coat a metal spoon. Remove from heat; chill. Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry; gradually beat in remaining 1/4 cup sugar and beat until very stiff. Fold into chilled custard; fold in whipped cream. Add brandy or vanilla. Chill for several hours. To serve, pour into chilled punch bowl and sprinkle with grated nutmeg. Makes about 3 1/2 quarts.

GLOGG
2 quarts dry red wine

1 cup sweet vermouth
1 cup raisins
Peel of 1 orange (cut in a continuous spiral strip)
6 whole cardamoms, crushed
6 whole cloves
1 stick cinnamon
1 cup aquavit
1 cup sugar cubes
1 cup whole blanched almonds

Combine wine, vermouth, raisins, orange peel and spices in large saucepan. Heat almost to a boil, reduce heat to as low as possible and let mixture brew for 20 minutes. In small saucepan, heat aquavit. Place sugar cubes in 4-quart silver bowl. (If squeamish about the fate of the silver bowl when things start burning, place a heatproof glass bowl inside silver bowl.) Pour warmed aquavit over sugar cubes and ignite. While the aquavit is burning, pour the hot mulled wine into the bowl. Add almonds. Serve hot, making certain a few raisins and almonds are ladled into each cup. Makes about 3 quarts.

Mostly for Men

by CHARLES E. FLYNN

Constant curiosity and a spirit of inventiveness will bring a variety of side dishes to your table. Many cooks do well with meats and casseroles but fall into dull and routine practices when dealing with vegetables.

That's one reason I'm always looking for new methods and combinations such as these two old-time Italian recipes. First is called Mushrooms in Skillet. It's attractive to the eye and pleasant to the taste, equally useful as a vegetable or principal ingredient for a luncheon.

Heat 2 tablespoons vegetable oil (the Italian recipe calls for pure olive oil) in a skillet and sprinkle liberally with garlic salt. Add 4 anchovy filets chopped fine.

Wash and cut into large pieces 3/4 pound of fresh mushrooms, 2 fresh tomatoes peeled and cut into wedges (or use the excellent canned varieties packed in wedges), 1/4 teaspoon chopped mint leaf, 1/2 teaspoon salt, and 1/2 teaspoon pepper.

Cover the skillet and cook over high heat for about 15 minutes, stirring often. Serve on crisp toast points to 4 people.

The other dish bears the name Unions Bordelaise and reminds me that all too infrequently do we use onions as a vegetable course. Peel 2 large onions (Spanish or Italian Red), cut in half and remove centers so the halves may be stuffed. I put the portions removed into the bottom of the pan for that second helping.

CHOP FINE 4 fresh chicken livers and 1 large mushroom and mix with 2 tablespoons soft butter, 1/4 teaspoon salt, and several dashes of black pepper. Blend, then stuff onion halves with mixture.

Place the onions in a well buttered baking dish with cover. Preheat oven to 375 degrees and bake 20 minutes. Meanwhile melt 2 tablespoons butter in a sauce pan, blend in 1 scant tablespoon flour and 1/4 cup hot beef broth. Bring to boil for 1 minute.

Lift cover on onions after the 20 minutes, pour over the sauce, cover again and cook 15 minutes longer. Remove from the oven and sprinkle onions with 1 jigger of cognac. Serve immediately.

Do you have a favorite recipe for vegetables or a question about food? Write Chuck Flynn, care of Box 280, Paddock Publications, Arlington Heights, Ill., 60005. For personal reply, please enclose self-addressed, stamped envelope.

BOXES OF STACKED pants make it easy for customers to find their desired style and size. The wall of pants offers an impressive selection in one spot.

If a customer wants a sweater to match or a string of beads, he merely has to walk a few steps. He does not have to leave the department.

Being able to coordinate an outfit without changing dressing rooms is one advantage and reason for boutiques and specialty shops.

New Way To Shop

Boutiques Pay Off

Suburban Living
ESPECIALLY FOR THE FAMILY

THE POINT OF SALE IS important. Platforms where mannequins once stood to model various ensembles are for the most part, a thing of the past. Today, displayed merchandise is easily accessible so customers can touch it. Niela Fortino, manager of the women's department, and Rick, greet a curious "older than 20" customer.

MAYBE YOU WOULDN'T want the decorating scheme in your own home, but the bold yellow and black striping on the stairway leading down to the specialty boutique at Baskin's in Randhurst does what it is supposed to . . . draws attention and customers. To Rick Bellavia, an employee, it's nothing new. He works with it every day.

by GENIE CAMPBELL

Display in clothing stores catering to teenagers and young adults has become a vital ingredient in merchandising. The interior designs of shops and their special effects, most often unusual lighting, posters or rock music, have become almost as essential as carrying the correct line of clothes or accessories.

The first priority is attracting the customer. Only when he or she sets foot inside the door can the sales pitch begin.

With many stores more or less showing the same type of merchandise, the field has become highly competitive. Display often is the determining factor, the winning card.

"IT'S A MATTER of having what a person likes," said Michael Simon, manager of the downstairs specialty boutique at Baskin's in Randhurst Shopping Center.

"It's pleasant here. We strive for a relaxed atmosphere. The main thing, of course, is still the merchandise."

The customer is coddled and pampered into buying or at least into "just looking." The various extras are tantalizing to his senses. Often he enters a store to enjoy the side benefits as much as to shop, particularly when the store advertises that a live band will be playing or a noted disc jockey present with prize drawings every hour . . . with or without a purchase.

One local pants store offers free soft drinks to all its customers as they thumb through ceiling-high stacks of pants.

IF A CUSTOMER is merely spending time, not really shopping, that's O.K. There's a chance he'll end up purchasing something or come back to the store when he is in the mood to shop. Then the prepared atmosphere has paid off.

Boutiques and specialty shops have opened a brand new avenue in shopping. The large department stores, where a person could spend an entire day rotating between floors, is not on the top of the list any more. Customers are preferring a more intimate surrounding where the quantity of merchandise is not as great but easier to thumb through.

"The small shop is much more personalized," said Mrs. Richard Kunne, owner of Nina's, a woman's apparel shop in Arlington Heights. "It's built on a friendlier basis. We recognize customers and call them by name. This is one advantage we have over a larger department store."

"PEOPLE DO NOT like a cluttered feeling," said Simon. "They want to see everything all in one spot, clothes and accessories. It avoids a lot of leg work."

Thus many of the larger clothing firms trying to acquire that personal touch a boutique is able to achieve automatically by setting up specialty shops in corners within their own stores. They are easy to find . . . just trace the source of the music.

Display windows are still important. They sell ideas. Windows are the facades, the first point of attraction.

"My window is very important to me," said Mrs. Kunne. "I change it often, about three times a week. I have customers who come in and comment that they saw something in my window they liked while they were stopped on the train."

ONLY SOMETIMES do all the special effects backfire.

"If you want me to buy anything in this store, you'd best turn down the music," snapped one tired mother who found the music in a local unisexual boutique quite distracting.

"Mother, please," came the retort from one very embarrassed teenage daughter. It was purely an incident of the generation gap.

Lady Eggheads Define Women's Lib

by PATRICIA MCCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) — Take four super-educated females and ask them to set you straight about the Women's Liberation Movement.

The first topic that comes into the discussion is men, in this consensus:

— Males don't have all the answers. And because they don't, society has gone off the track.

— One of the first goals of the women's movement must be to educate women to overcome the subconscious attitude that men are necessarily superior.

— Men of superior performance have nothing to fear from the Women's Liberation Movement. They will not be affected in any way. But men of inferior performance are going to go down the drain if merit really becomes the basis for climbing the ladder for both sexes.

THE WOMEN FROM the fields of education, law and psychology did their talking during a seminar taped for television presentation under the title "Women's Lib: From What? For What?" The Young Women's Christian Association of the City of New York helped produce the seminar in cooperation with the Public Affairs Program of New York's WOR-TV. The seminar is one of the activities of the YWCA of New York City in honor of its 100th anniversary.

The eggheads who got together included Charlotte Bunch-Weeks, visiting fellow, Institute for Policy Studies, Washington, D. C., Dr. Pauli Murray, professor of American civilization, Brandeis University, one of the founders of the National Organization for Women (NOW) and former consultant to the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission; Mrs. Helen Southard, psychologist, director of the National YWCA Resources Center on Women, and Mrs. Jacqueline Wexler, president of Hunter College of the City University of New York.

A REVIEW OF THE transcript of the seminar shows that the experts see a need for women to be educated in their present and future roles. Mrs. Southard, for example, would like to see women get over the unconscious "desire" of many women to view men as their superiors.

Mrs. Wexler, formerly a nun and president of St. Mary's College in South Bend, Ind., said that the liberation movement, to increase numbers of women willing to join, must sharpen its sell.

Mrs. Bunch-Weeks, an active member of the national Women's Liberation Movement, said the movement's goals at this point must be:

"To work toward evolving and unifying women's power, redefining family roles, revamping the image of women and increasing women's economic and political powers."

Santa's Aides Help Needy

"Santa Claus is coming to town" and will be making special deliveries of baskets to approximately 25 needy families in the Schaumburg Township.

The Community Improvement Committee of the Schaumburg Woman's Club, with the help of local organizations and the churches and schools, will again stuff baskets for Santa to deliver to township relief recipients. This is the fifth year the club has undertaken this project.

Although names of the families are never disclosed, the Woman's Club is given the number of children and their ages, so that appropriate toys, new and used, can be collected for each child.

Each "needy basket" will contain canned goods and fresh meat, fruit, and vegetables purchased with money donations, and a new toy for each child on the list.

This year there are 87 children in the 25 families on relief. The township provides a truck and driver a few days before Christmas and each family will also receive a Christmas tree donated by the Schaumburg Jaycees.

Anyone wishing to donate to the Needy Basket Project may call Mrs. William Golden, chairman, at 529-4725 or Mrs. Anthony Luciani, Community Improvement Chairman, at 894-3614.

Newcomers' Kids Model Yule Togs

A children's Christmas fashion show will highlight the Thursday, Dec. 10, Christmas dinner of Palatine Newcomers Club. The models, children of club members, will be modeling fashions from Di-Lustro's Infants & Children's Shoppe in Palatine.

The dinner and program will be held at Corrado's Restaurant, Rand Road, Arlington Heights, beginning with a cocktail hour at 7 p.m. There will also be a gift exchange.

All members and interested newcomers in the Palatine area are invited. Reservations can be made by sending a check for $4.50 to Mrs. John Crummins, 1157 E. Sayles, Palatine, or Mrs. David Koester, 4616 Lincoln Ave., Rolling Meadows. Reservation deadline is Monday, Dec. 7.

Homemakers Set Annual Meeting

The annual meeting of all Cook County Homemaker Extension Units is scheduled for Thursday, Jan. 21, in Elmhurst Country Club, Wood Dale.

The program will include the Murk Family Musicals, Chicagoland's equivalent of the Von Trapp Singers who inspired "The Sound of Music."

Registration will be at 9:30 a.m. and the meeting will begin at 10 a.m. Luncheon will be followed by the program.

Reservations are requested. Members of Homemakers may make reservations through their own unit chairman and non-members may call the Extension Service in Des Plaines, 298-5007.

Inside Out For Denim

Like any napped fabric, brushed cotton denim should be washed wrong side out to avoid collecting lint.

Homemakers Set Christmas Lunch

The Christmas luncheon meeting of Palatine Unit of Cook County Homemakers Association is scheduled for next Tuesday, 12:30 p.m., at the Pickwick House Restaurant in Palatine. Election of officers and an afternoon of fun and fellowship are on the agenda.

Secret pals will be revealed and gifts will be exchanged prior to a social hour of games, according to Mrs. R. H. Golderman, chairman.

At the unit's November meeting members paid tribute to Mrs. A. E. Schaefer for 30 years of perfect attendance at Homemaker Extension meetings. A past president of the group, Mrs. Schaefer has also been a 4-H Club leader for 25 years.

Guests welcomed at the meeting were Mrs. Robert Hilton of Arlington Heights and Mrs. William Bridger of Palatine.

A tie workshop was the feature of the November Craft Day with Mrs. C. H. Stanfield demonstrating. Mrs. E. Kurz also exhibited Thanksgiving and Christmas craft items, along with instructions.

No craft meetings are scheduled for January and February.

Christmas Grab Bag

Eli Skinner chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution are holding a Christmas grabbag today in the home of Mrs. John V. Bruning, 15 Wildwood Drive, Prospect Heights.

The party is set for 1 p.m. with Mrs. D. Yoran and Mrs. William Hallquist as co-chairmen.

Thanksgiving Baskets For Needy Families

Needy families in Rolling Meadows had a happier Thanksgiving Day last week. Rolling Meadows Jaycee-ettes distributed four food baskets to local churches; two baskets went to Trinity Lutheran Church and one each to Meadows Baptist and St. Colette's. The churches presented the baskets to the four families in time for Thanksgiving Dinner.

"We never know who receives the baskets but the joy we receive in giving them is what makes this an annual fun project," stated Mrs. Robert Pouquette, Thanksgiving Committee Chairman.

Soda Wash For Toys

Wash baby toys in a solution of baking soda instead of soap and water.

They Recall A Blind Date

Though the young may think blind dates are an exclusive dating practice of their own generation, their parents, grandparents and great-grandparents, too, can recall the custom back in their heyday.

John and Agnes Sullivan of Mount Prospect, grandparents of 23 and great-grandparents of 12, met on a blind date more than 50 years ago and just recently observed their golden wedding anniversary.

Residents of Mount Prospect for 12 years, the couple previously lived in the Austin area of Chicago. John served with the Chicago Fire Department for 35 years and played semi-pro baseball with the department and other teams.

THE COUPLE has one son, John Jr., who resides in Northridge, Calif., with his wife Molly. They also have five daughters: Margaret Felcan and her husband August of Medinah; Ellen Jacobs and her husband Roy of Constantine, Mich.; Agnes Jacobs and her husband William of Mount Prospect; Mary Barnes and her husband William of Northridge, Calif.; and Patricia Christy and her husband Richard of Schaumburg.

They celebrated their 50 years of marriage with 200 friends and relatives at a dinner and reception given by their children in Elmhurst Country Club.

A Folk Wedding For Diane Kehe

"We would like to welcome you to our wedding. We hope that you will find it as meaningful a ceremony as we have planned it to be."

This was the message Diane Kehe and Kerry Carney gave to their friends via a folder during their October wedding. A folk wedding with only guitar music, it was the first and last folk wedding in the old Immanuel Lutheran church building in Palatine now being razed.

The vows, which the couple wrote themselves, began, "I do my thing and you do your thing... We are two separate people, yet one, united in love." The vows were preceded by readings from "The Prophet" by Kahlil Gibran and from "Apples of Gold," a compilation.

FOLLOWING THE vows was the "kiss of peace" during which the couple exchanged a wish of peace with the first person in each pew. The wish was then passed on down to the end of each pew as "an open expression of love, peace and brotherhood to all." The congregation also joined in singing "Less of Me" and "All That I Am — All That I Do."

Diane, daughter of the Arthur Kehes, 1464 Turkey Terrace, Palatine, and Kerry, son of Mrs. Loy Carney of Davenport, Iowa, were escorted down the aisle by their parents. Both young people are graduates of the University of Iowa. Diane, an R.N., is employed at a hospital in Davenport, and Kerry is with a home for disturbed children, also in Davenport.

Christmas Ball A Merry Affair

Members and friends of Mount Prospect Infant Welfare will kick off the holiday season Saturday at the center's Christmas Ball to be held at Arlington Park Towers. The cocktail hour will begin at 7 p.m. and dinner will be served at 9. Dance music will be provided by Les Roberts and his orchestra.

Centerpieces for the table will be gold wire baskets rimmed with green ribbon and filled with greens, ornaments and pine cones.

The evening's proceeds will help operate the prenatal and children's medical stations in the inner city.

Tickets are available from Mrs. William Cameron at 392-3465, chairman.

'Second Christmas'

A reading, "The Second Christmas," will be given by Mrs. Pat Craig of Arlington Heights at Tuesday's meeting of the Women's Society of Christian Service of Trinity United Methodist Church, Mount Prospect. Members will be meeting at 8 p.m. in the church, 605 W. Golf Road.

Mr. and Mrs. Kerry Carney

The Home Line

by Dorothy Ritz

Dear Dorothy: Somewhere I read that eggs should be stored with the big ends up. Why?

—Frieda A.

The experts say this keeps the small air pocket up in the large end — and the yolks nicely centered. It is supposed to keep the quality up, too.

Dear Dorothy: I keep hearing of clarified butter being used in certain recipes, but when I ask for it at the store, they look at me as if I'm some kind of a nut. Where do you get it?

—Mrs. M.G.

You make it yourself. And very few cookbooks even carry the information on how to make it. Melt the butter over low heat and skim off the foam. Strain the clear yellow liquid into a bowl, taking care to leave all the milky residue in the bottom of the pan. What you have in the bowl is clarified butter.

Dear Dorothy: Wonder if your readers might like my way of cleaning plastic shower curtains. Using a half-and-half solution of household bleach and water in a spray bottle (one which formerly contained window cleaner or such), I spray the curtains while still hanging. The bleach not only removes any mildew and musty odor, but also restores the color — especially the white ones. I let them stay this way for about 10 minutes, with the bleach still on them, then rinse them in the tub, which has been filled with hot water. Hang while wet and let dry. It works every time and was effective recently on a pair which hadn't been cleaned in four months.

—Maureen C.

Dear Dorothy: When the cold weather sets in and you want the child's mittens to stay put, instead of the usual string take a piece of elastic the same length and sew one end to each mitten. You can put a safety pin in the center and pin it to the inside of the collar without the worry of the elastic breaking.

—Mrs. Betsy S.

Dear Dorothy: I read where you said amyl acetate would remove that soft puky so popular with the younger set, providing the material could take it. I find that dampening a cloth slightly with rubbing alcohol will do the same thing.

—Clara M.

Holiday Craft Exhibit

Countryside's Craft Gallery will open with a holiday show tomorrow with gift ideas in focus.

The work of 12 artist-craftsmen will include displays of jewelry, stoneware, stoneware, glass, enamel, wood and papier mache. Every piece to be exhibited is individually crafted.

Don Johns will display his stoneware. A resident of Elgin, Johns teaches at both the high school and college level.

Particularly appropriate for holiday giving is the work of Gretchen McCarthy of Berwyn. Her baker's clay jewelry is widely distributed through specialty shops in the Chicago area and the East. She has been featured in Good Housekeeping, Seventeen, House and Garden and Better Homes and Gardens magazines.

TINA KRYTHE'S weaving and stoneware were featured in Countryside Gallery's Christmas '69 show. She designs and weaves one-of-a-kind pillows and wall hangings. Christmas specialties of hers are stuffed felt tree ornaments. Her work is available at Marshall Field and Co. and the Evanston Art Center.

Also included in the show will be Karolee Keeler, stoneware jewelry; Helen O'Rourke, found object jewelry; Sylvia Salinger, stoneware, Theo Leffmann, woven hangings; Paul Helfrick, tie-dye and weaving; Roger Sloan, wooden objects; Mary C. May, cloisonne enamels, Lyn Petralito, small hangings, Marilyn Loft, papier mache; and glass pieces by Frances and Michael Higgins.

Selected craftsmen from the fall show at Countryside will also be exhibiting.

COUNTRYSIDE GALLERY is located at 407 N. Vail in Arlington Heights. It is open Tuesday through Sunday, 1-5 p.m.

Also opening tomorrow with a cinder's donuts reception at 8 p.m. is a Graphics Show featuring seven Countryside gallery artists. The show, hung on the first floor, will continue through the month of December.

Lyric Opera To Hear 'Turandot'

Music of Puccini's "Turandot" will be presented before members of the Northwest Chapter of Lyric Opera Friday, 1 p.m., at the home of Mrs. Robert Nelson in Inverness.

Vincent Giammarusco, tenor, will sing an aria of the opera as the unknown prince, Calaf.

Giammarusco's interest in music began while he was still in grade school. Liking opera in high school, he was encouraged by Robert Merrill to "continue with determination." For the past few years he has been a student of Madam Nene Baastad, a Norwegian soprano. His dramatic coach is William Browning. Both are instructors at the American Conservatory of Music.

MRS. STEVEN BERGSTROM, a member of Northwest Lyric Opera, will present arias of both Turandot and Liu, the young slave girl in the opera.

Mrs. Bergstrom studied under Harold Slack at the University of Iowa where she sang with the opera productions and summer Opera Festival.

Accompanying both artists will be Joan Andersen, presently a student at the American Conservatory of Music.

Mrs. A. C. Moore, a member, will narrate the opera.

Reservations, 359-0336, 368-2306 or 438-6293.

Program Being Developed

by PAT GERLACH

A preschool reading program, being developed in Hoffman School kindergarten classes, may eventually lead to expanded attempts to individualize reading instruction in Dist. 54 schools to more closely fit individual student needs.

Efforts along these lines began last March with a kindergarten group of seven children who were considered by their teacher, Miss Patricia Koehler, ready to begin working in a new early reading program.

Combined with teacher ratings of the seven youngsters, tests were administered to determine their potential readiness for reading.

Working with the group one-half hour each day after regular kindergarten classes, Miss Koehler used the Distar Reading program written by Siegfried Engelmann and Elaine C. Bruner.

A University of Illinois professor, Bruner is considered a leader in learning experiences for the preschool child.

THE DISTAR program features a strong phonetic approach to reading instruction and, according to Dist. 54 administrators, blends well with the Open Court reading program used in local elementary schools.

The kindergarten group was tested prior to the instructional program and again at the end of the school year with above average academic gains in each child involved.

Based on the success of the program during last school year, Marvin Husby, Hoffman School principal, along with members of his teaching staff, decided to develop the program with an entire class of kindergarteners this year.

Those interested in the program were enthused, but numerous problems were encountered in attempting to adapt the program for the entire class.

Although one of the primary obstacles appeared to be the necessity of obtaining parent volunteers to aid the kindergarten teacher when she works with a small group, Husby reports that families have been most cooperative and helpful in assisting Miss Koehler.

At the start of this school year, it was necessary for Miss Jennie Swanson, the Dist. 54 psycho-educational diagnostician assigned to Hoffman School, to test all children in the program.

AT THE END OF the year, further testing will be conducted to assist in reaching conclusions about the effectiveness of the program.

Local educators find it interesting to note many of the children participating have had nursery school training at various facilities in Schaumburg Township.

Naturally, one of the things the Hoffman School study is attempting to determine is whether nursery school experience is either necessary or helpful for children in the early reading program.

A number of parents, teachers and school administrators believe that because of many changes in society, changes are similarly needed in the schools academic program to challenge and motivate young students.

Some of the changes contributing to this thought are the increased attendance at nursery schools each year, educational television, preschool reading programs, and the mobility of community members.

DURING THIS school year, changes were made in the first grade instructional program for the seven students who learned to read during their kindergarten program.

It was the combined thinking of the teacher, diagnostician and principal that these children were ready to spend a part of each school day in an independent study program.

Presently, these seven first graders are using the Audio Reading Progress Laboratory, which consists of a series of programmed reading materials recorded on cassette cartridges.

Students listen to the recorded directions using earphones and do the work in a workbook. Every lesson consists of the presentation of a reading skill, several practice exercises, one or more reading passages requiring application of the skill and an evaluative test that is self-scored.

Each workbook lesson has a recorded tape containing step-by-step instruction and explanation. The close coordination of the audio message and the students workbook page allows the learner to acquire new skills, rather than practicing old ones, while he is working independently of his teacher and remainder of the class.

This also permits the teacher freedom for working with other groups of students or an individual child as the classroom situation demands.

The new program is currently undergoing careful scrutiny at Hoffman School and will be evaluated for possible use in other Dist. 54 schools.

At a number of schools, their fears proved founded. Fairview was short two mothers yesterday; Blackhawk lacked one Tuesday, as did Lakeview.

But in some other buildings, principals

Builder Agrees To Donate School Site

BY JERRY THOMAS

Miller Builders has agreed to donate a four acre school site to School District 54 with an adjoining four acre park area in its proposed Hanover Park development.

Builder, school officials and village officials met in a triangular tug of war Tuesday, that will continue at a 8 p.m. meeting tonight.

Miller Builders of Skokie came to ask consideration of annexation of a 161 acre tract north of the intersection of Irving Park and Wise roads.

The builder proposes a 26 acre industrial tract and a 20 1/2 acre commercial development that would include an 11 acre K-Mart complex and 56 acres of multiple units that would bring 810 units.

Charles Burke attorney for Miller Builders, described the development as one that would increase the tax base of the community.

It was apparent the builder's representatives saw their planned unit development as the steady base of the triangle, with tax money from the commercial area greatly benefiting the school district.

SCHOOL DISTRICT 54 officials however took a dim view of the proposal when initial announcements of the development were made earlier this month, because the builder was not considering any site donation.

School Board member, Don Rudd, chairman of the building and sites committee attended Tuesday's session bolstered by over 100 area residents who were concerned that the development would increase the already overburdened school district.

Burke, as he gave testimony during the public hearing, took most of the school district's argument with the builder out of the picture when he told of a four acre school site donation.

Miller builders agreed to donate a buildable school site with an adjoining four acre or larger green belt area to be used for park or play area. The school can be built within a 10 year period and the land then reverts to the village to be held for the school district.

Rudd agreed the site was sufficient for the district's purposes, adding that he was satisfied with the donation. He said the building would fit the district's neighborhood concept of schooling and was large enough to accommodate the approximately 400 school children expected to live there.

RUDD AND MARVIN Lapicola, director of business services did not attempt to minimize the builders donation or dispute the fact that the commercial area and multiple unit assessed valuations would bring a lot of money to the school district; more so than single family units do.

They were however, greatly concerned with what happens for the next two years before the money comes to the district from the tax rolls.

After much discussion that heard residents "unrealistically," according to Rudd, asking the builder to build and donate a school as well as a site, Rudd and Lapicola said a cash donation in addition to the site was what the school district needed.

This they claimed was consistent with what other builders were doing within the Schaumburg Township district.

NORMAN MEYERSON, vice president of Miller Builders contradicted Rudd and pointed out that the 161 acre development would bring in at least three times the amount of money to the school district than any single family development on the site would.

Rudd again agreed the money would eventually benefit the district but noted that the district's present bonding power is such that a new school could be built in about five years with occupancy scheduled in six years.

Trustee James Lewis suggested a scheduled building program for the multiple units. It was evident from the lack of negative comment from those in the audience and school and village officials that all three agreed the commercial and industrial units would be an asset to the village.

The only real fear they voiced was that more children from the developments multiple units would add to an already "impossible situation."

Bob Summerfield, principal of the Hanover Highland School near the Miller development, tried to tell the builder "how it was."

HE SAID MANY people who live within sight of the Hanover Highlands School face the fact that their children cannot attend the school and must be bused to another.

"This is why these people are here today objecting to this builder; they are afraid their children will always be bused or face double shifts," he said.

Attorney Burke said Miller Builders was not coming to the community to create a problem and insisted the financial impact analysis presented to the school district showed the development to be a definite asset.

Lewis joined by trustee Barry Rogers again asked about holding off construction of the apartments and townhouses until money from the commercial development comes in.

LEWIS ASKED IF Meyerson would consider limiting construction to only 150 units per year and limiting those, to 33 per cent three bedroom units.

"I'll go better than that," said Meyerson as he suggested he build only 75 townhouse units in 1971 and 100 to 125 in 1972.

Lewis pointed out that this would bring children to the district slowly instead of all at once.

Some residents insisted "no more children" was the answer.

But, Village Attorney William Davies pointed out that no one told them when they moved in with one child that they couldn't have any more and asked how anyone had the right to say "no one else moves in."

Answering objections from residents that they would have to pay for the building of a school for the children Davies agreed but added that someone else paid for the schools their children used when they too first came to the community.

RESIDENTS THEN asked the school district officials what other builders plans were and complained about their taxes.

Village President Richard Baker allowed questioning and assured the school district its board would be included in all future discussions between the builder and village.

Lapicola, commenting that the school district and the village officials have "certain lines they cannot step over," co-operated. He lauded Baker's efforts to bring builder and school district together and especially his intervention in obtaining a school site.

As Baker continued the meeting to Thursday he charged the district with the task of meeting further with the builder and discussing the proposal with their fellow board members.

"Tell us how you feel about the development in light of tonight's discussions and can you get that information back to us by our Thursday board meeting?" he asked.

"Certainly," said Rudd. Baker also asked his board to review the annexation agreement as proposed by Miller and be ready to vote on it Thursday.

Trustees Rogers and The Rev. David Bugh wanted more time.

As the zoning portion of the meeting was adjourned after midnight a second session was called to order to discuss the preannexation agreement.

Program Reactions Mixed

by NANCY COWGER

After two days on a cold-weather lunch program, principals of Dist. 54 schools feel mixed reactions, some noting good discipline and mother supervisor attendance, others reporting clean-up and odor problems and still more citing playground accidents.

In the 11 participating schools, about 33 per cent of pupils ate their lunches in classrooms rather than going home.

Participation at Twinbrook School was low, with only 59 of the 382 elementary children bringing their meal. But other buildings showed high attendance, as, for example, Douglas MacArthur, where 367 of a 762-pupil total stayed for lunch.

Francis Campanelli School provided class-lunchrooms for 303 of its 675 pupils. At Winston Churchill School, 219 of 692 pupils stayed. Less than 20 per cent, or 184 of 1,000 pupils, ate at Thomas Dooley School. Fairview School recorded 190 diners among 446 pupils. At Anne Fox School, 334 children ate while 787 could have stayed.

ONLY 130 of the 933 children at Nathan Hale School dined in classrooms. In Hoffman School the figures were 190 out of 493, and at Lakeview School they were 403 out of 698.

One of the chief arguments against the cold weather lunch program approved by the board of education Oct. 15 was the fact it depends on voluntary supervisory help from mothers of participants. Some school officials indicated lack of confidence the mothers would work according to schedule.

At a number of schools, their fears proved founded. Fairview was short two mothers yesterday; Blackhawk lacked one Tuesday, as did Lakeview.

Data, Aid Gathered For ITC Hearing

by STEVE NOVICK

The services of Harper Junior College, to help secure ramps at Roselle Road and the Northwest Tollway, were offered Tuesday, pending expected college board approval, by Harper Pres. Robert Lahti.

John Lucas, Harper's director of planning and development, will act as consultant to a committee of officials from Hoffman Estates and Schaumburg in the effort to gather evidence needed for a hearing before the Illinois Tollway Commission (ITC).

The committee's effort will be aimed at showing the ITC that the construction of ramps at Roselle Road is financially feasible.

Richard Regan, Hoffman Estates plan commission chairman; Russell Parker, Schaumburg zoning board chairman; and Harry Mammach, Schaumburg plan commission member, will make up the initial three member committee coordinating the evidence gathering effort.

Lucas will begin his work with the group by consulting with ITC officials to find out exactly what criteria is used in determining where new ramps should be constructed.

HE WILL ALSO speak to officials who worked to have a full cloverleaf installed at Arlington Heights Road and the Tollway.

Once Lucas' initial inquiries are completed, work will begin on questionnaires and other resource materials. Community members from Palatine, Inverness and other areas will then be asked to gather for a strategy meeting in collecting the needed information.

The ramps should be a service to persons traveling to and from Harper, Regan said. Students should take the opportunity to help attain the tollway ramps for the community, he added.

Lahti spoke of several faculty members who live in the Schaumburg Township area who might also want to help. He added, however, that the college can not afford to give any faculty member a leave of absence to work on the project.

Because Harper is only three years old, there are still pockets in the area the school serves where people are unfamiliar with what the junior college has to offer, Lahti said.

"WHEN YOU RUN out of expertise come here (to Harper)," Lahti said. He told of cooperative research efforts Harper has with the University of Illinois and the sources the state university has through other higher learning institutions when their resources run out.

"I feel strongly this is our mission and cause," Lahti said in offering Lucas' consulting services and Harper's facilities.

Lahti said the effort to secure tollway ramps is "not political."

"Harper can help people get done what they want to do for themselves," he said about the cooperative effort between Lucas and the local officials coordinating the research.

Lahti said Harper will provide services for punching computer cards and printing up reports at cost.

Harper will help arrange the use of computer time at local industries for the collection of data used in the presentation to the ITC.

REGAN SAID The location of ramps at Roselle Road will be an aid to industries located close to the ramps at Rte. 53.

The ramps will also attract new industries along Algonquin Road near Roselle Road. These industries would help Harper's tax base and will help to provide more jobs for the school's students, he added.

Local planners believe that unless relief is offered via tollway ramps at Roselle Road, there will be a freeze of traffic in the near future at the Rte. 53 ramps and the Barrington Road ramps due to thousands of homes and apartment and the Woodfield Mall Shopping Center being developed.

Santa Is Now At Grants

Santa Claus will be on hand at the W.T. Grants store in the Golf Rose Shopping Center through Christmas Eve, compliments of the Hoffman Estates Chamber of Commerce.

He can be found at the store's trim and tree section between 4 p.m. and 9 p.m., Monday through Friday; from 11 a.m.

until 5:30 p.m. on Saturday and from 2 p.m. until 4 p.m. on Sunday. Santa Claus will also be in the Grant's restaurant between 9:30 a.m. and 11 a.m. on Saturday.

Persons wishing to have a picture of Santa Claus taken with their children may do so for $1. The Polaroid pictures are available in a minute and come in a frame, said a spokesman.

Board To Eye Annexation Request Tonight

Charles Burke attorney for Miller Builders of Skokie who is petitioning the village of Hanover Park for a 101-acre comprehensive planned development, Tuesday presented an annexation agreement to the board for review.

In asking for annexation, he requested the board consider allowing commercial and multiple development of the acreage that is contiguous to Hanover Park at Rte. 19 and Wise Road.

The board will eye the request tonight when it meets in regular session at 8 p.m.

Burke said the development is split between multiple and commercial use, and explained a 26 acre parcel in Unit 3 was marked on exhibits as multiple, but would be developed as industrial.

HE ADDED THE acreage was tied up in probate, and said the builder was asking for multiple, but will furnish the village with a letter saying within 90 days of obtaining title it will be changed to industrial zoning.

Burke said the commercial area will include a K-Mart shopping center that will bring at least $130,000 in taxes to the village treasury each year.

He added that K-Mart is ready to break ground.

The agreement lists the following benefits to the village:

—A $75 per unit donation to the village for its needs at the time each permit is taken out. $90 are contemplated.

—A $5,000 donation to the newly formed "Pop Warner" football league.

—Title to a three bedroom townhouse, noting the unit is to be used by the Hanover Park director of recreation.

Burke added the builder will donate a four acre, buildable school site, and adjoining four acre play area. The site may be leased to the Schaumburg Park District until the district is able to build a school.

ALL WIRING AND utility lines will be installed under ground, and the builder plans extensive green belt areas and development of a lake.

Chester Moskal in charge of planning, said the development will include a lake or retention basin to aid in flood control. Moskal added the Metropolitan Sanitary District's lines, and water lines are now at the property borders, and hook-ups pose no problems.

The builder agrees to install a 25 year storm drain program "far in excess of most village requirements," according to Moskal.

Trustee James Lewis asked that Miller builders consider the lake in an area near the west branch of the DuPage River so it can capture and hold flood water coming down on the village from neighboring Schaumburg.

Moskal agreed, and said it would channel from the creek.

Attorney Burke noted the builder was aware of flooding problems experienced in nearby units, and was putting flood control plans to work in his development.

In addition to the retention lake, the shopping center parking lots and building tops will be designed to hold water for a short period to also aid flood control.

ALL BUILDINGS WILL conform with present building codes, and the new electrical code in study by the village board.

Tap-on fees in the agreement were listed at $50 per unit for water and $25 for sewer in the multiple units, and in the townhouse development at $150 for water and $100 for sewer.

This article was held for further discussion with several trustees, arguing the unit fee in all cases was $150 not $50.

The builder agrees to furnish irrevocable letters of credit assuring adequate funds are available to finish public improvements if the builder can not.

The builder is protected from any changes in building codes, or increases in building or permits fees for five years.

Miller builders, when told by School District 54 representatives that approximately 400 children, expected in the multiple housing will severely burden the school district, agreed to a scheduled building of these units.

The townhouses and apartments will be built slowly over a five year period so funds from the commercial and industrial sites can benefit the school district tax-wise before the children arrive.

The Miller development will have an assessed valuation of $14.7 million dollars when completed.

MORNINGS IN U.S. Rep. Robert McClory's office in Washington includes a review of the day's mail and calendar with staff members Mrs. Barbara Ludden and George Schumacher. McClory has 12 staff members.

Office Hours? Not For Him

by ED MURNANE

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Twenty years in elected state and national offices have taught U.S. Rep. Robert McClory the ins and outs of political life but they haven't tarnished his respect for America's law-making process.

McClory was reelected congressman for Illinois' 12th District (including Lake County and Hanover Township) last month and in January, when the 92nd Congress convenes, he'll have two occasions to celebrate.

One will come on opening day when he begins his fifth term in the House of Representatives and his 20th year in elected office.

The other will come later in the month when he'll reach his 63rd birthday.

He doesn't take his place in the inner sanctum of government for granted, despite 20 years of watching government leaders come and go, succeed and fail.

"I'm still very much impressed by the real significance of what we are doing here," he said two weeks ago. "Every one of our votes is important and every decision we make can have a great impact on the world."

"I'M CONSTANTLY conscious of the role we have — not only in forming domestic policy and programs, but also in forming foreign policy and maintaining our position of leadership in the world," he said.

McClory's life in government service began in 1950 when he was elected to the Illinois House of Representatives. He served one term in the House before moving up to the Illinois Senate where he served from 1953 until he resigned to run for Congress in 1958.

He was elected that year and has been reelected four times since then.

After eight years in the House of Representatives, McClory has developed a Capitol Hill routine designed to get maximum use out of every day.

Unlike many congressmen and other government officials who live in the Washington suburbs in Maryland or Virginia, McClory lives on Constitution Avenue, only five blocks east of the Cannon House Office Building.

He walks to work every morning, arriving in time for breakfast meetings two or three times a week.

HIS FIRST OFFICE appointments are scheduled for 9 a.m. and between then and 10 a.m., he reviews his mail, meets with his staff, looks at the Congressional Record and reads the Chicago newspapers.

Committee and subcommittee meetings begin at 10 a.m. and McClory leaves with a file of correspondence, bills and other matters which he'll need during the day or wants to review.

From his meetings — once a week they include a state department briefing — McClory goes to the House chambers in the Capitol where he answers his name on the first roll call, generally shortly after the House convenes at noon.

"I try to squeeze in a lunch sometime along the way," he said. "If the House is in session, I'll eat lunch on the Hill, rather than risk missing a roll call."

Depending on the subject being debated in the House, McClory will spend most of the afternoon in the House chambers or in his office across the street. When the bells ring for quorum calls or roll call votes, he'll use the subway to make the short trip to the Capitol Building.

The House usually adjourns between 6 and 7 p.m. and McClory will return to his office to sign mail that must go out on that day. He keeps one of his secretaries with him until all mail and all of the day's work is finished.

EVENINGS ARE also important in Washington and McClory, despite being a non-drinker, tries to attend some of the many receptions that make Washington nightlife famous.

"There's something scheduled almost every night," he said. "I'll try to go to the ones that have constituents involved or are being sponsored by people from Illinois. They're disappointed if you don't attend."

McClory said he's much more selective in picking social events to attend than he was during his first term.

"The social life here can be pretty tiring," he said.

McClory returns to the 12th District "usually twice a month." He flies in on Friday morning and will return to Washington either Saturday evening or Sunday morning.

"Most of the time I spend in the district involves attending meetings I try to schedule a number of events when I'm home. I don't go there just to be there."

His contact with his constituents is not limited to his visits to the district. Most of his mail is from constituents and he said he gets many visitors from the 12th District, particularly in January when Congress reconvenes.

"MOST — BUT NOT all — of the mail agrees with me or is urging me to vote a particular way on upcoming legislation," he said. "I think I'm usually in tune with the people back home, although sometimes that's not so."

He said he recently got a number of post cards from Catholics who opposed the family planning and birth control bill which he supported.

"I also had a lot of requests to explain why I voted for an 18-year-old voting age," he said.

McClory said he gets "very few nasty letters," adding that they come "from the way outs on both sides. If it's too nasty, I just won't answer it."

McClory looks to the 92nd Congress to be "more amenable to President Nixon than was the 91st."

"I don't think that will happen because there will be more Republicans in the Senate, but because I think the President will follow a more moderate line," he said.

"I THINK THE President's domestic reforms have generated considerable support from state and local officials since they give more authority to the states and local governments in the areas of crime control, education and anti-pollution efforts."

"And I think the nation is now pursuing a sound long-range peace policy, thanks to the President."

McClory said he thinks he may have a closer working relationship with Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson III during the next session of Congress than he will have with Sen. Charles H. Percy.

"I think anyone with his (Stevenson's) experience in state government must be used to working," he said. "Chuck is quite independent however, and I think he's somewhat removed from the Illinois Republicans in the House."

McClory is a native of Cook County and graduated from Dartmouth University and Kent College of Law. He currently lives in Lake Bluff.

reported 100 per cent mother attendance, and generally successful pupil discipline.

In MacArthur, where principal Larry Olson depends on 15 mothers per day, all the women were in school on time and the program met what he terms "a very successful start." Olson credits pre-planning and tight organization with the happy beginning. He also adds, pupil behavior could be a problem in the future, but thus far "the novelty hasn't worn off yet."

MAYNARD THOMAS, principal at Fairview, even reports one father tackled the meal supervision job, and handled himself admirably.

"The thing actually went much better than I expected," says Thomas. "The children were all fine, and they responded well" to the adults.

But, says Thomas, "it is going to be a problem as I look at it in the long run. I anticipate more of a problem with cleanliness and odors," he explains.

Fairview was the scene of one playground accident, which Thomas says may be related to the influx of children in the playground. He expects playground injuries may be more common occurrences in the future.

Playground crowding was not a problem at MacArthur, where Olson set up shifts, with 150 to 200 youngsters out-of-doors while others ate.

JACK BENNETT, Lakeview principal, says his meal program "went beautifully," with only one mother failing to arrive and few playground difficulties. Bennett spoke with some of the mothers working, who told him they thought the program "fine." As Bennett puts it, "You can take anything for one day," and the experience of working with large groups of children did not seem to rattle any of the moms.

Some negative comments were received from supervising mothers by James Briggs, Blackhawk principal.

"Most of them agree the kids are better off going home. There is not that much for them to do here," says Briggs, who was short one mother Tuesday and filled in for her himself. He does not expect problems, saying he does not have a high number of children staying, and the ones who do eat in school are centrally grouped for organizational purposes.

Some principals offer tips in smoothing the program. One said he supplied mothers with buckets, sponges and air freshener for clean-up operations. In some schools, sixth grade volunteers are helping with clean-up after they eat. Mops are handy for spilled milk. And one principal said a good supply of mothers, to allow a smaller number of children per room, helps everyone keep his cool.

Annexation Is 'Hung Up'

Legal documents pertaining to the annexation of Winston Knolls subdivision by Hoffman Estates Park District have not yet been received and park directors were unable to formally accept the territory at Tuesday night's board meeting.

Mrs. Anne Schuerings, acting director of parks and recreation, reported that the disannexation ordinance approved by the Palatine Rural Park District has not been received by Hoffman Estates, Park Atty. Donald Rose.

Although the subdivision was annexed by the village of Hoffman Estates, residents of the area discovered early last year that the territory remained within the Palatine Rural Park District.

The rural district is actually a land holding corporation formed about 20 years ago to prevent complete subdivision of then rural areas and does not maintain an active park district.

After lengthy investigation by the Winston Knolls Homeowners Association, residents expressed a desire to join the Hoffman Estates Park District.

Formal acceptance of the area into the park district is expected when the board adopts the annexation ordinance at its Dec. 15 meeting.

In other business, Park Pres. Fred Weaver and Board Member Bernard M. Bartosch will represent the district at tonight's meeting of the Dist. 54 board of education.

The school board is expected to approve a legal arrangement deeding land adjacent to elementary schools in Hoffman Estates to the park district.

Negotiations concerning this action have been in progress for the past 18 months and when school land is released to the park district, agreements stipulate that it must be used for further development of recreational activities.

Approval of the deeding was expected when the board of education met two weeks ago, but was deferred for further study by board members since the agreement, jointly prepared by School Atty. Frank Hines and Donald Rose, park counsel, had been furnished only hours before action was expected.

Approval was recommended at that time by Dist. 54 Board Member Don Rudd, who chairs the school district's building and sites committee, although he agreed to the delay.

Members of Hoffman Estates Athletic Association, who were also instrumental in obtaining the school-park lease and deed arrangement, are also expected to attend the school board meeting, park officials said.

Bowl 'Raided' For 34-7 Win

The Hoffman Estates Raiders returned home from Independence, Mo., with a Pop Warner football victory under their belts Sunday after playing the Independent denco Brewers in the Harry S. Truman Bowl Games. The Raiders won 34 to 7.

The Raiders' companion team in the bowl games, the Commandos, lost to their opponents, the Independence Eagles, by a score of 19-12.

A total of 86 players, along with 16 cheerleaders and 85 adults, made the weekend trip to Independence leaving Friday morning on buses chartered from Schaumburg Transportation Co., Inc. The players, members of Hoffman Estates Athletic Assn., and cheerleaders were housed in the homes of Independence families. Accompanying adults spent the weekend at the Kansas City, Mo., motel where a banquet for the players was held Saturday night. Trophies were presented to the teams then.

THE VISITORS ALSO were entertained at a reception given by parents of the Independence players Friday night.

Star players for the Raiders were Bob Dolan, Henry Holmes and Cory Rathman, offensive; and Bob Danner and Bill Bowers, defensive. Credited with outstanding playing for the Commandos were Doug Oslance, Jim Thomas, Tom Haupt and Brad Danner, offensive, and John Frost, Brock Bomkamp and Glen Galloway, defensive.

The players and cheerleaders financed their trip themselves, with such projects as sale of plastic bags for garbage and leaf disposal.

In past season playing, the Raiders held first place in the North Division of the Chicago Suburban Junior Football League. The Commandos were ranked fifth in the Widgets North Division.

Their Foundation: Public Service

Editor's Note: The following is the last of two articles on the League of Women Voters of the Arlington Heights-Mount Prospect area. This year is the 50th anniversary of the founding of the first League of Women Voters.

by SANDRA BROWNING
The two words mentioned most often by members involved in the League of Women Voters are "public service." Voter registration drives, providing information on candidates, studying issues and other projects are all done as public service projects.

Pat Gardner, president of the League of Women Voters of the Arlington Heights-Mount Prospect area, said the league does not take a position on a local issue until members have studied it. Also, the league cannot take a position or testify on a local issue unless the chapter has done a "Know Your Town" study. After this type of study is done, the town's name can be added to the local chapter's name.

MEMBERS SAID that since the membership of residents from Elk Grove was growing, these members may be doing a "Know Your Town" study soon.

By studying issues, the 150-member league has a strong base "when we do begin to act," said Marilyn Marier, Con-Con chairman.

On the volatile issue of low and moderate income housing in Arlington Heights, league members decided to issue a fact sheet because "so many questions were asked."

"We thought it would be a public service to make information available," the league president said.

In addition to making information on elections and issues available to the public, the league also has an "Observer Corps." Members of the local group attend meetings of school boards, village boards and other governmental units and report back on the activities of these groups.

A few years ago, a league observer was such a regular sight at Arlington Heights Plan Commission meetings that she named a street in the village. A proposed development needed a name for a street and the plan commissioners asked the woman for an appropriate name.

HER SUGGESTION was approved by the commission.

Also as a public service, the league has printed a small booklet entitled "Who's Who in Local Government." The booklet includes the names and phone numbers of village, park and school district officials in Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect, Elk Grove Village, Prospect Heights, Hoffman Estates and Wheeling.

The league members described their involvement with the league as stimulating because "we're always learning," said the local league president.

Madeline Schroeder, a league member, said the league "lets in any kind of ideas. It's a tremendous forum."

ALTHOUGH SOMETIMES a member will join because she wants to work on a "pet problem, the member usually ends up getting involved in everything," Mrs. Marier said.

Betty Newhart, human resources chairman, said that during the process of studying and discussing problems, "You find that nothing is simple."

Mrs. Schroeder said membership involvement in the league teaches members that "knowledge is a tremendous strength." It also teaches them how to get information a person needs to make decisions, she said.

Although the league activities are sometimes time-consuming, the members said they found their involvement worthwhile.

Mrs. Gardner said she had been a member of some other types of organizations with which she wasn't happy. She heard about the league through a professor in college and has been involved with league activities for about 13 years. "I enjoy it more than anything I've ever done."

Members agreed that once a woman joins the league, "You join it wherever you go," said Mrs. Schroeder. She originally became involved with the league in the 1950's in Pennsylvania.

MRS. NEWHART said the league was the only civic organization in which she was active and she had heard about league activities in a high school civics class.

Mary Lou Shepherd, vice president and voter service chairman, said she became involved in league activities when she worked for a lawyer who became involved with politics. "It just seemed natural to someone interested in politics," she said.

With the existing political structure being so complicated, "You need outside help to be able to understand it," Mrs. Shepherd said.

Mrs. Marier said that she enjoys the league because "I'd really like to do something rather than just discuss things."

The members agreed they enjoyed the women they met in the league because the other members "don't just talk about diapers."

Doctor Arrested On Sex Charges

Cook County Sheriff's police Tuesday night arrested a physician in his office just west of Des Plaines and charged him with the deviate sexual assault of several of his patients.

Dr. James Middleton, 44, a general practitioner, was taken into custody in his office at 969 Elmhurst Rd. about 8 p.m. Tuesday by sheriff's police. Middleton was with a female patient at the time of his arrest.

According to Det. Donald Shaw, who led the raid into Middleton's office, the arrest came after a two month investigation in which a number of Middleton's suburban women patients complained that the doctor had drugged them and then committed deviate sexual attacks.

Shaw said they also found pipe bombs, detonators, three handguns, pornographic photos, literature and movies and artificial devices for sexual stimulation in the doctor's office.

YWCA Mod Mothers Set Program Dec. 14

A Christmas cookie exchange and informal discussion will be the program for the YWCA Mod Mothers Club meeting on Monday, Dec. 14 from 1-3 p.m. in the Triangle Room. Each person is asked to bring two dozen cookies to exchange and one copy of the cookie recipe.

The Mod Mothers Club, sponsored by the Elgin YWCA, meets once each month for programs of special interest to mothers of young children. Baby sitting is available by advance arrangement for children of all ages. Further information about Mod Mothers may be obtained by calling Mrs. Kenneth Morse, YW Program Director at 742-7930.

Sheriff's police also found a quantity of what Shaw called "dangerous drugs which could incapacitate a person if taken."

Shaw said Middleton, of 2800 Lake Shore Dr., Chicago, gave no resistance and the only explanation the doctor gave for having the guns was that he had been threatened and needed to protect himself. Shaw added that Middleton will also be charged with possession of explosives and unlawful use of a weapon.

HE WAS RELEASED Wednesday morning on $15,000 bond and is scheduled to appear in Niles Circuit Court Dec. 29. Shaw said the state's attorney intends to ask for a grand jury hearing in the case.

Shaw said that although a number of women have already complained to the sheriff's police, more of Middleton's patients or former patients will come forward if they have complaints.

The police were armed with a warrant Tuesday night issued by Circuit Court Judge Anton Smigiel.

Middleton, a staff member of St. Joseph's hospital in Chicago, was acquitted by a jury in St. Louis in 1961 on a charge of drugging and raping a housewife, according to Shaw.

Immigrant Arrested

An illegal immigrant was apprehended by Schaumburg Village Police Tuesday at the rear door of Reynolds Ventilating System, Route 62 and Hammond Drive, and turned over to Immigration Bureau officials.

A village patrolman was making a security check of the building at 6:45 a.m., when he noticed Augustine Maradodob Ponce, 44, standing at the doorway. Ponce told the officer he was waiting to go to work, and after further questioning said he was in the United States illegally.

3 Join GOP Slate Committee

Three additional Hanover Township residents have joined the Republican slatemaking committee, formed to pick a slate of candidates for next spring's trustee election in Hanover Park.

Hanover and Schaumburg Townships GOP committeemen combined forces to select the committee. Hanover Park's population is divided between the two townships.

The new members are Harold Fuhler of 7410 Astor, George Hays of 7420 Camella and Arvid Anderson of 1975 Evergreen, Jerome F. Mann, Hanover committeeman, announced.

"The new appointments help balance the committee in the townships involved," said Mann.

Other members of the committee are Daniel Stowe, chairman, Thomas Bogan, Donald Barta, Ernest Oleksy, Jerry Spatz, Michael Barsanti, all from Schaumburg Township, and Elaine Mars and Robert Koch, both from Hanover Township.

MANN'S ROLE in the joint slatemaking effort has been criticized by William Davies, Hanover Park and Streamwood village attorney, and others active in Hanover GOP organization.

The Hanover Republicans feel the committee is too Schaumburg Township oriented as well as against Hanover Park Mayor Richard Baker's administration.

The Hanover Township Republican organization members refused to endorse Mann's proposal to run a combined slate, but Mann and his executive committee plan to stay in the joint venture.

Any Hanover Park resident interested in running on the slate, may contact Stowe at 837-7286. Interview dates and places are Dec. 10, Hanover Township Republican Headquarters, 12 W. Streamwood Blvd., Streamwood; and Dec. 7 and 9, Schaumburg GOP headquarters, 11 E. Schaumburg Road, Schaumburg.

The three trustees whose terms expire in April are Louis Barone, James Schueber and Gordon Jensen.

Three Pick Up Petitions

Nominating petitions for park board candidacy were picked up by three Hoffman Estates residents Tuesday when the materials were made available.

William Werms, who left the park district staff last summer after four years as a part-time maintenance employee, was the first citizen to call for petitions, Park Secretary George F. Seaver reported.

Forms were also obtained by Bernard M. Bartosch, incumbent seeking reelection to a second six year term, as well as by James D. Geddes, a former resident of Niles now living in the High Point area.

Bartosch has served as a park district board member since creation of the district six years ago, and prior to that time was a member of the park commission.

Geddes, a pilot with United Airlines, in recent months has served as a member of the steering committee for formation of Armstrong PTA.

AT STAKE in the April 6 park election are two six-year terms and a two-year unexpired term created by the recent resignation of Robert L. Schuhr.

First date for filing petitions is Dec. 28, and the deadline for filing is February 4. February 6 is by law, the final date for petition withdrawal.

According to an informational sheet distributed to potential park candidates with petitions, the documents must contain a minimum of 25 signatures of qualified voters living in the park district.

On the first filing date, Seaver will accept petitions from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and names will be placed on the ballot in order of filing.

Seaver was also directed by Park Pres. Fred R. Weaver to present a formal report on how to choose the first name to appear on the ballot, should any conflict arise Dec. 28.

In other election related to park business, board members this week adopted a resolution naming Mrs. Anne Schuerings, who serves as acting director of parks and recreation, deputy clerk for the April election.

Through this action, Mrs. Schuerings was empowered to act for Seaver in any absence of the secretary when such services are necessary in election business.

Annual Y Meeting Slated Dec. 16

The annual meeting of the YMCA of the Greater Elgin Area will be at noon Dec. 16, in the Elgin YMCA, 111 N. Channing St.

The YMCA of the Greater Elgin Area includes the Elgin YMCA, Tri-Cities Youth Project in St. Charles, Geneva and Batavia, the Twinbrook YMCA, serving Hanover Park, Hoffman Estates, Roselle, Schaumburg, Bloomingdale and surrounding areas, and Camp Edwards, 3 1/2 miles northeast of East Troy, Wisc.

The luncheon meeting will be the 104th annual meeting of the Elgin YMCA. Reservations may be made at the YMCA.

YWCA Open House Slated For Sunday

All Elgin area residents are invited to attend the traditional YWCA "Hanging of the Greens" open house on Sunday, December 6 at 5:15 p.m. Y-teens will present an original program entitled "Christmas Memories — Past, Present and Future." Holiday breads and hot wassail will be served by the YW Senior Citizens Club following the program.

Tapes Are Stolen

June Clarke, 1318 Algonquin Road, Schaumburg, reported to village police Monday the theft of 10 assorted stereo tapes from the glove compartment of her auto. The car was parked at her address from 5:15 p.m. Sunday to 6:55 a.m. Monday, when she noted the theft, she said.

Elected Secretary

Patricia Mullin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Mullin, 138 Norridge Ln., Hoffman Estates, was elected secretary of the sophomore class at Illinois Wesleyan University, Bloomington.

Miss Mullin is majoring in elementary education. She is a 1969 graduate of Sacred Heart of Mary High School, Rolling Meadows.

Little 'Big' College's System Working

SANTA CRUZ, Calif. (UPI)— In a Redwood forest, one of the University of California's campuses gives students the feeling they are attending a very small college where they can do whatever they wish.

One thing they don't wish for — and don't get—is letter grades. At Santa Cruz, you either pass or fail.

Something else the students are happy to do without is the tramping between the huge lecture halls of a place like the huge University of California campus at Berkeley, which has 27,500 students. Santa Cruz has less than 3,500 and even they don't study en masse.

Now five years old, UC Santa Cruz seeks to achieve an apparent contradiction in terms — the best features of both a small college and a large university.

THE WAY THIS IS done is to scatter and seclude five independent, residential colleges, with 650 students each, through the forest in a system resembling that of England's Oxford and Cambridge. Eventually, Santa Cruz will have 25 colleges.

A student's primary commitment is to his own college, but he takes courses in the other colleges and studies science in large central facilities.

The plan can be traced back to discussions in 1932 of the chancellor, Dean E. McHenry, with his own college roommate, Clark Kerr. They were fascinated with the problem of keeping the individual student from being overwhelmed by the impersonality of the giant university.

When Kerr became president of the University of California, he and McHenry had their chance. Now Santa Cruz is a bundle of just about all the innovations being tested in American higher education.

INSTEAD OF RECEIVING a letter grade, a student gets a written essay from his teacher on what he has and hasn't accomplished.

Nobody is required to keep dormitory hours, and some dormitories are coed.

Many students are devoted to vegetarian diets of organic foods, so special counters are set up for them in cafeterias.

Students are encouraged to think up their own courses of study. Some have even gone to India to learn yoga, and one youth studied Mark Twain by spending a quarter term taking a raft trip down the Mississippi.

Last June, Santa Cruz' Merrill College graduation ceremony was a kind of a Quaker meeting held in a meadow, followed by a feast. Crown College's outdoor ceremony at least included chairs for people to sit on, and College V decided to hold no ceremony at all.

BY THE ONLY available measures, the system is working. The drop-out rate is half normal. Santa Cruz students have a high rate of success in obtaining admission to graduate schools, and last year they were seventh in the nation in their number of Woodrow Wilson Fellowships won.

However, those admitted to Santa Cruz generally have higher scholastic aptitudes than those at the other eight university of California campuses. In high school 56 per cent had "A Averages."

For every opening, Santa Cruz has four qualified applicants. Its admission policy is unusual in that the man-woman ratio is 50-50.

In casual conversations, the students seem both more relaxed and more serious than their counterparts on other campuses.

MARCIA McGRATH, a student activity coordinator trained at Radcliffe, says, "I find these students highly individualistic and frighteningly mature. Sometimes I just can't face another vibrant personality."

"What I like best," says Moira Gibbens, a junior, "is the closeness. You know by face everybody who lives in your college."

For David Kadish, a sophomore, the best part is that "the faculty is very accessible, very encouraging and very warm."

The most common complaint is the isolation of the campus, 90 miles south of San Francisco, and relative lack of planned social events. Santa Cruz has no fraternities and no intercollegiate sports.

Some of the unhappy ones, satisfied students say, are those "who need structure and can't take responsibility for planning their own education."

"BUT THE MOST UNHAPPY are the student radicals," says Jane Hanson, a

sophomore. "They have been deprived of all their standard issues."

Among Santa Cruz' problems, one administrator cites a surprising one—after graduation a sizable number of students like the place too much to leave. They move into nearby communities, often unemployed, and "this is very disconcerting."

A campus strength is the open door policy of the faculty, some of whom live on campus. The faculty mingles and eats with students because, as chancellor McHenry says, "we have no Jim Crow faculty clubs here."

Yet this too, can be a problem, McHenry says, because some faculty "prostitute themselves by trying to look, dress and talk like students. Some in that group let down their academic standards."

McHenry's greatest disappointment: He says the faculty hasn't fully exploited the opportunities for educational innovation.

Man Arrested On Several Charges

Sherry R. Clark, 25, of 326 Caburn St., Mount Vernon, is being held in Cook County Jail pending a Dec. 9 hearing on charges of contributing to the delinquency of a minor, unlawful use of a weapon and possession of depressants.

According to Hanover Park police who arrested Clark Tuesday at 4:30 a.m. in a parking lot across from the police station on Lake Street he was unable to post bond set at $3,000.

Police report they found Clark and a minor girl who has been turned over to the custody of her parents asleep in his auto.

Police added depressants and a gun were also found in the auto.

Sgt. Donald Wood who made the arrest questioned Clark because the auto answered the description included in a missing person bulletin issued by DuPage Sheriff's police.

Study Made On Ice Thickness

Following completion of study now in progress, George F. Seaver park board member may recommend ice skating on Hoffman Estates park ponds be permitted before core borings reveal an eight-inch thickness.

Seaver told park board members this week he may call for policy revision on the ice thickness when results of a survey of 8 to 10 area park districts have been compiled.

Presently the park district will not display the green flag at park ponds until core borings prove eight inches, but Seaver said that from talking with other districts, a four inch stipulation might be in order.

Present policy was formulated following consultation with Chicago Park District, although Seaver feels the depth for each pond could vary in order to provide a longer skating season.

Meanwhile, park officials have stressed that skating on park ponds is not permitted while red warning flags are displayed.

Auto Crash Victim

In Good Condition

A Hanover Park man, injured in an auto accident Tuesday afternoon at Northway Drive and Rte. 10, is in good condition today said St. Alexius Hospital authorities in Elk Grove Village.

Melvin Mitofski, 29, of 1736 Princeton Circle is being treated for a concussion and neck sprain.

According to patrolman Raoul Hill investigating the accident Mitofski's auto allegedly was struck from behind by an auto driven by Jack P. Moore, 37, of 1591 Hillcrest Dr., Hanover Park.

Moore was ticketed for failure to slow down to avoid an accident and must appear in Schaumburg Court Jan. 7 to answer the charge.

Bowling Tourney

Draws Youngsters

A bowling tournament sponsored by the Schaumburg Jaycees drew 61 participants between the ages of 12 and 17 Friday in Hoffman Bowling Alley, Higgins Road.

Top winners received trophies, while each contestant was given an entry ribbon and door prizes were record albums. Winners were chosen on the basis of a three-game total score.

Gary Brooks, scoring 468, took first place in scratch bowling for boys 12 and 13, while second went to Mark Michalski, 448. In the same age group, Kenny Banaszak scored 556 to win first place in handicap bowling. Gerry Shotsberger, scoring 520, was second.

Scratch winners in the 14 and 15 year age group were Marty Wojas, first with 531, and Jim Garvos, second with 448. Handicap winners were Wayne Paling, 565, and Joe Losos, 547.

For boys 16 to 18, Dave Jones placed first in scratch bowling at 494. Nicholas Cakkiolas took first for handicap bowling at 566.

In the girls' division, age 12 to 14, Debbie Roberts won scratch competition with a score of 447. Donna Mazzone led handicap bowlers with her score of 538.

Nancy Anderson led girls 15 to 17 in scratch bowling at 443. In handicap competition for that group, Janet Waspi won with a score of 542.

The Almanac

by UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL
Today is Thursday, Dec. 3, the 337th day of 1970.

The moon is between its new phase and first quarter.

The morning stars are Venus, Mars and Jupiter.

The evening stars are Mercury and Saturn.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Sagittarius.

On this day in history:

In 1818 Illinois entered the Union as the 21st state.

In 1833 Oberlin College in Ohio, the first truly co-educational school in the United States, opened with an enrollment of 29 men and 15 women.

In 1929 the Ford Motor Company raised daily wages from $6 to $7 despite the collapse of the stock market.

In 1948 the nation learned that microfilm of secret American documents had been found in a pumpkin on the farm of Whittaker Chambers.

A thought for today: Jane Austen said, "It is a truth universally acknowledged that a single man in possession of a good fortune must be in want of a wife."

FAMILY NIGHT at the new Neptune's Swimming Pool at Wheeling High School Tuesday gave Mr. and Mrs. Bob Harrison a chance to show their 22-month-old son Ricky that swimming is fun. Family swim night is held from 6:30 to 10 p.m. every Tuesday at the Wheeling Park District Pool which opened Nov. 15.

New Party Forming For April Vote

A new political party is being organized for next April's village elections in Wheeling. The new party, named the Wheeling Independent Party, has issued a statement of policy that it will "give the voters of the village a genuine voice and choice in local government."

Officials of the party have scheduled a public meeting for 8 p.m. Dec. 11 at the Lutheran Church of the Good Shepherd, 1111 Elmhurst Rd., Prospect Heights.

The steering committee for the party is made up of Gerald Fuller, Otis (Skip) Hedlund, and Norbert Bigalke.

BIGALKE SAID yesterday that approximately 35 people have signed up to work for the new party at an organizational meeting held last month. The party gained a number of supporters at a village board meeting from among those in the audience at the meeting. At that meeting about 50 persons appeared to voice their opposition to a new village manager ordinance being considered by the village board.

The Dec. 11 meeting is the first open to the general public, he said.

The party's purpose, Bigalke said, is to "seek out and support qualified candidates for the local village board."

According to a spokesman for the group, a full slate of candidates from the party will file in the upcoming elections. Voters will choose four trustees in the elections.

"Many Wheeling citizens feel that an uncontested election is not fair because it offers no choice to the voters and does not obligate the winner to the electorate," Bigalke said.

"It discourages discussions and debate on the best possible ways to solve the problems of our village," he said.

(The last village election in Wheeling was uncontested except for two write-in candidates, one of whom declared his candidacy only a day before the election.)

THE PARTY hopes to "combat apathy concerning village offices," he said, and also hopes to "encourage some of the many qualified people to run for elective posts in our village government."

"We urge anyone who has an interest in village affairs to please attend the meeting Dec. 11," he said.

Committees to work on a platform for the party, to nominate candidates, and to organize the campaign's publicity will be appointed at the meeting, Bigalke said.

Candidate Petitions Are Available Now

Petitions for candidates to file in next April's village elections in Wheeling are available now at the office of the Wheeling village clerk in the Municipal Building, 255 W. Dundee Rd.

Village Clerk Evelyn Diens said yesterday that petitions both for independent candidates and party filings for the April 20 election are now available.

A cover sheet explaining requirements for filing the petitions will be given out along with the petitions, Mrs. Diens said.

Filing dates for the election begin on Jan. 11, and end on Feb. 15, 1971.

Four trustee posts will be up in the upcoming election.

A two-year post for the remainder of the term vacated by William Hart will be on the ballot along with three four-year trustee terms.

Village trustees whose terms expire with the April election are Peter Egan, Ira Bird, John Koeppen and Ronaki Bruhn. Bruhn, who was appointed to fill Hart's post on the board, must be elected by voters in order to remain on the board after the April election.

Zoning Unit OKs Condominium Site

The site of a proposed 162-unit condominium development in southern Wheeling received rezoning approval from the Wheeling Zoning Board of Appeal Tuesday night following a public hearing.

The zoning board's recommendation will be forwarded to the village board, the group that will make the final decision on the rezoning proposal.

The proposed development would be built on 10 acres adjacent to the original Sandpebble Walk development on Palatine Road about 300 feet west of Wheeling Road. It would be northwest of the original development.

Irving Miller of Miller-LaPierre Inc., of Wheeling, the firm planning to develop the site, told the zoning board members that the new complex would be similar in design to the original Sandpebble Walk, currently under construction.

The proposed development would be north of a group of single-family homes on Palatine Road west of the dead end of Robert Avenue in Prospect Heights.

CURRENTLY THE PROPERTY is zoned for single-family homes. It was annexed to the village only recently.

Miller testified Tuesday at the public hearing that the development would form a buffer zone between the homes in the area and Wheeling's industrial park.

Streets from the two developments would be connected, according to Miller. He said the streets in the original development were designed in anticipation of the second unit.

The original development includes 192 condominium apartments and an office building on Palatine Road. The second complex would have 162 condominium apartments, he said.

The proposed development would consist primarily of two-bedroom units in three-story buildings.

MILLER SAID he would agree to build no apartment units with more than two bedrooms.

The buildings would contain elevators. Miller said, however, that though present plans called for three-story structures, he might build four-story buildings instead. The number of total units would remain the same, but the amount of green area would increase.

Also part of the development would be a swimming pool for the use of the tenants.

An engineer testified at Tuesday's hearing that a small portion of the property lies within a flood plain. He said that either underground water storage areas or retention basins would have to be part of the development.

Miller said that negotiations concerning a financial donation to School Dist. 23 (the district in which the development would be located) were under way. No agreement has been reached yet, however.

DOUGLAS CARGILL, zoning board chairman, said a potential problem with the subdivision of the property (legally making the parcel a separate tract) would have to be discussed when the matter reached the plan commission.

Following those comments the board unanimously agreed to recommend that the village board grant the rezoning.

Also Tuesday night the zoning board was to hold a hearing for a rezoning request for a site at 54 W. Hintz Rd. Owners are seeking planned development zoning for that parcel. However, the hearing was continued until Dec. 15 at the request of the property owners.

Kids 'Pin' Hopes In Local Alley

Every Tuesday after school, a group of youthful bowlers from Oliver Wendell Holmes Junior High School in Wheeling gathers at the Buffalo Grove Rosebowl to try a hand at bowling.

More than 100 seventh and eighth-grade students are enrolled in the program, according to Leah Dickerson, physical education instructor at Holmes. She said about 70 boys and 40 girls bowl in the program.

This is the second year the bowling league has been included in the intramural program, Miss Dickerson said.

Other activities in the fall program are basketball, volleyball, flag football, and field hockey.

Each boy and girl bowl two games at each session. There are a total of seven teams, with each team composed of five or six bowlers, Miss Dickerson said. Weekly standings are kept, and, at the end of the program shortly before Christmas, awards will be given to the five boys and girls with the highest average and highest single game scores, she said.

Glaucoma Testing Unit Here Today

Persons in Wheeling and Buffalo Grove can have their eyes tested for glaucoma free next week. A mobile glaucoma screening unit operated by the Illinois Society will be brought to the area then.

The mobile unit will be in Wheeling on Tuesday from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. and from 6:30 to 9 p.m. It will be at the shopping center at 303 E. Dundee Rd. in front on Mark's Drug Store. Ed Schlangen, Wheeling Lions Club president, has urged residents, especially those over 35 because they are more susceptible to the disease, to have their eyes checked at the unit.

Richard Holtz, president of the Buffalo Grove Lions Club, has announced that his organization will sponsor the unit's visit to Buffalo Grove from 5 to 9 p.m. on Wednesday.

The unit is designed to detect unknown cases of the eye disease so that early treatment may prevent the blindness which may result from the disease.

McClory: Man With No Office Hours

by ED MURNANE
WASHINGTON, D.C. — Twenty years in elected state and national offices have taught U.S. Rep. Robert McClory the ins and outs of political life but they haven't tarnished his respect for America's law-making process.

McClory was reelected congressman for Illinois' 12th District (including Lake County and Hanover Township) last month and in January, when the 92nd Congress convenes, he'll have two occasions to celebrate.

One will come on opening day when he begins his fifth term in the House of Representatives and his 20th year in elected office.

The other will come later in the month when he'll reach his 63rd birthday. He doesn't take his place in the inner sanctum of government for granted, despite 20 years of watching government leaders come and go, succeed and fail.

"I'm still very much impressed by the real significance of what we are doing here," he said two weeks ago. "Every one of our votes is important and every decision we make can have a great impact on the world."

"I'M CONSTANTLY conscious of the role we have — not only in forming domestic policy and programs, but also in forming foreign policy and maintaining our position of leadership in the world," he said.

McClory's life in government service began in 1950 when he was elected to the Illinois House of Representatives. He served one term in the House before moving up to the Illinois Senate where he served from 1953 until he resigned to run for Congress in 1962.

He was elected that year and has been reelected four times since then.

After eight years in the House of Representatives, McClory has developed a Capitol Hill routine designed to get max-

Office Hours? Not For Him

imuse out of every day. Unlike many congressmen and other government officials who live in the Washington suburbs in Maryland or Virginia, McClory lives on Constitution Avenue, only five blocks east of the Cannon House Office Building. He walks to work every morning, arriving in time for breakfast meetings two or three times a week.

HIS FIRST OFFICE appointments are scheduled for 9 a.m. and between then and 10 a.m., he reviews his mail, meets with his staff, looks at the Congressional Record and reads the Chicago newspapers.

Committee and subcommittee meetings begin at 10 a.m. and McClory leaves with a file of correspondence, bills and other matters which he'll need during the day or wants to review.

From his meetings — once a week they include a state department briefing — McClory goes to the House chambers in the Capitol where he answers his name on the first roll call, generally shortly after the House convenes at noon.

"I try to squeeze in a lunch sometime along the way," he said. "If the House is in session, I'll eat lunch on the Hill, rather than risk missing a roll call."

Depending on the subject being debated in the House, McClory will spend most of the afternoon in the House chambers or in his office across the street. When the bells ring for quorum calls or roll call votes, he'll use the subway to make the short trip to the Capitol Building.

The House usually adjourns between 6 and 7 p.m. and McClory will return to his office to sign mail that must go out on that day. He keeps one of his secretaries with him until all mail and all of the day's work is finished.

EVENINGS ARE also important in Washington and McClory, despite being a non-drinker, tries to attend some of the many receptions that make Washington nightlife famous.

"There's something scheduled almost every night, and frequently more than one a night," he said. "I'll try to go to the ones that have constituents involved or are being sponsored by people from Illinois. They're disappointed if you don't attend."

McClory said he's much more selective in picking social events to attend than he was during his first term.

"The social life here can be pretty tiring," he said.

McClory returns to the 12th District "usually twice a month." He flies in on Friday morning and will return to Washington either Saturday evening or Sunday morning.

"Most of the time I spend in the district involves attending meetings. I try to schedule a number of events when I'm home. I don't go there just to be there."

His contact with his constituents is not limited to his visits to the district. Most of his mail is from constituents and he said he gets many visitors from the 12th District, particularly in January when Congress reconvenes.

"MOST — BUT NOT ALL — of the mail agrees with me or is urging me to vote a particular way on upcoming legislation," he said. "I think I'm usually in tune with the people back home, although sometimes that's not so."

He said he recently got a number of post cards from Catholics who opposed the family planning and birth control bill which he supported.

"I also had a lot of requests to explain why I voted for an 18-year-old voting age," he said.

McClory said he gets "very few nasty letters," adding that they come "from the way outs on both sides. If it's too nasty, I just won't answer it."

McClory looks to the 92nd Congress to be "more amenable to President Nixon than was the 91st."

"I don't think that will happen because there will be more Republicans in the Senate, but because I think the President will follow a more moderate line," he said.

"I THINK THE President's domestic reforms have generated considerable support from state and local officials since they give more authority to the states and local governments in the areas of crime control, education and anti-pollution efforts.

"And I think the nation is now pursuing a sound long-range peace policy, thanks to the President."

McClory said he thinks he may have a closer working relationship with Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson III during the next session of Congress than he will have with Sen. Charles H. Percy.

McClory is a native of Cook County and graduated from Dartmouth University and Kent College of Law. He currently lives in Lake Bluff.

Public Service Their Goal

Editor's Note: The following is the last of two articles on the League of Women Voters of the Arlington Heights-Mount Prospect area. This year is the 50th anniversary of the founding of the first League of Women Voters.

by SANDRA BROWNING

The two words mentioned most often by members involved in the League of Women Voters are "public service."

Voter registration drives, providing information on candidates, studying issues and other projects are all done as public service projects.

Pat Gardner, president of the League of Women Voters of the Arlington Heights-Mount Prospect area, said the league does not take a position on a local issue until members have studied it. Also, the league cannot take a position or testify on a local issue unless the chapter has done a "Know Your Town" study. After this type of study is done, the town's name can be added to the local chapter's name.

MEMBERS SAID that since the membership of residents from Elk Grove was growing, these members may be doing a "Know Your Town" study soon.

By studying issues, the 150-member league has a strong base "when we do begin to act," said Marilyn Marier, Con-Con chairman.

On the volatile issue of low and moderate income housing in Arlington Heights, league members decided to issue a fact sheet because "so many questions were asked."

"We thought it would be a public service to make information available," the league president said.

In addition to making information on elections and issues available to the public, the league also has an "Observer Corps." Members of the local group attend meetings of school boards, village boards and other governmental units and report back on the activities of these groups.

A few years ago, a league observer was such a regular sight at Arlington Heights Plan Commission meetings that she named a street in the village. A proposed development needed a name for a street and the plan commissioners asked the woman for an appropriate name.

HER SUGGESTION was approved by the commission.

Also as a public service, the league has printed a small booklet entitled "Who's Who in Local Government." The booklet includes the names and phone numbers of village, park and school district officials in Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect, Elk Grove Village, Prospect Heights, Hoffman Estates and Wheeling.

The league members described their involvement with the league as stimulating because "we're always learning," said the local league president.

Madeline Schroeder, a league member, said the league "lets in any kind of ideas. It's a tremendous forum."

ALTHOUGH SOMETIMES a member will join because she wants to work on a "pet problem, the member usually ends up getting involved in everything," Mrs. Marier said.

Betty Newbart, human resources chairman, said that during the process of studying and discussing problems, "You find that nothing is simple."

Mrs. Schroeder said membership involvement in the league teaches members that "knowledge is a tremendous strength." It also teaches them how to get information a person needs to make decisions, she said.

Although the league activities are sometimes time-consuming, the members said they found their involvement worthwhile.

Mrs. Gardner said she had been a member of some other types of organizations with which she wasn't happy. She heard about the league through a professor in college and has been involved with league activities for about 13 years. "I enjoy it more than anything I've ever done."

Members agreed that once a woman joins the league, "You join it wherever you go," said Mrs. Schroeder. She originally became involved with the league in the 1950's in Pennsylvania.

MRS. NEWBART said the league was the only civic organization in which she was active and she had heard about league activities in a high school civics class.

Mary Lou Shepherd, vice president and voter service chairman, said she became involved in league activities when she worked for a lawyer who became involved with politics. "It just seemed natural to someone interested in politics," she said.

With the existing political structure being so complicated, "You need outside help to be able to understand it," Mrs. Shepherd said.

Mrs. Marier said that she enjoys the league because "I'd really like to do something rather than just discuss things."

The members agreed they enjoyed the women they met in the league because the other members "don't just talk about diapers."

Although the women are spending time on league activities, they find that they still spend time with their children. However, a standing league joke is that when a woman becomes a league member, her semi-annual housecleaning and monthly window washing becomes one annual housecleaning.

MRS. MARIER said that her children identified with her activity and Mrs. Schroeder said that sometimes her children will ask her advice on issues.

"Children have a better response to you when you know what's going on," Mrs. Marier said.

Mrs. Schroeder said that one fringe benefit of the league membership is that "it gives you the knowledge you need to run for an office." Mrs. Schroeder was a candidate for a Con-Con delegate. She said that of the 15 female delegates at Con-Con, nine of them were members of the League of Women Voters.

Mrs. Schroeder said that members joke that their activities include everything from "scrubbing floors to meeting heads of state."

Food Drive In Fourth Day

The cans are starting to pile up at Wheeling High School as the canned food drive to help the needy at Christmas enters its fourth day.

As of yesterday morning, 2,059 pounds of canned food had been collected by Wheeling High students.

The sophomore class collected the most, with 894½ pounds. The freshmen were second with 464 pounds. The juniors were third with 370 pounds, and the seniors last with 330 pounds collected. Prizes will be awarded to the class that collects the most food.

"This is a lot less than is usually collected. Generally they collect about 20,000 pounds, but the juniors and seniors traditionally wait until the last day to bring in their food," said Paul Mueller, director of student activities at the high school.

The students are canvassing the community for canned food. The food will be donated to Lydia's Children's Home in Chicago, Norwesco and Wheeling Township for distribution to the needy. The driver, sponsored by the class boards and a student council, will continue through tomorrow.

Nab Doctor On Sex Charges

Cook County Sheriff's police Tuesday night arrested a physician in his office just west of Des Plaines and charged him with the deviate sexual assault of several of his patients.

Dr. James Middleton, 44, a general practitioner, was taken into custody in his office at 959 Elmhurst Rd. about 8 p.m. Tuesday by sheriff's police. Middleton was with a female patient at the time of his arrest.

According to Det. Donald Shaw, who led the raid into Middleton's office, the arrest came after a two month investigation in which a number of Middleton's suburban women patients complained that the doctor had drugged them and then committed deviate sexual attacks.

Shaw said they also found pipe bombs, detonators, three handguns, pornographic photos, literature and movies and artificial devices for sexual stimulation in the doctor's office. Sheriff's police also found a quantity of what Shaw called "dangerous drugs which could incapacitate a person if taken."

Shaw said Middleton, of 2800 Lake Shore Dr., Chicago, gave no resistance and the only explanation the doctor gave for having the guns was that he had been threatened and needed to protect himself. Shaw added that Middleton will also be charged with possession of explosives and unlawful use of a weapon.

HE WAS RELEASED Wednesday morning on $15,000 bond and is scheduled to appear in Niles Circuit Court Dec. 29. Shaw said the state's attorney intends to ask for a grand jury hearing in the case.

Shaw said that although a number of women have already complained to the sheriff's police, more of Middleton's patients or former patients will come forward if they have complaints.

The police were armed with a warrant Tuesday night issued by Circuit Court Judge Anton Smigiel.

Middleton, a staff member of St. Joseph's hospital in Chicago, was acquitted by a jury in St. Louis in 1961 on a charge of drugging and raping a housewife, according to Shaw.

Student Council Sets Showing Of 'Dracula'

The movie, "Dracula," starring Bela Lugosi, will be shown Friday at Oliver Wendell Holmes Junior High School in Wheeling. The movie will be shown at 7:30 p.m. and 9 p.m. in the Holmes gymnasium. Admission is 50 cents.

The program is being sponsored by the Holmes student council.

The council plans to sponsor the showing of additional movies, as well as dances, swimming and roller skating parties, later in the school year.

PTA-Sponsored Show Set For December 12

The Mark Twain Elementary School PTA will sponsor the showing of "Alakazam the Great" and two color cartoons, Dec. 12 at the school in Wheeling.

There will be a showing at 10 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. Admission is 40 cents.

Seek Librarian For Children's Section

A children's librarian is being sought by the Wheeling Public Library District.

The librarian should have a college degree in library science and background in children's literature, according to head librarian Ray Deutsch.

Deutsch said the children's librarian is being sought as part of a program to improve the children's section of the Wheeling Library system.

Harpists To Play At Wheeling High

Harpists Joe Longstreth and John Escosa will appear in concert Monday at Wheeling High School.

Their performance will begin at 8 p.m. in the Little Theatre.

The concert will be the second of four concerts to be given this year in the Northwest Community Concert Association program.

Longstreth and Escosa have appeared throughout the country both in recital and with orchestra accompaniment, including an appearance at Carnegie Hall in New York City.

Ticket information concerning the concert may be obtained by calling the membership chairman of the community concert association at 537-2940.

The two remaining concerts will feature folksingers Addis and Croft on Jan. 25 and the Lee Evans Trio on Feb. 19.

Hopefuls For April Election Being Sought

The Buffalo Grove Alliance, a village independent political party is in the process of selecting a slate of candidates for the village election in April, according to the vice-president of the organization.

Philip Stephens told the Herald yesterday the final slate of candidates will be presented to the general membership of the organization by Jan. 15. The village election will be held next April 20.

He said the slating committee consists of five people from the alliance. "They are in the process of finding out who is interested in running and also seeking out some people who haven't expressed interest and encouraging them to run," Stephens said.

"The committee will select the people and present them to the rest of the membership. Then each of the candidates will give a short speech on his background, and then the members will vote on who the alliance will support in the upcoming election," he said.

Stephens said another committee is preparing a platform which also will be presented to the membership for final approval.

"THE PLATFORM committee will work in conjunction with the candidates in coming up with specific proposals on the issues," Stephens added.

"Precinct committees and a regular campaign organization to support these people is also in the process of being formed," according to Stephens.

The next meeting of the Buffalo Grove Alliance will be at 8 p.m. Dec. 21 at James Fenimore Cooper Junior High School.

The first date for filing candidate petitions is Jan. 11. The final date for filing is February 15, Village Clerk Rosalie Kaszubowski said yesterday.

She pointed out however, that the petitions can be picked up now at the village municipal building, but can not be returned until Jan. 11. To be eligible to be placed on the ballot in the April election, a candidate must have "no less than 30 or more than 50" signatures on the petition, Mrs. Kaszubowski said.

Candidates will be filing for six village posts: that of village president, village clerk, three four-year trustee terms, and one two-year trustee term.

Book Fair Set At St. Mary's School

A book fair will be held Dec. 11 and Dec. 13 in the hall of St. Mary's Catholic School in Buffalo Grove.

On Dec. 11 the fair will run from 11 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. On Dec. 13 the fair will be held from 8:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.

A wide variety of children's and adult books will be for sale. They will include both paperback and hard cover editions.

Proceeds from the fair will benefit the school library.

The fair is being sponsored by the education commission of St. Mary's parish.

Zoning Unit OKs Condominium Site

The site of a proposed 162-unit condominium development in southern Wheeling received rezoning approval from the Wheeling Zoning Board of Appeal Tuesday night following a public hearing.

The zoning board's recommendation will be forwarded to the village board, the group that will make the final decision on the rezoning proposal.

The proposed development would be built on 10 acres adjacent to the original Sandpebble Walk development on Palatine Road about 300 feet west of Wheeling Road. It would be northwest of the original development.

Irving Miller of Miller-LaPierre Inc., of Wheeling, the firm planning to develop the site, told the zoning board members that the new complex would be similar in design to the original Sandpebble Walk, currently under construction.

The proposed development would be north of a group of single-family homes on Palatine Road west of the dead end of Robert Avenue in Prospect Heights.

CURRENTLY THE PROPERTY is zoned for single-family homes. It was annexed to the village only recently.

Miller testified Tuesday at the public hearing that the development would form a buffer zone between the homes in the area and Wheeling's industrial park.

Streets from the two developments would be connected, according to Miller. He said the streets in the original development were designed in anticipation of the second unit.

The original development includes 162 condominium apartments and an office building on Palatine Road. The second complex would have 162 condominium apartments, he said.

The proposed development would consist primarily of two-bedroom units in three-story buildings.

MILLER SAID he would agree to build no apartment units with more than two bedrooms.

The buildings would contain elevators. Miller said, however, that though present plans called for three-story structures, he might build four-story buildings instead. The number of total units would remain the same, but the amount of green area would increase.

Also part of the development would be a swimming pool for the use of the tenants.

An engineer testified at Tuesday's hearing that a small portion of the property lies within a flood plain. He said that either underground water storage areas or retention basins would have to be part of the development.

Miller said that negotiations concerning a financial donation to School Dist. 23 (the district in which the development would be located) were under way. No agreement has been reached yet, however.

DOUGLAS CARGILL, zoning board chairman, said a potential problem with the subdivision of the property (legally making the parcel a separate tract) would have to be discussed when the matter reached the plan commission.

Following those comments the board unanimously agreed to recommend that the village board grant the rezoning.

Also Tuesday night the zoning board was to hold a hearing for a rezoning request for a site at 54 W. Hintz Rd. Owners are seeking planned development zoning for that parcel. However, the hearing was continued until Dec. 15 at the request of the property owners.

Kids 'Pin' Hopes In Local Alley

Every Tuesday after school, a group of youthful bowlers from Oliver Wendell Holmes Junior High School in Wheeling gathers at the Buffalo Grove Rosebowl to try a hand at bowling.

More than 100 seventh and eighth grade students are enrolled in the program, according to Leah Dickerson, physical education instructor at Holmes. She said about 70 boys and 40 girls bowl in the program.

This is the second year the bowling league has been included in the intramural program, Miss Dickerson said.

Other activities in the fall program are basketball, volleyball, flag football, and field hockey.

Each boy and girl bowl two games at each session. There are a total of seven teams, with each team composed of five or six bowlers, Miss Dickerson said. Weekly standings are kept, and, at the end of the program shortly before Christmas, awards will be given to the five boys and girls with the highest average and highest single game scores, she said.

Glaucoma Testing Unit Here Today

Persons in Wheeling and Buffalo Grove can have their eyes tested for glaucoma free next week. A mobile glaucoma screening unit operated by the Illinois Society will be brought to the area then.

The mobile unit will be in Wheeling on Tuesday from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. and from 6:30 to 9 p.m. It will be at the shopping center at 308 E. Dundee Rd. in front of Mark's Drug Store. Ed Schlangen, Wheeling Lions Club president, has urged residents, especially those over 35 because they are more susceptible to the disease, to have their eyes checked at the unit.

Richard Holtz, president of the Buffalo Grove Lions Club, has announced that his organization will sponsor the unit's visit to Buffalo Grove from 5 to 9 p.m. on Wednesday.

The mobile unit will be stationed at the Ranch Mart Shopping Center during its visit to Buffalo Grove.

The unit is designed to detect unknown cases of the eye disease so that early treatment may prevent the blindness which may result from the disease.

McClory: Man With No Office Hours

by ED MURNANE
WASHINGTON, D.C. — Twenty years in elected state and national offices have taught U.S. Rep. Robert McClory the ins and outs of political life but they haven't tarnished his respect for America's law-making process.

McClory was reelected congressman for Illinois' 12th District (including Lake County and Hanover Township) last month and in January, when the 92nd Congress convenes, he'll have two occasions to celebrate.

One will come on opening day when he begins his fifth term in the House of Representatives and his 26th year in elected office.

The other will come later in the month when he'll reach his 63rd birthday. He doesn't take his place in the inner sanctum of government for granted, despite 20 years of watching government leaders come and go, succeed and fail.

"I'm still very much impressed by the real significance of what we are doing here," he said two weeks ago. "Every one of our votes is important and every decision we make can have a great impact on the world."

"I'M CONSTANTLY conscious of the role we have — not only in forming domestic policy and programs, but also in forming foreign policy and maintaining our position of leadership in the world," he said.

McClory's life in government service began in 1950 when he was elected to the Illinois House of Representatives. He served one term in the House before moving up to the Illinois Senate where he served from 1953 until he resigned to run for Congress in 1962.

He was elected that year and has been reelected four times since then.

After eight years in the House of Representatives, McClory has developed a Capitol Hill routine designed to get max-

Hopefuls For April Election Being Sought

The Buffalo Grove Alliance, a village independent political party is in the process of selecting a slate of candidates for the village election in April, according to the vice-president of the organization.

Philip Stephens told the Herald yesterday the final slate of candidates will be presented to the general membership of the organization by Jan. 15. The village election will be held next April 20.

He said the slating committee consists of five people from the alliance. "They are in the process of finding out who is interested in running and also seeking out some people who haven't expressed interest and encouraging them to run," Stephens said.

"The committee will select the people and present them to the rest of the membership. Then each of the candidates will give a short speech on his background, and then the members will vote on who the alliance will support in the upcoming election," he said.

Stephens said another committee is preparing a platform which also will be presented to the membership for final approval.

"THE PLATFORM committee will work in conjunction with the candidates in coming up with specific proposals on the issues," Stephens added.

"Precinct committees and a regular campaign organization to support these people is also in the process of being formed," according to Stephens.

The next meeting of the Buffalo Grove Alliance will be at 8 p.m. Dec. 21 at James Fenimore Cooper Junior High School.

The first date for filing candidate petitions is Jan. 11. The final date for filing is February 15, Village Clerk Rosalie Kaszubowski said yesterday.

She pointed out however, that the petitions can be picked up now at the village municipal building, but can not be returned until Jan. 11. To be eligible to be placed on the ballot in the April election, a candidate must have "no less than 30 or more than 50" signatures on the petition, Mrs. Kaszubowski said.

Candidates will be filing for six village posts: that of village president, village clerk, three four-year trustee terms, and one two-year trustee term.

Book Fair Set At St. Mary's School

A book fair will be held Dec. 11 and Dec. 13 in the hall of St. Mary's Catholic School in Buffalo Grove.

On Dec. 11 the fair will run from 11 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. On Dec. 13 the fair will be held from 8:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.

A wide variety of children's and adult books will be for sale. They will include both paperback and hard cover editions.

Proceeds from the fair will benefit the school library.

The fair is being sponsored by the education commission of St. Mary's parish.

Zoning Unit OKs Condominium Site

The site of a proposed 162-unit condominium development in southern Wheeling received rezoning approval from the Wheeling Zoning Board of Appeal Tuesday night following a public hearing.

The zoning board's recommendation will be forwarded to the village board, the group that will make the final decision on the rezoning proposal.

The proposed development would be built on 10 acres adjacent to the original Sandpebble Walk development on Palatine Road about 300 feet west of Wheeling Road. It would be northwest of the original development.

Irving Miller of Miller-LaPierre Inc., of Wheeling, the firm planning to develop the site, told the zoning board members that the new complex would be similar in design to the original Sandpebble Walk, currently under construction.

The proposed development would be north of a group of single-family homes on Palatine Road west of the dead end of Robert Avenue in Prospect Heights.

CURRENTLY THE PROPERTY is zoned for single-family homes. It was annexed to the village only recently.

The proposed development would consist primarily of two-bedroom units in three-story buildings.

MILLER SAID he would agree to build no apartment units with more than two bedrooms.

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Twenty years in elected state and national offices have taught U.S. Rep. Robert McClory the ins and outs of political life but they haven't tarnished his respect for America's law-making process.

Office Hours? Not For Him

immun use out of every day. Unlike many congressmen and other government officials who live in the Washington suburbs in Maryland or Virginia, McClory lives on Constitution Avenue, only five blocks east of the Cannon House Office Building.

He walks to work every morning, arriving in time for breakfast meetings two or three times a week.

HIS FIRST OFFICE appointments are scheduled for 9 a.m. and between then and 10 a.m., he reviews his mail, meets with his staff, looks at the Congressional Record and reads the Chicago newspapers.

Committee and subcommittee meetings begin at 10 a.m. and McClory leaves with a file of correspondence, bills and other matters which he'll need during the day or wants to review.

From his meetings — once a week they include a state department briefing — McClory goes to the House chambers in the Capitol where he answers his name on the first roll call, generally shortly after the House convenes at noon.

"I try to squeeze in a lunch sometime along the way," he said. "If the House is in session, I'll eat lunch on the Hill, rather than risk missing a roll call."

Depending on the subject being debated in the House, McClory will spend most of the afternoon in the House chambers or in his office across the street. When the bells ring for quorum calls or roll call votes, he'll use the subway to make the short trip to the Capitol Building.

The House usually adjourns between 6 and 7 p.m. and McClory will return to his office to sign mail that must go out on that day. He keeps one of his secretaries with him until all mail and all of the day's work is finished.

EVENINGS ARE also important in Washington and McClory, despite being a non-drinker, tries to attend some of the many receptions that make Washington nightlife famous.

"There's something scheduled almost every night, and frequently more than one a night," he said. "I'll try to go to the ones that have constituents involved or are being sponsored by people from Illinois. They're disappointed if you don't attend."

McClory said he's much more selective in picking social events to attend than he was during his first term.

"The social life here can be pretty tiring," he said.

McClory returns to the 12th District "usually twice a month." He files in on Friday morning and will return to Washington either Saturday evening or Sunday morning.

"Most of the time I spend in the district involves attending meetings. I try to schedule a number of events when I'm home. I don't go there just to be there."

His contact with his constituents is not limited to his visits to the district. Most of his mail is from constituents and he said he gets many visitors from the 12th District, particularly in January when Congress reconvenes.

"MOST — BUT NOT all — of the mail agrees with me or is urging me to vote a particular way on upcoming legislation," he said. "I think I'm usually in tune with the people back home, although sometimes that's not so."

He said he recently got a number of post cards from Catholics who opposed the family planning and birth control bill which he supported.

"I also had a lot of requests to explain why I voted for an 18-year-old voting age," he said.

McClory said he gets "very few nasty letters," adding that they come "from the way out on both sides. If it's too nasty, I just won't answer it."

McClory looks to the 92nd Congress to be "more amenable to President Nixon than was the 91st."

"I don't think that will happen because there will be more Republicans in the Senate, but because I think the President will follow a more moderate line," he said.

"I THINK THE President's domestic reforms have generated considerable support from state and local officials since they give more authority to the states and local governments in the areas of crime control, education and anti-pollution efforts."

"And I think the nation is now pursuing a sound long-range peace policy, thanks to the President."

McClory said he thinks he may have a closer working relationship with Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson III during the next session of Congress than he will have with Sen. Charles H. Percy.

McClory is a native of Cook County and graduated from Dartmouth University and Kent College of Law. He currently lives in Lake Bluff.

Public Service Their Goal

Editor's Note: The following is the last of two articles on the League of Women Voters of the Arlington Heights-Mount Prospect area. This year is the 50th anniversary of the founding of the first League of Women Voters.

by SANDRA BROWNING

The two words mentioned most often by members involved in the League of Women Voters are "public service."

Voter registration drives, providing information on candidates, studying issues and other projects are all done as public service projects.

Pat Gardner, president of the League of Women Voters of the Arlington Heights-Mount Prospect area, said the league does not take a position on a local issue until members have studied it. Also, the league cannot take a position or testify on a local issue unless the chapter has done a "Know Your Town" study. After this type of study is done, the town's name can be added to the local chapter's name.

MEMBERS SAID that since the membership of residents from Elk Grove was growing, these members may be doing a "Know Your Town" study soon.

By studying issues, the 150-member league has a strong base "when we do begin to act," said Marilyn Marier, Con-Con chairman.

On the volatile issue of low and moderate income housing in Arlington Heights, league members decided to issue a fact sheet because "so many questions were asked."

"We thought it would be a public service to make information available," the league president said.

In addition to making information on elections and issues available to the public, the league also has an "Observer Corps." Members of the local group attend meetings of school boards, village boards and other governmental units and report back on the activities of these groups.

A few years ago, a league observer was such a regular sight at Arlington Heights Plan Commission meetings that she named a street in the village. A proposed development needed a name for a street and the plan commissioners asked the woman for an appropriate name.

HER SUGGESTION was approved by the commission.

Also as a public service, the league has printed a small booklet entitled "Who's Who in Local Government." The booklet includes the names and phone numbers of village, park and school district officials in Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect, Elk Grove Village, Prospect Heights, Hoffman Estates and Wheeling.

The league members described their involvement with the league as stimulating because "we're always learning," said the local league president.

Madeline Schroeder, a league member, said the league "lets in any kind of ideas. It's a tremendous forum."

ALTHOUGH SOMETIMES a member will join because she wants to work on a "pet problem, the member usually ends up getting involved in everything," Mrs. Marier said.

Betty Newbart, human resources chairman, said that during the process of studying and discussing problems, "You find that nothing is simple."

Mrs. Schroeder said membership involvement in the league teaches members that "knowledge is a tremendous strength." It also teaches them how to get information a person needs to make decisions, she said.

Although the league activities are sometimes time-consuming, the members said they found their involvement worthwhile.

Mrs. Gardner said she had been a member of some other types of organizations with which she wasn't happy. She heard about the league through a professor in college and has been involved with league activities for about 13 years. "I enjoy it more than anything I've ever done."

Members agreed that once a woman joins the league, "You join it wherever you go," said Mrs. Schroeder. She originally became involved with the league in the 1950's in Pennsylvania.

MRS. NEWBART said the league was the only civic organization in which she was active and she had heard about league activities in a high school civics class.

Mary Lou Sheperd, vice president and voter service chairman, said she became involved in league activities when she worked for a lawyer who became involved with politics. "It just seemed natural to someone interested in politics," she said.

With the existing political structure being so complicated, "You need outside help to be able to understand it," Mrs. Sheperd said.

Mrs. Marier said that she enjoys the league because "I'd really like to do something rather than just discuss things."

The members agreed they enjoyed the women they met in the league because the other members "don't just talk about diapers."

Although the women are spending time on league activities, they find that they still spend time with their children. However, a standing league joke is that when a woman becomes a league member, her semi-annual housecleaning and monthly window washing becomes one annual housecleaning.

MRS. MARIER said that her children identified with her activity and Mrs. Schroeder said that sometimes her children will ask her advice on issues.

"Children have a better response to you when you know what's going on," Mrs. Marier said.

Mrs. Schroeder said that one fringe benefit of the league membership is that "it gives you the knowledge you need to run for an office." Mrs. Schroeder was a candidate for a Con-Con delegate. She said that of the 15 female delegates at Con-Con, nine of them were members of the League of Women Voters.

Mrs. Schroeder said that members joke that their activities include everything from "scrubbing floors to meeting heads of state."

Food Drive In Fourth Day

The cans are starting to pile up at Wheeling High School as the canned food drive to help the needy at Christmas enters its fourth day.

As of yesterday morning, 2,069 pounds of canned food had been collected by Wheeling High students.

The sophomore class collected the most, with 894 1/2 pounds. The freshmen were second with 464 pounds. The juniors were third with 370 pounds, and the seniors last with 330 pounds collected. Prizes will be awarded to the class that collects the most food.

"This is a lot less than is usually collected. Generally they collect about 20,000 pounds, but the juniors and seniors traditionally wait until the last day to bring in their food," said Paul Mueller, director of student activities at the high school.

The students are canvassing the community for canned food. The food will be donated to Lydia's Children's Home in Chicago, Norwesco and Wheeling Township for distribution to the needy. The driver, sponsored by the class boards and student council, will continue through tomorrow.

Information Sessions Of LWV Planned

Members of the Palatine League of Women Voters will sponsor a number of neighborhood coffees during the 15 days in December prior to the state constitution election to familiarize area residents with the proposed document.

In each of the informal sessions, a league member will deliver a short talk on the constitution, emphasizing some of the more important aspects of it. Questions and answers will follow each presentation.

Girl Scouts in Palatine and Rolling Meadows will help league members distribute flyers to residents that were prepared by the Citizens Committee for the New Constitution. These flyers will also be available at the Palatine Public Library.

AS PART OF their push to inform residents of the meaning of the proposed constitution, league members have operated a Speakers Bureau during the past weeks in conjunction with the Palatine Jaycees. This bureau distributed information to local civic and church groups on the constitution.

The Illinois League of Women Voters voted Sept. 1 to support the new constitution and three of the four separate submissions that will be presented to voters Dec. 15. The league has endorsed single-member voting districts, lowering the voting age to 18 and the establishment of a merit system for the selection of judges. It has taken no formal stand on the fourth submission, the abolishment of the death penalty.

Cracker Barrel

Palatine police shot and killed a bandit wearing a black eye mask and weighing about 25 pounds Tuesday — after disposing of a wounded raccoon which posed a threat to children in the neighborhood, that is.

ONE FIERY resident read the planning commission up one side and down the other Tuesday night for postponing a public hearing and setting another date. After the blast of hot air was over, Conrad Hansen, commissioner, asked Thomas Moody, president, "Do you think you can get the engraved invitations out on time?"

MAYBE THE confrontation with the irate citizen hit Tom Moody harder than expected. Later that night the parking ordinance was brought up for discussion and Moody said, "I live across the street from a five-family car." Village Mgr. Berton G. Braun said, "You mean a five-car family." Moody countered, "Ya, something like that."

COMMISSIONER BRYAN Coughlin also had something to say about the parking ordinance and crowded parking conditions: "For example, five stewardesses living in the same home, parking their cars on the front lawn is not the most desirable situation." "What's not, the stewardesses?" Moody asked. "No, the cars," Coughlin said. "Well, I guess we all have to stretch a point now and then," Moody concluded.

MAYOR RICHARD J. Daley of Chicago may have to hire a food-taster next week. Mrs. Jeanette Mullen told the audience at Monday's Con-Con Forum that if he says anything else about the revenue article in the proposed Illinois constitution, she'll "give him poison."

DISCUSSIONS ON THE proposed state constitution may be made a little easier over coffee. Mrs. John Munson, of the Palatine League of Women Voters, pours a cup for Mrs. Robert Farris during a league-sponsored coffee hour on the constitution.

Jessen Seeks Reelection

Robert H. Jessen is the only member of the Palatine library board who has decided to seek reelection in April.

Of the other candidates whose terms expire in 1971, Mrs. Mabel Ellering said she may run, but hasn't decided for sure yet. Mrs. Shirley Teble said she probably will not run for reelection because she will soon get her master's degree in library science and doesn't feel she would then belong on a library board.

"I don't think a librarian should also hold a post on the board," she said.

Jessen said he will run again, no matter what. He is hoping to get the Republican endorsement for the post, but said he will run as an independent if not.

Jessen was appointed to the library board last spring, replacing a retiring member.

Petitions for the April 20 election are now available at the Palatine Town Hall. The signatures of 50 registered voters in Palatine are needed to get on the ballot. Petitions may first be filed on Jan. 11. The last day to file for the election will be Feb. 15.

Palatine High Sets Open House Tonight

Palatine High School will hold its open house tonight from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. Parents of students will visit the classrooms and follow their offspring's class schedule in 15-minute periods.

Teachers will explain what the classes are about and will answer questions. During the student's "lunch hour," parents will be served coffee in the cafeteria.

Youth Services Bureau Proposed

A youth services bureau, aimed at helping local youths has been proposed for teens of Palatine Township and Arlington Heights next year.

A partially-funded pilot program of the federal government, the bureau would be operated under the direction of the Palatine Township Youth Committee (PTYC). The program is aimed at reducing the number of youngsters referred to juvenile courts or to the police for various reasons.

Emerson Thomas, director of the PTYC, said the grant is now being studied by the Illinois Law Enforcement Commission. If they approve of the grant on Dec. 10, the PTYC will get federal money to operate the Youth Services Bureau.

PTYC was recommended by the Cook County Commission on Criminal Justice to the state commission last September to operate the pilot program. Similarities between what the federal government want of the bureau and what the PTYC is doing were cited as reasons for granting the money in Palatine.

IN ORDER TO apply for the grant, Thomas said the program had to cover an area with 100,000 residents. Thus, the PTYC includes Arlington Heights in its territory for the youth bureau.

The budget for the bureau will be $32,947. Of this, a sixth will come from the Palatine Township funds. The rest will come from the federal grant and state government, Thomas said.

Thomas described the Youth Services Bureau as basically a resource center. The staff of the bureau will be headquartered in a storefront. Referrals from the police, the schools and parents will be dealt with there.

Also the bureau will be a place where young people can come in and talk about their problems, he said.

Part of the bureau staff's job will be to build relations with young people and local agencies, so all can work together, he explained.

WHEN A YOUNG person comes to the bureau with a problem, the bureau determines the need of the youth. Then, they will get the young person in touch with the proper resource that will help him, Thomas said.

A youth may be put in touch with a counselor, the Illinois State Employment Agency, a hospital that needs help or other agencies, depending on what kind of help he needs, Thomas added.

The bureau will also be helping youths who have just been released from institutions of detention.

During the period of the pilot program, the bureau will be observed by Social Research, Inc. of Chicago. They will advise the government on whether the bureau is doing a good job.

Thomas said staff members for the bureau will be full-time employees. There will be three staff members and a part-time director. He said he would serve as the part-time director of the bureau.

ONE THING THE bureau will have that the federal government didn't include in their recommendations for a test model is the advisory committee. The committee will be made up of school and law enforcement officials and other people and will advise the bureau on some matters, he said.

Thomas said all through the life of the bureau, the staff will be experimenting with new methods of doing things, ever trying to improve the bureau.

He added that he was excited about the program and was eager to implement it. He pointed out that the bureau would be separate of other PTYC projects and programs and would not replace any of them.

Support for the PTYC's attempt to get the bureau's pilot program was extended by the Arlington Heights Youth Council Monday night.

Environmental Board 'Close'

Palatine is getting closer and closer to becoming one of the few municipalities in Illinois to have an environmental control board.

Village officials Tuesday night completed the rough draft of a 13-page ordinance which will both abolish the present board of health and replace it with an environmental control board.

The ordinance is the product of several months work and will now be submitted to Village Atty. Bradley Glass and Village Mgr. Berton G. Braun for final readings, said Richard Dawson, Palatine director of environmental health.

Early this fall Dawson presented the plan to the village board, saying the current board of health is "antiquated" in the sense that it restricts their powers to quarantine a contagious disease.

Under the new plan, the existing five-man board of health will be absorbed into a proposed 11-man environmental control board.

"THE PROPOSED BOARD would consist of people in the community with expertise, professional interest or educational experience in a wide-range of environment-related fields," Dawson said.

Some of these fields would include air and water pollution, noise abatement, safety, architecture, biology, ecology, various medical professions, food, water, sewage and garbage services.

"Basically, the board would concern itself with anything affecting the local environment," Dawson said.

The environmental control board will serve as a referral and advisory body to both the Village board of trustees and the Palatine department of health.

"ANOTHER FUNCTION would be to begin writing ordinances for environmental controls such as the banning of phosphate detergents and restricting the use of pesticides," Dawson said.

The ordinance will be submitted to the village manager and attorney this week. "When it comes back to us, we'll submit it to the Village board, and this should take about a month of so," Dawson said.

Tuesday night's meeting was attended by Dawson, health board members and most of the village trustees. Several laymen have also attended meetings, offering both their interest and professional services, Dawson said.

Delay Angers Homeowners

More than a dozen homeowners from the Willow Wood subdivision in Palatine were angered Tuesday night after a public hearing on the development of a K-Mart department store near their homes was postponed at the last minute.

The hearing was to have been held on a request from Jack Jacobs, the developer, to rezone his 17-acre site on the southeast corner of Baldwin and Hicks Road to allow for the complete development of his proposal without being granted special use permits.

Thomas Moody, chairman of the village plan commission, said the village law allows for any developer to ask for one continuance of a public hearing.

The next hearing date has been slated for 8 p.m., Dec. 15 in the Palatine Village Hall, 54 S. Brockway St.

Neither the developer nor his legal counsel appeared before the plan commission Wednesday night, but informed them of their wish for a continuance via a letter which Moody received minutes before the hearing was to start.

On Dec. 15 a public hearing will therefore be held on the question of either re-zoning the property or granting special use permits under present zoning to allow for the complete construction of the K-Mart development.

Under the present B-1 zoning classification, the developer would be permitted to build only the department store portion of the proposed three-part development.

A broader commercial zoning, B-2, however, is needed to permit the construction of a garden shop and auto service center to complete the development.

Or, a special use permit would have to be granted before the garden shop and auto service center could be built on the property under current zoning.

Speaking for the Willow Wood Homeowners Association, one member said, "Our objection is not so much to the development itself, but to the change in zoning because a broader classification would allow for all sorts of other types of developments like gas stations to come in."

The auto service center in the K-Mart development will not sell gas, but only tires, batteries and accessories.

Harper Help Offered In Tollway Ramp Drive

by STEVE NOVICK

The services of Harper Junior College, to help secure ramps at Roselle Road and the Northwest Tollway, were offered Tuesday, pending expected college board approval, by Harper Pres. Robert Lahti.

John Lucas, Harper's director of planning and development, will act as consultant to a committee of officials from Hoffman Estates and Schaumburg in the effort to gather evidence needed for a hearing before the Illinois Tollway Commission (ITC).

The committee's effort will be aimed at showing the ITC that the construction of ramps at Roselle Road is financially feasible.

Richard Regan, Hoffman Estates plan commission chairman; Russell Parker, Schaumburg zoning board chairman;

and Harry Mammach, Schaumburg plan commission member, will make up the initial three member committee coordinating the evidence gathering effort.

Lucas will begin his work with the group by consulting with ITC officials to find out exactly what criteria is used in determining where new ramps should be constructed.

HE WILL ALSO speak to officials who worked to have a full cloverleaf installed at Arlington Heights Road and the Tollway.

Once Lucas' initial inquiries are completed, work will begin on questionnaires and other resource materials. Community members from Palatine, Inverness and other areas will then be asked to gather for a strategy meeting in collecting the needed information.

The ramps should be a service to persons traveling to and from Harper, Regan said. Students should take the opportunity to help attain the tollway ramps for the community, he added.

Lahti spoke of several faculty members who live in the Schaumburg Township area who might also want to help. He added, however, that the college can not afford to give any faculty member a leave of absence to work on the project.

Because Harper is only three years old, there are still pockets in the area the school serves where people are unfamiliar with what the junior college has to offer, Lahti said.

"WHEN YOU RUN out of expertise come here (to Harper)," Lahti said. He told of cooperative research efforts Harper has with the University of Illinois and the sources the state university has through other higher learning institutions when their resources run out.

"I feel strongly this is our mission and cause," Lahti said in offering Lucas' consulting services and Harper's facilities.

Lahti said the effort to secure tollway ramps is "not political."

"Harper can help people get done what they want to do for themselves," he said about the cooperative effort between Lucas and the local officials coordinating the research.

Lahti said Harper will provide services for punching computer cards and printing up reports at cost.

Harper will help arrange the use of computer time at local industries for the collection of data used in the presentation to the ITC.

REGAN SAID THE location of ramps at Roselle Road will be an aid to industries located close to the ramps at Rte. 53.

The ramps will also attract new industries along Algonquin Road near Roselle Road. These industries would help Harper's tax base and will help to provide more jobs for the school's students, he added.

Local planners believe that unless relief is offered via tollway ramps at Roselle Road, there will be a freeze of traffic in the near future at the Rte. 53 ramps and the Barrington Road ramps due to thousands of homes and apartment and the Woodfield Mall Shopping Center being developed.

Their Foundation: Public Service

Editor's Note: The following is the last of two articles on the League of Women Voters of the Arlington Heights-Mount Prospect area. This year is the 50th anniversary of the founding of the first League of Women Voters.

by SANDRA BROWNING

The two words mentioned most often by members involved in the League of Women Voters are "public service."

Voter registration drives, providing information on candidates, studying issues and other projects are all done as public service projects.

Pat Gardner, president of the League of Women Voters of the Arlington Heights-Mount Prospect area, said the league does not take a position on a local issue until members have studied it. Also, the league cannot take a position or testify on a local issue unless the chapter has done a "Know Your Town" study. After this type of study is done, the town's name can be added to the local chapter's name.

MEMBERS SAID that since the membership of residents from Elk Grove was growing, these members may be doing a "Know Your Town" study soon.

By studying issues, the 150-member league has a strong base "when we do begin to act," said Marilyn Marier, Con-Con chairman.

On the volatile issue of low and moderate income housing in Arlington Heights, league members decided to issue a fact sheet because "so many questions were asked."

"We thought it would be a public service to make information available," the league president said.

In addition to making information on elections and issues available to the public, the league also has an "Observer Corps." Members of the local group attend meetings of school boards, village boards and other governmental units and report back on the activities of these groups.

A few years ago, a league observer was such a regular sight at Arlington Heights Plan Commission meetings that she named a street in the village. A proposed development needed a name for a street and the plan commissioners asked the woman for an appropriate name.

HER SUGGESTION was approved by the commission.

Also as a public service, the league has printed a small booklet entitled "Who's Who in Local Government." The booklet includes the names and phone numbers of village, park and school district officials in Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect, Elk Grove Village, Prospect Heights, Hoffman Estates and Wheeling.

The league members described their involvement with the league as stimulating because "we're always learning," said the local league president.

Madeline Schroeder, a league member, said the league "lets in any kind of ideas. It's a tremendous forum."

ALTHOUGH SOMETIMES a member will join because she wants to work on a "pet problem, the member usually ends up getting involved in everything," Mrs. Marier said.

Betty Newbart, human resources chairman, said that during the process of studying and discussing problems, "You find that nothing is simple."

Mrs. Schroeder said membership involvement in the league teaches members that "knowledge is a tremendous strength." It also teaches them how to get information a person needs to make decisions, she said.

Although the league activities are sometimes time-consuming, the members said they found their involvement worthwhile.

Mrs. Gardner said she had been a member of some other types of organizations with which she wasn't happy. She heard about the league through a professor in college and has been involved with league activities for about 13 years. "I enjoy it more than anything I've ever done."

Members agreed that once a woman joins the league, "You join it wherever you go," said Mrs. Schroeder. She originally became involved with the league in the 1950's in Pennsylvania.

MRS. NEWBART said the league was the only civic organization in which she was active and she had heard about league activities in a high school civics class.

Mary Lou Sheperd, vice president and voter service chairman, said she became involved in league activities when she worked for a lawyer who became involved with politics. "It just seemed natural to someone interested in politics," she said.

With the existing political structure being so complicated, "You need outside help to be able to understand it," Mrs. Sheperd said.

Mrs. Marier said that she enjoys the league because "I'd really like to do something rather than just discuss things."

The members agreed they enjoyed the women they met in the league because the other members "don't just talk about diapers."

Although the women are spending time on league activities, they find that they still spend time with their children. However, a standing league joke is that when a woman becomes a league member, her semi-annual housecleaning and monthly window washing becomes one annual housecleaning.

MRS. MARIER said that her children identified with her activity and Mrs. Schroeder said that sometimes her children will ask her advice on issues.

"Children have a better response to you when you know what's going on," Mrs. Marier said.

Mrs. Schroeder said that one fringe benefit of the league membership is that "it gives you the knowledge you need to run for an office." Mrs. Schroeder was a candidate for a Con-Con delegate. She said that of the 15 female delegates at Con-Con, nine of them were members of the League of Women Voters.

Mrs. Schroeder said that members joke that their activities include everything from "scrubbing floors to meeting heads of state."

Police Lt. Position May Be Dropped

The position of lieutenant on the Rolling Meadows police department may be eliminated.

The city licenses, police and health committee voted Tuesday to recommend to city council that the position be abolished.

There has been no lieutenant on the Rolling Meadows force since September, when Ralph Evans was promoted from lieutenant to captain.

According to reports, there are four sergeants who are eligible to be examined for the lieutenant's position, but none have filed.

The present structure of the police department shows a police chief, captain, lieutenant, four sergeants, and twenty patrolmen.

Area Students Receive Degrees

Over a dozen students from Palatine and Rolling Meadows received degrees from Northern Illinois University in June, 1970.

The following students from Palatine received degrees:

Lee Michael, 114 Winston Dr., Bachelor of Science; Howard Carstensen, 344 N. Wilshire Ct., Bachelor of Science; Kathleen H. Guenther, 54 S. Plum Grove, Bachelor of Science in Education; Mary H. Hartigan, 204 W. Johnson St., Bachelor of Science; Robert Harold Kraft, 2388 Barrington Woods, Bachelor of Arts; Charles H. Lesberg, 146 N. Bothwell, Bachelor of Science; Lynn Elise Marzec, 2111 S. Linden Ln., Bachelor of Science in Education; Frank Jerome Menes, 19 S. Ashland Ave., Bachelor of Science; Mary Alice Mettelka, 472 Warwick Rd., Bachelor of Science in Education; Clifton James Sanders, 1485 W. Dundee Rd., Bachelor of Arts; Richard Allen Stanich, 248 Cheryl Ln., Bachelor of Science; Christine Wasik, 1403 Joan Dr., Bachelor of Science in Education; and Mary Lynn Wittek, 52 N. Elmwood St., Bachelor of Science in Education.

In Rolling Meadows, the following students received NIU degrees:

Thomas William Kelly, 2303 Kirchhoff Rd., Bachelor of Science; and Judith Ellen Paeglow, 2703 Meadow Dr., Bachelor of Science in Education.

Northern Illinois University regrets the delay in announcing the list of June graduates because of a technical record-keeping problem.

4-H Club Names New Officers

The Palatine Cherokee 4-H Club recently installed new officers.

New officers are: Linda Engue, president; Barbara Lindberg, vice president; Kim Davis, secretary; Lynne Youngmann, reporter; Mary Catherine Cordes, treasurer; Cheryl Reid, game leader; and Mary Cecile Cordes, song leader.

In other business, the club announced that it had raised $11.80 for UNICEF while trick or treating last month. First year pins and gold seals were awarded to achievement members.

It was also announced that the club would sing Christmas carols and make cards for the elderly in one of the local nursing homes.

Also at the meeting, Dr. William Cordes discussed and demonstrated methods used in determining blood pressure. Annette Snaude and Mary Catherine Cordes gave a cooking demonstration.

Probe Results By Dec. 11?

Results of the Illinois Education Association investigation of School Dist. 59 may be known as early as Dec. 11, according to the committee conducting the investigation.

The nine-member committee investigating charges by the Teachers' Council has set Dec. 11 and 12, the next meeting of the IEA executive board, as a target date for its report to the board.

If the executive board feels the investigation has substantiated significant charges it must, according to its own guidelines, provide the district an opportunity to remove the cause before imposing a sanction.

Although specific allegations have not been released, IEA guidelines include the following reasons for possible sanctions: refusal of a school board to negotiate conditions of professional employment in good faith; and failure of school board to maintain conditions conducive to sound educational practices including, but not limited to: class size, assignment of duties, availability of instructional materials, balanced curricular emphasis, and adequate physical environment.

They also include the use of harassing tactics or arbitrary discriminatory actions or threats which create fear and intimidate employees in an attempt to coerce them, and the refusal of the school board to develop adequate procedures for processing employee grievances.

THE COMMITTEE comprised of teachers, principals, superintendents and IEA representatives from throughout Illinois conducted the investigation Monday through Wednesday.

Committee chairman Robert Burgess said that the members worked from 9 a.m. to midnight Monday and Tuesday and planned to work till late afternoon Wednesday.

During their stay, committee members visited 11 school buildings, talked to almost 150 staff members and about 24 parents. The committee also met with representative groups such as the School Community Council, and interviewed former board members and interested citizens.

Burgess said, "I think we as a committee are somewhat disappointed that the school board decided not to confer with us."

He added, "We feel the district did allow access to buildings and records and in doing so made significant contributions."

The committee investigated records on finances, written policies and previous agreements between the teachers council and the board.

Burgess said that if a sanction is imposed, the effects could be "immeasurable."

HE SAID, "In the very recent past, Dist. 59 has been discussed and revered as a model district in the state. Colleges and universities considered it a wonderful opportunity to send student teachers here. They might not see it as this if a sanction was imposed."

He added that colleges and universities have honored sanctions in some cases and have not in others.

The sanction would change the response of teachers coming to the district, according to Burgess. "At least some second thoughts would be given by professional educators," he said.

"Sanctions are intended to improve the situation," Thomas Reel, committee member from Aurora, said.

The committee stressed that the people with whom they talked had been "very cooperative and kind."

Burgess said that approximately one-third of the districts investigated by the IEA did not have sanctions imposed on them as a result of the investigations.

He said there have been no more than eight sanctions imposed in the last five years.

He added, "If we're talking about a dozen out of the 1,000 in the state it shows that the situations have become pretty tense before teachers' groups have felt the need."

Elk Grove Village Fire Chief Allen Hulet has urged the president of a homeowners association to enter into a fire protection and ambulance service contract with the village.

The association represents a small unincorporated area south of Biesterfield Road and west of Bisner Road in unincorporated Cook County.

In a letter early last month to Ed Moder, president of the Itasca Meadow Farms Homeowners Association, Hulet made what he said would be his last attempt to obtain a contract with the association prior to turning the matter over to the village board of trustees.

Hulet may refer the matter to the board next week.

IN PREVIOUS discussions between the chief and Moder the cost of a contract was tentatively estimated at $3,000 a year.

The subdivision has been without a contract ever since a circuit court judge in 1964 disconnected the 35-home subdivision from the Roselle Fire Protection District and placed it under the protection of the Elk Grove Village Fire Department. No provisions for a tax to pay for fire protection were made at the time.

Within the past year, however, the fire department has begun to focus on unincorporated areas near the village which receive fire protection but pay no taxes or fees for the service to the village.

A SIMILAR AREA to that of the subdivision is the Elk Grove Mobile Homes Park, 941 W. Higgins Rd., where the chief last year negotiated a contract in exchange for use of a mobile home by the fire department as a temporary West Side station near 499 Biesterfield Rd.

Another unincorporated subdivision, Forest View, located south of Landmeier Road and west of Tonne Road, previously had a contract with the village but now has agreed to annex to Elk Grove Village.

From The Library

List New Books

By the Staff of the Palatine Public Library

Is New York a town for children? This is the topic of "A Great City for Kids" by Claire Berman. The book, one of many new books available at the Palatine Public Library this week, is subtitled, "A parent's guide to a child's New York."

Hollywood is the subject of "Stardom." The phenomenon of the town is examined by Alexander Walker, who points out that people knew who Lillian Gish, Rudolph Valentino and Humphrey Bogart were sooner than they'd know their own Congressman.

In sports books, LeRoy T. Walker is author of "Championship Techniques in Track and Field." It can be used as a teaching guide for various Olympic sports.

Poisonous snakes are the subject of "Venomous Reptiles." Author Sherman A. Minton tells how these reptiles really are, as compared to the way man imagines them.

NEW BOOKS ON PERSONAL interests are at the library this week. One book, by Benjamin Spock, the famous baby doctor, is for teenagers. It is titled "A Teenager's Guide to Life and Love."

Dr. Sherwin A. Kaufman is author of "New Hope For the Childless Couple." It examines the causes and treatment of infertility. Another personal interest book is "Human Sexual Inadequacy," by William H. Masters and Virginia E. Johnson.

"Lay My Burden Down," the classic folk history of slavery is in print again and at the library. It is edited by B. A. Botkin. "The Queen's Year: The Reality of Monarchy" by Andrew Duncan is an intimate report on twelve months with the royal family of England.

John Kaplan is author of "Marijuana: the New Prohibition." The book examines the medical and social evidence on America's third most widely used "drug."

IN NEW FICTION books, there is "Lovers All True" by Norah Lofts, known as a writer of bestselling novels and histories, the book deals with a suspenseful tale of untrue love.

Joyce Carol Oates is author of "The Wheel of Love." It is a collection of Miss Oates short stories on the nature of love. In a lighter vein, there is the warm and rollicking novel "Matila." By Paul Gallico, the book deals with a kangaroo who wins the middleweight boxing title.

If one wishes to repair his TV, there is "101 TV Troubles From Symptom to Repair." For the mechanical-minded person, there is "1,000 How-To Ideas," telling the reader about car care economics, home maintenance, garden tips and TV repair.

Alexander Perry Paris is author of "A Complete Guide to Trading Profits." "The Boy's Book of Names" by Linwood Sleight and Charles Johnson is loaded with titles one can call their newborn son.

Finally, there is a new reference book at the library titled "Directory of Medical Specialists." It is a doctor's Who's Who.

Warming Houses Set For Rinks

New warming houses will be installed at Palatine parks this winter near ice skating rinks.

The Palatine Park Board decided recently to turn the stage at Community Park into a warming house. Rex McMorris, director of the park district, said the conversion will cost between $400 and $500. The stage will be used because of its many electrical outlets.

McMorris said people using the figure skating rink complained that the Community Park recreation building was too far away from the rink to be used as a warming house. While the building was fine for people using the nearby hockey rink, a new warming house would be built nearer to the figure skating rink.

In addition, the board is looking for at least three trailers that can be rented and used as warming houses at the other three Palatine parks, McMorris said.

Community Calendar

Junior Stamp Collectors of Rolling Meadows meeting, 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. in the educational building of the Community Church.

Slowpokes Square Dance club meeting, 8 to 11 p.m. at Euclid School in Mount Prospect.

Doctor Arrested On Sex Charges

Cook County Sheriff's police Tuesday night arrested a physician in his office just west of Des Plaines and charged him with the deviate sexual assault of several of his patients.

Dr. James Middleton, 44, a general practitioner, was taken into custody in his office at 969 Elmhurst Rd. about 8 p.m. Tuesday by sheriff's police. Middleton was with a female patient at the time of his arrest.

According to Det. Donald Shaw, who led the raid into Middleton's office, the arrest came after a two month investigation in which a number of Middleton's suburban women patients complained that the doctor had drugged them and then committed deviate sexual attacks.

Shaw said they also found pipe bombs, detonators, three handguns, pornographic photos, literature and movies and artificial devices for sexual stimulation in the doctor's office.

Sheriff's police also found a quantity of what Shaw called "dangerous drugs which could incapacitate a person if taken."

Shaw said Middleton, of 2800 Lake Shore Dr., Chicago, gave no resistance and the only explanation the doctor gave for having the guns was that he had been threatened and needed to protect himself. Shaw added that Middleton will also be charged with possession of explosives and unlawful use of a weapon.

HE WAS RELEASED Wednesday morning on $15,000 bond and is scheduled to appear in Niles Circuit Court Dec. 29. Shaw said the state's attorney intends to ask for a grand jury hearing in the case.

Shaw said that although a number of women have already complained to the sheriff's police, more of Middleton's patients or former patients will come forward if they have complaints.

The police were armed with a warrant Tuesday night issued by Circuit Court Judge Anton Smigiel.

Middleton, a staff member of St. Joseph's hospital in Chicago, was acquitted by a jury in St. Louis in 1961 on a charge of drugging and raping a housewife, according to Shaw.

Information Sessions Of LWV Planned

Members of the Palatine League of Women Voters will sponsor a number of neighborhood coffees during the 15 days in December prior to the state constitution election to familiarize area residents with the proposed document.

In each of the informal sessions, a league member will deliver a short talk on the constitution, emphasizing some of the more important aspects of it. Questions and answers will follow each presentation.

Girl Scouts in Palatine and Rolling Meadows will help league members distribute flyers to residents that were prepared by the Citizens Committee for the New Constitution. These flyers will also be available at the Palatine Public Library.

AS PART OF their push to inform residents of the meaning of the proposed constitution, league members have operated a Speakers Bureau during the past weeks in conjunction with the Palatine Jaycees. This bureau distributed information to local civic and church groups on the constitution.

The Illinois League of Women Voters voted Sept. 1 to support the new constitution and three of the four separate submissions that will be presented to voters Dec. 16. The league has endorsed single-member voting districts, lowering the voting age to 18 and the establishment of a merit system for the selection of judges. It has taken no formal stand on the fourth submission, the abolishment of the death penalty.

Cracker Barrel

CAN A WOMAN eat so much that she passes out? Police say yes. A Rolling Meadows resident had so much Thanksgiving dinner that she collapsed.

THANKSGIVING is supposed to be a holiday of feast, not drink. City police received three intoxication calls on Thanksgiving. Imagine what they have to look forward to on Christmas and New Year's Eve.

ROLLING MEADOWS police were literally crippled Monday. Five of the seven police cars were in the shop for repair.

EVER SINCE THE NEW snorkel was pulled into the fire station last week, there have been a number of firemen who have felt the craving to use it. Demonstrations on the correct use of the new machinery have been offered at various times during the week. That explains why the 90-foot arm of the snorkel has been so noticeable lately.

TALK ABOUT APPROPRIATE places for an office... Thomas Jauch, director of the Northwest Human Resources Development Center, has his office housed in the convent of Sacred Heart of Mary School.

Ward Boundary Changes Eyed

Boundaries in wards four and five will probably change when the city redistricting committee meets next week to revise all city wards providing near equal voter representation.

William D. Ahrens, chairman of the special redistricting committee, said wards three and four have had the most population increase in the past two years due to apartment expansions.

Most of the city apartments are located in wards three and four. However, many of these people have only recently registered to vote, Ahrens said.

Ward boundaries are now being checked to bring them up to date. According to state law, wards must have an approximate equal number of registered voters.

City officials expect only minor changes in all the city wards and hardly any change in wards one, two or three.

DISCUSSIONS ON THE proposed state constitution may be made a little easier over coffee. Mrs. John Munson, of the Palatine League of Women Voters, pours a cup for Mrs. Robert Farris during a league-sponsored coffee hour on the constitution.

Jim Garrity Top Archer

Jim Garrity, 2504 South St. in Rolling Meadows, took first place honors Tuesday night in an archery competition sponsored by the Rolling Meadows Park District.

Open to members of the park district fall session archery class, the competition tested accuracy in shooting and techniques in style. Each of the class members shot at 50-foot targets.

Garrity accumulated a total of 612 points in the competition. Second place in individual competition was given to Keith Anderson, 1128 Pintail, with 555 points and third place went to Mike Marget, 2507 South St. with 546 points.

In team competition, first place went to the team called the Sioux Indians for a total accumulation of 1,749 points. Team members included Anderson, Ken Krizsonitz, 3801 Meadow Dr., Lynn Nordhoff, 2312 Kirchhoff, and Margaret Seick, 2109 Kirchhoff.

The archery instruction session, composed of eight separate meetings, were conducted by Mr. and Mrs. Roy Chalfont. Mrs. Chalfont is a high-ranking amateur in archery competition. They will conduct another archery session beginning Jan. 11 at the rifle range of the Rolling Meadows City Garage.

Registration for the next session can be done at the park district office, 1 Park Meadow Place.

Yield Sign To Become Full 'Stop'

A 4-way stop sign will be installed at the intersection of Orleole Ln. and Park St.

The city licenses, police and health committee decided that the sign should be installed because of hazardous condition. A yield sign is located at the intersection now.

Referral Group Gets $5,000 Boost

The newly formed Rolling Meadows youth referral committee received a boost Tuesday night when the city licenses, police and health committee unanimously voted to recommend that $5,000 be allocated to the committee.

The committee was recently formed as a "community involved program for kids," Police Chief Lewis Case explained to the city licenses, police and health committee.

The referral group, made up primarily of Rolling Meadows ministers, offers counseling service to local juveniles and their families.

Case conceived the organization and contacted area ministers who volunteered their services. The Rev. William Herman, pastor of Rolling Meadows Community Church, is chairman of the youth referral committee.

CASE SAID THE committee will help those youths, who are apprehended by police for minor offenses. It will keep many of our teens out of Chicago detention wards. Many youths are taken to the Chicago detention homes who really just need guidance, according to Case.

"The Andy Home and other similar youth detention wards have turned our kids away from the police. Youth fear the police. When a kid gets in trouble, he should know that the police actually care what happens to him when he leaves the office," Case said.

The referral committee will operate from temporary headquarters in churches of the city.

Although the organization is now small, a training program for area volunteers is being organized by Thomas Jauch director of the Northwest Human Resources Center.

THE VOLUNTEERS will be given extensive training in adolescent counseling. Jauch said the volunteers won't become social workers, but simply informed, concerned citizens.

Volunteers will be trained in the concept that problems must be handled within the family structure. Parent sessions as well as adolescent counseling will be set up, according to Jauch.

The names of possible volunteers are being submitted to Jauch, who will screen and interview interested persons. He said volunteers can begin limited work almost immediately, but it will take about a month to fully train them.

Book Drive To Start Saturday

A special booth will be set up from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday in the new mall of the Rolling Meadows Shopping Center for the collection of paperback books.

Sponsored by the Rolling Meadows Jaycees, "Operation Paperback," as the drive is called, will provide injured Vietnam veterans hospitalized in recuperation centers, with reading materials.

Residents unable to drop books off at the booth on Saturday should call 392-9172 to make arrangements for a Jaycee member to pick them up at individual homes.

The Christmas book drive is being done as part of the Jaycee's central year theme of "Do Something."

Library Policies Revised

Members of the Rolling Meadows Library board of trustees adopted a revised statement on general library policy at the monthly board meeting Tuesday night.

The statement lists rules for staff and public use in the library and for use of library materials. However, the revised version has only minor changes in terminology from the previous policy.

"We've tried to make it as lenient as possible," Miss Virginia Connell, Rolling Meadows librarian, said. There is no censorship clause included in the general policy.

The board also allocated $4,500 for the purchase of books for the library for December and January. The money will be used for the purchase of general books in both the adult and juvenile areas.

Special library hours during the holiday season were also approved at the meeting. The building will close at noon Dec. 24 and will reopen at 9 a.m. Dec. 28. For the New Year's holiday, the library will close at 3 p.m. Dec. 31 and reopen at 9 a.m. Jan. 2.

In other action, the board approved the appointment of Mrs. Alvin Weber to the library finance committee. She replaces Mrs. Victor Schrock on that committee, who recently resigned from her position on the library board.

Harper Help Offered In Tollway Ramp Drive

by STEVE NOVICK

The services of Harper Junior College, to help secure ramps at Roselle Road and the Northwest Tollway, were offered Tuesday, pending expected college board approval, by Harper Pres. Robert Lahti.

John Lucas, Harper's director of planning and development, will act as consultant to a committee of officials from Hoffman Estates and Schaumburg in the effort to gather evidence needed for a hearing before the Illinois Tollway Commission (ITC).

The committee's effort will be aimed at showing the ITC that the construction of ramps at Roselle Road is financially feasible.

Richard Regan, Hoffman Estates plan commission chairman; Russell Parker, Schaumburg zoning board chairman;

and Harry Mammach, Schaumburg plan commission member, will make up the initial three member committee coordinating the evidence gathering effort.

Lucas will begin his work with the group by consulting with ITC officials to find out exactly what criteria is used in determining where new ramps should be constructed.

HE WILL ALSO speak to officials who worked to have a full cloverleaf installed at Arlington Heights Road and the Tollway.

Once Lucas' initial inquiries are completed, work will begin on questionnaires and other resource materials. Community members from Palatine, Inverness and other areas will then be asked to gather for a strategy meeting in collecting the needed information.

The ramps should be a service to persons traveling to and from Harper, Regan said. Students should take the opportunity to help attain the tollway ramps for the community, he added.

Lahti spoke of several faculty members who live in the Schaumburg Township area who might also want to help. He added, however, that the college can not afford to give any faculty member a leave of absence to work on the project.

Because Harper is only three years old, there are still pockets in the area the school serves where people are unfamiliar with what the junior college has to offer, Lahti said.

"WHEN YOU RUN out of expertise come here (to Harper)," Lahti said. He told of cooperative research efforts Harper has with the University of Illinois and the sources the state university has through other higher learning institutions when their resources run out.

"I feel strongly this is our mission and cause," Lahti said in offering Lucas' consulting services and Harper's facilities.

Lahti said the effort to secure tollway ramps is "not political."

"Harper can help people get done what they want to do for themselves," he said about the cooperative effort between Lucas and the local officials coordinating the research.

Lahti said Harper will provide services for punching computer cards and printing up reports at cost.

Harper will help arrange the use of computer time at local industries for the collection of data used in the presentation to the ITC.

REGAN SAID THE location of ramps at Roselle Road will be an aid to industries located close to the ramps at Rte. 53.

The ramps will also attract new industries along Algonquin Road near Roselle Road. These industries would help Harper's tax base and will help to provide more jobs for the school's students, he added.

Local planners believe that unless relief is offered via tollway ramps at Roselle Road, there will be a freeze of traffic in the near future at the Rte. 53 ramps and the Barrington Road ramps due to thousands of homes and apartment and the Woodfield Mall Shopping Center being developed.

SUSAN ANDERSON was one of 100 junior Girl Scouts from Elk Grove Village who sang Christmas carols this week at Randhurst.

Their Foundation: Public Service

Editor's Note: The following is the last of two articles on the League of Women Voters of the Arlington Heights-Mount Prospect area. This year is the 50th anniversary of the founding of the first League of Women Voters.

by SANDRA BROWNING

The two words mentioned most often by members involved in the League of Women Voters are "public service." Voter registration drives, providing information on candidates, studying issues and other projects are all done as public service projects.

Pat Gardner, president of the League of Women Voters of the Arlington Heights-Mount Prospect area, said the league does not take a position on a local issue until members have studied it. Also, the league cannot take a position or testify on a local issue unless the chapter has done a "Know Your Town" study. After this type of study is done, the town's name can be added to the local chapter's name.

MEMBERS SAID that since the membership of residents from Elk Grove was growing, these members may be doing a "Know Your Town" study soon.

By studying issues, the 150-member league has a strong base "when we do begin to act," said Marilyn Marier, Con-Con chairman.

On the volatile issue of low and moderate income housing in Arlington Heights, league members decided to issue a fact sheet because "so many questions were asked."

"We thought it would be a public service to make information available," the league president said.

In addition to making information on elections and issues available to the public, the league also has an "Observer Corps." Members of the local group attend meetings of school boards, village boards and other governmental units and report back on the activities of these groups.

A few years ago, a league observer was such a regular sight at Arlington Heights Plan Commission meetings that she named a street in the village. A proposed development needed a name for a street and the plan commissioners asked the woman for an appropriate name.

HER SUGGESTION was approved by the commission.

Also as a public service, the league has printed a small booklet entitled "Who's Who in Local Government." The booklet includes the names and phone numbers of village, park and school district officials in Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect, Elk Grove Village, Prospect Heights, Hoffman Estates and Wheeling.

The league members described their involvement with the league as stimulating because "we're always learning," said the local league president.

Madeline Schroeder, a league member, said the league "lets in any kind of ideas. It's a tremendous forum."

ALTHOUGH SOMETIMES a member will join because she wants to work on a "pet problem, the member usually ends up getting involved in everything," Mrs. Marier said.

Betty Newbart, human resources chairman, said that during the process of studying and discussing problems, "You find that nothing is simple."

Mrs. Schroeder said membership involvement in the league teaches members that "knowledge is a tremendous strength." It also teaches them how to get information a person needs to make decisions, she said.

Although the league activities are sometimes time-consuming, the members said they found their involvement worthwhile.

Mrs. Gardner said she had been a member of some other types of organizations with which she wasn't happy. She heard about the league through a professor in college and has been involved with league activities for about 13 years. "I enjoy it more than anything I've ever done."

Members agreed that once a woman joins the league, "You join it wherever you go," said Mrs. Schroeder. She originally became involved with the league in the 1950's in Pennsylvania.

MRS. NEWBART said the league was the only civic organization in which she was active and she had heard about league activities in a high school civics class.

Mary Lou Shepherd, vice president and voter service chairman, said she became involved in league activities when she worked for a lawyer who became involved with politics. "It just seemed natural to someone interested in politics," she said.

With the existing political structure being so complicated, "You need outside help to be able to understand it," Mrs. Shepherd said.

Mrs. Marier said that she enjoys the league because "I'd really like to do something rather than just discuss things."

The members agreed they enjoyed the women they met in the league because the other members "don't just talk about diapers."

Although the women are spending time on league activities, they find that they still spend time with their children. However, a standing league joke is that when a woman becomes a league member, her semi-annual housecleaning and monthly window washing becomes one annual housecleaning.

MRS. MARIER said that her children identified with her activity and Mrs. Schroeder said that sometimes her children will ask her advice on issues.

"Children have a better response to you when you know what's going on," Mrs. Marier said.

Mrs. Schroeder said that one fringe benefit of the league membership is that "it gives you the knowledge you need to run for an office." Mrs. Schroeder was a candidate for a Con-Con delegate. She said that of the 15 female delegates at Con-Con, nine of them were members of the League of Women Voters.

Mrs. Schroeder said that members joke that their activities include everything from "scrubbing floors to meeting heads of state."

Probe Results By Dec. 11?

Results of the Illinois Education Association investigation of School Dist. 59 may be known as early as Dec. 11, according to the committee conducting the investigation.

The nine-member committee investigating charges by the Teachers' Council has set Dec. 11 and 12, the next meeting of the IEA executive board, as a target date for its report to the board.

If the executive board feels the investigation has substantiated significant charges it must, according to its own guidelines, provide the district an opportunity to remove the cause before imposing a sanction.

Although specific allegations have not been released, IEA guidelines include the following reasons for possible sanctions: refusal of a school board to negotiate conditions of professional employment in good faith; and failure of school board to maintain conditions conducive to sound educational practices including, but not limited to: class size, assignment of duties, availability of instructional materials, balanced curricular emphasis, and adequate physical environment.

They also include the use of harassing tactics or arbitrary discriminatory actions or threats which create fear and intimidate employees in an attempt to coerce them, and the refusal of the school board to develop adequate procedures for processing employee grievances.

THE COMMITTEE comprised of teachers, principals, superintendents and IEA representatives from throughout Illinois conducted the investigation Monday through Wednesday.

Committee chairman Robert Burgess said that the members worked from 9 a.m. to midnight Monday and Tuesday and planned to work till late afternoon Wednesday.

During their stay, committee members visited 11 school buildings, talked to almost 150 staff members and about 24 parents. The committee also met with representative groups such as the School Community Council, and interviewed former board members and interested citizens.

Burgess said, "I think we as a committee are somewhat disappointed that the school board decided not to confer with us."

He added, "We feel the district did allow access to buildings and records and in doing so made significant contributions."

The committee investigated records on finances, written policies and previous agreements between the teachers council and the board.

Burgess said that if a sanction is imposed, the effects could be "immeasurable."

HE SAID, "In the very recent past, Dist. 59 has been discussed and revered as a model district in the state. Colleges and universities considered it a wonderful opportunity to send student teachers here. They might not see it as this if a sanction was imposed."

He added that colleges and universities have honored sanctions in some cases and have not in others.

The sanction would change the response of teachers coming to the district, according to Burgess. "At least some second thoughts would be given by professional educators," he said.

"Sanctions are intended to improve the situation," Thomas Reel, committee member from Aurora, said.

The committee stressed that the people with whom they talked had been "very cooperative and kind."

Burgess said that approximately one-third of the districts investigated by the IEA did not have sanctions imposed on them as a result of the investigations.

He said there have been no more than eight sanctions imposed in the last five years.

He added, "If we're talking about a dozen out of the 1,000 in the state it shows that the situations have become pretty tense before teachers' groups have felt the need." Elk Grove Village Fire Chief Allen Hulett has urged the president of a homeowners association to enter into a fire protection and ambulance service contract with the village.

The association represents a small unincorporated area south of Biesterfeld Road and west of Bisner Road in unincorporated Cook County.

In a letter early last month to Ed Moder, president of the Itasca Meadow Farms Homeowners Association, Hulett made what he said would be his last attempt to obtain a contract with the association prior to turning the matter over to the village board of trustees.

Hulett may refer the matter to the board next week.

IN PREVIOUS discussions between the chief and Moder the cost of a contract was tentatively estimated at $3,000 a year.

The subdivision has been without a contract ever since a circuit court judge in 1964 disconnected the 35-home subdivision from the Roselle Fire Protection District and placed it under the protection of the Elk Grove Village Fire Department. No provisions for a tax to pay for fire protection were made at the time.

Within the past year, however, the fire department has begun to focus on unincorporated areas near the village which receive fire protection but pay no taxes or fees for the service to the village.

A SIMILAR AREA to that of the subdivision is the Elk Grove Mobile Homes Park, 941 W. Higgins Rd., where the chief last year negotiated a contract in exchange for use of a mobile home by the fire department as a temporary West Side station near 499 Biesterfeld Rd.

Another unincorporated subdivision, Forest View, located south of Landmeier Road and west of Tonne Road, previously had a contract with the village but now has agreed to annex to Elk Grove Village.

From The Library

New Travel Books

by VIRGINIA CONNELL

The nights are getting longer, the days are grayer, the dampness more penetrating, ho hum! With only the prospect of snow ahead, why not run away from it all! Plan a winter vacation in a warmer climate.

The Rolling Meadows Library has many travel books to acquaint you with places of interest to visit. One such book is written by Jim Sharp entitled "Hawaii's Enchanted Islands." This book is an oversized travel folder. The jungle gardens, the waterfalls, the lagoons, the waves arching over surfers. This volume contains many photographs. Even if you sit at home by fireside, you will enjoy this book.

Did you know Hawaii was inhabited as early as the tenth century and that Magellan spent years sailing blindly trying to find Hawaii and not until 1778 did a practical genius named Cook actually find the islands. Such information is found in Gavin Daws "Shoal of Time."

A "Hawaiian Anthology" written by Gerret P. Judd contains both fiction and non-fiction interpretations of the islands, Hawaiian places and traditions and a literary interpretation of the islands. An interesting chapter written by Bob Krauss on statehood for Hawaii should be read as well as a chapter on Mark Twain in Hawaii. Ask the children who attend story hour about "The Bottle Imp" by Robert Louis Stevenson. They will tell you the story, but will they know it is of Hawaii?

"ISLANDS OF THE Caribbean" is the book to consult for information on Puerto Rico, Jamaica, Curacao, St. Thomas, Trinidad, Barbados or Haiti. You will want to visit each of the islands after reading Hans W. Hannau's book. The waterfalls, Sane d' Eau of Haiti, the contrast between the old and the new of Puerto Rico, Diamond Rock at Martinique. Another title rich in description and lore of the islands is a "Family of Islands" by Alec Waugh. Although not as profusely illustrated, one will find this book informative.

A factual book on the Caribbean is "Terry's Guide to the Caribbean" written by Wesley Edson. As an example, air mail postage to all the islands is 15 cents. To make a three-minute telephone call it would cost between $3 and $6. You can live comfortably on the islands for between $2,400 a year. You may also learn about churches, car rentals, currency, climate, time, hospitals and so forth. This is a fun book to browse through.

According to the Mexicans, "There is only one Mexico." Geographically, Mexico is the bridge between North and South America. Mexico is an aspiring state in which modern life and ancient cultures are found side-by-side. It possesses every type of geographical feature imaginable: volcanic peaks, dense primordial forests, lush meadows as well as deserts. For more about Mexico, what Geri Dornes pictures in "Mexico."

WHO ARE MEXICANS and how do they live? According to history, the Mexicans are full-blooded Indians and Spanish descendants of those early soldiers and lawyers who came with mixed motives to the New World. On the forty-first floor of a skyscraper you may dine on lobster and white wine, while from across the street a neon sign announces "There's a Ford in your future."

In contrast, some families live on corn, beans and chocolate gruel. All this and more you will learn about the country south of the border by reading "The X in Mexico," by Irene Nicholson. One could easily make an art tour of Mexico. Modern Mexico has inherited not one but many civilizations. Its history goes back to the first appearance of man in America, about 12,000 B.C. The oldest known example of artistic activity on Mexican soil dates from a very remote period when glaciers still covered the highlands and mountains. A craftsman shaped a sacrum of a species of llama into the likeness of a coyote's head. This was found in a river basin. It is often said Mexico is an archeologist's dream come true.

But whether you enjoy old rivers, art, exotic floating gardens, deep sea fishing, bull fights or just lying in the sun, Mexico has much to offer the winter vacationer. For more information why not read "Art and Architecture of Mexico" by Pedro Rojas.

Do visit the Rolling Meadows Library whether you're planning a vacation or not.

Police Lt. Position May Be Dropped

The position of lieutenant on the Rolling Meadows police department may be eliminated.

The city licenses, police and health committee voted Tuesday to recommend to city council that the position be abolished.

There has been no lieutenant on the Rolling Meadows force since September, when Ralph Evans was promoted from lieutenant to captain.

According to reports, there are four sergeants who are eligible to be examined for the lieutenant's position, but none have filed.

The present structure of the police department shows a police chief, captain, lieutenant, four sergeants, and twenty patrolmen.

Area Students Receive Degrees

Over a dozen students from Palatine and Rolling Meadows received degrees from Northern Illinois University in June, 1970.

The following students from Palatine received degrees:

Lee Michael, 114 Winston Dr., Bachelor of Science; Howard Carstensen, 344 N. Wilshire Ct., Bachelor of Science; Kathleen H. Guenther, 54 S. Plum Grove, Bachelor of Science in Education; Mary H. Hartigan, 204 W. Johnson St., Bachelor of Science; Robert Harold Kraft, 2388 Barrington Woods, Bachelor of Arts; Charles H. Leseberg, 146 N. Bothwell, Bachelor of Science; Lynn Eloise Marzec, 2111 S. Linden Ln., Bachelor of Science in Education; Frank Jerome Menes, 19 S. Ashland Ave., Bachelor of Science; Mary Alice Mettelka, 472 Warwick Rd., Bachelor of Science in Education; Clifton James Sanders, 1485 W. Dundee Rd., Bachelor of Arts; Richard Allen Stonich, 245 Cheryll Ln., Bachelor of Science; Christine Wasik, 1403 Joan Dr., Bachelor of Science in Education; and Mary Lynn Witke, 52 N. Elmwood St., Bachelor of Science in Education.

In Rolling Meadows, the following students received NIU degrees:

Thomas William Kelly, 2303 Kirchoff Rd., Bachelor of Science; and Judith Ellen Paeglow, 2703 Meadow Dr., Bachelor of Science in Education.

Northern Illinois University regrets the delay in announcing the list of June graduates because of a technical record-keeping problem.

4-H Club Names New Officers

The Palatine Cherokee 4-H Club recently installed new officers.

New officers are: Linda Engue, president; Barbara Lindberg, vice president; Kim Davis, secretary; Lynne Youngman, reporter; Mary Catherine Cordes, treasurer; Cheryl Reid, game leader; and Mary Cecile Cordes, song leader.

In other business, the club announced that it had raised $11.80 for UNICEF while trick or treating last month. First year pins and gold seals were awarded to achievement members.

It was also announced that the club would sing Christmas carols and make cards for the elderly in one of the local nursing homes.

Also at the meeting, Dr. William Cordes discussed and demonstrated methods used in determining blood pressure. Annette Smudde and Mary Catherine Cordes gave a cooking demonstration.

Doctor Arrested On Sex Charges

Cook County Sheriff's police Tuesday night arrested a physician in his office just west of Des Plaines and charged him with the deviate sexual assault of several of his patients.

Dr. James Middleton, 44, a general practitioner, was taken into custody in his office at 969 Elmhurst Rd. about 8 p.m. Tuesday by sheriff's police. Middleton was with a female patient at the time of his arrest.

According to Det. Donald Shaw, who led the raid into Middleton's office, the arrest came after a two month investigation in which a number of Middleton's suburban women patients complained that the doctor had drugged them and then committed deviate sexual attacks.

Shaw said they also found pipe bombs, detonators, three handguns, pornographic photos, literature and movies and artificial devices for sexual stimulation in the doctor's office.

Sheriff's police also found a quantity of what Shaw called "dangerous drugs which could incapacitate a person if taken."

Shaw said Middleton, of 2900 Lake Shore Dr., Chicago, gave no resistance and the only explanation the doctor gave for having the guns was that he had been threatened and needed to protect himself. Shaw added that Middleton will also be charged with possession of explosives and unlawful use of a weapon.

HE WAS RELEASED Wednesday morning on $15,000 bond and is scheduled to appear in Niles Circuit Court Dec. 29. Shaw said the state's attorney intends to ask for a grand jury hearing in the case.

Shaw said that although a number of women have already complained to the sheriff's police, more of Middleton's patients or former patients will come forward if they have complaints.

The police were armed with a warrant Tuesday night issued by Circuit Court Judge Anton Smigiel.

Middleton, a staff member of St. Joseph's hospital in Chicago, was acquitted by a jury in St. Louis in 1961 on a charge of drugging and raping a housewife, according to Shaw.

Harwood Urges Two-Part Referendum

A DETERMINED look of concentration is evident on the face of this Oliver Wendell Holmes Junior High School student as he takes aim during an intramural bowling game at the Buffalo Grove Rosebowl.

Winston L. Harwood, School Dist. 26 superintendent, has recommended that a two-part referendum be submitted to voters. Harwood's recommendation came during a school board meeting Tuesday.

The first part of the referendum would be a proposal for a hike in the education funds from the current $1.40 per $100 assessed valuation to $1.60. The second part would be a bond issue proposal. Funds from the issue would be used for an addition to River Trails Junior High School.

The board took no official action on Harwood's proposal Tuesday. However, Harold Haney, board president, said Tuesday he was in favor of holding the referendum. He predicted the board would decide at its meeting Dec. 15 to go ahead with it.

In making his recommendation, Harwood said, "The education fund tax rate has been $1.40 for at least the last 10 years." (It is the education fund that makes up most of the district's total tax rate of $2.27 per $100 assessed valuation.)

"Last year, we had a deficit of $172,000," he said. "This year it will be about $350,000." He gave three reasons for the deficit: 1. the influx of children from Maryville Academy "despite state reimbursement," 2. higher teachers' salaries, and 3. higher operating costs.

HARWOOD SAID, "We could talk about cutting back programs" to make the district's income equal to its expenses. "But, first, we've got to give the public its choice."

To that Haney added, "We have either got to reduce programs to fit (the number of) dollars, or we've got to (increase the number of) dollars to fit the programs."

Harwood cited statistics which showed that the Dist. 26 education tax was the lowest among several area school districts. Board member Ray Johnston noted that based on Harwood's statistics, the district also had the lowest total tax rate among several districts. The next lowest, was Dist. 57. The tax rate in Dist. 57 is $2.60, or 33 cents higher than that in Dist. 26.

Concerning the proposal involving the high school addition, Harwood said that space for the growing number of students at the junior high school has become inadequate. He indicated the addition would probably result in an enlarged band class area, an enlarged cafeteria and larger home economics classes facilities.

Though no cost estimates or detailed plans for the additions have yet been drawn up, Harwood predicted the addition would cost no more than $500,000.

GEMCO Debate Continues

by ROGER CAPETTINI

The GEMCO discount store debate continued last night as representatives of the store tried to convince the Arlington Heights Plan Commission and a number of objectors that several problems would be alleviated when the development is completed.

Representatives of Lucky Stores Inc., owner of the GEMCO chain, appeared before the plan commission with the request for a planned development in order to construct the store on the southeast corner of Rand Road and Thomas Avenue.

Later in the evening the commission was still hearing testimony and had not yet made a decision.

This was the second time the store representatives had appeared before the plan commission regarding the proposed development. In August the commission recommended that the village board deny a request for annexation and rezoning. The village trustees voted Oct. 12 to not follow the recommendation and approved the request.

A NUMBER OF Arlington Heights and Prospect Heights residents in the area surrounding the proposed site and a group of Hersey High School students have previously objected to the proposal. Hersey is on the north side of Thomas Avenue, just east of the site of the proposed store.

Those objectors, joined by the Citizens For Better Zoning, a group of Prospect Heights residents have cited what they feel are unsolvable problems of storm water runoff, traffic congestion and traffic safety hazards concerning the high school students. Fewer than 25 persons attended last night's meeting to reiterate their objections.

ROGER PATZER, an applied engineer, told the commissioner that a storm water retention system on the site will result in less runoff than would be experienced if the land were left undeveloped.

Patzer said the runoff for the undeveloped land is about 11 cubic feet per second under the retention plans, he added, storm water runoff would be held to only one cubic foot per second.

The engineer told the commission that the water will not drain onto neighboring property, but into the store's parking lot which will be completely surrounded by six-inch curbing. Patzer also said the developer will construct catch basins for the storm water in the parking lot.

Paul C. Box, a traffic engineer, testified that his firm had conducted a traffic study of the area in July and supplemented that with additional studies in September and November. Box said that he believes the automobile and pedestrian traffic in the area presents no particular traffic problem.

Jim Catanzaro, a Hersey High School student, spoke for a group of about eight students in raising a number of questions about the proposed project. Catanzaro questioned why the petitioner had not mentioned incidents of students being hit by automobiles in the past. He estimated that at least three students have been struck in the past two years. Catanzaro also raised questions of "trouble spots" east of the school and others west of Rand Road; the number of gas stations in the area and the number of department stores in the area.

School Break-Ins, Small Theft Told

Burglars broke into two Dist. 26 schools late Monday or early Tuesday according to Mount Prospect police.

Burglars gained entry to River Trails Junior High School, 1000 Wolf Rd., by breaking a window in one of the classrooms. Police said about $1.50 in small change was stolen from a secretary's desk in the main office and a rusty pocketknife was missing from the principal's desk drawer.

Police said burglars also broke into Euclid School, 1211 Wheeling Rd., by breaking a window in one of the classrooms. Police said the desks in the main office had been disturbed but nothing was apparently missing at the time of the investigation.

The principal of Euclid School said he will submit a list of any missing items following an inventory of the main office and classrooms.

Kids 'Pin' Hopes In Local Alley

Every Tuesday after school, a group of youthful bowlers from Oliver Wendell Holmes Junior High School in Wheeling gathers at the Buffalo Grove Rosebowl to try a hand at bowling.

More than 100 seventh and eighth grade students are enrolled in the program, according to Leah Dickerson, physical education instructor at Holmes. She said about 70 boys and 40 girls bowl in the program.

This is the second year the bowling league has been included in the intramural program, Miss Dickerson said. Other activities in the fall program are basketball, volleyball, flag football, and field hockey.

Each boy and girl bowl two games at each session. There are a total of seven teams, with each team composed of five or six bowlers, Miss Dickerson said. Weekly standings are kept, and, at the end of the program shortly before Christmas, awards will be given to the five boys and girls with the highest average and highest single game scores, she said.

Harpists To Play At Wheeling High

Harpists Joe Longstreth and John Escosa will appear in concert Monday at Wheeling High School.

Their performance will begin at 8 p.m. in the Little Theatre.

The concert will be the second of four concerts to be given this year in the Northwest Community Concert Association program.

Longstreth and Escosa have appeared throughout the country both in recital and with orchestra accompaniment, including an appearance at Carnegie Hall in New York City.

Ticket information concerning the concert may be obtained by calling the membership chairman of the community concert association at 537-2940.

The two remaining concerts will feature folk singers Addis and Crofut on Jan. 25 and the Lee Evans Trio on Feb. 19.

FAMILY NIGHT at the new Neptune's Swimming Pool at Wheeling High School Tuesday gave Mr. and Mrs. Bob Harrison a chance to show their 22-

month-old son Ricky that swimming is fun. Family swim night is held from 6:30 to 10 p.m. every Tuesday at the Wheeling Park District Pool which opened Nov. 15.

Nab Doctor On Sex Charges

Cook County Sheriff's police Tuesday night arrested a physician in his office just west of Des Plaines and charged him with the deviate sexual assault of several of his patients.

Dr. James Middleton, 44, a general practitioner, was taken into custody in his office at 989 Elmhurst Rd. about 8 p.m. Tuesday by sheriff's police. Middleton was with a female patient at the time of his arrest.

According to Det. Donald Shaw, who led the raid into Middleton's office, the arrest came after a two month investigation in which a number of Middleton's suburban women patients complained that the doctor had drugged them and then committed deviate sexual attacks.

Shaw said they also found pipe bombs, detonators, three handguns, pornographic photos, literature and movies and artificial devices for sexual stimulation in the doctor's office.

Sheriff's police also found a quantity of what Shaw called "dangerous drugs which could incapacitate a person if taken."

Shaw said Middleton, of 2800 Lake Shore Dr., Chicago, gave no resistance and the only explanation the doctor gave for having the guns was that he had been threatened and needed to protect himself. Shaw added that Middleton will also be charged with possession of explosives and unlawful use of a weapon.

HE WAS RELEASED Wednesday morning on $16,000 bond and is scheduled to appear in Niles Circuit Court Dec. 29. Shaw said the state's attorney intends to ask for a grand jury hearing in the case.

Shaw said that although a number of women have already complained to the sheriff's police, more of Middleton's patients or former patients will come forward if they have complaints.

The police were armed with a warrant Tuesday night issued by Circuit Court Judge Anton Smigiel.

Middleton, a staff member of St. Joseph's hospital in Chicago, was acquitted by a jury in St. Louis in 1961 on a charge of drugging and raping a housewife, according to Shaw.

Glaucoma Testing Unit Here Today

Persons in Wheeling and Buffalo Grove can have their eyes tested for glaucoma free next week. A mobile glaucoma screening unit operated by the Illinois Society will be brought to the area then.

The mobile unit will be in Wheeling on Tuesday from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. and from 6:30 to 9 p.m. It will be at the shopping center at 303 E. Dundee Rd. in front of Mark's Drug Store. Ed Schlangen, Wheeling Lions Club president, has urged residents, especially those over 35 because they are more susceptible to the disease, to have their eyes checked at the unit.

Richard Holtz, president of the Buffalo Grove Lions Club, has announced that his organization will sponsor the unit's visit to Buffalo Grove from 5 to 9 p.m. on Wednesday.

The mobile unit will be stationed at the Ranch Mart Shopping Center during its visit to Buffalo Grove.

The unit is designed to detect unknown cases of the eye disease so that early treatment may prevent the blindness which may result from the disease.

Food Drive In Fourth Day

The cans are starting to pile up at Wheeling High School as the canned food drive to help the needy at Christmas enters its fourth day.

As of yesterday morning, 2,069 pounds of canned food had been collected by Wheeling High students.

The sophomore class collected the most, with 894½ pounds. The freshmen were second with 464 pounds. The juniors were third with 370 pounds, and the seniors last with 330 pounds collected. Prizes will be awarded to the class that collects the most food.

"This is a lot less than is usually collected. Generally they collect about 20,000 pounds, but the juniors and seniors traditionally wait until the last day to bring in their food," said Paul Mueller, director of student activities at the high school.

The students are canvassing the community for canned food. The food will be donated to Lydia's Children's Home in Chicago, Norwesco and Wheeling Township for distribution to the needy. The driver, sponsored by the class boards and a student council, will continue through tomorrow.

PUBLIC SCHOOL TEACHERS will probably have no more trouble with John Dowling than Mrs. Paul Tvrty does now at the Northwest Suburban Montessori School in Arlington Heights. Officials at public schools report good results with Montessori children who come to them after several years of education.

Montessori Kids 'Are No Problem'

EDITOR'S NOTE: Children who are ahead or behind their age groups have sometimes caused problems for schools and teachers. But as the districts become more concerned with individualized education, Montessori children, at least, seem to present no difficulty. In this final story in a series on Montessori nursery schools and kindergartens, educators from several school districts discuss the Montessori child who comes to them.

by WANDALYN RICE

Montessori children look and act almost no different than other children the same age.

And they seldom cause problems for schools they go to after they finish Montessori.

However, the way schools deal with the special academic needs of the Montessori child depends on the child, the teacher and the district.

A child who is ahead in his class may be moved into a higher grade level or be given extra work in his regular class.

IN DIST. 21, children who have attended pre-kindergarten Montessori schools often skip kindergarten and are placed in a first grade class with average and below average students, administrator Marge Beu said.

"They have been performing very well. We were worried about the age difference and about the children going to school a full day, but it hasn't been a problem," she said. "They are about on a par with the first graders."

In Dist. 25, Jim Montgomery, director

of instruction, says there is no special program for Montessori children because none has seemed necessary.

Instructional groups in the district are formed through ability, he said. "If they are good in reading, they move ahead — and if they aren't, they stay with children of their ability."

Paul Jung, a Dist. 15 administrator who was principal of Jane Addams School, had a number of children in his school who had been in Montessori.

He said he had no problem with the Montessori students and added, "There is such a variety of children in first grade that they are not surprising."

HE SAID HE could not remember any of the children specifically and "I can't remember them being ahead, but I definitely don't remember them being behind."

Much of the effect of Montessori is determined by the parents, he added. "If they follow up in the home it will make a difference. A lot depends on what comes from the home."

One thing he is sure of, he said, "I can't remember anything exceptional that caused us any consternation as far as curriculum was concerned."

Many of the new programs in elementary schools resemble Montessori techniques, especially in the use of manipulative materials — blocks, rods and shapes for teaching concepts.

And from one administrator came a touch of envy, "We don't have as many things using manipulative skills as Montessori. I wish we had more."

Filmstrip To Be Shown At Church

A filmstrip entitled "The Coming of Christ," will be shown at 10:15 a.m. Dec. 13 at Grace Evangelical Lutheran Church, 1010 E. Euclid Ave., Prospect Heights.

The showing is sponsored by the Christian Education committee of the church. Following the showing, the Rev. Albert Weidlich, pastor, and Vicar David Rohs will lead a discussion on the subject, "The effect of art on our Christian theology." The public is invited to the showing.

Men's Breakfast Set By Grace Evangelical

A breakfast for the men of Grace Evangelical Lutheran Church in Prospect Heights will be held at 7:30 a.m. this Sunday at the church, 1010 E. Euclid Ave., Prospect Heights. The announcement was made by Guy Dixon, chairman of the Christian education committee at the church.

Speaker at the breakfast will be David Rohs, the vicar at the church. Title of his talk will be "The Contemporary Seminarian." Rohs is currently in his third year of seminary studies.

Fire Calls

Area Drug Center To Open

A youth counseling and drug treatment center to serve the Northwest suburban area opened yesterday in the Golf Mill Building at Golf Mill Shopping Center in Niles.

The center was set up to serve residents of Mount Prospect, Buffalo Grove, Wheeling, Palatine, Arlington Heights, Des Plaines and other Northwest suburban communities.

Announcement of the new center was made by G. Arthur Applequist, director of the Youth Counseling Service, a division of Environmental Health Laboratories, a non-profit professional medical organization.

Applequist said the center, at first, will operate as a counseling service only. The program is designed to be used as a referral service by police departments.

"WHAT WE'RE TRYING to do is bring in knowledgeable medical people to combat this problem," he added.

One of the other directors of the program is Edmond Morgan, executive secretary of the Illinois Association of Clinical Laboratories. Maurice W. Coburn, a member of Gov. Richard Ogilvie's staff, is also associated with the program.

Applequist said the center will charge fees until federal or state funding can be obtained. "We are applying for grants and financial backing. We have signed the five year lease and there are a number of other expenses we are going to incur, so we have to charge fees for now," he said.

Plans for the establishment of the center were first disclosed by Applequist in late October at a meeting of the HELP (Help Eliminate Local Problems) Committee, TORCH Mental Health Clinic, and the Wheeling Youth Commission at Wheeling High School.

At that time Applequist outlined a program that would include diagnostic and medical treatment facilities as well as the counseling service. The treatment part of the program is still in the process of being organized, Applequist said.

Chief Unaware Of New Center

Chief Newell Esmond of the Mount Prospect Police Department said yesterday he was not aware of the opening of a youth counseling and drug treatment center in the Golf Mill Shopping Center in Niles.

When informed the center is expected to be a referral service for police, Esmond said he had not yet learned of the arrangement from the center's administrative staff.

"We need centers, staffed by professionals, to combat the problems of youths in the suburban area. But before we could refer anyone to the center in Niles, we'd need to conduct a thorough investigation of the organization and its staff," Esmond said.

"There is always a possibility these drug treatment and counseling centers can be misused if they're not staffed by professional, qualified personnel. I'm not familiar with the new center in Niles, and until then, I couldn't make any recommendations or referrals to youths in our community," Esmond said.

"BUT THERE ISN'T any doubt we assistance, we will recommend a counseling service and treatment center for youths with drug problems without any need to establish an honest sanctuary and treatment center for youths with drug problems and personal problems. I think this is what Mayor Robert Teichert is trying to do with the Plan for Action on drug use and abuse in the community. And hopefully the village's interest in this problem will encourage other communities in our area to establish creditable treatment centers for youths with drug problems," he said.

Esmond added although many people have good intentions for helping youths with drug problems, "we want these children to have professional care, and for this reason I think we should be selective in our referrals and investigate centers before recommending them to anyone."

Esmond said if a parent called police requesting help for his child, he'd be happy to recommend a treatment center where the child could receive help.

"If a person seeks help and asks us for police reprimand just as long as these persons haven't come to our attention through any police action.

"BUT IF POLICE become aware of this person and his problem with drugs through police action and investigation, then we can't ignore our legal responsibilities and obligations. We still have to enforce the laws on drugs or any other issues and process these persons through the courts. However, even in these cases, we still try to be of as much assistance as possible by working within the law and within our jurisdiction as policemen," Esmond said.

Board Deadlocked; Majority Vote Needed

Mayor's Constitution Resolution Fails

(Editor's note: This is the first of a two-part series on the Mount Prospect Village Board's position on the proposed Illinois Constitution and four separate amendments. The second and final part of the series will appear in Friday's edition.)

by GERRY DEZONNA

The proposed Illinois Constitution failed Tuesday to win the support of the Mount Prospect Village Board.

The board, by a vote of 3 to 3 with one abstention, defeated a resolution introduced by Mayor Robert Teichert Tuesday asking for approval of the proposed state constitution. The resolution failed because it did not win a majority of the vote.

The vote ended in a deadlock when Trustee George Reiter abstained saying "I will not use this office to endorse the constitution or to indicate which way I will vote at the polls." Teichert and Trustees Donald Furst and John Kilroy voted for the resolution. Trustees Daniel Ahern, Robert Soderman and Lloyd Norris voted against it.

Although the four separate amendments will be nullified unless the constitution is approved at the polls, the board — despite its position on the constitution — then voted on each of the four amendments.

THEY ENDORSED the election of state representatives from multi member districts by cumulative voting; the appointment of judges by the governor; the 18-year-old vote; and the death penalty. The constitutional elections will be held Dec. 15.

The board discussed the constitution and the four amendments for more than two hours Tuesday at the request of Teichert, who told them it is "incumbent on the leadership of all communities to take a stand on the proposed constitution and the four amendments. We have an obligation to the voters of Mount Prospect to state publicly what we think of this document." Reiter charged the "constitution, at its best, is a miracle of political compromise." Reiter said he questioned the retention ballot for judges, lack of a state income tax ceiling and the equitable elimination of the personal property tax for individuals and businesses.

Ahern said the difference between the present and proposed constitution is one of governmental philosophy. "The 1870 Constitution (the present one) mistrusted government and therefore restricted its operation. The 1970 Constitution is less restrictive on government."

AHERN CHALLENGED the articles on revenue and local government. "The article on local government and home rule is less desirable than the provisions we have now under the present constitution. Home rule, from the standpoint of business could cause chaos because each municipality could set its own sales tax. Sales taxation by municipality will hurt any business which operates throughout the state."

Teichert countered Ahern's argument by pointing out that states have different sales taxes. "If there's such a discrepancy in sales taxes by municipalities, I'm certain these discrepancies will level off by themselves. If Mount Prospect charges 10 cents on the dollar and Arlington Heights charges only two cents, then everyone will shop in Arlington and our businesses will go bankrupt. So there's bound to be a leveling off so communities can exist."

The majority of trustees seemed undecided as to whether the proposed constitution will benefit residents more than the present constitution.

"I HAVE TOO many questions about the proposed constitution, and frankly, I wouldn't want to endorse anything that I didn't wholeheartedly believe in myself. I'm disappointed in the results of the Constitutional Convention, even though I realize the complexity of redrafting a new constitution. But at this point I have enough doubts and reservations about the constitution not to endorse its passage," Soderman explained.

Teichert said the proposed constitution is a good constitution and one which far exceeds the 1870 Constitution. He said it merits the support of the board and the residents of Mount Prospect.

"The thrust of the new constitution is to place government at a local level as much as possible. The federal government tends to become too centralized, and although we complain about this centralization, we have defeated every attempt in the past to localize government."

"Under our present state constitution, Springfield could wipe us out of existence tomorrow. But under the new constitution this wouldn't happen because there will be legislative and fiscal powers granted to the municipalities. I prefer the municipalities have the power to tax for the benefit of residents than the state," Teichert said.

"AS FOR THE revenue article, the state couldn't put a ceiling on the state income tax, gasoline, cigarettes or any of its other sources of revenue. If the state needs the money, they'll find a way to tax the people — even if it's by increasing the tolls on the tollway. With or without tax ceilings, the power to tax is there just by the nature of the government," he said.

"There is less political compromise in the constitution than I expected. Although there are sections of the proposed constitution that I can't agree on, I think the benefits in the 1970 Constitution nullify the negative points."

Although the proposed constitution failed to win the approval of the board, trustees indicated they would encourage residents to vote in the Dec. 15 elections. Acceptance of the proposed constitution needs only a simple majority of votes cast in the election.

Referendum Is Urged By School Chief

Winston L. Harwood, School Dist. 26 superintendent, has recommended that a two-part referendum be submitted to voters. Harwood's recommendation came during a school board meeting Tuesday.

The first part of the referendum would be a proposal for a hike in the education funds from the current $1.40 per $100 assessed valuation to $1.60. The second part would be a bond issue proposal. Funds from the issue would be used for an addition to River Trails Junior High School.

The board took no official action on Harwood's proposal Tuesday. However, Harold Haney, board president, said Tuesday he was in favor of holding the referendum. He predicted the board would decide at its meeting Dec. 15 to go ahead with it.

In making his recommendation, Harwood said, "The education fund tax rate has been $1.40 for at least the last 10 years." (It is the education fund that makes up most of the district's total tax rate of $2.27 per $100 assessed valuation.)

"Last year, we had a deficit of $172,000," he said. "This year it will be about $350,000." He gave three reasons for the deficit: 1. the influx of children from Maryville Academy "despite state reimbursement," 2. higher teachers' salaries, and 3. higher operating costs.

HARWOOD SAID, "We could talk about cutting back programs" to make the district's income equal to its expenses. "But, first, we've got to give the public its choice."

To that Haney added, "We have either got to reduce programs to fit (the number of) dollars, or we've got to (increase the number of) dollars to fit the programs."

Harwood cited statistics which showed that the Dist. 26 education tax was the lowest among several area school districts. Board member Ray Johnston noted that based on Harwood's statistics, the district also had the lowest total tax rate among several districts. The next lowest, was Dist. 57. The tax rate in Dist. 57 is $2.60, or 33 cents higher than that in Dist. 26.

Concerning the proposal involving the high school addition, Harwood said that space for the growing number of students at the junior high school has become inadequate. He indicated the addition would probably result in an enlarged band class area, an enlarged cafeteria and larger home economics classes facilities.

Though no cost estimates or detailed plans for the additions have yet been drawn up, Harwood predicted the addition would cost no more than $500,000.

MOUNT PROSPECT FIREMEN extinguished a fire in the kitchen of the Carl Gryzik residence, 802 W. Busse Ave., yesterday afternoon. Firemen said the fire was started by the pilot light of the stove. Two persons were taken to Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights, where they were treated for minor burns. Lt. Harold Barra is cleaning up the debris in the Gryzik kitchen.

Sewer Assessment OK'd

An ordinance which will pave the way for a public assessment for construction of storm water sewers in the area of Hatlen Heights was approved Tuesday by the Mount Prospect Village Board.

Installation of the new sewer system near Lincoln Street and Meier Road is expected to alleviate flooding problems in Hatlen Heights and the immediate surrounding area.

The project will cost about $628,174 with Hatlen Heights homeowners paying most of the costs. The cost per homeowner, based on the average lot, is estimated at about $883.

Although the village board voted to levy a special assessment for installation of the new sewer system, a court hearing will be held on the assessment as a routine course of action.

"In order to levy a special assessment, procedure requires a court hearing with time permitted for residents to file objections to the assessment. The court will determine the validity of the assessment in terms of how much residents will pay for the benefits of the improvement," Mayor Robert Teichert explained.

"ALTHOUGH THE village determines the improvement is needed, the court must confirm the improvement and assessment as designed by the municipal authorities. The court is concerned primarily with the spreading of the assessment over homeowners who will benefit from the improvement and pay for these improvements proportionate to the benefits," Teichert said.

Teichert said part of the total cost of the sewer system, known as Special Assessment 70, will be paid by the village as a public benefit.

The public benefit portion is tentatively estimated at about 20 per cent of the cost, approximately $125,634. Teichert said the 20 per cent portion is the recommendation of Atty. Kenneth Stonesieffer, a special assessments expert, who was hired by the village as outside counsel on the assessment.

"We'll discuss the public benefit portion of the project at our next village board meeting and then recommend to the court what we think that portion should be. However, the court can only determine what the public benefit portion will be in the end. They can either reduce it or increase it," he said.

TEICHERT SAID the new sewer system will augment the present field tile system in the Hatlen Heights area. "This system was adequate for a field but not for the development of property with houses. Since this property has been developed as well as land upgrade from us, there's no place for the storm water to drain because the field tile system is inadequate."

Teichert said he could not estimate the amount of time between now and installation of the sewer system. Time will depend on the number of objectors to the assessment, he said.

School Break-Ins, Small Theft Told

Burglars broke into two Dist. 26 schools late Monday or early Tuesday according to Mount Prospect police.

Burglars gained entry to River Trails Junior High School, 1000 Wolf Rd., by breaking a window in one of the classrooms. Police said about $150 in small change was stolen from a secretary's desk in the main office and a rusty pocketknife was missing from the principal's desk drawer.

Police said burglars also broke into Euclid School, 1211 Wheeling Rd., by breaking a window in one of the classrooms. Police said the desks in the main office had been disturbed but nothing was apparently missing at the time of the investigation.

The principal of Euclid School said he will submit a list of any missing items following an inventory of the main office and classrooms.

Slow-Break Basketball Set

The Mount Prospect Park District will begin its slow-break basketball league with a practice session at Dempster Junior High School Saturday from 1 to 5 p.m.

Persons or teams interested in participating in the league can sign up by attending the first session or by contacting program supervisor Sam Geati at CL 5-5380.

Two more practices will be held Dec. 15 and Dec. 19 before league play begins Jan. 9, hopefully at the new community center at Lions Park.

Teams must have a minimum of eight players and a maximum of 12. Cost per team is $60.

Extensioneers Set Bazaar For Today

The Extensioneers of Mount Prospect will hold a second bazaar sale today at the Community Presbyterian Church, 407 N. Main St. in Mount Prospect. The sale will run from 10:30 a.m. to 3 p.m.

The Extensioneers a senior citizens group, will sell household items to finance transportation for various trips made by the members.

states that no team may fast break or exercise a zone press defense during the first three quarters of a game.

The minimum age for players in the league is 18 years old.

Geati said the schedule is tentative and "most likely" will include a "round robin" single elimination tournament at the end of the season.

No more than 25 per cent of the players on a team can reside outside the boundaries of the Mount Prospect Park District, which includes the majority of Mount Prospect and the Eighth Ward in Des Plaines.

IEA Probe Results Soon?

Results of the Illinois Education Association investigation of School Dist. 59 may be known as early as Dec. 11, according to the committee conducting the investigation.

The nine-member committee investigating charges by the Teachers' Council has set Dec. 11 and 12, the next meeting of the IEA executive board, as a target date for its report to the board.

If the executive board feels the investigation has substantiated significant charges it must, according to its own guidelines, provide the district an opportunity to remove the cause before imposing a sanction.

Although specific allegations have not been released, IEA guidelines include the following reasons for possible sanctions: refusal of a school board to negotiate conditions of professional employment in good faith; and failure of school board to maintain conditions conducive to sound educational practices including, but not limited to: class size, assignment of duties, availability of instructional materials, balanced curricular emphasis, and adequate physical environment.

They also include the use of harassing tactics or arbitrary discriminatory actions or threats which create fear and intimidate employees in an attempt to coerce them, and the refusal of the school board to develop adequate procedures for processing employee grievances.

THE COMMITTEE comprised of teachers, principals, superintendents and IEA representatives from throughout Illinois conducted the investigation Monday through Wednesday.

Committee chairman Robert Burgess said that the members worked from 9 a.m. to midnight Monday and Tuesday and planned to work till late afternoon Wednesday.

During their stay, committee members visited 11 school buildings, talked to almost 150 staff members and about 24 parents. The committee also met with representative groups such as the School Community Council, and interviewed former board members and interested citizens.

Burgess said, "I think we as a committee are somewhat disappointed that the school board decided not to confer with us."

Nab Doctor On Sex Charges

Cook County Sheriff's police Tuesday night arrested a physician in his office just west of Des Plaines and charged him with the deviate sexual assault of several of his patients.

Dr. James Middleton, 44, a general practitioner, was taken into custody in his office at 969 Elmhurst Rd. about 8 p.m. Tuesday by sheriff's police. Middleton was with a female patient at the time of his arrest.

According to Det. Donald Shaw, who led the raid into Middleton's office, the arrest came after a two month investigation in which a number of Middleton's suburban women patients complained that the doctor had drugged them and then committed deviate sexual attacks.

Shaw said they also found pipe bombs, detonators, three handguns, pornographic photos, literature and movies and artificial devices for sexual stimulation in the doctor's office.

Sheriff's police also found a quantity of what Shaw called "dangerous drugs which could incapacitate a person if taken."

Shaw said Middleton, of 2880 Lake Shore Dr., Chicago, gave no resistance and the only explanation the doctor gave for having the guns was that he had been threatened and needed to protect himself. Shaw added that Middleton will also be charged with possession of explosives and unlawful use of a weapon.

HE WAS RELEASED Wednesday morning on $15,000 bond and is scheduled to appear in Niles Circuit Court Dec. 29. Shaw said the state's attorney intends to ask for a grand jury hearing in the case.

Shaw said that although a number of women have already complained to the sheriff's police, more of Middleton's patients or former patients will come forward if they have complaints.

The police were armed with a warrant Tuesday night issued by Circuit Court Judge Anton Smigiel.

Middleton, a staff member of St. Joseph's hospital in Chicago, was acquitted by a jury in St. Louis in 1961 on a charge of drugging and raping a housewife, according to Shaw.

Glaucoma Testing Unit Here Today

Persons in Wheeling and Buffalo Grove can have their eyes tested for glaucoma free next week. A mobile glaucoma screening unit operated by the Illinois Society will be brought to the area then.

The mobile unit will be in Wheeling on Tuesday from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. and from 6:30 to 9 p.m. It will be at the shopping center at 303 E. Dundee Rd. in front on Mark's Drug Store. Ed Schlangen, Wheeling Lions Club president, has urged residents, especially those over 35 because they are more susceptible to the disease, to have their eyes checked at the unit.

Richard Holtz, president of the Buffalo Grove Lions Club, has announced that his organization will sponsor the unit's visit to Buffalo Grove from 5 to 9 p.m. on Wednesday.

The mobile unit will be stationed at the Ranch Mart Shopping Center during its visit to Buffalo Grove.

The unit is designed to detect unknown cases of the eye disease so that early treatment may prevent the blindness which may result from the disease

Food Drive In Fourth Day

The cans are starting to pile up at Wheeling High School as the canned food drive to help the needy at Christmas enters its fourth day.

As of yesterday morning, 2,059 pounds of canned food had been collected by Wheeling High students.

The sophomore class collected the most, with 694½ pounds. The freshmen were second with 464 pounds. The juniors were third with 370 pounds, and the seniors last with 330 pounds collected. Prizes will be awarded to the class that collects the most food.

"This is a lot less than is usually collected. Generally they collect about 20,000 pounds, but the juniors and seniors traditionally wait until the last day to bring in their food," said Paul Mueller, director of student activities at the high school.

The students are canvassing the community for canned food. The food will be donated to Lydia's Children's Home in Chicago, Norwesco and Wheeling Township for distribution to the needy. The driver, sponsored by the class boards and student council, will continue through tomorrow.

PUBLIC SCHOOL TEACHERS will probably have no more trouble with John Dowling than Mrs. Paul Tvrby does now at the Northwest Suburban Montessori School in Arlington Heights. Officials at public schools report good results with Montessori children who come to them after several years of education.

Montessori Kids 'Are No Problem'

EDITOR'S NOTE: Children who are ahead or behind their age groups have sometimes caused problems for schools and teachers. But as the districts become more concerned with individualized education, Montessori children, at least, seem to present no difficulty. In this final story in a series on Montessori nursery schools and kindergartens, educators from several school districts discuss the Montessori child who comes to them.

by WANDALYN RICE

Montessori children look and act almost no different than other children the same age.

And they seldom cause problems for schools they go to after they finish Montessori.

However, the way schools deal with the special academic needs of the Montessori child depends on the child, the teacher and the district.

A child who is ahead in his class may be moved into a higher grade level or be given extra work in his regular class.

IN DIST. 21, children who have attended pre-kindergarten Montessori schools often skip kindergarten and are placed in a first grade class with average and below average students, administrator Marge Ben said.

"They have been performing very well. We were worried about the age difference and about the children going to school a full day, but it hasn't been a problem," she said. "They are about on a par with the first graders."

In Dist. 25, Jim Montgomery, director

of instruction, says there is no special program for Montessori children because none has seemed necessary.

Instructional groups in the district are formed through ability, he said "If they are good in reading, they move ahead — and if they aren't, they stay with children of their ability."

Paul Jung, a Dist. 15 administrator who was principal of Jane Addams School, had a number of children in his school who had been in Montessori.

He said he had no problem with the Montessori students and added, "There is such a variety of children in first grade that they are not surprising."

HE SAID HE could not remember any of the children specifically and "I can't remember them being ahead, but I definitely don't remember them being behind."

Much of the effect of Montessori is determined by the parents, he added. "If they follow up in the home it will make a difference. A lot depends on what comes from the home."

One thing he is sure of, he said, "I can't remember anything exceptional that caused us any consternation as far as curriculum was concerned."

Many of the new programs in elementary schools resemble Montessori techniques, especially in the use of manipulative materials — blocks, rods and shapes for teaching concepts.

And from one administrator came a touch of envy, "We don't have as many things using manipulative skills as Montessori. I wish we had more."

Filmstrip To Be Shown At Church

A filmstrip entitled "The Coming of Christ," will be shown at 10:15 a.m. Dec. 13 at Grace Evangelical Lutheran Church, 1010 E. Euclid Ave., Prospect Heights.

The showing is sponsored by the Christian Education committee of the church. Following the showing, the Rev. Albert Weidlich, pastor, and Vicar David Rohs will lead a discussion on the subject, "The effect of art on our Christian theology." The public is invited to the showing.

Men's Breakfast Set By Grace Evangelical

A breakfast for the men of Grace Evangelical Lutheran Church in Prospect Heights will be held at 7:30 a.m. this Sunday at the church, 1010 E. Euclid Ave., Prospect Heights. The announcement was made by Guy Dixon, chairman of the Christian education committee at the church.

Speaker at the breakfast will be David Rohs, the vicar at the church. Title of his talk will be "The Contemporary Seminarian." Rohs is currently in his third year of seminary studies.

Their Foundation: Public Service

Editor's Note: The following is the last of two articles on the League of Women Voters of the Arlington Heights-Mount Prospect area. This year is the 50th anniversary of the founding of the first League of Women Voters.

by SANDRA BROWNING
The two words mentioned most often by members involved in the League of Women Voters are "public service." Voter registration drives, providing information on candidates, studying issues and other projects are all done as public service projects.

Pat Gardner, president of the League of Women Voters of the Arlington Heights-Mount Prospect area, said the league does not take a position on a local issue until members have studied it. Also, the league cannot take a position or testify on a local issue unless the chapter has done a "Know Your Town" study. After this type of study is done, the town's name can be added to the local chapter's name.

MEMBERS SAID that since the membership of residents from Elk Grove was growing, these members may be doing a "Know Your Town" study soon.

By studying issues, the 150-member league has a strong base "when we do begin to act," said Marily Marier, Con-Con chairman.

On the volatile issue of low and moderate income housing in Arlington Heights, league members decided to issue a fact sheet because "so many questions were asked."

"We thought it would be a public service to make information available," the league president said.

In addition to making information on elections and issues available to the public, the league also has an "Observer Corps." Members of the local group attend meetings of school boards, village boards and other governmental units and report back on the activities of these groups.

A few years ago, a league observer was such a regular sight at Arlington Heights Plan Commission meetings that she named a street in the village. A proposed development needed a name for a street and the plan commissioners asked the woman for an appropriate name.

HER SUGGESTION was approved by the commission.

Also as a public service, the league has printed a small booklet entitled "Who's Who in Local Government." The booklet includes the names and phone numbers of village, park and school district officials in Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect, Elk Grove Village, Prospect Heights, Hoffman Estates and Wheeling.

The league members described their involvement with the league as stimulating because "we're always learning," said the local league president.

Madeline Schroeder, a league member, said the league "lets in any kind of ideas. It's a tremendous forum."

ALTHOUGH SOMETIMES a member will join because she wants to work on a "pet problem, the member usually ends up getting involved in everything," Mrs. Marier said.

Betty Newhart, human resources chairman, said that during the process of studying and discussing problems, "You find that nothing is simple."

Mrs. Schroeder said membership involvement in the league teaches members that "knowledge is a tremendous strength." It also teaches them how to get information a person needs to make decisions, she said.

Although the league activities are sometimes time-consuming, the members said they found their involvement worthwhile.

Mrs. Gardner said she had been a member of some other types of organizations with which she wasn't happy. She heard about the league through a professor in college and has been involved with league activities for about 13 years. "I enjoy it more than anything I've ever done."

Members agreed that once a woman joins the league, "You join it wherever you go," said Mrs. Schroeder. She originally became involved with the league in the 1950's in Pennsylvania.

MRS. NEWHART said the league was the only civic organization in which she was active and she had heard about league activities in a high school civics class.

Mary Lou Shepherd, vice president and voter service chairman, said she became involved in league activities when she worked for a lawyer who became involved with politics. "It just seemed natural to someone interested in politics," she said.

With the existing political structure being so complicated, "You need outside help to be able to understand it," Mrs. Shepherd said.

Mrs. Marier said that she enjoys the league because "I'd really like to do something rather than just discuss things."

The members agreed they enjoyed the women they met in the league because the other members "don't just talk about diapers."

Policeman Says Center 'Badly Needed'

Area Youth Services Bureau Favored

FAMILY NIGHT at the new Neptune's Swimming Pool at Wheeling High School Tuesday gave Mr. and Mrs. Bob Harrison a chance to show their 22-month-old son Ricky that swimming is fun. Family swim night is held from 6:30 to 10 p.m. every Tuesday at the Wheeling Park District Pool which opened Nov. 15.

The Arlington Heights Youth Council decided Monday night to support a proposal for a youth services bureau to serve Arlington Heights, Rolling Meadows, Palatine and Inverness.

A request for support of the concept was presented by Emerson Thomas, executive director of the Palatine Township Youth Committee. The request was merely for "moral" support, to boost the chances for approval of the concept as a pilot project and thus make it eligible for state and federal aid. Thomas did not ask for financial assistance in the project.

The objective of the program is to provide a community-based youth services program staffed by professional youth workers. The bureau would operate out of rented quarters. No location has been chosen, Thomas said, and it could be in any of the towns to be served by the bureau.

THE PROGRAM WOULD include providing a place where young people can go to talk with an adult or seek medical, legal, and employment assistance and emergency help; and having the staff spend time in the community, meeting youths where they "hang out."

The bureau would concentrate on "building a trusting relationship with the youth so that he will seek assistance, and with involving agencies and organizations in the community to utilize all resources available," according to Thomas.

Programs which might be developed include discussion groups with parents and teenagers, and with policemen and teenagers. Thomas said the young people will be involved "as much as possible" in the development, planning and implementation of services and programs.

The bureau would serve as a resource center and teenagers could be referred by police, the courts or schools or could approach the bureau themselves. It would then work to determine what the problem was and possibly refer the youth to other agencies for additional help.

FUNDING FOR THE project would include 75 per cent provided by a federal grant, 12.5 per cent by the state and 12.5 per cent by Palatine Township.

The budget was estimated at more than $64,000. Of this, Palatine Township has agreed to supply slightly less than $8,000.

Among services which would be directly available or available by referral are counseling, job placement, therapy, residential placement, medical aid, tutoring and other services.

"Basically I think it's a good concept and really hasn't been tried yet,"

Thomas told the youth council. He said the bureau would definitely not serve as a drop-in place for teenagers to spend free time, but would serve as an office for the youth workers.

The staff of the center would have to operate on an "outreach" principle, going out on the street and getting acquainted with young people, "to build trust," Thomas said.

AFTER QUESTIONING by members of the council, Thomas said "The kids we need to serve are the most important. We don't care who gets the credit. There's nothing sacred about the Palatine Township involvement, it just happened that Palatine Township Youth Committee is the one filling out the application."

Thomas said that if the grant is approved, one of the first actions would be to create a citizens' advisory board to help with finding staff and a location for

2nd Caucus Is Forming In Village

by WANDALYN RICE

A second "caucus" is forming in Arlington Heights.

Like the Village Caucus, the second one will slate candidates for a spring election, but its official name will be the Nominating Committee for Candidates for the Board of Education of School Dist. 25.

Organizations in the village that are nonpolitical, nonreligious and with civic and educational interests will nominate delegates for the school board caucus and a subcommittee selected by the delegates will interview candidates.

The first meeting of delegates will be on Wednesday, Jan. 6, when the work of the school board and function of the nominating committee will be explained, organizers of the caucus said.

ON JAN. 13, delegates will submit names of proposed candidates for the board and will select an interviewing committee.

At the final meeting on Feb. 3, the interviewing committee will report back to the delegates on the candidates, and the general meeting will choose candidates for endorsement.

Organizations represented in the caucus include school units of the Arlington Heights PTA Council, American Association of University Women, American Legion, Camp Fire Girls, Chamber of Commerce, Community Concerts Association, Daughters of the American Revolution, Garden Club, Historical Society, Human Relations Committee, Jaycees, Junior Woman's Club, Lions Club, Newcomers Club, Northwest Hospital Auxiliary, Rotary, Woman's Club, VFW Auxiliary, Village Theater and homeowner's associations.

All qualifying organizations not presently represented are invited to select delegates and notify chairman Donald S. Schroeder, 1016 E. Park.

Retailers Argue Case For GEMCO

by ROGER CAPETTINI

The GEMCO discount store debate continued last night as representatives of the store tried to convince the Arlington Heights Plan Commission and a number of objectors that several problems would be alleviated when the development is completed.

Representatives of Lucky Stores Inc., owner of the GEMCO chain, appeared before the plan commission with the request for a planned development in order to construct the store on the southeast corner of Rand Road and Thomas Avenue.

Later in the evening the commission was still hearing testimony and had not yet made a decision.

This was the second time the store representatives had appeared before the plan commission regarding the proposed development. In August the commission recommended that the village board deny a request for annexation and rezoning. The village trustees voted Oct. 12 to not follow the recommendation and approved the request.

A NUMBER OF Arlington Heights and Prospect Heights residents in the area surrounding the proposed site and a group of Hersey High School students have previously objected to the proposal.

Hersey is on the north side of Thomas Avenue, just east of the site of the proposed store.

Those objectors, joined by the Citizens For Better Zoning, a group of Prospect Heights residents have cited what they feel are unsolvable problems of storm water runoff, traffic congestion and traffic safety hazards concerning the high school students. Fewer than 25 persons attended last night's meeting to reiterate their objections.

ROGER PATZER, an applied engineer, told the commission that a storm water retention system on the site will result in less runoff than would be experienced if the land were left undeveloped.

Patzer said the runoff for the undeveloped land is about 11 cubic feet per second under the retention plans, he added, storm water runoff would be held to only one cubic foot per second.

The engineer told the commission that the water will not drain onto neighboring property, but into the store's parking lot which will be completely surrounded by six-inch curbing. Patzer also said the developer will construct catch basins for the storm water in the parking lot.

Paul C. Box, a traffic engineer, testified that his firm had conducted a traffic study of the area in July and supplemented that with additional studies in September and November. Box said that he believes the automobile and pedestrian traffic in the area presents no particular traffic problem.

Jim Catanzaro, a Hersey High School student, spoke for a group of about eight students in raising a number of questions about the proposed project. Catanzaro questioned why the petitioner had not mentioned incidents of students being hit by automobiles in the past. He estimated that at least three students have been struck in the past two years. Catanzaro also raised questions of "trouble spots" east of the school and others west of Rand Road; the number of gas stations in the area and the number of department stores in the area.

Nab Doctor On Sex Charges

Cook County Sheriff's police Tuesday night arrested a physician in his office just west of Des Plaines and charged him with the deviate sexual assault of several of his patients.

Dr. James Middleton, 44, a general practitioner, was taken into custody in his office at 969 Elmhurst Rd. about 8 p.m. Tuesday by sheriff's police. Middleton was with a female patient at the time of his arrest.

According to Det. Donald Shaw, who led the raid into Middleton's office, the arrest came after a two month investigation in which a number of Middleton's suburban women patients complained that the doctor had drugged them and then committed deviate sexual attacks.

Shaw said they also found pipe bombs, detonators, three handguns, pornographic photos, literature and movies and artificial devices for sexual stimulation in the doctor's office.

Sheriff's police also found a quantity of what Shaw called "dangerous drugs which could incapacitate a person if taken."

Shaw said Middleton, of 2800 Lake Shore Dr., Chicago, gave no resistance and the only explanation the doctor gave for having the guns was that he had been threatened and needed to protect himself. Shaw added that Middleton will also be charged with possession of explosives and unlawful use of a weapon.

HE WAS RELEASED Wednesday morning on $15,000 bond and is scheduled to appear in Niles Circuit Court Dec. 29. Shaw said the state's attorney intends to ask for a grand jury hearing in the case.

Shaw said that although a number of women have already complained to the sheriff's police, more of Middleton's patients or former patients will come forward if they have complaints.

The police were armed with a warrant Tuesday night issued by Circuit Court Judge Anton Smigiel.

Middleton, a staff member of St. Joseph's hospital in Chicago, was acquitted by a jury in St. Louis in 1961 on a charge of drugging and raping a housewife, according to Shaw.

Public Service Pin In Their Hats

Editor's Note: The following is the last of two articles on the League of Women Voters of the Arlington Heights-Mount Prospect area. This year is the 50th anniversary of the founding of the first League of Women Voters.

by SANDRA BROWNING

The two words mentioned most often by members involved in the League of Women Voters are "public service."

Voter registration drives, providing information on candidates, studying issues and other projects are all done as public service projects.

Pat Gardner, president of the League of Women Voters of the Arlington Heights-Mount Prospect area, said the league does not take a position on a local issue until members have studied it. Also, the league cannot take a position or testify on a local issue unless the chapter has done a "Know Your Town" study. After this type of study is done, the town's name can be added to the local chapter's name.

MEMBERS SAID that since the membership of residents from Elk Grove was growing, these members may be doing a "Know Your Town" study soon.

By studying issues, the 150-member league has a strong base "when we do begin to act," said Marily Marier, Con-

Con chairman.

On the volatile issue of low and moderate income housing in Arlington Heights, league members decided to issue a fact sheet because "so many questions were asked."

"We thought it would be a public service to make information available," the league president said.

In addition to making information on elections and issues available to the public, the league also has an "Observer Corps." Members of the local group attend meetings of school boards, village boards and other governmental units and report back on the activities of these groups.

A few years ago, a league observer was such a regular sight at Arlington Heights Plan Commission meetings that she named a street in the village. A proposed development needed a name for a street and the plan commissioners asked the woman for an appropriate name.

HER SUGGESTION was approved by the commission.

Also as a public service, the league has printed a small booklet entitled "Who's Who in Local Government." The booklet includes the names and phone numbers of village, park and school district officials in Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect, Elk Grove Village, Prospect Heights, Hoffman Estates and Wheeling.

The league members described their involvement with the league as stimulating because "we're always learning," said the local league president.

Madeline Schroeder, a league member, said the league "lets in any kind of ideas. It's a tremendous forum."

ALTHOUGH SOMETIMES a member will join because she wants to work on a "pet problem, the member usually ends up getting involved in everything," Mrs. Marier said.

chairman, said that during the process of studying and discussing problems, "You find that nothing is simple."

Mrs. Schroeder said membership involvement in the league teaches members that "knowledge is a tremendous strength." It also teaches them how to get information a person needs to make decisions, she said.

Although the league activities are sometimes time-consuming, the members said they found their involvement worthwhile.

Mrs. Gardner said she had been a member of some other types of organizations with which she wasn't happy. She heard about the league through a professor in college and has been involved with league activities for about 13 years. "I enjoy it more than anything I've ever done," she said.

Members agreed that once a woman joins the league, "You join it wherever you go," said Mrs. Schroeder. She originally became involved with the league in the 1950's in Pennsylvania.

MRS. NEWBART said the league was the only civic organization in which she was active and she had heard about league activities in a high school civics class.

Mary Lou Sheperd, vice president and voter service chairman, said she became involved in league activities when she worked for a lawyer who became involved with politics. "It just seemed natural to someone interested in politics," she said.

With the existing political structure being so complicated, "You need outside help to be able to understand it," Mrs. Sheperd said.

Mrs. Marier said that she enjoys the league because "I'd really like to do something rather than just discuss things."

The members agreed they enjoyed the women they met in the league because the other members "don't just talk about diapers."

Although the women are spending time on league activities, they find that they still spend time with their children. However, a standing league joke is that when a woman becomes a league member, her semi-annual housecleaning and monthly window washing becomes one annual housecleaning.

MRS. MARIER said that her children identified with her activity and Mrs. Schroeder said that sometimes her children will ask her advice on issues.

"Children have a better response to you when you know what's going on," Mrs. Marier said.

Mrs. Schroeder said that one fringe benefit of the league membership is that "it gives you the knowledge you need to run for an office." Mrs. Schroeder was a candidate for a Con-Con delegate. She said that of the 15 female delegates at Con-Con, nine of them were members of the League of Women Voters.

Mrs. Schroeder said that members joke that their activities include everything from "scrubbing floors to meeting heads of state."

three workers, who would be full time, would have to be hired.

DURING DISCUSSION of the project, Youth Council member Rodney Kath, a juvenile officer for the Arlington Heights Police Department, said the idea behind the project was "wonderful." He said this type of center was "badly needed and we need more than just one."

Thomas said he will present the application Dec. 10 to the Task Force on Juvenile Delinquency. If the Task Force approves the project, the application will be submitted to the Illinois Law Enforcement Commission, which has the final say on granting funds.

The Youth Council also agreed to cooperate in helping with planning if the request for funding is approved.

Shop At Bee-Zaar

Christmas shopping will be the order of the day at Greenbrier School in Arlington Heights Saturday.

The PTA at the school, 2330 N. Verde Dr., will hold the "Holiday Bee-Zaar" from 9:30 a.m. until 2 p.m.

Booths at the bazaar will feature gift items, Christmas decorations, doll clothes, candy and white elephants. Workers at another booth will personalize any item bought at the sale.

Probe Results By Dec. 11?

Results of the Illinois Education Association investigation of School Dist. 59 may be known as early as Dec. 11, according to the committee conducting the investigation.

The nine-member committee investigating charges by the Teachers' Council has set Dec. 11 and 12, the next meeting of the IEA executive board, as a target date for its report to the board.

If the executive board feels the investigation has substantiated significant charges it must, according to its own guidelines, provide the district an opportunity to remove the cause before imposing a sanction.

Although specific allegations have not been released, IEA guidelines include the following reasons for possible sanctions: refusal of a school board to negotiate conditions of professional employment in good faith; and failure of school board to maintain conditions conducive to sound educational practices including, but not limited to; class size, assignment of duties, availability of instructional materials, balanced curricular emphasis, and adequate physical environment.

They also include the use of harassing tactics or arbitrary discriminatory actions or threats which create fear and intimidate employees in an attempt to coerce them, and the refusal of the school board to develop adequate procedures for processing employee grievances.

THE COMMITTEE comprised of teachers, principals, superintendents and IEA representatives from throughout Illinois conducted the investigation Monday through Wednesday.

Committee chairman Robert Burgess said that the members worked from 9 a.m. to midnight Monday and Tuesday and planned to work till late afternoon Wednesday.

During their stay, committee members visited 11 school buildings, talked to almost 150 staff members and about 24 parents. The committee also met with representative groups such as the School Community Council, and interviewed former board members and interested citizens.

Burgess said, "I think we as a committee are somewhat disappointed that the school board decided not to confer with us."

School Work Completion Date Is Set

Addition to two Dist. 23 schools and the renovation of a third is expected to be completed by September 1971, according to school officials.

The additions will be built at Douglas MacArthur Junior High School and Betsy Ross School. The original portion of the district's Anne Sullivan School will be renovated and used for administrative offices.

Monday the school board sold $775,000 in bonds and awarded construction contracts in connection with the additions and renovation project.

The school district, which draws students from Arlington Heights, accepted an offer to buy the bonds from the Continental Bank of Chicago. The average interest rate on the $775,000 in bonds will be 5.0794 per cent. The bonds will mature in 12 years.

School officials had notified more than 30 firms that the bonds were to be sold. Five offers to buy them were received by the school district.

The second lowest bid came from the LaSalle National Bank of Chicago. Its average yearly interest rate on the bonds would have been 5.0269 per cent.

BOARD MEMBER Lorie Sarner said yesterday that school officials were satisfied with the interest rate to be paid on the bonds. She attributed the unexpectedly low rate to the fact that the discount rate was lowered Monday by the federal reserve board. "We feel we sold the bonds at an advantageous time," she said.

The bond issue sold Monday was approved by Dist. 23 voters in a referendum Oct. 24. The bond issue will be result in no tax hike.

Also in connection with the construction work planned on three schools, the district awarded the general contractor's contract to Walfon Construction Co. The firm's bid was $839,883.

Mrs. Sarner said the work is expected to begin as soon as possible after the contracts are signed. Signing, she said, will probably be done at a special school board meeting next Monday.

The Walfon firm was the contractor for other Dist. 23 construction, including the building of Eisenhower and Muir schools as well as one of the additions at MacArthur School.

The winning bidders for the subcontracts were the F. J. Bero Co., plumbing; the Arrowhead Heating and Cooling Co., heating; and the Metro Electric Co., electrical.

Attends Seminar

A teacher at Miner Junior High School was among a group of 53 teachers who attended a recent seminar, "Man and his Environment," at Western Illinois University, Macomb.

Joann McClelland, a teacher at the school in Arlington Heights, attended the seminar which was designed for teachers of junior and senior high school earth science.

He added, "We feel the district did allow access to buildings and records and in doing so made significant contributions."

The committee investigated records on finances, written policies and previous agreements between the teachers council and the board.

Burgess said that if a sanction is imposed, the effects could be "immeasurable."

HE SAID, "In the very recent past, Dist. 59 has been discussed and revered as a model district in the state. Colleges and universities considered it a wonderful opportunity to send student teachers here. They might not see it as this if a sanction was imposed."

He added that colleges and universities have honored sanctions in some cases and have not in others.

The sanction would change the response of teachers coming to the district, according to Burgess. "At least some second thoughts would be given by professional educators," he said.

"Sanctions are intended to improve the situation," Thomas Reel, committee member from Aurora, said.

The committee stressed that the people with whom they talked had been "very cooperative and kind."

Burgess said that approximately one-third of the districts investigated by the IEA did not have sanctions imposed on them as a result of the investigations.

He said there have been no more than eight sanctions imposed in the last five years.

He added, "If we're talking about a dozen out of the 1,000 in the state it shows that the situations have become pretty tense before teachers' groups have felt the need."

Schools Yelp At Insurance Bills

by WANDALYN RICE

Insurance costs for schools are on the increase and area school districts are feeling the pinch.

One insurance company has asked school districts it insures to post guards in buildings at night to reduce vandalism.

No such request has been made to Dist. 25 but the cost for insurance on buildings and staff increased by $15,000 the last time the policy was rebid.

One of the reasons for the increase is the normal rise in insurance rates, but the district also increased its protection at that time, Business Mgr. Dan Suffoletto said recently.

Liability protection was increased from $1 million to $5 million, and the policy was changed from one which details all coverage to an "all risk" policy, he said.

SUFFOLETTO SAID that when bids first came in he thought they were very high, "but when I figured out what we were getting I decided we got one heck of a good rate — especially compared to other people."

Other districts do not see their rates in the same light. Kenneth Gill, Dist. 21 superintendent, which includes Edgar Allen Poe School in northern Arlington Heights, said his district has found higher costs a problem.

"Insurance premiums are expensive.

Our experience has been good, but vandalism, burning and looting have caused a great increase in school insurance," he said.

"Insurance companies used to fight for school accounts, but not any more. This is becoming a real serious problem."

Dist. 23 in Prospect Heights has an even more serious problem. The district has been notified by the Insurance Company of North America that it must institute an alarm system and post a guard in each school at night and on weekends.

THE DISTRICT'S superintendent, Edward Grodsky, has estimated that cost of guard service alone will be $7,500.

Gill of Dist. 23 believes the best solution to the problem of rising school insurance is to have the state insure public school property in Illinois.

He said he would like to see a bill introduced in the next session of the state legislature that would provide for state insurance.

The topic may be discussed Dec. 9 when area school superintendents attend a luncheon with local state legislators, he added.

Gill said other possible solutions could be to start a cooperative self-insurance program among local school districts or a cooperative program of insure districts up to the largest amount deductible on their insurance policies.

Kids Can Learn Puppetry

A six-week course in puppetry will start Saturday at three parks in Arlington Heights.

Registration is still open for the classes, sponsored by the Arlington Heights Park District.

Students will learn to make puppets, learn a puppet show, and then take the show back to their schools to present it.

The course is open to students at Miner Junior High School, who will attend classes at Recreation Park, 500 E. Miner St.; students at Edgar Allan Poe School, at Camelot Park, Brighton Place and Safford Drive; and students at Greenbrier School, at Frontier Park, Kennicott Drive and Palatine Road.

THE CLASSES WILL be held on Saturdays. Camelot classes will meet from 2 to 4 p.m., Frontier Park classes from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. and Recreation Park classes from 9 to 11 a.m.

The fee for the course will be $4 and classes will be taught by Petie Pardell.

Students may register at the park district's administration office in Olympic Park, 680 N. Ridge Ave.

Santa Announces Visiting Hours

Santa Claus will visit with his young friends in Arlington Heights every Thursday, Friday and Saturday until Christmas.

He'll make his headquarters at the northeast corner of Dunton and Campbell. Each child who visits Santa will receive a candy cane. Special lighting facilities are provided for taking photographs.

Thursday hours are from 10 a.m. to noon and 1:30 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. On Friday, Santa will appear from 10 a.m. to noon, and from 1:30 p.m. to 3:30 p.m. Saturday hours are from 9:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m.

During Christmas week, Santa will be on the corner from 10 a.m. to noon and from 1:30 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Woman Hurt In 5-Car Collision

A 20-year-old Arlington Heights woman was injured in a five-car pileup during the rush hour Tuesday evening.

Dianne King, of 1226 S. Wilke Rd., Arlington Heights, was admitted to Northwestern Community Hospital following the accident at Northwest Hwy. and Ridge Avenue, Arlington Heights. A hospital spokesman said Miss King was admitted for observation for possible back injuries. She was reported in good condition.

Arlington Heights police said all five cars were bound northwest on Northwest Highway when the accident occurred.

Four of the cars were stopped in traffic when an auto driven by Robert E. Wittwer, 23, of 1304 Algonquin Rd., Schaumburg, struck the rear of a car driven by Andrea M. Mock, 25, of 1226 S. Wilke Rd., Arlington Heights, police said. The impact forced the Mock car into the car immediately ahead, causing the series of collisions.

Miss King was a passenger in the auto driven by Mrs. Mock.

Wittwer was charged by police with failure to have his vehicle under control and is scheduled to appear in Arlington Heights Court Jan. 4.

Rash Of Thefts From Cars Told

A rash of thefts from automobiles parked at apartment houses along Rand Road was reported to Arlington Heights police last weekend.

Police reported the thefts, primarily involving spare tires and wheels, occurred sometime late Saturday night or early Sunday morning. Several of the thefts occurred at the Candlewood Trace and Stonebridge Hill apartment complexes.

The thieves gained entry to the trunks of the autos by drilling 1/4-inch holes next to the trunk lock and then tripped the lock from the inside, police said.

After receiving the first report of a theft, an Arlington Heights policeman patrolled the area along Rand Road and discovered at least 12 cars with holes drilled in the trunk lid.

During the same period of time, police said, thieves stole spare tires and wheels from two cars in Arlington Heights. The tires were reportedly stolen from cars belonging to Colin MacLeod of 206 N. Kaspar Ave., and George V. Drake, of 1110 Greenwood, Mount Prospect. The Drake auto was parked at 110 S. Yale Ave., Arlington Heights, at the time of the theft.

Nab Doctor For Alleged Sex Assaults

Cook County Sheriff's police Tuesday night arrested a physician in his office just west of Des Plaines and charged him with the deviate sexual assault of several of his patients.

Dr. James Middleton, 44, a general practitioner, was taken into custody in his office at 860 Elmhurst Rd. about 8 p.m. Tuesday by sheriff's police. Middleton was with a female patient at the time of his arrest.

According to Det. Donald Shaw, who led the raid into Middleton's office, the arrest came after a two month investigation in which a number of Middleton's suburban women patients complained that the doctor had drugged them and then committed deviate sexual attacks.

Shaw said they also found pipe bombs, detonators, three handguns, pornographic photos, literature and movies and artificial devices for sexual stimulation in the doctor's office.

Sheriff's police also found a quantity of what Shaw called "dangerous drugs which could incapacitate a person if taken." Shaw said Middleton, of 2800 Lake Shore Dr., Chicago, gave no resistance and the only explanation the doctor gave for having the guns was that he had been threatened and needed to protect himself. Shaw added that Middleton will also be charged with possession of explosives and unlawful use of a weapon.

HE WAS RELEASED Wednesday morning on $15,000 bond and is scheduled to appear in Niles Circuit Court Dec. 29. Shaw said the state's attorney intends to ask for a grand jury hearing in the case.

Shaw said that although a number of women have already complained to the sheriff's police, more of Middleton's patients or former patients will come forward if they have complaints.

The police were armed with a warrant Tuesday night issued by Circuit Court Judge Anton Smigiel.

Middleton, a staff member of St. Joseph's hospital in Chicago, was acquitted by a jury in St. Louis in 1961 on a charge of drugging and raping a housewife, according to Shaw.

A NEW SUBMERSIBLE water pump was tested in the Des Plaines River north of Des Plaines recently. Charles Wachs, right, of the F. H. Wachs Co.

of Wheeling, and Rip Lazzarini, also with the firm, lower the pump into the river for the test.

Two Referendums Slated By Parks

The Des Plaines Park District will hold two elections next year, one Jan. 23 on a referendum for a proposed $1.4 million sports complex and the second on April 6 for two board commissioner positions.

The proposed complex, which has been under discussion for several months, would be located at Lake Park and would include a hockey-sized indoor ice rink, a large multi-purpose room and four smaller meeting rooms.

According to the building's engineer, Ahrendt Engineering Co., the building could operate on a 12 month basis and the ice rink could be operated 10 months out of a year. The entire building would be air conditioned and would have locker and shower rooms, concession stand and office space.

The park board will ask Des Plaines residents to approve a $1,434,375 referendum to pay for the complex and necessary equipment and furnishings.

If the referendum is passed the proposed complex would cost a Des Plaines resident $9.40 a year over a 10-year period based on a $10,000 assessed property valuation.

Six Des Plaines residents were at the board's meeting Tuesday night questioning the need for such a complex in Des Plaines. They also asked the board why a separate election would be held for the referendum instead of combining the referendum with the April 6 election of board commissioners.

Commissioner Tom Mahon told the residents an earlier date for the referendum was set because postponing construction might mean higher building costs.

Church To Mark 25th Year Sunday

Good Shepherd Lutheran Church, Lee and Howard streets, is observing its 25th anniversary this Sunday, which will include a special service at 10:30 a.m.

The Rev. John Baumgaertner, president of the English District of the Lutheran Church, Missouri Synod, will deliver the sermon.

Pastor Herbert H. Nagel will serve as the liturgist and Vicar Dennis Conrad as the lector. Richard Apel will direct the choir in anthems of joyous thanksgiving.

Immediately after the service, an anniversary dinner will take place in the church's fellowship hall.

At 7 p.m. the Senior Choir will bring the festival day to a conclusion by presenting "The Messiah." Soloists and a string orchestra will accompany the presentation.

On this anniversary day only, the regular 8:15 a.m. service will start at 8 a.m. and the 9:45 a.m. Sunday School Hour will be at 9:15 a.m.

The Good Shepherd congregation started worship in a private home at 1712 Pratt Avenue. Next it built a small chapel at Illinois and Prospect Avenue, where continued growth necessitated the building of two additions.

In the second half of the 1950's, the congregation purchased property at Lee and Howard streets and was able to dedicate its contemporary church there in 1960. Last year further additions were dedicated, giving Good Shepherd a magnificent building in a very beautiful setting adjacent to Lake Opeka.

Miss Cook County Young GOP Named

Linda Hall, of 176 W. Dulles Rd., Des Plaines, was honored Monday as Miss Cook County Young Republican.

State Rep. David Regner (R-Mount Prospect) presented her with a resolution passed last spring by the Illinois House.

She is presently a sophomore majoring in journalism at Northern Illinois University in DeKalb.

SANTA CALLS coupons must be in before Dec. 6.

She'll Attend White House Parley

A Des Plaines school principal has been invited to the White House.

Mrs. Dorothy Mackland, principal of Forest school, 1375 Fifth St., has been invited to attend the White House Conference on Children. She will attend the conference Dec. 13 through Dec. 18.

Though a list of speakers hasn't been completed yet, Mrs. Mackland said she is "hoping to see the president."

The conference, which is held every 10 years, will discuss problems facing children, including problems of individuality, learning, family life, community and environment, laws, rights, and responsibilities.

MRS. MACKLAND will be one of three delegates of the 25,000 member National Association of Elementary School Principals (NAESP). She is vice president of the association. About 3,000 representatives from state organizations, including legislators, will also attend, she said.

Her job as a delegate will be to review and contribute to the ideas and recommendations of the conference. She will participate in the discussions and try to provide information about current educational programs, she said.

It also will be the responsibility of the delegates to come up with ways to put into effect the recommendations of the conference.

She said the White House conference has met regularly since 1920, and its suggestions have had results at the national level, including creation of a department in the Health Education and Welfare department.

Mrs. Mackland has worked in Des Plaines Elementary School Dist. 62 since 1951, when she was fifth grade teacher at Central school, 1825 Thacker. She became principal of Forest School in 1957, and has served on special committees in the district.

SHE HAS a bachelor of science degree and a masters in education from the National College of Education in Wilmette.

She has been a member for 12 years of the NAESP. She was an Illinois representative to the association from 1963 to 1967.

She served as a member-at-large of the association's national committee from 1967 to 1970, and she is now vice president. She is running for president-elect of the association. If elected by a mail ballot this February, she will serve for one year. She would then become president of the association.

Accused City Employee's Hearing Set

The Des Plaines city attorney and attorneys for a suspended city maintenance employee charged with damaging a city truck while allegedly under the influence of alcohol will meet within the next 10 days to try to reach settlement.

The Des Plaines Civil Service Commission moved to continue its hearing into city charges against Edward Schawel Jr. until Dec. 16. The civil service commission also asked to be informed in writing of the basis for settlement if any is reached.

The commission acted after City Atty. Robert DiLeonardi told them, "There is reason to believe matters can be settled within 10 days."

DiLeonardi announced the decision to seek settlement after conferences with Schawel's attorney, William Jacobs. The talks, lasting from 8 p.m. to about 9 p.m., delayed convening of the commission hearing.

JACOBS TOLD THE Herald/Day that "certain matters" had arisen that made negotiations necessary. He said he was "not at liberty" to comment on what matters had arisen.

Schawel's other attorney, Byron Finegan, said he was hopeful that they could reach an amicable solution. "DiLeonardi said he could not comment."

The commission did not lift Schawel's 30-day suspension without pay, which the commission imposed at the first hearing Nov. 18.

A civil service commission had not been called until after objections were made to the city, Jacobs said at the Nov. 18 hearing.

According to a complaint filed with the civil service commission by the city, Schawel dented the front fender of a city dump truck he was driving in the public works garage lot Oct. 2. He then allegedly failed to report to supervisors what the city contends was $136 in damages to the truck.

THE CITY HAS ALSO charged that Schawel at the time was under the influence of alcohol. And, in what Jacobs Nov. 18 cited as an apparent inconsistency, the city accused Schawel with being both under the influence of medication impairing his ability to perform his duties, and of failing to take medication he should have been taking.

In its complaint, the city asked the civil service commission to fire Schawel for alleged violations of public works department regulations.

He was suspended Nov. 18 after a motion by DiLeonardi, who said continuing to pay Schawel would be "a tremendously unfair burden upon the taxpayers of this city." Jacobs objected that the decision was "as heinous to him as if he were found guilty without a hearing."

Walter Wellman, commission attorney, said Nov. 18 that Schawel would be given back wages if the commission decides to reinstate him.

No County Plans For Thacker 'Pass

County highway officials have no plans to construct an underpass on Thacker Street at the Chicago and North Western Ry. outerbelt tracks west of Wolf Road, a group of Thacker residents was told last night.

Jack Stern, engineer for the Cook County Highway Department, said his agency will widen Thacker-Dempster between Wolf and Elmhurst Road as soon as the city can agree on plans for storm sewers, but has no intention of building or paying for part of the underpass.

More than 50 Thacker residents came to City Hall last night to hear county and state highway officials discuss plans for their street.

The City of Des Plaines has commissioned feasibility studies for the underpass, as well as a bridge over the Des Plaines River linking Thacker and Dempster and another bridge that would carry River Road over Miner Street and the C&NW tracks in the downtown area.

The two studies cost a total of $30,000. Ald. John Leer (3rd), chairman of the council's streets and traffic committee, said.

MAYOR HERBERT H. BEHREL last night acknowledged that the underpass west of Wolf was first proposed by the city.

"It seemed to us while they were doing the work (between Wolf and Elmhurst) it would be a good idea to put in an underpass or an overpass," said Behrel.

"The idea was ours, not the county's."

County highway officials recently told the city that the underpass is 123rd on its priority list for grade separations at railroad crossings on the county road system.

With no help from the county, Behrel said, the city will have to take another look at the project.

"Your guess is as good as mine as to what the city council will do about the overpass or underpass. It might be pigeonholed. I don't know," Behrel told the gathering at the municipal building city council chambers.

THE RESIDENTS, many of whom attended a similar meeting Nov. 12, last night continued their objections to the underpass and the Thacker-Dempster linkup at the Des Plaines River.

Joseph Gigante, 875 Thacker St., said the resulting heavier traffic would lead to rezonings and commercial developments along the primarily residential street. "You've got to understand that people do not like this sort of thing. They don't like to be moved around like this," Gigante said.

Leonard Crow, 805 Thacker St., objected to the city getting involved with projects intended to move traffic through the city more easily. "Our mayor and our aldermen should be concerned with the town and the people of Des Plaines, period," he said.

Earlier, Behrel said 63 per cent of the north-south traffic in the downtown area is through traffic that didn't start out and won't end up within the city limits.

The mayor said plans for Thacker-Dempster at this point are only feasibility studies, and that formal public hearings would have to be held if officials decided to go ahead with any of them.

"If we're going to have this type of traffic that creates chaos within our town ... then I think we have to do something about it," Behrel said at one point.

Richard Beebe, representative of H. W. Lochner and Associates, city engineering consultants, told the gathering that public discussions on the plans are premature.

"I think part of this whole problem is that the public is involved in this project way before the public is normally involved," he said.

Glaucoma Testing Unit Here Today

A mobile testing unit, sponsored by the Des Plaines Lions Club, will visit Des Plaines today and tomorrow, providing free spot checks for glaucoma, a disease that causes blindness in middle-aged and elderly persons.

The testing mobile unit, which will be parked in front of the Des Plaines municipal building, 1412 Miner St., will give the free tests between 6 p.m. and 9 p.m., according to Robert DiLeonardi, Lions Club president. He urged all residents over 35 to take advantage of the tests.

The Association of Registered Nurses of Des Plaines and the Des Plaines Junior Womens Club will provide volunteers to staff the mobile testing unit.

Would Outlaw Register Gun?

"When guns are outlawed, only outlaws will have guns," said Robert E. Maki, chairman of the Des Plaines Committee for the Preservation of the Second Amendment.

The committee was recently formed by citizens who are concerned about the increasing infringement upon the individual's right to possess firearms, and has the sponsorship of the Des Plaines chapter of The John Birch Society.

"The committee is opposed to indiscriminate regulation calling for licensing the possession or purchase of a rifle, shotgun, pistol or revolver," Maki said. "The inevitable result of such licensing regulation is to vest the arbitrary power to say who may and who may not own a gun in the hands of an appointed or elected official."

"It is the illegal use and not the ownership of a firearm which should be the subject of legislative control. Regardless of professed intent, registration is simply a step towards confiscation of firearms."

MAKI THEN ASKED, "Do those who propose registration of firearms seriously believe criminals are going to comply with the restrictions? Of course not. The criminal who uses a firearm in a robbery, murder or other crime is liable of a far more severe penalty than that imposed for noncompliance with the registration laws. In those cities where strict gun control laws are in effect, crime rates have increased. Crime can be controlled only by enforcing laws, suppressing criminals and supporting your local police."

Maki said that the confiscation of firearms, which the people could use for self-defense, is a vitally necessary step of any central government before imposing on its subjects a formal police-state

Communist tyranny. Citing Cuba as an example, he said, "It was easy for dictator Castro to confiscate personally-owned firearms. All he had to do was to seize the National Registry of Firearms — a complete inventory of privately owned guns."

THE COMMITTEE'S main undertaking is to expose and oppose the present widespread effort to pass oppressive firearms control legislation and to reaffirm the right guaranteed to Americans by the Second Amendment.

The committee's specific activities include film showings and speaking engagements, literature distribution and letter writing campaigns. Maki said persons interested in the organization's theories can contact the Des Plaines Committee for the Preservation of the Second Amendment, 10368 N. Milwaukee Ave., Des Plaines, or telephone 286-5343.

Dist. 207 Workshop Slated

Maine Township High School Dist. 207 hosted more than 100 educators attending the Associated Public School Systems workshop at the Sheraton-O'Hare Motel in Rosemont. Teachers, administrators and student representatives from the association's member schools in seven states are participating in the three day in-service program, which ended yesterday.

The purpose of the workshop was to learn more about new programs developed to help teachers and students better understand their complementary roles in educational process, and how to implement these programs in the classroom.

Richard Short, Supt. of Schools for Dist. 207, and director of the group for the Illinois, Missouri and Kansas region, welcomed the visitors at the opening session of the workshop. Giving a brief history of the association, he outlined its purpose as a voluntary organization of school systems throughout the country working together to improve teaching practices through research and the pooling and sharing of ideas.

THE FORMAT OF the workshop was a combination of large group discussions and visitations to actual classrooms in action. Representatives in teams of three visited elementary school classes in the Park Ridge and Norridge School Districts and classes at Maine West and Maine South High Schools to observe many of the actual learning-teaching situations being studied at the workshop.

The meeting was one of four set up in various parts of the country to train discussion leaders so that each participant district can implement the new program for enhancing teacher and pupil perceptions of their roles in the teaching-learning process. High school student representatives were included in all of the meetings.

The group is an affiliate of the Institute of Administrative Research, Teachers College — Columbia University, New York, N.Y.

Representatives from Dist. 207 at the workshop were: Michael J. Myers, administrative assistant to Short; Robert G. Barker, assistant principal, Maine South; Ruth Anderson, mathematics department chairman, Maine East; Robert Cochrane, industrial education department chairman, Maine West; Marlan Davis, English department chairman, Maine South; Jerald Daugherty, president, Dist. 207 Teachers' Association, and science teacher, Maine East; Rollin D. Porter, science teacher, Maine West; and Harry Grossman, student, vice president of Student Council, Maine East.

Package Properly To Assure Mailing

Improper packaging and illegible addresses on Christmas mailings could cause countless disappointments and perhaps a few small tragedies this year, according to Des Plaines postmaster John Kouletes.

Last year, Kouletes said, more than 200,000 packages and more than three million letters and greeting cards ended up in Chicago's dead letter branch. He offered the following suggestions to speed gifts and Christmas cards to their destinations.

—Address everything fully and clearly, writing legibly and avoiding abbreviations.

—Use ZIP code numbers.

—Place your return address in the upper left corner of every envelope and parcel.

—Use six-cent stamps on Christmas cards.

—Don't enclose coins or hard objects of any kind in envelopes. Cancelling machines often damage such letters and cards.

—Pack gifts well in strong cartons, wrapping them in heavy paper and tying them securely with strong twine.

—Packages of food should be marked "Perishable" and those containing glassware, china, electric appliances, radios or other delicate objects should be marked "Fragile."

—Insure all packages.

—Place an itemized list of contents and the names and addresses of the sender and receiver inside each package.

—And be sure to mail early.

'Messiah' Show Sunday

Maine East High School's 23rd annual performance of Handel's "Messiah," will be held this Sunday at 3:30 p.m. in the school auditorium.

Theodore A. Vargas, chairman of the school's Music department, will direct the 250 voice chorus through six major numbers for the ensemble, as well as the 50 member concert orchestra.

Soloists, who will sing a total of 16 recitatives and arias, are Miss Carol Cornelson, contralto, Dennis Sinclair, tenor, Miss Peggy Smith, soprano, and Michael Skarry, bass.

Miss Cornelson is a resident of Park Ridge and a 1968 graduate of Maine East high school. A member of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra Professional Chorus, she has made numerous local oratorio appearances on radio and television. Miss Cornelson is a University of Illinois graduate, having studied under Boris Goldovsky. She has taught music at the elementary and high school levels.

Sinclair, tenor soloist, was a 1969 finalist in the metropolitan regional auditions. He studied music with Gerald Smith at Northwestern University and is presently studying with Thomas Peck. Appearances on TV's Artists Showcase and in numerous regional productions has kept the young artist busy. Operatic roles performed range from "Carmen's" Don Jose to Luigi in "Il Tabarro."

An instructor in piano and voice at Maine East, Miss Smith's talents are well known by music students at the school. She has performed widely in nearly every form of musical expression including 15 leading ladies of the standard repertoire. Eight times she has had the distinction of appearing on Artists Showcase.

Skarry, bass soloist for the concert, teaches voice at New Trier High School. He holds a master's degree from Northwestern in applied music and sang in his earlier years with dance bands. Skarry's operatic repertoire includes twenty-three roles in eighteen operas ranging from "Don Giovanni" to "Madame Butterfly."

Admission is free at this traditionally full-house performance with preferential seating being given to holders of Music Booster cards. A free-will offering will be taken at the intermission.

"We are hoping for the best performance ever, even though there have been 22 preceding ones to top," said Vargas.

William Mitchell, manager of WMTB said the school's radio station will broadcast the program at 88.5 on the FM dial beginning at 3:30 p.m.

Flood Problem Reviewed

Flood control experts from the Metropolitan Sanitary District and the City of Chicago Monday night examined the problem of flooding in Cook County, reviewed steps being taken to combat the problem and pointed an accusing finger at the state for not becoming more involved.

Ben Sosewitz, acting general superintendent of the MSD, and Clint J. Keifer, chief water and sewer design engineer for the City of Chicago, spoke at the third regional Council of Governments meeting at the Arlington Heights Municipal Building.

"THERE HAS been almost no progress in the area of flood control in the past 15 years," Sosewitz said. "The opposition is readily apparent."

The MSD representative explained that aggravation of the problem has taken place "at a significant rate."

Since 1969, he said, the MSD has experienced a 3 to 5 per cent increase in flood water storage deficiency.

"Through 1969," Sosewitz noted, "there was a 33,000-acre-foot storage deficiency. Ten months later the deficiency was 34,200 acre-feet."

He estimated it would cost $5,500 per acre-foot to correct the problem, or about $190 million.

Sosewitz said the deficiency increase has occurred despite an expenditure of more than $12.5 million in the last 13 years by the MSD and the state.

He said there currently are 20 projects under way that will solve only 25 per cent of the deficiency if all obtain sufficient funds to be successful.

SOSEWITZ SAID the success of these projects depends on local participation and cooperation. He said part of the problem has been a lack of coordination and cooperation on the part of the state—specifically, the Department of Public Works.

The MSD representative said it is essential for a chairman to be named to the Technical Advisory Committee of the state Flood Control Coordinating Committee. He said the advisory committee has taken no action in about a year.

He added that in June the MSD board of trustees called for a state flood control program, but has not yet received any response.

"I am unable to say I have any information to indicate that the state will become more active," Sosewitz said.

He said the mood of the MSD has been "frustration, but with patient anticipation."

AFTER SOSEWITZ'S remarks, Keifer told the audience of several avenues currently under investigation that might solve the problems.

Keifer, through a slide presentation, displayed a system of feeding information into a computer that will take into account all variables to be considered, and suggest one or more suitable proposals.

Milton Pikarsky, Chicago commissioner of public works was scheduled to speak at the meeting but was called to a meeting on urban transportation in Washington, D.C., and could not attend.

Seek To Boost Memorial Interest

The Des Plaines Military Commemorative Committee has invited representatives of local community and civic groups to a meeting tonight to boost lagging interest in the proposed memorial to those who have died in military service.

The memorial, planned for land donated by the Des Plaines Park District at the northeast corner of Lake Park, Howard and Lee streets, has been discussed for more than three years.

Donald Vance of Mount Prospect, treasurer of the commemorative committee, told the Des Plaines City Council in September that the memorial project has been receiving little community support.

He told the aldermen that the committee, formed late in 1967, has raised $6,200 toward the estimated $60,000 cost of the memorial, but has also had to spend $3,200 for expenses.

The memorial, which has received donations from several hundred residents in the past, was the target of criticism in 1968 from several persons who said the money could be better spent to benefit the living.

The meeting tonight will be held at 8 p.m. in the municipal building city council chambers.

Home Burglarized

Fifteen dollars in cash was taken from a home at 1670 Greenleaf Ave., Des Plaines, in a burglary Monday night, according to Des Plaines police.

Police said the back door of the house, owned by Leon W. Henson, had been forced open while the Henson family was on a shopping trip. The cash apparently was the only thing that had been taken police said.

Christmas puppy time —

It's that time of year again, when we put in a few plugs for that new Christmas puppy that you want to buy. If you intend to purchase one, plan ahead should be the theme for the whole venture.

First, we will repeat what we have said for years on end, do not bring the new puppy into the home on Christmas Day. He and you will be happier on a less busy day when there's time to enjoy him and to start settling him into a housetraining routine. If there are children in the home, Christmas Day can be a most exciting time and what with presents to open and all that goes with them; the poor pup may be the center of attention for a short time and then he left to forge for himself.

When we say "plan ahead," we are talking about such things as what breed of dog do you want? Where will he sleep? What is he going to eat and who will feed him? On that last one, mother, you better consider yourself as number one on the list.

As far as the breed of dog, perhaps you have decided, if not then get some books about dogs. Talk to people who have dogs, and in general satisfy yourself that the breed you want is right for your family and your home. About that home business, don't pick out a Great Dane or any other large breed and expect him to live in a one or two-room apartment.

When you go out to buy a dog, go to a reputable breeder who will stand back of any dog he has sold. If you are not sure of where to buy the particular breed that you want, refer to newspapers, books, magazines again to people who have dogs.

And last, but not the least, as far as the pup would feel about it — food. The person from whom you purchase the dog will give you the feeding schedule and the type of food that the pup has been eating. Most puppies are sold anywhere from six to eight-weeks of age with perhaps a little older being better. You can plan on a three or four times a day feeding schedule for a while and then it will drop to three and then to two. Most grown dogs will do very well on one meal a day.

Remember to have fun, enjoy your new pup. He will bring a lot of happiness into your home, but please, one word of caution, don't let the youngsters squeeze him too hard.

Lincolnwood Training presents —

Perhaps one of the most unusual obedience dog training exhibitions will be put on by the Lincolnwood Training Club this coming December 13. What makes it unusual is that it will be put on for deaf children.

The exhibition is to be held in the Holy Trinity Church recreation hall, located at 1910 W. Taylor, Chicago, starting at 2:30 p.m. Father Watt of Holy Trinity will act as interpreter for the children to explain each exercise as they are performed by the handler and dog.

The Lincolnwood Training Club for German Shepherds has its training grounds at Dearlove and Central Roads in Glenview, where the members train on Wednesday evenings and Sunday mornings. One couple who train their dogs there are Bernie and Carol Prusak of Chicago. The Prusaks are a young couple who have not let their own problems stop them from training their dogs. They are both deaf and do not speak. It was they who brought about the idea for the exhibition at Holy Trinity.

Members from this area who will participate in the program with their Shepherds include: Jacki Caraganis, Arlington Heights; Tom Sherman, Park Ridge; Nancy and Bob Franz, Park Ridge; Bill Morgan, Des Plaines; Herb Teuber, Arlington Heights; Helga Hanson, Des Plaines, and Tom Peterson of Arlington Heights.

Barks & Bays —

At the U.S. Customhouse in Chicago, they have dogs who have been trained to examine or sniff the packages coming in from foreign countries to determine if they may contain harmful drugs.

Fremd Rolls To Mat Win

Fremd's wrestling team started its season with a bang at Lake Park, winning the first five matches of a dual against the Lancers and coasting to a 39-13 triumph. The Vikings racked up six pins in the process.

Dave Motta started it with a pin of his opponent at 98 pounds in 3:30. At 105, Lenny McGuinn romped by a 16-34 score. Jeff Alvis racked up another pin at 112 in 1:44. Jeff Henry won 8-5 at 119 and Steve McGuinn recorded a third pin at 128 pounds in a time of 3:23.

Other pins for coach Guy Henriksen's Vikings were by Bill Anderson at 138 (4:15), Al Carlson at 167 (1:48) and Tim Tuerk at heavyweight (2:20). Rick Salinas shut out his opponent at 167 with ease, 13-0.

Next on Fremd's mat agenda is the Mid-Suburban League opener against neighboring Palatine Dec. 4 at home.

Cardinals Sink Don Swimmers

Arlington's swim team is off to a great start this season. The Cardinals hosted Notre Dame in a dual meet Tuesday and sank the visitors twice.

On the varsity level, the Cards won 56-39. The score on the sophomore level was more lopsided, 74-21.

Coach Don Anderson was very elated the way his squad opened up the season, especially three of his swimmers — Tom Rowe, Steve Jurco and Charles Dunn. All three posted a pair of individual victories.

Rowe and Jurco, co-captains of the team, dominated the freestyle events and the butterfly. Rowe smashed two team records he had set last year in both the 200-yard butterfly and the 50 freestyle. He had clockings of 57.9 and 23.6, respectively.

Jurco won the 200 freestyle with a 1:56.3 and the 400 with a 4:12.6.

Dunn, only a freshman, took the 100 backstroke (1:02.3) and the 200 individual medley (2:20.2).

Rounding out the first place showings of the winners were Jeff Thiemann in diving (173.9), Dennis Stout in the 100 breaststroke (1:09.6) and the 200 medley relay team (1:51.2) of Dunn, Jeff Burling, Rowe and Rick Cook.

Notre Dame had a clocking of 1:52.5 in that relay but finished the meet with a victory in the 400 freestyle relay. Dennis Wieschcholek, Tom Orr, John Stoesser and Steve Sawk had a winning time of 3:47.2 to Arlington's 3:54.8.

The Dons' only other first place finish was in the 100 freestyle. Don Netzel edged out teammate Terry Kelly by two-tenths of a second with a winning time of 54.6.

Posting the other seconds for the Dons were these swimmers:

Netzel in the 200 freestyle (2:00.2), Orr in the 200 IM (2:24.4), Kelly in the 50 freestyle (24.5), Rick Schweiss in diving (114.7), Stoesser in the 400 freestyle (4:30.2), Jim Braddy in the 100 breaststroke (1:10.5) and Mike Borman in the 100 butterfly (1:00.1).

Taking a second for Arlington was Oliver Peale in the 100 backstroke (1:06.7).

'Skin On Warpath

Charley Taylor of the Washington Redskins is the only pass receiver to lead the National Football League twice in the last 10 years. He held that distinction in 1966 and '67. Other leaders have been Dan Abramowicz of New Orleans (1969), Clifton McNeil of San Francisco ('68), Dave Parks of San Francisco ('65), Johnny Morris of Chicago ('64), Bobby Joe Conrad of St. Louis ('63), Bobby Mitchell of Washington ('62), Jim Phillips of Los Angeles ('61) and Raymond Berry of Baltimore ('60).

Elk Grove's Bantams Win

The Elk Grove Village Amateur Hockey Association completed their third week of competition in the Polar Dome.

The Bantam team played a magnificent game after trailing Arlington Heights, 2-0. Elk Grove scored three times in a seven minute span to win, 3-2.

The Grove, with four players missing because of the football team's trip to St. Louis, had to play some players on two shifts which meant about 35-40 minutes out of a possible 60 minutes.

After the first few minutes, Elk Grove looked tired and played sloppily, giving up one goal in the first period and the other in the beginning of the second.

Suddenly, however, with only nine minutes remaining in the game, Bruce Gladstone intercepted a pass in the Arlington zone and passed to Larry Mitch who scored to make the score, 2-1.

A few moments later, Mitch, after taking a lead pass from Bob Brunn, scored the tying goal. Bill Half Penny then scored the clincher, assisted by Mitch and Ron Cleecker with two minutes remaining. Steve Cimino protected the advantage in the nets for EG.

The Grove Pee Wee team lost to Arlington, 5-1. Playing a strong game in the beginning, the Pee Wees weakened and lost in the second half.

There are still openings on the Pee Wee team for 11-12 year olds. If interested, call Dan Sullivan at 437-3452.

Honor Area Bicycle Racers

The Mayor Daley Youth Foundation Awards for Illinois bicycle racing championships were awarded at the 7th Annual Awards Banquet Friday evening.

Senior State Track Champion, John Vande Velde (West Suburban Wheelmen) of Glen Ellyn; Illinois Junior Track Champion, Joe Meis (Lake Shore Wheelmen) of Skokie; Illinois Intermediate Track Champion, Greg Berg (Lake Shore Wheelmen) of Northbrook; and Illinois Midget Track Champion, Rich Vehe (Lake Shore Wheelmen) of Mount Prospect received the trophies indicative of their representing Illinois at the National Championships in New York, at the annual event sponsored by the West Suburban Wheelmen.

Cumulative point winner for Illinois track racing was Tim Zasadny (Turin) of Prospect Heights. Cumulative point winner for Illinois road champion was declared to be Herman Kron (South Chicago C.C.). Kron placed second nationally for best all around rider in 1970.

Alfred J. Toefield, President of the Amateur Bicycle League of America, came from the League's headquarters in New York to present these outstanding athletes with the Mayor Daley Youth Foundation Awards.

The Amateur Bicycle League of America is the governing body of amateur cycle racing in the United States and controls the international competition with the U. S. Olympic Committee and AAU.

There will be a meeting of local representatives with Toefield on Saturday and Sunday to discuss having the 1971 National Track Championships held at the nationally famous Northbrook track, and the National Road Championships held on a suitable course in the Chicago area.

Al Vande Velde, A.B.L. of A. state representative, stated that 1971 looks like the best year of Illinois cycling ever.

BUICK-IN-EVANSTON charged into first place Saturday in the Paddock Classic Traveling League. Front row,

The Way We See It

Campaign Spending

Although President Nixon's veto of the campaign broadcast spending bill was upheld last week, the Senate definitely indicated that reform in campaign laws is desired.

Only 34 of 100 senators voted to sustain the veto while 58 voted to override. The President's veto was upheld since a two-thirds vote is needed for an override.

We agree with the President's decision to veto the bill, and we support his reasons for doing so. But we also believe the sentiments of the Senate accurately reflect the need for reform.

The bill would have set limits on the amount of spending for radio and television time in primary and general elections involving major offices, including senators, congressmen, governors and lieutenant governors.

But it would not have done anything to affect the total cost of a campaign, the kind of broadcast campaigning that would be practiced, or the methods used by candidates in raising and reporting financial contributions.

In short, as the President said, the proposed bill fell far short of providing a real solution to the problem of exorbitant campaign costs.

Residents of the 13th Congressional District and the candidates who ran in the Republican primary last year know very well that broadcast expenditures are not the only contributor to excessive costs.

Very little television and radio time was used in that campaign, yet campaign costs for some candidates approached the $200,000 mark and most of the candidates spent more than $75,000.

These figures are staggering for one congressional district that includes only a slice of Cook County.

The broadcast spending bill may have been a step in the right direction in that it would have at least set some limits on spending. But it also was very possible that it would have been viewed as an ultimate solution, therefore discouraging attempts at additional reform.

Following the President's veto message, Sen. Hugh Scott, Republican leader in the Senate, pledged to introduce a comprehensive campaign spending bill when the 92nd Congress convenes next month. President Nixon said he will support Scott's efforts and the fact that Congress already passed one bill and almost overrode the President's veto indicates that the lawmakers are ready for new laws.

Unfortunately, 1971 is not an election year and the proposed legislation could be shoved aside until the problem of raising and spending money hits home again.

We hope this doesn't happen. New laws are needed and they should include:

—Limits on the total cost of a campaign.

—A requirement that campaign costs be made public.

—Clear-cut restrictions on the amount of funds which a candidate may receive from a single source and a requirement that major contributions be made public.

Essentially, new laws should make it possible for a candidate to carry his message to the voters at a reasonable cost while assuring the voters that the candidate has no strings attached as a result of contributions.

Hope Dims For Protesters

BY WANDALYN RICE

As a recent inhabitant of a large university, I waited expectantly for mass protests to follow the recent announcement of bombing raids on North Vietnam.

But they haven't happened.

Anti war groups still occasionally appear in the news, of course — when they are attacked by J. Edgar Hoover or when they mount small demonstrations against the likes of Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky — but the scale and scope of their involvement has shrunk since the protests after the Cambodian invasion put this country on the brink of civil war.

Gone are the great marches and the small demonstrations that I reported on, and occasionally participated in, during my college years.

I remember the giant marches for the Moratoriums and the many smaller, less rousing demonstrations. So many times I watched large groups who were lulled to boredom by rhetoric that was mere repetition of everything those present believed.

In San Francisco during the Moratorium, now more than a year past, I remember the man, probably 35-years-old, dragging a small red wagon so his children could ride for the 12 miles of the march route.

Wandalyn Rice

I remember the fragile, white-haired lady who chatted with marchers who paused on their way and lined up in front of her house — for a chance to use the bathroom.

And, in the polo grounds of Golden Gate Park, 100,000 persons sat on wet grass watching fog roll in and listened to an endless stream of speakers. The crowd was moved out of lethargy only by the singing group of Crosby, Stills and Nash, and the singers had colds which made their voices harsh.

The marches of that bygone time were filled with blistered feet, bone-deadening fatigue and one deeply felt common emotion — hope.

Only hope could make individuals endure the physical hardship and frequent boredom of one of those marches. Only the inexplicably pure and innocent belief that if hundreds, thousands and millions of Americans showed their opposition to the war, the country, and its government would respond.

Now, all has changed. Sometime, when no one noticed, the innocence and hope vanished.

When I asked a friend who is still a student about the curious silence that has accompanied the bombing, his answer was swift: "I think people have figured out that Nixon doesn't give a damn. Anyone who still believes they can change things probably belongs to the Weathermen."

And so those who saw violence and anarchy behind every peace march have created their own self-fulfilling prophecy. They have scorned most of the peace marches into discouraged silence and have turned a few to midnight revolution.

Now, instead of mass marchers, we have bombs in the night. Instead of hope, we have despair.

The white-haired ladies and the youths striving to change the world will meet no more.

Stricter Retention Requirements

Figures released by the Metropolitan Sanitary District (MSD) show that Des Plaines has been remiss in not requiring builders and developers to provide for temporary retention of storm waters on their properties.

Of the 32 Des Plaines developments that received permission to connect to the MSD sanitary sewer system, not one provided a way to hold back even a portion of rainwaters falling on their properties, according to the MSD.

With continued building and paving and no provision to delay the rush of storm waters into sewers, MSD officials warn, back-ups in the sewers and in rivers and streams will continue to get worse, aggravating flooding problems.

We agree. In the northwest suburbs, flooding has not been an act of God but the result of poor planning by public agencies. Providing for bigger sewers and enlarging creek beds continue to be needed and worthwhile efforts in the fight against flooding. But they are catch-up measures. As developments without retention capacity continue to be approved, more and more rainwater will be sent rushing downstream, overtaxing the enlarged creek beds and backing up the bigger sewers.

It is in the self-interest of the City of Des Plaines, to push for stricter area-wide rules and to remedy its own poor record in requiring retention. The city is downstream from much of the present and future development taking place in the northwest suburbs. Stricter retention requirements both here and in communities to the north and west will benefit Des Plaines residents.

Des Plaines Mayor Herbert H. Behrel's claim, in response to the MSD figures, that "you can't have retention basins all over town" does not hold water, in our opinion. The city's record in requiring no retention capacity at all in 32 developments this year speaks for itself.

The city council should consider revisions of the building code and zoning ordinance to require builders and developers to provide retention wherever feasible. On smaller lots, it is possible in many cases to design parking lots and building roofs so heavy rains form ponds that are released slowly into the storm sewer system. In the larger developments, retention basins and parking lot ponding should be strict requirements.

High Standards for Maine North

A new high school opened this week to serve part of Des Plaines and nearby unincorporated areas.

The Maine Township High School Dist. 207 board, administration, and faculty members deserve praise for their planning and effort in creating a modern, well-constructed school.

But Maine North school is more than just bricks and iron beams. It is a school with great potential, as Dist. 207 Supt. Richard Short has pointed out. The District board, administration, faculty and students have begun now to fulfill this potential. It will be their difficult responsibility in the future to make the shell of a school which fulfills the district's goals.

The goals include providing an education for all, "not just the elite."

According to district goals, Maine North would become a comprehensive high school which could develop the values of a free society. It would have a mutual respect for persons and groups within the nation's various cultures. Programs would be flexible and change with the needs of society. Coursework would be broad in its scope, stimulating, provocative, diversified and innovative.

Maine North would produce graduates who are capable of self-criticism, self-mastery and the ability to reason and make intelligent decisions.

During the next few years, the district board, administration, faculty and students will have the opportunity of fulfilling Maine North's potential. They will have the chance of making a school which fulfills the district's goals.

Robert Wells, Maine North's new principal, has said that he wants to make Maine North "second to none in the district." That is a worthy ambition. They have made an excellent start.

Some Kind Words from a Reader

I want you to know how much better I think the Herald/Day is than the previous Des Plaines Day. You are doing a much better job of reporting local news, and of course I appreciate getting it on a daily basis. May I also offer praise for your fine photography; your pictures are among the best I've seen anywhere and really brighten up the paper.

Changes For District 207

by LEON SHURE

Changes are coming to Maine Township High School Dist. 207.

The biggest change was the recent opening of Maine North High School, which will serve about 1,000 students from the northern end of Des Plaines and nearby unincorporated area.

Construction of the $6.5 million, three-story, two section building had been delayed by construction strikes, and Maine North students had been distributed since September among the other three Maine Township High Schools.

Maine North's opening means that overcrowding conditions will decrease at Maine West, 1755 S. Wolf and Maine East, Dempster and Potter, which also serve Des Plaines students, school officials said.

When Maine North is fully completed, it will be able to serve 3,500 students, the same number as at the other schools. To be fully completed, an addition with an auditorium, swimming pool and classrooms, would have to be built.

The District would have to launch another bond issue to pay for this addition, and district officials said the referendum on this bond issue might come in 1974 or 1975.

When Maine North is fully completed the District will be able to serve about 14,000 students. This would be adequate through the end of the century, they said, unless there are radical changes in zoning laws or living conditions, school population projection indicates.

Another change in the district was reflected in the dedication last month of the Ralph J. Frost administration center. Named for the assistant superintendent and former Maine West principal, the one-floor center near Maine South high school, in Park Ridge, was needed to increase efficiency in handling increasing administrative work, school officials said.

Also opening this year, was a new $1.9 million center court at Maine East. The first floor of this center now serves about 160 students who have physical or mental handicaps. The second floor is used by the school radio station and art department.

A 'Fan' for Dorothy Oliver

I just want to tell you how much I have enjoyed Dorothy Oliver's column in the Herald/Day. I only just recently began taking your paper, and her readable commentary is one of the most interesting and enjoyable features I have found in it. I would like to see her in the paper regularly and suggest you consider using it on a daily basis.

Also, you have an excellent food page and I have tried out several of your recipes. All turned out fine.

Taiwanian Pastor Joins Lutheran General

The Rev. David Chen has come half-way around the world to become a resident in clinical pastoral education at Lutheran General Hospital, Park Ridge. He is a native of Taiwan and is an ordained Lutheran pastor.

For eight years the graduate of Taiwan Lutheran Theological Seminary and Tao-Seng Bible College served as a chaplain at Christian Hospital in Chiayi, Taiwan, a 110-bed Lutheran mission hospital in a nation which is only five per cent Christian. Pastor Chen started a congregation made up of former hospital patients and hospital staff who were not Christian before.

"But I needed more training in clinical pastoral care," he said. "My ministry at the hospital was only evangelical. I needed more skill as a counselor."

SO CHEN CAME TO the United States. Last year he did graduate work at Lutheran Theological Seminary in St. Paul, Minn. This past summer he came to Lutheran General where he is studying, attending seminars and lectures and is presently serving as a chaplain-resident in Lutheran General's psychiatric department.

"I'm trying to learn as much as I can about clinical pastoral care," he said. "Next year I will return to Taiwan with my new skills. I will use these skills myself and will also teach them to other Taiwanese chaplains."

Pastor Chen is amazed at the modern facilities of Lutheran General and is impressed with the "total" care given to that hospital's patients through the philosophy of human ecology.

"The way Lutheran General treats patients' bodies, minds, emotions, social beings and souls is excellent," said Chen. "The Christian Hospital in Taiwan also does this, but the shortage of social workers and other helping professionals limits our efforts there."

PEOPLE ARE PEOPLE, said Chen, but there are certainly many differences between Taiwanese and Americans.

"Americans seem to have different emotional problems," he said. "Americans have more problems with guilt. Also, family problems seem to cause a great amount of emotional illness. In Taiwan, most emotional problems are caused by failure, in school, in business and in other endeavors of achievement.

"The American people seem to be overly realistic and not very patient," he continued. "I am surprised at the high divorce rate. Not one per cent of Taiwanese are divorced because the people are willing to compromise. They consider that divorce is unfortunate for their children and that it will cause disgrace. So they try to compromise their differences with their spouses."

Chen is not used to the display of emotions which Americans readily express.

"IT IS UNUSUAL for a Taiwanese husband to verbally tell his wife that he loves her," he said. "Americans seem to communicate much better than Taiwanese. At American parties, for example, everyone expresses his thoughts and beliefs."

CHEN SOMEWHAT SHATTERS the illusion of the simple oriental diet when he says frankly, "We eat better in Taiwan."

Food is most important in Taiwan as can be evidenced by the traditional greeting, "Have you eaten?"

"In Taiwan, we have several different kinds of meat and fish for each meal," said Chen, who is not impressed with the American breakfast of toast and coffee. "Taiwanese people's incomes are spent mostly for food while housing seems to be the greatest expense for Americans."

But poverty and disaster are still a very real part of the lives of many Taiwanese. Typhoons and earthquakes destroy people's homes and ruin their crops.

Polio is prevalent because the people often cannot take a day off from work to come to the hospital for a vaccination. Hookworm contributes to the high incidence of anemia among Taiwanese in rural areas.

Madame President

No Place Like 'Homemakers'

by ELEANOR RIVES
Worldwide they are called "Country Women of the World"

At the University of Illinois, they are Extension Advisers.

On the local level, they were originally called Home Bureau members. But they are Homemakers, one and all.

There are three Homemakers Units in Des Plaines — cooperating, not competing, with each other: they are the Des Plaines Homemakers Unit, the Riverview Homemakers Unit and the East Mainview Homemakers Unit.

Starting her third-term in January as president of the 75-member Des Plaines Homemakers Unit, largest of the 27 units in Cook County, is vivacious Mrs. James Farmer of 853 N. Golf Club de Sac. She has belonged to the group since 1952.

"THE PURPOSE OF the club is both educational and recreational," she explained. "Primarily it teaches the fine art of homemaking — new and better ways of doing things. But it's also a creative outlet."

The Des Plaines Homemakers Unit meets the second Thursday of each month in Oakley's Community Room. Luncheon, prepared by a group of four members, is served at 11:30 a.m., followed by a general business meeting at 1 p.m. At 1:30 the lesson is presented, either by two unit members or by a county Extension Adviser.

Members who present the lesson are well prepared in advance with printed material, instructions and demonstrated lessons by an expert. Lessons presented during the year cover a broad scope of subjects.

MEMBERS REMEMBER with pleasure the session on outdoor cookery held in the Forest Preserve last June, the recent lesson on electricity, the apple-picking recipe-swapping trip to an orchard, lessons on furniture refinishing, on upholstery.

To encourage creative talents, the unit holds a Beehive the fourth Thursday of each month at West Park Fieldhouse. Currently members are working on hand-made Christmas decorations such as candleholders and wreaths.

Previous craft projects involved knitting, sewing, needlework, yarn stitchery, dried weed arrangements and decoupage.

"As long as I have been with Homemakers, I have been impressed with the way members are willing to share their ideas and their creative talents," exclaimed Jane.

BESIDES MEETINGS and Beehives, members may participate in many other activities. Last spring the group toured the Nestle plant; previous tours have been to the Johnson Wax Co., Florsheim Shoes, Salerno Biscuit Co and various publishing houses.

A special social affair last year, a dinner party in Arlington Heights followed by a theater party at the Des Plaines Theatre Guild, brought out 63 members.

Each year the 27 units in Cook County gather together for an annual meeting. The Des Plaines Homemakers Unit will be responsible for registration at the January meeting at the Elmhurst Country Club. Occasionally special county meetings are held such as the recent one in La Grange featuring East Indian cookery.

ON THE INTERNATIONAL level, all Homemakers Units contribute "Pennes for Friendship" to a fund which sends exchange persons to study the homemaking of foreign countries.

"Non-members many also avail themselves of any services of Homemakers," said Mrs. Farmer. "The 4-H camp in Monticello, for example, is open to any Illinois resident." Homemakers units may sponsor 4-H Clubs if they wish, or simply extend help to the youth groups whenever it is requested.

Anyone interested in membership in the Des Plaines Homemakers Unit may contact Mrs. Frank Klekamp, membership chairman, at 824-0558.

Jane Farmer, former Des Plaines Public Library Board secretary and once the minister's secretary at First Congregational Church, has five grandchildren, three married children and two boys at home, David and Peter, both students at Maine West High School.

SHE LOVES TO travel, to camp, to entertain large groups at the drop of a hat. She collects antiques and is something of an expert on the subject of pressed glass. She has a lively interest in community affairs and drives a carload of Golden Agers to their meeting whenever called upon.

But most of all, she loves to cook. "Cooking is like therapy to me," she said. "This house can look like a tornado whipped through it and I'll still be happily cooking in the kitchen. I just love it. I love to bake bread, to do old-fashioned canning, to make jelly and applesauce. And I love gourmet cooking too."

With culinary credentials such as these, no wonder Jane Farmer, the "homemakers' homemaker," enjoys being prexy of a group known for its outstanding cooks. Her years of experience in the club and her boundless enthusiasm are the frosting on the presidential cake.

A COZY FIRE in the fireplace, a cat on the hearth and the aroma of fresh-baked bread filling the house spell homemaking to Mrs. James Farmer, president of the Des Plaines Homemakers Unit. Ching couldn't agree more.

Profile Of A Secretary

by DEAN C. MILLER
NEW YORK (UPI) — The typical American secretary is so loyal she'd tell a "white lie" for the company and refuse to squeal on an over-amorous boss.

At least that's part of the secretarial profile uncovered in a survey taken at the recent annual meeting in New York of the National Secretaries Association. Four hundred "Girl Fridays," representing many different businesses and most states, were asked to fill out questionnaires distributed by Oxford Penderfax Corp. and Secretary Magazine. To insure honest responses, the girls were asked not to sign the questionnaires.

While a few said they would not tell even a "white lie" for boss or company, the big majority said they condoned a "discreet variation of the truth" to help business and reputation.

AS FOR THE BOSS who might "make a pass," not one secretary polled said she'd report him. The majority said they would "try to straighten him out and then forget it." "If you act like a lady," said one secretary, "they treat you like one. There's no problem."

The majority also said they had encountered no office problems involving drugs and thievery. However, 60 respondents confirmed that thievery was a problem in their offices. Seven noted the existence of a drug problem. Twenty-five indicated that alcohol was a problem.

Much of the survey was aimed at learning what the secretary considers her problem areas in the office. "After all," said one of the survey officials, "an unhappy secretary often can do more damage to a business than an unhappy boss."

FILING RATED NO. 1 on her list of gripes. Comments ranged from "needs updating" to "set fire to it from time to time." One secretary said bosses should be given a course in "the role of the waste basket." All complained about needing more time for the filing.

And how did they feel about running personal errands for the boss, such as shopping for the wife and Christmas buying? Most secretaries polled said they did not object. Only 29 said they considered this an imposition. Two of them actually had refused to shop for the boss.

More than 220 respondents said they did not consider it important that the boss treat them to an occasional lunch. It was unimportant — or so they said — to 218 whether he remembered their birthdays. Only 56 thought they deserved a remembrance.

THEY WEREN'T quite so sure about Christmas gifts. One hundred-fifty did not consider them important, but 120 said they did.

Ballooning also was close on the question of in-shop Christmas and other office parties. There were 158 secretaries who thought them undesirable and 113 who liked them.

The Women's Liberation Movement would find little encouragement in this survey of secretaries. Almost to a woman they said they preferred working for men rather than women.

MTJC Chanukah Bazaar Features Holiday Gifts

A wide variety of holiday gift items will be available at the Sisterhood Gift Shop and "Chanukah Bazaar" when the Maine Township Jewish Congregation, 8800 Ballard Road, opens its doors Saturday at 8 p.m. The sale will continue through Dec. 22 until 10 p.m.

Shopping hours will be geared to the entire community and everyone is welcome. Gifts available will include toys, books, jewelry, boutique items, a complete line of robes, gloves, household items and other items suitable for the holiday season as well as for birthdays, anniversaries and other occasions.

In charge of the project are Mrs. Judy Schakowski and Mrs. Paula Stein, assisted by Mrs. Caryl Heyman and Mrs. Pat Redman. Specific hours of the sale may be obtained from Mrs. Stein at 827-0815, or the MTJC office, 297-2006.

The Home Line

by Dorothy Ritz

Dear Dorothy: Somewhere I read that eggs should be stored with the big ends up. Why?

—Frieda A.

The experts say this keeps the small air pocket up in the large end — and the yolks nicely centered. It is supposed to keep the quality up, too.

Dear Dorothy: I keep hearing of clarified butter being used in certain recipes, but when I ask for it at the store, they look at me as if I'm some kind of a nut. Where do you get it?

—Mrs. M.G.

You make it yourself. And very few cookbooks even carry the information on how to make it. Melt the butter over low heat and skim off the foam. Strain the clear yellow liquid into a bowl, taking care to leave all the milky residue in the bottom of the pan. What you have in the bowl is clarified butter.

Dear Dorothy: Wonder if your readers might like my way of cleaning plastic shower curtains. Using a half-and-half solution of household bleach and water in a spray bottle (one which formerly contained window cleaner or such), I spray the curtains while still hanging. The bleach not only removes any mildew and musty odor, but also restores the color — especially the white ones. I let them stay this way for about 10 minutes, with the bleach still on them, then rinse them in the tub, which has been filled with hot water. Hang while wet and let dry. It works every time and was effective recently on a pair which hadn't been cleaned in four months.

—Maureen C.

Dear Dorothy: When the cold weather sets in and you want the child's mittens to stay put, instead of the usual string take a piece of elastic the same length and sew one end to each mitten. You can put a safety pin in the center and pin it to the inside of the collar without the worry of the elastic breaking.

—Mrs. Betsy S.

Dear Dorothy: I read where you said amyl acetate would remove that soft putty so popular with the younger set, providing the material could take it. I find that dampening a cloth slightly with rubbing alcohol will do the same thing.

—Clara M.

What's New

To Make Living Easier

by United Press International

New designs in placemats and dish towels add a creative touch to blue jeans and flour sacks. The placemats look like a section of Levi's complete with label in the upper right hand corner. The "hip pocket" holds a red bandana napkin. Real flour sacks are given dish towel status with silk screen labeling in red, orange, olive or navy. All are washable. (Designs of San Francisco, 77, Embarcadero, San Francisco, Calif.)

A shower in a suitcase is a new convenience for campers. The luxury of a shower is provided by a compact, fold-up 20-pound unit made of unbreakable plastic. It plugs into a cigarette lighter or runs off a "hot shot" battery pack to deliver a five-minute shower. Water may also be recirculated for a continuous flow. (Minimone Co., 11 Yates Avenue, Commack, N.Y.)

Double Ring Ceremony Unites Pair It's Fashion

by United Press International

The clock struck 12 and Linda L. Vogel came down the aisle on the arm of her father to wed Robert M. Dondelinger. Linda is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Vogel of Fulton, Ill. Robert is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Dondelinger, 9138 Greenwood Ave., Des Plaines.

Their double-ring ceremony took place Oct. 31 at Our Lady of Ransom church in Niles. Father Robert Beaven presided. Fall bouquets of apricot and white flowers decorated the church. Linda chose a floor length Chantilly lace over satin gown with pearly necklace and wristbands. Her cathedral train of matching Chantilly lace fell to the floor from the back of the Empire waist. Her veil of cathedral tulle was held by a satin bow. She carried a cascade bouquet of white mums and apricot and white poms.

ATTENDING THE bride were Karen

Vogel, sister of the bride as maid of honor, and Annette Rosenow, Des Plaines, and Patricia Larson, Des Plaines, as bridesmaids.

The attendants wore empire gowns of apricot sateen, accented in gold and avocado trim. Juliet caps held their floor length veils of apricot tulle. They carried Colonial bouquets of apricot and gold poms.

Attending the groom were Gene Keel as best man and Donald Beever and Robert Nopper as ushers.

Mrs. Vogel chose a dark green coat and dress ensemble for her daughter's wedding. Mrs. Dondelinger wore a blue dress with gold accessories. Both mothers received gold pom pom corsages.

A reception was held for the couple at Vonnos Restaurant in Morton Grove. They are now residing in Portage, Ind.

Linda attended Fulton High School and Northern Illinois University and is now a registered nurse working with the Visiting Nurses Association of Gary, Ind.

Robert attended Maine East High School and Northern Illinois University. He is now in the U.S. Army, stationed at the U.S. Army Nike Site in Porter, Ind.

Suspenders are back, says Levi's, the world's largest pants maker. So saying, the company will feature four numbers in fashion suspenders — a nine-color ribbon stripe, a red and blue stripe, a red, white and blue stripe and a solid red. They are to be worn with suspender buttons. Since there are a few pants now made that may not have such buttons, Levi's will pack detachable copper buttons with each pair of suspenders.

Dr. Aldo Gucci has added a fashion line for men and women designed by his son, Paulo, who also creates the Gucci jewelry. A great part of the collection, primarily day-to-evening sports clothes, is interpreted in specially cured leather and suede from Italy. Textures and colors are of great variety and meticulous detailing and unusual trimmings are standard. The buttons have jewel-like qualities — in silver, gold or topped with enamel. There are also buttons of semi-precious stones, framed in leather. All findings are pure silk, bearing the Gucci signature.

Next On The Agenda

VFW AUXILIARY

The Ladies Auxiliary to VFW Post 2992 will hold their regular meeting Monday, Dec. 14, at 7:30 p.m. The annual Christmas social will immediately follow the business meeting. Hostess Mrs. Lloyd McDonald cordially invites all members to attend.

Mrs. Carl Elx reminds members that all dues are due in December.

LADIES OF THE ELKS

Recently initiated into the Des Plaines Ladies of Elks at the October meeting were Miss Eula Potter, Mrs. Ralph Ibboson, Mrs. Robert Dodge, Mrs. Robert Boeckenhauer, Mrs. John Shabianian and Mrs. David Ristow.
